KING GEORGE V.

OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND, EMPEROR OF INDIA

Hon. Patron of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, Sydney Philatelic Club, and the Philatelic Society of Sweden

Born, June 3rd, 1865; succeeded his father, Edward VII., May 6th, 1910; married July 6th, 1893, Princess Victoria Mary of Teck.
Residences: Buckingham Palace; Windsor Castle; Balmoral, N. B.; York Cottage, Sandringham.

[As we go to press this week His Majesty King George is still seriously ill. We voice the unanimous desire of philatelists the world over that his life may be spared, not only that he may continue to wisely govern his people, but that his influence in promoting stamp collecting may help unite our two nations in closer bonds of friendship.—Ed.]

A stamp collector since his early youth, responsibilities of accession have not robbed philately of its attraction for His Majesty King George V, who still maintains the liveliest interest in the hobby. While a midshipman in the West Indies and elsewhere, His Majesty embraced the opportunities of acquiring desirable specimens at ports of call, laying a strong foundation for the collection which has been steadily continued down to the present day.

On several occasions His Majesty has been pleased to accept presentation of stamps from his loyal subjects. On the occasion of his marriage, the Philatelic

This variety is Scott's No. 17 and is the most popular of the many provisional stamps issued by postmasters. In 1920, it catalogued $30.00 and today it is priced at $60.00. It certainly has proven a wise investment. Here are four offers, which I believe are decidedly reasonable:—

Copy with design slightly cut into ..$20.00
Copy with margins on all four sides. 45.00
Copy with better margins on all four sides 50.00
On cover—a very creditable copy tied by pen marks, as usual 50.00

CLEVELAND CADY, TENAFLY, N. J.

Society, London, presented him with a rare selection; on his tour of the Empire in 1907 presentations were made by the Maharajah of Kashmir, the philatelists of Malta and Sydney, and by the Commonwealth of Australia. The Canadian Government has, on two occasions, presented His Majesty with albums containing special issues of the Dominion. The Maharajah of Nepaul presented a collection of the stamps of that country, on the occasion of His Majesty's visit to the Coronation Durbar in 1911.

The Royal collection is confined to the postal issues of Great Britain, the British Dominions and Egypt, and it contains some exceedingly rare specimens. Chief among these, in popular esteem, are the 1d and 2d "Post Office" Mauritius, the latter an unused copy—the finest known—acquired at auction in January in 1904, and the former a used copy obtained shortly afterwards from the collection of the Earl of Kintore. In the other issues of the stamps of this country, specimens are shown, used and unused, from the earliest to the latest states of the plate, notably three fine 2d unused, one with the error "Penoe," and an unused block of five, containing the same error, purchased in 1910. All other issues are practically complete.

The collection of British stamps includes such unique items as the original pencil-sketch of the famous "Mulready" envelope, Rowland Hill's rough water-colour sketches for the first 1d and 2d postage stamps; specimens cut from the imprimatur sheets of all issues; many essays and trial impressions of the Edwardian stamps, including a proof in black of the unissued £5 value, specimens of the 2d Tyrian plum, and many other unique items of great interest.

More recent additions to this portion of the Royal collection include the only known copy of the 5s Telegraph stamp, plate 3, watermarked Cross, perforated 12½; several unique Private Telegraph stamps, and a number of rare specimens from the collection of the late Earl of Crawford. There is also an unique collection of War Stamps issued under British military authority between 1914-18, including all the chief rarities.

The curator of His Majesty's philatelic collections is Mr. Edward Denny Bacon, C.V.O.

Hong Kong, Mauritius, Trinidad, and the Edwardian portion of the British were shown by His Majesty at the International Philatelic Exhibition, London, 1906; the latter were also shown at the Walthamstow Exhibition, 1910.

In 1897, as Duke of York, his Royal Highness opened the exhibition of the Philatelic Society, London, at the Institute of Painters in Water Colours, Piccadilly.

On September 27, 1915, His Majesty inspected a portion of the Roebuck collection of British stamps, when paying an informal visit to Leeds University.

In the same month a gem from the Royal collection of the stamps of Great Britain, the rare 9d "straw" plate 5 was presented by His Majesty to the National Philatelic War Funds auction.

For four years prior to his accession to the Throne His Majesty was President of the Royal Philatelic Society, whose meetings he attended on more than one occasion, notably on March 4, 1904, when he read a paper in person upon Edwardian issues. King George has been instrumental in placing much official information at the disposal of collectors, thereby greatly facilitating the study of stamp production and postal history.

Subsequently a portion of the Royal collection has been displayed before the Royal Philatelic Society annually, at the first meeting of the session.

In May, 1921, His Majesty gave gracious consent to the inscribing of his name at the head of the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists instituted by the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain.

The King was an exhibitor at, and a visitor to, a private display of rare stamps held by the fellows and members at the Royal Philatelic Society's Room on June 1 and 2, 1922. No portion of His Majesty's collections has been exhibited in public since that date, but members of the Royal Philatelic Society, including several noted American collectors, were invited to a private view at Buckingham Palace on the occasion of the International Philatelic Exhibition held in London during May, 1923. Recent acquisitions include some of the gems from the Ferrary collection dispersed during 1923 and 1924.—Who's Who In Philately.

AIR MAIL STAMPED ENVELOPE

About January first the Government will issue a new five cent stamped envelope. The envelope has the red and blue border like the commercial air mail envelope which has been in use for the past year. The die shows an airplane in flight and is printed in blue.

Every collector of first day of issue or first flight air mail covers will want one of these envelopes mailed on the day of issue.

We understand that it is very probable that the Philatelic Agency will not address these new envelopes for collectors. It is simply physically impossible for the Agency to do this.

If such becomes the case, it will be necessary that those who want first day covers have an agent in Washington to address them. We offer our services, and will supply the envelopes mailed on day of issue as follows

One envelope 30c
Five or more envelopes, to different addresses ..... 20c each
Ten or more envelopes to same address ..... 15c each
50 or 100 envelopes to same address ..... 10c each

Unused envelopes will be supplied as soon as possible after placed on sale at 20c for one, $1.25 for 10, $10.00 for 100.

CANAL ZONE POSTAL REPORT, 1927-28

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Of the twelve Post Offices in operation in the Canal Zone on June 30, 1927 (all except Gamboa transacting Money Order business), that at Culebra (opened June 24, 1904) was closed on Sept. 30, 1927, when the Army post at Camp Gaillard (served by this office) was abandoned. Service for the few remaining residents on the west side of the Canal was furnished by the Pedro Miguel office until their removal from that area.

Receipts for the year were $181,922.78 (as against $181,589.04 in 1926-27), exceeding gross expenditure by $1,234.31 (in 1927 there was a deficit of $223.25), indicating that the service is self-sustaining despite the fact that approximately 60% of all mail handled locally is dispatched under official frank, from which the Bureau of Posts derives no revenues, but must bear the burden of transportation and other changes. If the cost of handling official mail were charged against the divisions concerned, the surplus of receipts over expenditure would approximate $40,000.00.

The sale of U. S. postage stamps and post cards overprinted "Canal Zone" was continued, but stamped envelopes were manufactured by the Panama Canal Press. It is proposed to discontinue the use of such overprinted postage stamps eventually and provide a distinctive series of Canal Zone postage stamps and other stamped paper. During the latter part of the year (May, 1928), orders were placed for the engraving and printing of two distinctive stamps for this service, i.e., 1c and 2c denominations, which will bear the likeness of Gen. Gorgas and Gen. Goethals, respectively.

During the year 113,485 Money Orders were issued ($2,412,104.17) with fees amounting to $10,522.91, and 37,929 ($1,081,599.59) were paid.

In the registry division, 234,858 letters and parcels were handled, of which 40,504 were official and accepted without registration fee.

During the year, a total of 3,876 dispatches of mail were made from Cristobal to the U. S. and various foreign exchange Post Offices, and 4,437 were received. At Balboa 1,785 dispatches were made, and 1,020 received.

The routing of mail to and from the U. S. via Key West and Habana continued to show gratifying results. On account of the increase in the number of letters mailed locally for conveyance by the U. S. air mail routes, special dispatches were made up to New Orleans to connect with the air route from Pilottown to New Orleans, and thence with the New Orleans to New York (via Atlanta) air mail route, which opened on May 1, 1928.

When the route is established to Miami and Key West, special air mail sacks will be made up and routed via Habana. (The Atlanta-Jacksonville-Miami air service was inaugurated December 1, 1928, and that from Miami to Habana on Sept. 15, 1928—the service north from Habana to Miami is scheduled for opening during December, 1928.)

A supply of 2c stamped envelopes (sizes 6 and 9) was printed during the year (and issued May 21, 1928) for use in connection with air mail letters, and have proven popular with Post Office patrons. (Additional Canal Zone stamps must of course be attached to these 2c air stamped envelopes to make up the proper postage; i.e., 10c per half ounce until July 31, 1928; since August 1, 1928, 5c for the first ounce, and 10c for subsequent ounces.

It is expected that the air mail route to Panama from Key West via Habana and Central American ports will be placed in operation during the coming year.

Postage stamps valued at $120,936.60 were sold during the year, compared with $116,472.66 and $113,657.74 in the two previous years.

The census taken in June, 1928, disclosed a civilian population of 28,002, and a military population of 9,510, a total of 37,512.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1928, three consignments of U. S. postage stamps and cards were overprinted "Canal Zone" and dispatched from Washington—

Sept. 27, 1927,	2,130,000 stamps	$74,100
Dec. 1, 1927,	297,800 stamps	14,626

Review of Report of the Director, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, 1928

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The annual report of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the year ending June 30, 1928, has just come to hand. While the report is always of interest to the philatelic fraternity, this year there will be more details read with interest by the stamp collector, than ever before. In the first place, statement is made that the Director has prepared a mimeographed circular giving a brief history of the Bureau, and the description of the manufacture of postage stamps. A copy of this may be had upon request. During the year in question 147,652,421 sheets of postage stamps were turned out, including not only the regular issues, but commemoratives as well. Dies were engraved for the new Valley Forge 2-cent, the 5-cent Air Mail, the Special-Handling 10-cent, 15-cent and 20-cent, in addition to seven varieties of Philippine postage due stamps.

A change in the procedure of chroming rotary steel plates, which improved the wearing qualities, was effected. It was found by a comparison of wearing qualities that case-hardened rotary plates were unfit for further use after the printing of 42,000 impressions, while chromed plates showed little signs of wear until they reached 60,000 impressions. As a consequence an electrolytic alkaline stripping solution, which removes the chromium from the rotary steel plates without causing the metal to etch after 60,000 impressions have been taken, was effected. The plate is then rechromed and another 60,000 impressions printed. This operation can be repeated indefinitely. A number of sets of plates at press have printed more than a million impressions.

We are further informed that during the year a quality of paper of a softer and more absorbent type was adopted, which afforded better facilities for the drying of ink. This change practically eliminates off-setting. The change in the paper, however, has been so slight that it has not been noted philatelically, although the violet-ray lamp would possibly show a difference.

The regular stamp which was issued in the smallest quantity was the $5 blue and black of which 53,010 were delivered to postmasters. Of the lower denominations the 25c is the one issued in the smallest number, deliveries having amounted to 13,557,900. There were nearly twenty million of the 14c, nearly forty million of the 11c, and somewhat over seventy-seven million of the 9c. Deliveries of the Vermont and Burgoyne stamps are of interest because they possibly include all printed. Of the former there was 39,974,900, and of the latter 25,628,450. Of the postage due stamps, a surprising thing is the fact that of the 10c just about one-half million were issued, while of all other denominations two million or more were distributed. There were large deliveries of the 30c, so that the perforated 11 variety will soon be quite common.

The Bureau delivered 2,427,800 stamps to the Canal Zone, and nearly fifty-three million stamps to the Philippines. The postage due stamps are not likely to be rare, as quantities in excess of 250,000 were issued in each case. Only 11,300 of the 10 peso were shipped to the Islands, while among the lower denominations the 26 centavos seems to be the more desirable with about one-half million issued. One stamp that I note in the lot, which has not been seen, is the 2 centavos in booklet form. It will be quite common, for 2,400,000 stamps were so issued.

Among the revenue stamps, the issue of 1916 Wine varieties are mentioned. As this law was repealed some months earlier, delivery of these varieties cannot be accounted for. Around one-half million of "Future Delivery" stamps were issued, while over thirty-two million of the "Stock Transfer" stamps were distributed, so that it looks as if in the near future, there will be a reversal of present conditions, where the Stock Transfer seem to be the scarcer. Nearly sixty million Playing Card varieties appeared, of which five-sixths were in precancelled condition. A little less than three million Narcotic stamps were delivered to the Treasury Department. This year's report does not separate the denominations of the revenue stamps, so that only the figures in their entirety are available.

The total number of stamps issued during the year, while in excess of the distribution made in 1927, is smaller than the distribution made in 1925 and 1926, the former being the banner-year of all times.

—Annual Christmas Party of the Rhode Island Society.

By WILMARTH H. COLWELL.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 18, the Rhode Island Philatelic Society held its Annual Christmas Party. Some thirty members gathered in the society rooms in the annex of the Old Stone Bank, Providence. Our meeting place is most cozy and delightful, in one of our city's fine old colonial mansions. Here we held a complimentary auction. All stamps were donated by the members and the proceeds turned over to the society. Some very fine stamps were brought in and the society realized about $200 from the sale. Old U. S., early Canada, Argentine and Confederate States were among the choice items that went under the hammer. A grab bag was in evidence and many fine presents it contained, brought in by the members. Everyone was in an unusually happy frame of mind and good fellowship reigned supreme the whole evening. Shortly before midnight we sat down to a table loaded with appealing refreshments and did justice to the well chosen supply.

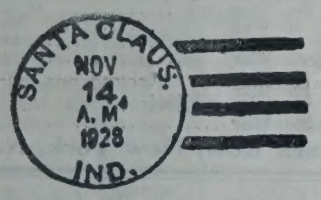
THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

Found By Proxy in the Person of an Indiana Postmaster.

N. Y. "World"—Irving Levine.

As Christmas time comes near and the old legend becomes a new one to thousands of children over the world, it may interest parents to know that Santa Claus is not entirely a myth. There is a real Santa Claus, officially recognized by the United States Post Office Department. On Christmas Day fortunate children may receive a letter proudly bearing the postmark Santa Claus.

To say that Santa Claus may be seen on a sweltering day in July as well as in snowy December may sound fictitious to those who do not know that a small town in southern Indiana exists as perpetual honor for the gift-giving saint.



Santa Claus has about 100 inhabitants. It is four miles east of Lincoln City, Ind., in Spencer County, twelve miles from the Ohio River.

But the real "Santa Claus" of Santa Claus is James F. Martin, for twenty-six years postmaster and grocer in the town. Every year Mr. Martin gets many stamped letters from children who address mail simply to "Santa Claus." Mail clerks, knowing of the town, route the letters thus addressed to Mr. Martin. These letters come not only from the United States and Canada, but many of them are forwarded from foreign countries.

The Postmaster reads all letters he receives from children and, if he has time, answers them. During the Christmas season parents wishing to make the Yuletide more realistic often mail boxes of addressed and stamped letters to the Santa Claus Post Office to have them posted with the official "Santa Claus" postmark. Many persons interested in unusual stamp cancellations write to the Postmaster, asking him to cancel stamps on enclosed envelopes and return them by mail.

Ask him how he likes his job and he will say, "Oh, it's not so bad"—with reservations.

He does find something interesting about the job of playing Santa Claus if his period of service is taken as an indication. Mr. Martin has had charge of the Santa Claus Post Office for the last twenty-six years, having succeeded his father in that capacity.

The town Santa Claus was first christened Santa Fé, when it was founded in 1846. One Thomas Smith, a surveyor, was called upon to plot the place, originally composed of seventeen town lots. Seventy-six years before that, Shadrack Hall had built a tannery in that locality, but it was not until Smith came along that the village was developed.

Semi Postal Stamps

The use of semi postal stamps to assist some worthy cause or organization like the International Red Cross Society is on the increase. Few collectors begrudge this additional expense where the stamps are of nominal value. Only in a few cases as Liberia and North Borneo, where the Government collected $5 or $10 and the Red Cross Society 2 or 4 cents per stamp can they be called speculative issues.

COLLECTORS CLUB MEETING

By CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

At the last meeting of the Collectors Club held Dec. 19, we had a very interesting innovation viz.: "Ten Minute Talks with Short Displays by Members."

This gives an opportunity of any member giving an interesting short address on one of his pet subjects and the stamps to feature it are displayed in our locked frames round the walls of the big auction room.

Alfred Lichtenstein showed three original Post Office Mauritius on covers, and the various reprints that have been made at different times from the plate that was found in the bank in London some twenty years ago. He gave a very interesting account of these reprints.

Percy de Worms, Asst. Secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society of London, who is spending a few months in the United States, gave a very interesting account of the formation of the Royal Society with many details of the earliest days of Philately in Great Britain, which was very much appreciated.

Charles Curie, Vice-President of the Club, gave a very interesting talk on the advantages of a general collection, and was considered to have made an extremely good case and to have shown many important reasons in favor of general collecting featured by a portion of his own magnificent collection.

I gave a little talk and display on Afghanistan from the great collection of Sir David Masson, which I have recently purchased.

R. C. Bach gave an interesting talk on the Packet Boat Cancellations of various countries.

—An Article on Colonial and U. S. Stamped Paper Revenues.

By C. F. MUELLER, Davenport, Ia.

I am writing as a member of the Five Year Club to ask for an article on Colonial and U. S. Stamped Paper Revenues. Christopher West, in his Revenue Handbook, mentions but does not describe them. The stamps are, as you know, fairly common; almost every collector has a few. That, at least, seems to be the case in Davenport. Therefore, I would like to have you publish something on the subject, or if you do not have it at hand, to ask for it thru your columns. (Who will respond?—Ed.)

LATVIA (LETTLAND)

By GEO. H. JAEGER.

Commemoration Stamps of Latvia (two-colored) appeared November 15. They were described in MEKEEL'S No. 1975, November 12.

The Monument Commemoration Stamps have been issued in 30,000 series each perforated and imperforate, and not 20,000 as mentioned previously. The imperforate stamps appeared on November 17, and were all sold in a couple of hours. The counters were crowded, as only 10 series were sold to each person. The perforated stamps of this issue appeared on November 20, and were also sold in a few hours. These stamps were sold in Riga only at the Chief Post Office, and besides in only two Latvian cities, Libau and Mitau. Libau received for sale in all 1,000 sets and Mitau 500.

A detailed description of these stamps has already been published in the above mentioned No. 1975 of MEKEEL'S.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE, 40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

In announcing rates covering the postage necessary for the despatch of mail via FAM No. 6 and No. 7, the Miami Post Office gave out the figure as 5c for the first ounce and 10c for each succeeding ounce, their bulletin being dated December 12th. This is apparently an error, for the new rates are given in the Postal Bulletin of December 21st, as follows: FAM No. 6, Miami to Havana, 5c per half ounce. Miami to Santo Domingo and San Juan, P. R., 10c per half ounce, in addition to the regular postage fee. Return rates to the U. S. are the same. No stop will be made at Port-au-Prince on the initial flights. The rate for FAM No. 7, is 5c per half ounce, Miami to Nassau. No return trip of FAM No. 7 is announced in the Bulletin, as the Bahamas Government have probably made their own arrangements with the contractor.

FAM No. 5, Miami to Cristobal, C. Z., will begin operations on January 11th, and succeeding trips will be made on the 1st and 15th of each month. Mail will only be carried between the terminal points, Miami and Cristobal, all mail addressed for points beyond Cristobal being forwarded by regular service. The rate between Miami and Cristobal is given as 25c per half ounce, in addition to regular postage for point of destination. The return trip from Cristobal will occur on January 19th, and on the 7th and 22nd of each succeeding month.

In connection with the foregoing, it would seem the confusion that has existed with regard to rates could be greatly lessened and the public announcement made in ample time to permit covers being sent ahead of these flights to distant points, fully prepaid and sufficient reserve postage in the hands of the postmasters to insure proper return of all covers. As it appears now, there will be any number of covers, belonging to collectors, held up for insufficient postage, either before the flight or at their final destination, due to conflicting bulletins pertaining to rates, landing points, etc.

Mr. A. N. Brown writes in stating that collectors who have covers awaiting the First Speed Boat "Flight," at San Francisco and other points, should not be pestering the Chamber of Commerce with demands for information regarding their covers. "Nothing definite is known and the service will not take place for 60 days or more. Collectors must have patience and remember that much of the cachets and despatching of air covers is thru the extreme courtesy of public bodies, and great care should be exercised to treat these bodies with the proper spirit." A word to the wise collector will be sufficient!

Mr. J. P. Penning reports that a total of 3,848 covers received the December 17th cachet applied by the contractor of CAM No. 11, divided as follows: McKeesport 1,259, Youngstown 1,007, Pittsburgh 801, and Homestead 691. The Pittsburgh P. O. finally accepted mail bearing the contractor's cachet. Mr. Penning also reports that quite a number of covers were received too late to be given the cachet and service. Unless otherwise advised and return postage sent him, he will hold these covers for despatch on the First Night, Flight of CAM No. 11, which will occur around

The Silver Anniversary cachets, applied by contractors, Chambers of Commerce and other organizations to mail despatched on December 17th, make a most delightful addition to the souvenir section of one's collection. Up to this writing, the following cities have applied special cachets, through the organizations classified by these letters—"C", contractor—"B", Chamber of Commerce—"A", Legion Post—"S", local stamp club. Chicago (?), Cleveland—B, Cincinnati—B, Colorado Springs—B, Dayton—B, Hartford (?), Springfield, Ill.—B, Peoria—B, St. Louis—C, Ogden—A, North Platte (?), Northville, Mich.—B, Homestead, Pa.—C, McKeesport—C, Youngstown—C, Pittsburgh—C, Albany—C, Buffalo—C, Davenport—S. On December 18th, Bellefonte, Pa.—B, Toledo—S. There are probably many others that I have no record of.

St. Tammany Gulf Airways, Inc., have announced through the columns of "Air Transport," that service between New Orleans and Houston will be inaugurated on or about January 23rd. This route will be the first link of the service to the Mexican border, via New Orleans, and will give Boston and New York a direct service to Central America, when the full routes are in operation. As New Orleans and Houston are reasonably close together, via air, there will probably not be any intermediate landing points.

Mangum, Okla., Municipal Airport is fast nearing completion, and Muskogee, Okla. has just voted $195,000 for the construction of one. Bartlesville, Okla., is making a bid to be included in the Air Mail route. These three points may be worth watching. De Kalb, Ill., is reported to be ready for an official opening about Feb. 1st.

At the annual election of officers of the American Air Mail Society held December 20th, Mr. George W. Angers was elected President, succeeding Mr. Harry A. Truby, who becomes one of the Board of Directors. Mr. Angers has served the Society since its organization, as Secretary, being one of the charter members, and it is a tribute to his popularity that the membership has elected him their President. Other officers elected are—Mr. L. B. Gatchell, who becomes Secretary, succeeding Mr. Angers; Mr. C. E. Jandrue, Jr., re-elected 1st Vice-President and Editor; Messrs. Harry A. Truby, John Hartwig, R. A. Brooks and Wm. H. Conkling to the Board of Directors.

It develops that the Enid, Okla., sticker reported last week as having been applied to covers cancelled Dec. 12th, was just that—no dedication. I had some covers sent to this point, as a possible chance for a cachet, and from the newspaper item that appeared in the Enid, Okla., Morning News, the request that the covers be despatched on the date of the dedication was a "poser." Secty. of the C. of C. was up a stump. According to the paper, "he opened one of the envelopes to ascertain whether or not there was some hoax contained, but found only a blank card. He says that the envelopes will be stamped, 'Where the Wheat Grows and the Oil Flows,' and be returned to the sender, inasmuch as no formal dedication ceremonies for the airport are planned." Needless to write, I have sent the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce the full details as to how to win the love and respect of several hundred collectors! So it may come out all right, at that.

Quite a few collectors took advantage of the opportunity of securing First Sunday Trip covers over CAM No. 2, and the Special Sunday and Monday Flights over CAM No. 1, 19, 23 and 25. Unusually heavy shipments of mail went out from Boston, but very little of it was "collectors' mail," so will never see a resting place in cover collections. These special Sunday flight covers will be much sought after, I believe.

The coöperators' list this week is a long one. I am not going to include the names of the many, many readers who have been kind enough to send greeting cards, but wish to thank them for their thoughtfulness. Jos. Glenczewski*, W. T. I have a note from Mr. J. H. Wall in which he states that he has been advised of a possible flight from Honolulu to San Francisco in the near future and that mail will be carried on the trip. Has anyone else anything on this rumor?

Plans for regular air mail service between Detroit and Columbus, O., with Toledo as the port of call, are being worked out, according to newspaper items in Akron papers.

With the heavy Christmas mails, covers from recent flights and dedications are very slow in coming back. I received two Kitty Hawk cards that took just a week to make the return trip, with a lot of others still to be heard from. Well, if Santa Claus is the cause of the delays, far be it from us to interfere with the old gentleman's tour. Hope he left plenty at your house!

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE

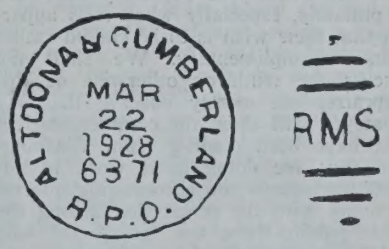
By RICHARD S. CLOVER.

Railway Post Offices had their beginning in 1864, when railway mail cars were used experimentally by the Post Office Department in an attempt to eliminate delay in the distribution of the mail, and to reduce the expense incident to distribution of mail in post offices. These objects were accomplished by the sorting of the mail en route by the clerk assigned to the car. So successful was this system that it was rapidly extended, and now forms a vast network covering the entire country and extending to our island possessions.

Administratively, the Railway Mail Service is under the Second Assistant Postmaster General, and is in charge of a General Superintendent. The country is divided into divisions, the boundary lines in most cases following state boundaries. Each division is under the direction of a Superintendent. Thus, the New England States comprise the First Division, and so on. Each division consists of a number of routes, each route operating between designated points. The size of the routes varies, as regards mileage, the amount of mail handled, the number of trips made daily, and the number of clerks employed. Thus, over a designated route, there may be a dozen trips made daily in each direction, and a score of clerks employed, while on another route there will be a single clerk making one trip in each direction daily.

Incidental to their principal function, namely, the distribution of mail, the Railway Post Offices also receive mail matter from the public, and it is in this function that philatelists are mainly interested. The purpose of this service is to permit the mailing of a few late letters which could not be deposited in time for their intended dispatch, and as an accommodation to travelers. Mail to be registered is not accepted, nor are stamps sold by the Railway Mail clerks. Mail may be handed to the clerk or put in the mail boxes placed in the side of the car. Upon receiving the mail, the clerk cancels it and puts it in the proper pouch. In some cases clerks collect mail from mail boxes located on station platforms.

The cancels now used by the Railway Mail Service are circular in form, the postmark containing the name of the route at the top, the letters R. P. O. at the bottom and the date and train number in the center. The cancellation proper is elliptical in shape, and consists of horizontal bars and the letters R. M. S.



There are many other interesting topics in connection with the Railway Mail Service not touched upon in this brief sketch, and of which an investigation will repay the student of these cancellations.

EDITORIAL

A NEW year has begun and in balancing the philatelic books for 1928, it is to be said that the past twelve months finishes in the blue, if that color is the antithesis of the "red." The past year has been prosperous and important in a philatelic sense, and during the period changes have taken place in common with those that have been noticed in the big world outside. More than ever before, philately is shedding its provincialism and is being less dominated in a personal sense than ever before. Collecting is now in the open and is no longer the close corporation that it was in years gone by, when it was practically confined to the various centers of philately. The importance of stamps in the eyes of the governments of the world and the consequent use of stamp issues in a way that does not always accord with the ideas of the stickler for purity, speaking philatelically, are factors in disseminating interest in stamps. It is somewhat of a shock to us to hear foreigners say that our country is relatively backward in philately, especially when it is apparent that their wish is to be candid rather than uncomplimentary. We shall not discuss the truth or otherwise of this dispraise, but merely observe that say what you will about the commemoratives that have been coming from Washington, they are doing good work in advertising stamps and encouraging interest in them, with the result that among the great public, there are "prospects" who are becoming inclined to collecting.

HOLIDAY mail was heavy and all the evidences of friendly remembrance are treasured. Some of the greetings took on a distinctive form and many were things of beauty. Mr. LeGrand Payne, Indianapolis, sent his card in an envelope, postmarked in green, "Christmas, Dec. 25, A. M., 1928, Ind.," and Mr. Max Golding, Chicago, sent an air mail cover dated on Christmas that is embellished with a large near fac-simile of the current 5c air mail, in the two colors, with inscriptions of "Happy New Year" and "Merry Christmas" in the place of the usual legends; and Santa and his reindeer are disporting on the beach at the right of the wireless station. Foreign cards and letters were nicely timed to arrive just right, and several foreign air mail envelopes were appreciated. Our stock of Molly Pitchers and Hawaiians, used, has been much augmented by the thoughtfulness of senders, and not a few correspondents used the new issue on the mail. Mr. Gordon H. Crouch, Toronto, sent a letter by air mail from Pelee Island via Leamington, Ontario, with the enclosure:

"As the resplendent glory of the rising sun,
Brings light and beauty to a new-born day;
So may the dawning of another year
Its gladness give, to all the following days.

Such is my wish for you; and that it may Reach you in manner conform'd to my thoughts,
I'll have it borne by that winged messenger,
The Modern Mercury, the Aeroplane."

MR. BENJAMIN CADBURY, Philadelphia, sends a copy of "Near East Colleges News Letter" that contains a highly interesting article, "All Turkey Adopts New Alphabet," in which the edict proclaiming the change from Arabic script to Latin characters, in the usage of the country is discussed. We quote: "When schools opened this autumn every class began using Latin instead of Arabic letters. During the summer months the newspapers printed daily instructions for study. To facilitate this, one column was printed in Latin script which reads from left to right, and the remainder in Arabic script, which reads from right to left. The change has been complete and far reaching. Newspapers, public documents, school books, automobile licenses, shop signs, all written notices are now in Latin characters. Turkish books will be reprinted in the new alphabet as soon as possible." One of the collecting mazes will be solved by the new stamps of Turkey that will embody the new order, and by the same token, one of the old landmarks of collecting will be removed. It is a somewhat novel conception for us to realize that in anticipation of the change, Turkey is a huge schoolroom, whose classes are being attended even by those who have never learned to read or write Arabic, but are bending every effort to absorb the less difficult Latin script.

MR. RICHARD J. SCHWARZ, Chicago, becomes cryptic in describing an anachronism in the form of a postmark date: "Is the impossible possible? I have a sesquicentennial envelope that was received in business mail, cancelled, 'DeMotte, Indiana, April 9, P. M., 1923.' How can anyone use something over three years before it has been manufactured?" We should not like to hang a man on the testimony of a postmark because there are a number of misfits in existence. A Confederate 5c green, postmarked in January, 1861, is our star performer. Once a lawyer asked if we would testify concerning the possibility of fallibility of a postmark on a letter that had a bearing on a case that he had in mind and which bore a postmark dated early in January, but nothing developed. A collection of June 31st, non-Leap-year Feb. 29th, etc., postmarks would shake one's conviction that the postmark never lied.

SPEAKING of postmarks, Mr. Harry M. Konwiser, New York, contributes this item to the records: "Earliest Postmark. A small circle containing '22' over 'Ju' for July 22nd, on a 1774 letter, sent from Boston to New York, has been seen. The cover also shows a Boston (straight line), both marks being in red. The June 18, 1928, issue of this paper gave another city credit for the first circle postmark."

FROM Mr. A. V. Eldred the following note has come: "I picked up Mr. Craveth Wells' entertaining book on his six years' experiences in the Malay jungle, on the miscellaneous counter of a book-store, and thumbing over the pages, I found a letter, without contents, addressed to a man in New York, bearing a strip of 5c Kelantan, 1921-22, that had been used as a book-mark, no doubt. Remembering the necessity of strict honesty in cases of the kind, in the light of something that was said in the WEEKLY once upon a time, somewhat against my will, I left the envelope in the book when I bought it. The clerk merely glanced at the price-mark and did not see my great find! Incidentally, the book was great and I felt at home in the countries of quaint names." This little recital does not cause any febrile excitement in the reader, but it is true that the collector knows his geography where the average man gropes in the dark. Recently, an enormously erudite critic of the stage said that a new play had its locale in Saigon, "where ever that is." If he had a little brother who collected stamps he would not have had to air his ignorance.

WE are glad to find in the Bi-Monthly Journal of H. E. Harris & Co., Boston, a remarkable tribute to philately by that gifted financial observer, Roger W. Babson, Babson Park, Mass., who in a letter to the firm unreservedly recommends stamp collecting for children and adults for reasons that are detailed cogently and intelligently. He believes that in stamps, the adult has "a legitimate form of investment." Mr. Babson deservedly is acclaimed in his professional capacity as a man who is the leader in the study of finance and economically related subjects, and to have his approval of collecting on the solid basis of investment is cause for gratification. We have no doubt but that the opinion of Mr. Babson will be heralded far and wide as it should be; and those who already are in the ranks of collectors certainly may rejoice upon reading his brave words.

OFF-SIDE—

MR. FRED JARRETT, Toronto, Canada, is receiving subscription for a new edition of his British North American book; and judging from the excellence of the first printing, this second edition will be indispensable to all those who favor the stamps of the countries to our north. The size of the edition will be that of the number of subscribers, and consequently those who do not subscribe at six dollars may find it almost impossible to get the book, otherwise.

TO those readers who have asked where new issues, such as the proposed King Zogu of Albania emission and other novelties that have been the subject of newspaper comment may be had, the answer is given that the dealers may be depended upon to offer them for sale at the earliest possible moment in our advertising columns.

THE following note supplements the notice that appeared recently editorially, commending the enterprise of the department store of L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, that offered for sale in the stamp section of the book department, the Zeppelin covers that were sent by the firm to Germany and returned from the Berlin office. L. Bamberger & Co., Newark, are the owners of radio station WOR, and the stamp department is managed by Mr. Mayer, who is a veteran collector and well-known locally, Dr. Samuel Konwiser tells us. He adds that stamp lectures have been broadcast over WOR to encourage the growth of collecting.

AT the meeting of the Chicago Precancel Stamp Club recently, the members present promised to attend every meeting during the coming year, 1929. Nominations for officers for the ensuing year were made at the meeting held December 13th, and the society bids fair to maintain the rapid progress that it has been making.

THE new edition of the Specialized United States Catalogue published by the Scott Stamp & Coin Company made its appearance on the dot, and the enlarged scope of the invaluable little book makes it more indispensable than ever.

AT the last meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society in 1928, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. N. Emerson, president; H. F. Rech, vice-president; J. A. Zalud, secretary; C. F. Mann, treasurer; and five additional members of the governing board, as follows: Messrs. Voorhees, Boehm, Hennan, Sandstrom and Kirkland.

ON January 7, 1929, in celebration of the establishing of an air mail service schedule at Rome, N. Y., a special cancellation at that city will be applied on that day to mail that is flown on that day.

LUTHER WILLIAMS contributes a readable stamp story, with illustrations, to the Tulsa Daily World of Dec. 16, 1928, in recognition of the organization of collectors into a society, whose roster contains the names of some of the elect of Tulsa's citizenry.

THE annual banquet of the Chicago Aero Philatelic Society is announced for January 26, 1928, at the Bismark Hotel, Chicago. Mr. W. H. Gilley, who is making arrangements for the meeting says that the members of the Madison and Milwaukee societies of Wisconsin; Peoria and Springfield societies of Illinois, and the Northern Indiana Philatelic Society have been invited as well as the postmasters of several cities, prominent in aerial mail activity.

MR. T. C. E. HUNTER, recently president of the Chicago Philatelic Society and for a number of years a leading figure in Chicago's philatelic circles has removed from that city to his old home in Akron, Ohio, in consequence of a business change. It is hoped that another turn of the wheel will bring him back to Chicago.

FROM Mr. Geo. E. Terbush come greetings from Mexico, and a card from Costa Rica has Mr. L. M. Thorne's signature. Father Coyle remembers us with a word from Suva, Fiji; Mr. Hensen from Aden, and Professor James High from Buenos Aires, and a card mailed at Colombo to the WEEKLY is without signature.

MR. E. S. HAINES, Oak Park, Illinois, writes: "In your issue of Sept. 24, 1928, under 'Air Mail News' you say 'What is needed in the Department is a collector-adviser for the philatelist spends a nice sum with Uncle Sam each year, etc.' I certainly agree with you, and the suggestion should be brought to the attention of the proper authorities at Washington. Let all philatelic journals join in advocating your suggestion which if adopted will certainly boost our most interesting hobby."

FROM Redondo Beach, California, Bertha M. Clarke writes to say: "It is a good thing to wake up our collectors and see how much they know about our country and the old heroes who served to make it possible to enjoy our freedom" as a preface to the following tale of Molly Pitcher's exploit as given in Harper's Encyclopedia of the U. S. A.: "In the battle of Monmouth a shot from the British artillery instantly killed an American gunner while working his piece. His wife, Mary, age twenty-two, was fetching water from a spring when he fell. There was no one competent to fill his place, and the piece was ordered to be removed. Mary heard the order, and dropping her pail and seizing a rammer, vowed she would fill her husband's place at the gun, which she did with a great deal of skill and courage. The next morning she was presented to Washington by General Greene. Washington was so pleased with her bravery that he gave a commission as sergeant, and her name was placed on the pay list for life. The fame of Mary Pitcher as she was generally known spread through the army."

MR. W. S. BARKER has acquired the stock and business of his friend, Bertrand L. Drew, whose death is remembered, and he will continue to conduct the auction sales which were a feature of Mr. Drew's business. Mr. Barker is well-fitted to carry on the undertaking to which Mr. Drew was so devoted.

"GARFIELD PERRY BULL" is issued by the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, and is devoted to the interests of its members. Number one is dated in December, and succeeding numbers are expected.

Some "C" Definitions

Carupano.—The chief commercial district in the eastern portion of Venezuela, between the Araya and Paria peninsulas. It has a population of over 12,000 and during the revolution of 1902 it issued a number of provisional stamps, all being set up from ordinary printers' type.

Caso.—One of the smaller islands in the Aegean Sea which was occupied by the Italians in 1913 and for which certain of the then current stamps of Italy were overprinted "Caso."

Castell, Senor Diego.—A Spanish author who wrote a pamphlet which was considered of such general utility that he was accorded the privilege of sending it free by post for a period of six months in 1870. He designed a special stamp for the purpose of franking his pamphlet during this period.

Castaigne, Victor. — The Belgian Controller of Posts at Meshed, Persia, who designed a series of stamps which were used in that town in March and April, 1902. His initials, "V. C.," are shown in the center of the stamps.

Watermarks

By A. C. LEDUC.

To the beginner in stamp collecting, the question of watermarks is very troublesome. The best way to find out what a watermark is, is to take a piece of good quality writing paper and hold it up to the light. You will probably notice that some design or name appears as faint colorless letters. These letters or designs were impressed into the paper while it was being made. As the soft, wet, pulpy mass, of which the paper was made, passed over rollers in the process of being rolled out and dried, it went over one roller that was roughened with a design or letters. This roughened surface caused the paper to appear thinner in spots and when finished it showed up as designs in the paper and we call them watermarks.

Certain paper used for printing stamps is made with special kinds of watermarks. This helps to prevent the stamps from being counterfeited. Practically all British Colonial stamps bear watermarks and can usually be seen easily by holding the stamp up to the light, or laying it face down on a black surface. If the watermark cannot then be seen, it has to be treated with a drop of benzene to cause the watermark to show up plainer.

It is necessary that the stamp collector become familiar with the commoner watermarks in stamps as the value of many stamps varies with the kind of watermark found in the stamp.

Queen Elena of Italy

Born January 8th, 1873; daughter of Nicholas, King of Montenegro. Married, Oct. 24th, 1896, to Vittorio Emanuele III., only son of King Umberto of Italy.

Her Majesty the Queen of Italy has for some years past interested herself in philately, more particularly the postal issues of her adopted land.

The Royal collection, which is of a general character, has on several occasions been augmented by presentations from foreign governments, and from other quarters. In 1922 she was the recipient of a complete collection of Belgian stamps, in a special album, from the King and Queen of the Belgians.

Her Majesty was a Patron of the International Philatelic Exhibition held at Turin in 1911.—Who's Who in Philately.

Shades and Fades

We would advise the beginner not to pay too much attention to shades—there are plenty of straightforward varieties to collect without indulging in such luxuries as differences of tint. It is often a difficult matter in the case of stamps printed in violet, purple, lilac or kindred colours to say whether the differences are actually due to variations in the shade of the printing ink or are due to fading. Light will play strange tricks with some colours and purples and violets seem more sensitive than others. We have seen a copy of the 6 cents, Columbian issue, which had turned quite blue from exposure to sunlight and another which had faded to a dull grey from the same cause. The colour question presents many difficulties even to advanced collectors so that the novice will do well to steer clear of it. It will be quite soon enough to worry about shades when he is well versed in ways philatelic.

United States Error of 1915

By LOUIS P. DIERKER.

When the special issue of United States postage stamps to advertise the World's Fair in San Francisco in connection with the opening of the Panama Canal in 1915 was being prepared, the design selected for representation on the two cents value was a view of a portion of the Panama Canal showing some of the locks. Beneath the picture appeared the words, "Gatun Locks," and many had been printed off in readiness for issue, when someone familiar with the Canal pointed out that the locks depicted on the stamp were not the Gatun Locks, but those of San Pedro Miguel. The entire printing was destroyed and new plates were made, on which the inscription under the picture consisted of the words, "Panama Canal" only, and in this form the stamp was issued to the public.

Philatelic Converts

By A. C. LEDUC.

A customer wrote me a short time ago to tell me a little incident. He bought a few copies of Luxemburg 3 franc blue 1923 issue and took them home with him. It seems that his mother-in-law is living with his family and had said some disparaging things about men fooling around with such things as "old junk like stamps." However, when the beautiful 3 franc Luxemburg stamps were brought home there has been a new story. The mother-in-law has taken a great interest in stamps and is now buying stamps for the grandchildrens' collections.

So there is a hint for some of you men who have had a hard time in trying to convince the mother or wife or mother-in-law that there is something to stamp collecting besides child play. Just bring home a few extra choice pieces of the engraver's art. Possibly you will have the same success as the man mentioned above.

Canada

—Penny Postage Restored to All Parts of British Empire.

("Det. Free Press"—H. W. Boers.)

OTTAWA, ONT., Dec. 26.—On Christmas day penny postage from Canada to all parts of the British Empire was restored. Canada leads the way in bringing back the two-cent rate which was discontinued during the great war.

This reduction in postal rates is announced in a message of Christmas greeting to King George V, now ill in Buckingham Palace, London, from Premier W. L. MacKenzie King in behalf of the Canadian government and people.

"We have felt that at this Christmas season, we should like on the part of Canada to give enduring expression to this oneness of feeling to the nearness of the relationship of our country to all other parts of your majesty's dominions," the message reads. "We have decided, accordingly, on Christmas day to restore the penny postage rate on communications from Canada to all parts of the British Empire."

The present rate from Canada to other parts of the empire is three cents an ounce. During war years the rate was four cents for the first ounce and three cents for additional ounces. The rate from Great Britain to Canada is a penny and a half (three cents).

Postoffice officials estimated tonight that 200,000,000 letters are sent annually from Canada to other parts of the empire. Two hundred thousand dollars will be the reduction in Canadian postal revenue.

We have nine this week!
And Christmas week too!
What a splendid list.

Send $5 for a five year renewal and your name will be added.

For the third time a five year subscription has been received from Thomas G. Evans of Chicago, who for many years has been identified with philately in his city as a member of the C. P. S. We hope that he will continue for many years more to find enjoyment in his stamps. We are proud that the WEEKLY is included in his loyalty to them.

We are also very glad to enter our old friend Stephen G. Rich for a renewal of his membership in the Honor Club. He writes that he is "too lazy to write five checks instead of one." Of course this is a kind of laziness we can encourage, and especially in view of the fact that in many other things he is right up to the minute in making good. Mr. Rich will be remembered for his many contributions to the WEEKLY.

Air Mail

—Backstamping of First Flight and Souvenir Air Covers.

By NELSON F. GERKEN.

For the information of your readers who, perhaps like myself, have on numerous occasions suffered disappointment through failure of the Post Office Department to backstamp first flight and other souvenir air mail covers, am quoting below portion of a communication just received from Mr. E. B. Wadsworth, Superintendent, Division of Air Mail Service, Washington, this in reply to a letter of complaint I recently wrote the Department:

"The current instructions contemplate that all air mail will be backstamped at the office at which the air mail cover leaves the air mail route. However, it is quite often the case that where a train connection is involved, and it would delay the letters to hold them for backstamping, they are trained to destination from the air mail route without a backstamp.

"In those cases where the air mail covers are desired for philatelic purposes and have not received a backstamp although they have been carried all or part of the way by air mail, this office will attempt to secure a backstamp if the covers are not too old when sent here for such purpose."

In my opinion this shows a real spirit of coöperation on part of the Department at Washington—further evidence of their kindly disposition toward the philatelist.

While on the subject of air mails, a cover has just come into my hands which is believed to be unique in aerophilately.

This cover was posted at Atlanta, Ga., flown on the initial flight northbound over CAM 30, Dec. 1, and bears the first flight cachet.

At Chicago the envelope was put through the special air mail booth provided at the Coliseum during the International Aeronautic Exposition, and received the beautiful special cachet used on mail so posted.

As cover was destined to a friend of mine in Saskatoon, Sask., and bore in the upper left hand corner the notation "Via Air Mail, Winnipeg-Saskatoon," it was sent to Winnipeg, where was applied the special cachet used during the recent temporary air mail service over the Prairie Provinces, and was flown on the inaugural flight of this service, Dec. 10th, and was backstamped in Saskatoon the same date.

The envelope bears two United States air mail fees and a single Canadian air mail stamp, the former cancelled at Atlanta and Chicago respectively, and the latter at Winnipeg. Altogether it bears three separate stamp killers and three separate official cachets, two of them first flighters, and it is interesting to note it began and ended its long journey on first flights.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

It will be impossible for us to acknowledge individually the many Christmas greetings that have been received at the three offices of the WEEKLY. The number is legion. It is probable that some of the "unusual" may be noted next week. The WEEKLY is grateful for the many expressions of esteem.

JAMAICA

This is one of the most popular British Colonies from the philatelic point of view. Our new book on is therefore in very keen demand. It gives exhaustive information on every phase of Jamaican philately and is particularly helpful as regards the interesting subject of postmarks. This book took a Silver Medal at the recent London Stamp Exhibition.

Cloth bound: $2.75, post-free in U. S. and Canada.

Library binding: $4, post-free in U. S. and Canada.

MISCELLANY—

WE desire to express our thanks to Harmer, Rooke & Co., for a very handsome calendar. It shows King George mounted and is a handsome production.

A NICELY printed price list has just been issued by G. S. Mollineaux, Palisades Park, N. J. Many B. C's. and foreign sets are listed. 24 pp. Copy for the asking.

HERE is a first issue! It is the auction catalog of the first W. T. Pollitz sale slated for Jan. 25. A royal lot of U. S. on and off covers is listed, also 300 lots of foreign. Write 24 Milk St., for a catalog.

H. W. BOERS favors us with a fine Santa Claus, Ind., cover dated Dec. 25, with a blue cancellation. It looks good.

"STARTING Saturday morning, Dec. 29, at 10.40, and continuing until 11.00, I shall talk on "The Educational Value of Postage Stamps," over the radio. These talks will continue every Saturday morning for one year, and will be given to interest the children of the United States from the ages of eight to eighty."—SIGMUND I. ROTHSCHILD. We will announce the station later.

I NOW have a complete list of illustrated Atherton and Evans articles on cancellations. These have been made up with the idea of linking them with other responsible cancellation collectors and should any of your friends desire to use the results of my work I shall be very glad to give them.—B. Y. IMBRIE, 1404 First Natl. Bk. Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

YOU can make note for air cover collectors that the speed boat between Oakland and San Francisco will start by Jan. 1, or shortly after. Just got notice to that effect.—JOHN RAUSCH.

ON Dec. 27, the Fort Orange, N. Y., Stamp Club gave a Christmas Party which proved that there is a Philatelic Santa Claus. On the center of the table was a miniature Christmas tree decorated with philatelic ornaments such as tongs, stamps, hinges, etc. A committee had been appointed to receive donations from the more advanced collectors, and suitable stamps were selected. All were given something of value and interest. The affair was enjoyed by all. The club also made up a large size grab bag of over 25,000 stamps which was presented to the newly formed club at the Albany Orphan Asylum. The club will from time to time have some of its members speak on stamp topics before this boys' club.

WE advise our readers to send for a sample copy of the South African Philatelist. We frequently print extracts from its columns. See the Robertson adlet in this issue. This complimentary mention is given without solicitation.

FALKLAND ISLAND

The Rare Provisional

2½d on 2d Brown Violet

Scott's Cat. No. 52

I have been fortunate in securing a few mint copies of this exceedingly rare stamp and I am able to offer same at

(Signed and guaranteed.)

Orders will be dealt with in strict rotation.

Only 1179 copies of this stamp existed, most of which were used on the outgoing mail and in all probability the majority will have been destroyed.

The extreme rarity of this stamp can easily be seen by comparing its rarity to the rare 10sh Malta, Scott's No. 65, of which 1440 exist, hence the FALKLAND ISLAND item is about 25% rarer.

Xmas

—Greetings Sent by Harris & Co. to Patrons from Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Sending you our Christmas Greeting a week ahead of time this year, by airmail from Kitty Hawk, N. C., enables us to combine our holiday expression of good will with a souvenir which will be of permanent philatelic interest and value.

For the envelope which contains our Christmas Greeting bears a stamp, a cancellation, and a special official cachet which give fitting commemorative honors to the 25th anniversary of the first successful flight made by man in a power-driven, heavier-than-air machine.

The stamp is a new issue, which appeared in connection with the International Conference on Civil Aeronautics, held in Washington on December 12, 13 and 14, 1928.

The cancellation shows the name of the place, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the date of the famous flight of Orville Wright, on December 17, 1903.

The special cachet was officially supplied by the Post Office Department, to celebrate the unveiling at Kitty Hawk of the National Aeronautic Association's memorial—a huge ten ton granite boulder, bearing a commemorative bronze plate in honor of the Wright Brothers—erected on the identical spot where their plane took off, under its own power, and with Orville Wright at the controls, on December 17, 1903.

That first flight lasted only 12 seconds, and cleared the ground for only 120 feet. But Wilbur and Orville Wright had shown the way. During the 25 years since then various planes have crossed the Atlantic, Pacific and Arctic Oceans; and today, passenger, express and mail planes cover 20,327 miles of routes.

We hope that the flown cover from Kitty Hawk, which we send to wish you Merry Christmas, will have a permanent and valued place in your album. And—frankly—we hope that when you are thinking of postage stamps it will remind you of H. E. HARRIS & COMPANY, Boston.

SOME READERS' QUERIES

Does a bit of stamp edging with a letter or number enhance the value of the stamp attached to it, and should the stamps from 2s books, with advertisement attached, be prized as potential rarities? There are various marginal numbers, etc., on the "stamp edging" which do not add anything to the value of the stamp. On the other hand, there are "controls," plate numbers, etc. (as illustrated in a recent number of G. S. M.), which do add to the value in many cases. The stamps from the British booklets with advertisements attached might be kept as curiosities, but they are not likely to become rarities (in the ordinary sense of the term) for many years to come.

I would like to specialize in a country which has not too long pre-war sets, or a post-war country. What countries would you recommend for their design or for any specially good points? This is a rather sweeping enquiry, but my correspondent might select from the following list, which provides a good variety. I take it he is looking for a country which will not involve him in very heavy expenditure. Here is my list: Algeria, Cuba (Republic), Danzig, Estonia, Latvia, Poland, Saar, Soviet Russia, and Syria, among foreign countries, and Australia, British Solomon Is., Brunei, Cook Is., Falkland Is., Gilbert and Ellice Is., Irish Free State, Iraq, Nauru, St. Kitts-Nevis, Federated Malay States, Palestine, and South Africa, in the Empire group.

How is one to fix some standard whereby to gauge the extent of margins necessary before one can definitely place an imperf. stamp as such? There is no standard for postage stamps as a whole. The space between individual stamps varies very greatly in different issues, and the collector must have a knowledge of these differences before he can decide whether a particular stamp has sufficient margins to afford definite proof that it is an imperf. specimen and not a perforated one from which the perfs. have been trimmed.

Why do Lithuania and Central Lithuania have such different stamps? I do not like the latter at all. Must I collect them if I go in for Lithuania? The stamps of Central Lithuania were not issued by the Lithuanian Government at all, but were the result of a filibustering expedition into Lithuanian territory by the Polish General Zeligowski. They have not the same status as Lithuanian stamps, and need not be collected, though they throw an interesting sidelight on Lithuanian history.

In a general collection, is it unsatisfactory to include two specimens of each stamp, one unused and one used, as well as any major varieties that come to hand? I should be inclined to keep to one stamp of each kind, if collecting in a printed album. Any unused or used stamps which duplicate those in the album, and also any "varieties" acquired, are best kept in a separate loose-leaf album till you come to transfer your whole collection into blank loose-leaf albums, as you probably will some day.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of our loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector.

Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each three months subscription. One year counts four points, six months, two points.

Additional prizes will be given the THREE leaders on the three months' totals:—

DATA ON CONTEST

¶ Send for a supply of our 25c yellow subscription forms.
¶ January report will close on JAN. 30, and be printed FEB. 11.
¶ The new subscriber gets a premium.
¶ Any collector can compete.
¶ Mark each remittance "For Subscription Contest."
¶ Get busy in your stamp club.
¶ Renewals not counted.
¶ Contest for Jan. is on, now.

United States Revenues

During the last couple years, I have had the pleasure of handling some exceptionally choice and unusual items in the way of United States Revenues, and with the recent acquisition of a Third Issue, 15-cent, brown and black, with inverted center (seven copies known), I have been able to complete one of the collections of United States inverts in behalf of a client, with the exception of one stamp; and in the case of a second similar collection, have gotten together all of the inverts, with the exception of four stamps. In other words, these rare pieces are quietly picked up here and there, from time to time, and are gladly submitted to interested parties, if I am acquainted with their requirements. Such things are in too great a demand to be able to advertise; as they hardly come to hand before a purchaser is immediately located.

If you are looking for the rare and unusual item, not only in the way of revenues, but in the way of United States general issues, officials, newspapers, carriers, and Confederates, correspondence is solicited.

As to the general run of stamps, cataloguing up to $100 to $200, I am quite likely to have the item on hand. In the case of the rarities, they will be submitted as they are received.

During the coming year, in order to take care of the requirements of my many clients, it is necessary to purchase the finest things coming upon the market. If you have individual items, or a collection for sale, correspondence is solicited. The best of bank, commercial, or philatelic references will be furnished.

If you buy or sell United States issues, write—

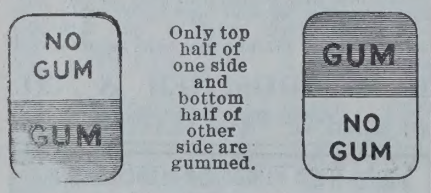
WHY FOLD HINGES??



Stampic Sam: WHEN does a Foldless Hinge, Percy?

Peerless Percy: Never, for only HALF of each side is gummed so no folding is needed when mounting your stamps.

Stampic Sam: Oh, I see, then it'll largely prevent my album bulging.

Peerless Percy: Yes, Foldless Hinges are wonderful. Just write up for a free sample and get convinced.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Vincennes Stamp

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has practically completed the sketch to be submitted to the Postmaster General for his approval of the new Vincennes stamp, to be issued February next, to commemorate the George Rogers Clark Campaign in the middle west.

One who has viewed the sketch, states that the proportions of the soldiers in the picture are rather high for the width, although when it is completed and the black center is surrounded by the red border, that it will no doubt, be most attractive. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has ample time to design, engrave and print such a variety, so that if it is not one of the finest that has ever been turned out, it will not be a question of time.

Paper and Gum

Mention has been made, in this column here of late, relative to stamps being found in smaller sizes and further that these differences were no doubt due to paper and gum. There is still considerable complaint from the public as to the gum, and a recent note in the Philadelphia Inquirer gives us the humorous side of the question.

"A man we saw coming out of a store the other day with a bottle of glue informed us he was now all ready to put the postage stamps on the Christmas cards he was sending out."

Mr. H. M. Southgate writes me most interestingly upon the subject from which I quote.

"While the Bureau has investigated the gum situation very carefully in recent months, there has been no radical change in this, although the Bureau of Standards in their investigation has found that less intensive drying will be of some help.

The cause of the difference in the size of some of the stamps which has been frequently noted, is undoubtedly due to paper shrinkage, as you say, but not shrinkage of paper due to difference of gum, but either to thickness of paper or the sheets cut so that the grain of the paper is in the opposite direction to the normal. I am inclined to think it is a difference of thickness of paper. Rotary press stamps are, or rather have been, made on a heavier paper than the flat bed stock, and the difference of dimensions of the rotary coils printed upright and sidewise is due partly to shrinkage and partly to stretch of paper and plate stretch.

With flat bed work only paper shrinkage would show up as a factor, and this difference of size would not be expected to be so great as in the rotary product if stamps were printed across the grain or fibre instead of as normally with the fibre. A thicker paper would shrink more than a thin paper, of course.

The reason I felt that the thickness might be the cause and not paper with the grain the other way is that it would be easier to account for sheets that were cut from the rotary stock and of thicker paper being found than that sheets should be used in the wrong way on the press, or cut with a cross grain, although it is of course possible to have paper cut either way.

Another reason is that in examining some 15c and 20c that I have, it looks as though the dimensions were different in one direction only when as if the printing were on paper with the grain at right angles to the normal it should make one dimension longer and the other shorter. I have not had time to check this point properly, but it is my impression from the few readings I took that such was the case, that one dimension was normal, or nearly so, and the other about two hundredth of an inch off. If I had a paper gauge, I would be able to check this from marginal blocks, where the gum does not cover the paper, but time has been lacking.

The gum situation is interesting, however, or rather the gum breaker or bar used to break the gum on the sheet.

Last summer or spring, the Bureau experimented with a change of breaker. They tried for one day or so eight instead of the usual four breakers to a stamp. Then they shifted to two breakers and finally standardized on one. This gives the specialist a line of varieties on all values of rotary stamps, booklet and specials as well with 4, 2 and 1 breaker marks clearly shown in the gum on the stamps. The eight breaker appear as far as I have found only on the 2c and some flat plate booklet panes.

In addition to the breaking of the gum, the Bureau has changed the gum feeding roll from a plain glass roll, which left a smooth gummed surface to a grooved metal roll. The idea being that a greater amount of gum would be deposited from the groove. The parallel lines about one-tenth apart running vertically on the ordinary stamps are due to this new gumming roll. The grooved roll was put into use before the change was made in the breaker bars, so probably we have all the four breaker varieties found with the smooth gum and the grooved gum."

Air Mail Activities

In an address made by Mr. Warren Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, in charge of the air mail service, to members of the International Civil Aeronautics Conference, the statement was made that within five years there was every likelihood of all first class mail being carried via air. This would mean that there would be no special charge for the air mail service, and that the ordinary letter mailed from the east coast one day would be delivered on the west coast the second day thereafter. He also stressed the point of covering the whole of the North and South American continents in short order, and his announcement in the "Postal Bulletin" of December 19th, is a step in the direction indicated. On January ninth, we are told that a service will be established to Nassau, Bahama Islands, one from Miami to Cristobal, Canal Zone, and a third one from Miami to San Juan, Porto Rico, via Habana, Cuba, and Santo Domingo. Later on, there will be a stop at Port-au-Prince, Haiti. From the Canal Zone, it is only a step to Central America, and from there, connections will no doubt be made with the services at present in existence on the South American continent.

New Envelopes

Under date of December 18th, the Third Assistant Postmaster General notified postmasters of conditions governing envelopes furnished under the new contract which goes into effect January first next. Orders will no doubt, be taken immediately for the 5-cent air mail envelopes, which will be available shortly after the first of the year.

The amber envelopes which we discussed some months back will be available, and a new point brought out is the fact that in the future all 4-cent and 5-cent envelopes will be printed on extra quality paper. The manila will be discontinued. The notice from Mr. Regar, Third Assistant Postmaster General, is as follows:

"Postmasters and employees of the Postal Service are notified that in accordance with the provisions of the new stamped envelope contract, effective January 1, 1929, important changes have been made in the varieties of envelopes to be furnished thereafter, and which may be summarized as follows:

'New size window envelope'—To meet the public demand for a window envelope of proper size to use in the mailing of bank checks as now standardized by the division of simplified practice, Department of Commerce, a new window envelope to be known as the No. 6 will be issued in the 2-cent denomination. The No. 6 envelope will be 3⅝ by 8⅝ inches in dimensions, with a window 1¼ by 4 inches, located ⅝ inch from the left-hand margin and 13/16 inch from the bottom. No. 6 window envelopes will be furnished unprinted, or with private return cards at the prices stated below. Unprinted No. 6 window envelopes will be sold only in full box lots and orders for printed No. 6 window envelopes must be drawn for lots of 500 or multiples thereof of a given size. The No. 6 window envelope will be available in white, blue, and amber.

proved by the department for use with air mail matter and bearing 5-cent embossed stamps of new design will be available in sizes Nos. 5, 8, and 13. These envelopes will be furnished both printed and unprinted, in accordance with the selling rates stated below. Air mail envelopes will be issued in white paper only. The return card will be printed in blue ink on all special-request air mail envelopes.

'All 4-cent and 5-cent envelopes to be extra quality'—To insure the use of envelopes of maximum strength for use with heavier inclosures and for mailing to foreign countries, No. 5, 5-cent; No. 7, 4-cent; No. 8, 4-cent and 5-cent; and No. 9, 4-cent, envelopes will be manufactured in extra quality paper only. Beginning January 1 all requisitions for printed envelopes in the above denominations should be drawn for extra quality. Stocks of unprinted standard quality 4-cent and 5-cent envelopes remaining on hand January 1 will be available for issuance until exhausted.

'Amber envelopes'—Amber envelopes will again be issued in addition to the present white and blue, standard quality only, both printed and unprinted. Postmasters will not be required to keep stocks of unprinted amber envelopes on hand for general window sales in small quantities, but will provide such stock at the request of local mailers who have need for amber envelopes in reasonable large quantities. The sale price of amber envelopes will be the same as standard quality of like size and style.

'No. 5 manila discontinued'—Because of the prevailing small public demand, the manufacture of No. 5 manila envelopes in both 1-cent and 1½-cent denominations will be discontinued. Requisitions for printed No. 5 manila envelopes reaching the department after December 28 will be returned unfilled. Postmasters may continue to submit requisitions for unprinted No. 5 manila envelopes in both of the above denominations until the stock remaining on hand January 1 is exhausted.

Except as noted above, standard quality and extra quality envelopes will continue to be furnished in the same sizes, styles, and prices as shown on the current price list, Form 3200. Postoffice requisitions after January 1, 1929, should conform to these instructions."

It will be noted that no change is being made in the prices of envelopes, in spite of the fact that there is a considerable saving to the government under the new contract. This no doubt will be passed on to the public as usual, in the near future, but at the present time, there are no doubt, millions of envelopes throughout the country bought under the old basis, and these naturally must be sold before the lower prices become effective.

Counterfeit Revenue Stamps

Mr. John Safko favors us with a clipping from the Pittsburg Post Gazette wherein mention is made of the conviction of two parties on charge of possessing counterfeit internal revenue stamps. The testimony given shows that more than two thousand counterfeit U. S. strip stamps were seized in a raid of the Feitler Bottling Company, last May.

Abyssinia.—Coronation provisionals.—New portrait adhesives (Ras-Tafare) overprinted with Cross and Crown above "Negous Teferi" in Amharic and Roman characters: ⅛m orange and blue, ½m green and black, 8m purple and brown, 2 thalers green and brown.—Stamp Collecting.

Albania.—Yvert and Tellier report a third provisional set, overprinted on King Zogu portrait type.—"MBRETNIA SHQIPTARE" values from 1q to 5fr.—Stamp Collecting.

Australia.—We are indebted to Leon Stone of Sydney for copies of the new 3d blue kookaburra which was issued in November. It is reported that only a limited number was printed.

Brazil.—Franks.—Mr. L. Aarons shows us some interesting meter mail marks, composed of different denominations se tenant and used adhesively. One piece submitted contains two 200 reis, one 500 reis, and four 2$000 milreis, all in one horizontal row, another has 500 reis and 1$000 milreis values, and so on, the postmark in each case being Rio de Janeiro, October, 1928.—Stamp Collecting.

Ecuador.—We learn from Philatelic Magazine that the current 7c brown has been overprinted in capitals in three lines, reading downwards, in black, "Asamble Ncnal., 1928 10 Ctvos."

Luxemburg.—1928 Charity set will appear on Dec. 12, with the portrait of Princess Marie-Adelaide instead of Prince Jean. There will be five values: 0.10+0.05, 0.60+0.10, 0.75+0.15, 1.00+0.25, 1.50+0.50. The set will therefore be sold at fr. 3.95+1.05=5 francs total. (Maison Fischer).—Philatelic Magazine.

Monaco.—We are informed that the two provisionals chronicled last month were overprinted to the extent of 120,000 of the 50c on Fr. 1.05 mauve and 350,000 of the 50c on Fr. 1.25 blue, but that a certain number of these have been retained in Paris.

It is also stated that the 60c green (for which, like the Fr. 1.05 and Fr. 1.25, there is no longer much demand) is about to appear with similar (50c) overprint.—Stamp Collecting.

North Borneo.—"Last month a new stamp was issued at the Post Office here, that is the two cents value current design but color changed to carmine and black. This stamp also overprinted 'Postage Due' has just been issued. I am enclosing herewith a pair of each for your inspection. The Postage Due stamps are not obtainable in unused condition, therefore, I have to send these postmarked. You will see these are much better looking than the former with green and black, and the present color is a pleasing shade for collectors."—JOHN HUDSON SCHEE.

Palestine.—Overprinted series. Mr. E. A. Buck, our correspondent at Amman, informs us that the overprinted series has been definitely withdrawn since October 1st, and the ordinary series is again on sale.

Postage Dues. Our correspondent understands that the Postage Due stamps will shortly be superseded by a new set, as those now current do not comply with the Postal Union condition that the currency must be expressed. It is probable that the difficulty will be overcome by overprinting. We do not quite understand the reason as the stamps are worded "mils" already.—Philatelic Magazine.

Port Said.—We are informed by Maison Fischer (Paris) that the following have appeared: 3 millièmes, orange; 20 millièmes, violet. The same change was made simultaneously at Alexandria.

(It is not our intention to keep this list up-to-date, but we reprint it as of interest to the pioneer in this sideline of Philately. Beverly, Mass., can be included.—W. O. W.)

The first issues of the new Precancelled Envelopes are now being seen daily in the mails. Because they are not yet fully known by the country at large, they are not nearly so numerous yet as they are likely to become within the next few months. It is interesting to note that the very small places are quite as active in their use as are the larger cities. There are three sizes being precancelled: No. 5, No. 8, and No. 13, and each of these may be had in either white or blue. All of these sizes and colors have been seen. The following varieties have been reported:

BALLOON AND PIGEON POSTS DURING THE SIEGE OF PARIS

By G. H. BIGSBY.

I would like to point out the reasons which prompted me to study this subject. Whilst having been always interested in aero-philately, I have soon discovered that the collecting of Paris aerogrammes is not only fascinating, but affords a wide field for philatelic research. Quite apart from the fact that these represent souvenirs of the first scientifically organised attempt at conveying the mail by means of carrier-pigeons, manned and unmanned balloons, they are full of real sentimental and historic interest, for they bear witness of human sufferings, privations and heroism which can hardly be surpassed by any other documents of a philatelic nature.

The "ballon montés" are getting most elusive and hard to obtain, and owing to the ever increasing demand, the prices for all pieces are soaring rapidly.

Paris was invested by the Prussian armies on the 21st September, 1870, and by then the French Government had moved to Bordeaux. Naturally there immediately arose the problem of commercial and official communication with the outside world and those provinces of France which remained uninvaded. Almost at once steps were taken to open up this communication. The authorities decided to try and institute a regular balloon service, and accordingly on September 23, 1870, the first balloon, named "Neptune," piloted by the aironaut J. Duruof, carrying a mail bag weighing 150 kilogrammes, ascended from the place St. Pierre in the Montmartre quarter of Paris, at 8 a. m., and eventually landed, after 11 hours' journey, at Cracouville, near Evreux (Dept. Eure). This was followed on September 25th by the "Ville de Florence," which carried two passengers and some 300 kilogrammes of mail, and also succeeded in getting beyond the enemy cordon.

Stimulated by these initiative successes, a decree was issued on the 26th September, 1870, announcing the inauguration of a regular official balloon service. It was intended, in the first instance, to send up "ballon montés," i.e., balloons with a pilot, for conveying passengers, letters and newspapers, and "ballon non-montés," i.e., without a pilot, to carry post-cards, etc. Naturally the "ballon non-montés" stood a great risk of falling into the enemy's hands, as the balloon was at the mercy of the winds. Many of the early "ballon monté" flights can be identified by the special cachet at the back of the envelope, giving the name of the balloon, and often the name of the pilot as well. This practice does not appear to have lasted very long. Such envelopes bearing the names of the balloon and pilot are naturally much scarcer than those without.

After attempts at sending up small balloons carrying proclamations and newspapers, a balloon made of paper was released on September 30, 1870, having a capacity of 125 mc., loaded with 3 to 3½ kilos. of cards. The balloon fell in the enemy's lines when 2 km. from its starting point, about an hour after it had been released. Before the balloon finally came to rest, which was after considerable trailing, some cards which had fallen out of a broken package were picked up by French troops and returned to the postal authorities, so that they could be forwarded to the addresses; these cards are thought to have been sent by the following controlled balloon.

It is interesting to recall that some of the manned balloons had very eventful voyages; for example, the "Ville d'Orleans," which ascended at 11.40 p. m. on the night of November 24, 1870, eventually landed in Norway after an adventurous flight of 1,348 miles, this being one of the longest trips ever accomplished by a balloon. Other "ballon montés" had their tribulations, a number were shot down by the Germans and their correspondence collared, some of it being destroyed. Some, like "Richard Wallace," fell into the sea off the English coast, but the mail was arrested.

There were various forms of envelopes and post-cards used for conveyance by balloon, both of private and official nature, also special newspaper letters were issued, some of which had a page or two for private communications set apart from the usual printed matter. Many of these newspapers of the Siege are extremely rare.

Special rates were charged for correspondence conveyed by balloons. The rate for post-cards to any department of France unoccupied by the Germans, as well as to Algiers, was 10c. Letters, 20c. Rates to some other countries were as follows:

(For letters or cards)

Great Britain,	1c
Belgium,	1c
Germany and occupied departments of France,	1c
Italy,	1c
Spain and Austria,	1c
Russia and U. S. A.,	1c

For prepaying these letters and cards the ordinary stamps of France bearing portrait of Napoleon of the current issue were used, namely, for the most part 10, 20, 30, 40 and 80c denominations. It is extremely rare that one comes across a letter or card bearing a pair of 5c stamps. Commencing with the December of 1870, the "Ceres" or so-called Paris Siege stamps printed in Paris came in use. All letters bearing the stamps of Bordeaux issue are forgeries, because, owing to the fact that Paris was invested, no supplies of these stamps could possibly have reached Paris before the end of the Siege, i.e., not until 28th January, 1871.

There are some forgeries on the market, but a specialist can detect same immediately, for as a rule they are executed in a very crude manner, and are, therefore, not dangerous to anyone possessing a sound knowledge of the subject.—Philatelic Magazine.

MORE ABOUT BELGIAN PRECANCELS

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

In two articles, published in MEKEEL'S during the spring of 1928, I have tried to set forth the main features of the precancelled stamps of Belgium. Since those articles were written, enough additional information has come to me to make a third article. This information has come from handling upwards of ten thousand Belgian precancels in part, and for the remainder has been due to the kind efforts of Messrs. Ralph M. Williams, Carles Metz, Burt C. Wear, and W. I. Mitchell. Mr. Williams has begun publishing a check-list of Belgian precancels in the Precancel Gazette. The first installment appeared last April; the second is expected to appear before this article can get into print.

Except in a few details, the general lines of the subject as set forth in my earlier articles stand substantially without change, in the light of the facts more recently brought to light. The types of precancellation stand, but must be added to.

1. Additional Types of Precancellation

One specimen from Antwerp, 1897, shows a combination of sizes of date, with the figures "18" small and "97" large. I strongly suspect that this sort of combination will be found now and then; and already consider as of this type several smudgy impressions from other cities and dates, which I cannot exactly locate in any one of my described types. It will be recalled that Types 1 and 2 of my descriptions are much alike: monolingual, full date, place-name 2.9mm high. Type 1 has date 2.9mm high; type 2 has date 2.2mm high. I now interpolate a new type after type 2.

Type 2-A. Place-name 2.9mm high, in French only; in one line.

Date partly 2.2mm high and partly 2.9mm high; full date.

A similar combination type exists for the later short-date handstamped precancellations, introduced in 1900. Here the two figures of the date are of unlike size. This type is quite common in 1900, the first year of short dates, especially from Brussels. I do not find it in appreciable quantities after this date.

STEPHEN G. RICH

Type 5-A. Place-name 2.9mm high, in French only; in one line.

Date partly 2.2mm high and partly 2.9mm high; short date.

It will be recalled that in my second article I interpolated a type 3-A after my type 3. This is the full-date equiva-

U. S. 12c 1870 GRILLED

This is a decidedly hard stamp to find and its present catalogue price of $100.00 is not exhorbitant for an undoubtedly genuine copy. It generally comes in a dull shade and heavily cancelled.

I have two copies in stock at this time. Both are rather liberally cancelled and the grills are light as usual.

Copy #1—perfectly centered and fine except for straight edge at right, showing bottom arrow $35.00
Copy #2—perforated on all four sides, just a bit off center—no damages $50.00

The stamps and grills are fully guaranteed and may be returned, if unsatisfactory.

lent of my type 8, with French place-name in two lines of the same height type. I mention type 3-A here to make the record of added types complete.

Type 11, which is the handstamped type with the very tall place-name and date, introduced in 1911, and continuing in use right to 1928, offers a variant in 1919. It will be recalled that I described as a separate pair of types the printed precancellations with numbers after the place-name, used at Ghent and Liege just before the World War. The only handstamped type with a number after the place-name that I have as yet seen comes from Brasschaet, 1919. This must, in accordance with the procedure for the printed types, be rated as a new type. Description:

Type 11-A. Place-name 3.1 to 3.3mm high in one line, in French only, with numeral after place-name.

Date 3.3mm high; full date. Thus far seen only from Brasschaet 1, 1919.

This type 11-A of Brasschaet was altered in 1920 by the removal of the figure. From 1920 on through 1927, the last year of which I have seen Brasschaet precancels, this becomes type 11 with a space after the place-name. I do not feel inclined to make a separate type of this final minor variety.

Mr. Ralph Williams informs me that the numeral after a place-name, as used in Brasschaet, Gand and Liege, but not in any other towns thus far recorded, indicates a branch office.

In my first article I list type 13, bilingual and short date, as occurring first in 1920. This must not be confused with the earlier printed bilinguals with short date, types 22 and 23. I there mention the probability that a similar type, bilingual and short date, but with Flemish name above date, will be found. This type has turned up, and occurs much earlier. Description:

Type 13-A. Bilingual; place-names 2.2mm high; Flemish name above date.

Date 2.2mm high; short date.

This type occurs from Meenen-Menin 1910, Scherpenheuvel-Montaigu 1912, but not otherwise as far as yet known. Type 13, the similar type with French name above, is known to me only from Waremme-Borgworm, 1920 and 1928, and Mons-Bergen 1925 and 1928.

My types 14 and 15, the bilingual handstamps in large type, are comparatively rare. Namur-Namen 1920 is the earliest occurrence of type 15; Brugge-Bruges 1920 of type 14. I am in doubt as to whether Bruges is type 14 or type 9, as the letters of the place-name vary in size within the stamp, in many cases, and there seem to be both obvious type 14 and obvious type 9 specimens. I strongly suspect that two rockers, one of each type, were used for precancelling from 1920 to 1923.

2. Those Varieties of No. 60

In my second article I wrote at some length about Nos. 60 and 60a, the 1 centime gray and slate, as varieties precancelled in different years. At that time I did not recognize the existence of three distinct colors within this common old gray stamp.

In any reasonably large lot of No. 60, three distinct colors will appear. A dull brownish-gray, quite distinct from all the other tints, and distinguished by apparently clearer printing, will be found in one stamp out of about every twelve. This gray does not intergrade with any other tint or shade found in the lot. In contrast to this will be the bulk of the lot, consisting of stamps that grade fairly evenly from a medium bluish-gray to quite a dark slate. The medium bluish-gray is Scott's No. 60; the dark slate is what the dealers, including Scott, stock as No. 60a. The light, brownish-tinged gray is simply not catalogued. It is distinctly not either a fade or a changeling; it is a separate printing in a peculiar color. The brownish tinge is not so readily apparent when the stamp is viewed alone as when it is put alongside the other specimens. No. 60 proper, especially along in 1906 and 1907, is found in a pale gray, which Gibbons lists as his No. 209. This is not at all like the brownish tint here described.

Nos. 60 and 60a both occur in 1894 as precancels, but No. 60a is unusual. Both colors are plentiful in 1895 and 1896. The brownish tinge occurs first in 1896, precancelled from Brussels, Charleroi, Liege and Louvain. In 1897 the brownish stamps are quite plentiful, and 60a less so than in 1896. 1898 is nearly all on No. 60, with none of the brownish and few of 60a yet seen by me. In 1899 the brownish tinge is again plentiful, but 60a is still scarce. A decreasing number of brownish stamps are found in 1900 and 1901, but still fewer of 60a. Verviers 1902 is the latest use of the brownish tint that I have yet seen. In 1902 No. 60a gains in frequency; through 1903 and 1904 it is about as common as No. 60. After that No. 60 is all but universal, becoming lighter in 1906 and 1907.

I therefore recommend to Belgian precancel collectors that they take all three varieties of No. 60: the regular tint, No. 60a slate, and the brownish tint. The brownish tint specimens are, in my experience, more sharply and clearly printed than those in the other colors.

3. Early Bilinguals

As has been mentioned in my earlier articles, bilingual precancellation was introduced in 1910, and became general with 1911. This change was accompanied by a dropping of all the branch-office precancellations—but, as the printed "Gand 1" and "Liege 1," the branch-office types were revived in 1912. I now offer, thanks to the coöperation of Messrs. Williams, Metz and Wear, the following list of places using bilingual precancellations in 1910. I give the names in both languages as they appear on the stamps.

Brussel 1910 Bruxelles
Forst (Brux) 1910 Vorst (Brus
Gent 1910 Gand
Huy 1910 Hoei
Liege 1910 Luik
Leuven 1910 Louvain
Meenen 10 Menin
Mons 1910 Bergen
Namur 1910 Namen
Tournai 1910 Doornijk

Except Brussels, these are difficult to get. They are all handstamped. Brussels has no other handstamps this year, but has monolingual printed precancels-

AIR MAIL STAMPED ENVELOPE

About January first the Government will issue a new five cent stamped envelope. The envelope has the red and blue border like the commercial air mail envelope which has been in use for the past year. The die shows an airplane in flight and is printed in blue.

Every collector of first day of issue or first flight air mail covers will want one of these envelopes mailed on the day of issue.

We understand that it is very probable that the Philatelic Agency will not address these new envelopes for collectors. It is simply physically impossible for the Agency to do this.

If such becomes the case, it will be necessary that those who want first day covers have an agent in Washington to address them. We offer our services, and will supply the envelopes mailed on day of issue as follows

One envelope	30c
Five or more envelopes, to different addresses	20c each
Ten or more envelopes to same address	15c each
50 or 100 envelopes to same address	10c each

Unused envelopes will be supplied as soon as possible after placed on sale at 20c for one, $1.25 for 10, $10.00 for 100.

OFFICIAL INFORMATION

REVIEW OF THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The annual report of the Postmaster General, Harry S. New, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, has just been received. As usual, the Post Office Department reports a deficit this year amounting to a figure in excess of thirty-two million dollars.

We are told that the Act of May 29, 1928, which went into effect on July first of the same year, made numerous and important changes in the rates of postage, the revision being one of the most comprehensive and far-reaching in recent years. The various features of the new legislation are: First—Restoration of 1-cent postal rate for private postal cards. Second—A provision for the acceptance of business reply cards and letters, with the prepayment of postage. Third—The establishment of a pound rate for identical pieces of third-class matter, when mailed in bulk. Fourth—The revision of the special-handling charges, etc.

During the year, the sales of postage stamps and other stamp paper, as reported in postmasters' accounts, amounted to a total of $576,437,171.08, an increase of 1.37% over the previous fiscal year.

The list of new stamps issued during the year comprises the 2-cent Valley Forge, the 10-cent, 15-cent and 20-cent Special-Handling, books of the 10-cent Lindbergh, the coils containing three thousand stamps, the 5-cent Air Mail stamp, the Hawaiian surcharges and the precancelled 1-cent stamped envelope.

One detail of great importance to the stamp collector is the remarks of the Postmaster General relative to the issue of the coil containing three thousand stamps. He states, "The issuance of larger size coils has enabled the Department to discontinue the distribution of unperforated sheets of stamps formerly required by the manufacturers who prepared special coils needed for use in connection with their machines." The first regular order of coils of the larger size was issued on December 1, 1927. This will mean that we will have no further imperforate stamps of our current issues, and those who are collecting the privately perforated coils will have no new varieties to add to their collection.

We are told that the first 1-cent precancelled envelopes were supplied on order of August 6, 1928, hence, I cannot understand why mention should be made in this report.

Another exceedingly interesting piece of information is the fact that the sales of postage stamps to collectors and dealers through the Philatelic Agency amounted to $154,119.68, exceeding all previous records for corresponding periods, with the exception of the year when the branch Philatelic Agency was opened at the International Philatelic Exhibition at New York. At that time, the special sheets of White Plains stamps were sold in large quantities to the visitors, and this resulted in a larger total sales than ever before.

The report on page 26 gives a full and detailed list of the establishment of new contract air mail routes, and further tells you that during the year 5,585,224 miles were actually flown, the total weight of mail and equipment carried during the year amounting to 1,861,800 pounds. The outstanding air mail feature of the year was the reduction of postal rates from 10 cents to 5 cents an ounce.

A brief description of the seapost service is given in the report. This service now embraces twenty-nine ships on the Atlantic, and seventeen ships on the Pacific. The Navy mail service was further increased, during the year there being in operation service on 238 naval vessels and 157 shore stations. Those collecting ship cancellations will have quite a choice assortment, if they obtain them all.

The Postmaster General asks for permission to contract with foreign firms, such as the one that operates the air mail service in Columbia. With such a contract closed, United States stamps could be used on our air mail to Columbia, whereas at the present time, it is necessary to buy the air mail stamps issued by the German corporation operating this special line. We are informed that the Postmaster General intends to extend the International Air Mail Service to the north and south, and arrangements are accordingly being made.

The report covers 170 pages, and a copy may be had by those interested from the Postmaster General, to whom the communication requesting the booklet, should be addressed.

TEN MINUTES TALK ON AFGHANISTAN

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.
Given before the Collectors Club, N. Y. City

The great bulk of American Collectors make a fetish of the stamps of their own country. From the point of view of the almighty dollar, I suppose they are right, but they surely lose the zest and fascination that can be obtained by the study of many stamps produced by primitive means and by local people in the out of the way places. Among many such interesting groups I mention Brazil, 1843-1850; New Caledonia, 1860, 10 cents; New South Wales, Sydneys and Laureated Issues, Tasmania first 1d and 4d; Uruguay, 1856-1862, and most of the Indian Native States.

In this group of "primitives" I would give a high position to the stamps of Afghanistan, produced by local artists in a wild and little known far away country, and printed from lithographic stones on which each subject on the stone was drawn separately, each one varying considerably from the other so that platings of these early Afghans is by no means difficult. Before I refer to the stamps, I think a few brief details of the country may be useful.

Afghanistan is situated between Persia, Baluchistan and the northwest portion of India. It is about 500 miles broad by 600 miles in length. The population is about 6,000,000. The country is divided into five provinces, each under separate Government appointed by the Amir. These are Kabul, Kandahar, Herat, Afghan-Turkestan, and Badakshan.

The Amir Sher Ali ruled Afghanistan from 1868 to 1878. During his reign the first stamps were issued. Early in 1879 he fled from Kabul and died in exile. Yakub Khan then became Amir, but the murder of Sir Louis Cavagnari, the British envoy, brought about war under General Roberts in 1879-1880. Yakub Khan abdicated and the Sirdars in June, 1880, elected Abdur Rahman as Amir. He ruled firmly until his death in 1901, and was succeeded by his son, Habibulla, who died in 1919, and was succeeded by the present Amir Amanullah. Each of these Amirs had separate and very distinct issues of stamps.

The finest collections of these stamps have naturally been formed in India. The chief among these were those of Sir David Masson, Col. Hancock and Col. Appleton. Sir David Masson, who was a well-known banker in the Punjab in Central Provinces, India, was, for many years, recognized as the chief authority on the stamps of Afghanistan, and in 1908 produced (in conjunction with B. Gordon Jones) the standard handbook on the subject. This was issued by the Philatelic Society of India, and is profusely illustrated from reconstructed plates of all the early types. I recently bought the whole of Sir David Masson's collection and am glad to show a small portion tonight.

Most stamps of the early types are dated—the first issue of 1870-71 being dated 1288 of the Mohammedan era. This date is usually found among the Arabic inscription in the large oval. The value is usually over the Lion's head. Values are: Shahi=1 anna or 1d. Sanar =2 annas or 2d. Abasi=2 annas or 4d. ½ rupee=6 annas or 6d. 1 rupee=12 annas or 1/-.

The early issues are printed in groups of 15 stamps 3x5. There were two stones of some issues, on one was 15 types of 1 shahi stamps, on the other, a left row of 5 of shahi, centre row of 5 sanar, and right row of 5 more shahi. In the third printing this was altered to left row of 5 all abasi, centre row of 5 all sanar, right row of 5 all shahi.

In 1871-72 two new values were issued, ½ and 1 rupee in purple, printed in little groups of four stamps, two of each value. In 1872-73 a new stone of 15 stamps of Shahi was in use. This is a cheap stamp, but is very interesting because here we have the first repairs and retouches made by native Afghans to their own stamps.

In stamp No. 6, in the first printing one corner ornament was omitted. I had a pair in the collection, which I have sold to Mr. W. G. Hawkins, and I do not know another pair in any of the fine collections in Great Britain, India or Germany. The native workmen must have quickly noted this fault and made at least three different attempts to correct it. I show complete sheets of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd retouch.

Other interesting retouches occur on these stamps. I show a page with the original state, and the retouches on the same type, side by side for comparison.

With the issue of 1875-76 dated 1293, the use of special colors was introduced for the different Provinces, viz.: Kabul —Gray. Jellalabud—Purple. Kandahar —Green. Herat—Yellow-brown. Afghan-Turkestan—Black. On the sketch map I show, you can see where each color was used. In this issue each color was printed from two distinct stones. 1st, a stone of 24 all shahis. 2nd a composite stone of 24, consisting of 12 sanar, 6 abasi, 3 each of ½ and 1 rupee.

The three higher values, in all colors, except the grays, are rare stamps, the blacks being rarities that are missing in most collections. The issue of 1294 was printed in sheets of 40 stamps arranged as follows: 25 shahi, 8 sanar, 3 abasi, 2 ½ rupee, 2 1 rupee. You can see why the three higher values are scarce in all colors.

Sevard's Twinkles

"El Beso al Sol"—The epigram on the Cuban Anti-Tuberculosis seal sweetly puts it "El Beso al Sol," which is a saccharine thought even though cancelled COMPRE AZUCAR CUBANO.

Slogan Cancel—If you have ever been to Berlin, you will recall the Brandenburger Tor, a colossal monument above a six column gateway. Our cicerone informs us that only the Kaisers ever passed thru that gateway, yet today, one sees the postage stamps pass thru it in a very neat slogan cancel picturing the Tor with the six columns represented by the letters BERLIN. The slogan reads, "Jeder Einmal in Berlin," which sounds like the new New York police caution. Everybody passes 42nd and Broadway, at least once in his life.

Universal Machine—Sometime ago, we differentiated the Model G and the Model D Universal machine marks. Then we split the Model D types into two classes, the six-line fall and the six-line rise. The six-line fall is the common one. It is used nearly always in the smaller cities, probably due to the fact that the Model D machines are hand operated and have passed from the larger cities where they were used five or six years ago. We say smaller cities, with one reservation, for New York City has a number of them, which unfortunately do not carry a die number or station mark. The usual townmark is quite similar to those described for other machines, and agrees with the classification of Town A used heretofore. In this machine, we do not find a Town B, or a die letter town, for the reason that almost always only one machine is in use in the town. Town C does occur however, as many small stations have these machines for purely local mail, or in times of a burdensome mailing at the main office. To give one a better idea, we name a few towns having this machine: Michigan City, Ind., Seneca Falls, N. Y., Taft, Calif., Kankakee, Ill., Catskill, N. Y., Phillipsburg, N. J., Janesville, Wis., Stroudsburg, Pa. Of the Town C marks, we find examples from Chicago, Sta. C., Louisville, Baxter Ave. Sta., Lynn, West Lynn Sta., Tampa, Ybor City Sta., Bethlehem, Moravian Sta., Flushing, Forest Hills Sta., Rochester, Brighton Sta., New York, Pelham Manor Sta. If you don't know what kind of a machine your home town has, we probably will name it in the course of our study of these very interesting mechanical appliances—blah!

Collection of Slogans—Mrs. Villers Appleby of Tacoma, Washington, showed us her collection of slogan cancels, one that has taken awards in many philatelic exhibitions. Getting these rather odd bits of historical recollections together is not an easy task, and it requires painstaking study to catalog them all properly. The slogans up to 1920 were all of an important nature, but in the four years following, 1920 to 1924, they were trivial in importance, local, unprogressive, complimentary, a condition which caused our Post Office Department to ban all slogans except those of a general, important, national, progressive character, such as, "Address Your Mail," "Register or Insure," "Air-Mail Saves Time," "Let's Go," "Mail Early" and "Inform Correspondents." But collecting slogans for those four years is a full task, and we dare say, many of the slogans are unobtainable today. We have always felt that the Sanitary Fair and Centennial handstamp cancels were our earliest advertising cancels, as well as Jarrett's and Palmer's Fast Continental Train, June 1, 1876, from New York. The rarest machine slogan we believe is the Washington Congress Postal Universal. Then there is the one about the Street Fair in Memphis in 1899, that no one wants to sell. And the one from New York which spelled Memorial without the R in Roosevelt Memorial Association, Oct. 20 to 27. Even a collection of the Air-Mail Saves Time slogans from the different cities with die marks is a complicated affair, which brings to mind that Air-Mail is still a hyphenated word.

Envelope Catalog—We received the new envelope catalog from Mr. Bartels, and it is hoped that this will become an annual affair. To all who collect envelopes, and all who want to begin collecting them, we recommend this latest priced check list of the envelope issues. The system of collecting envelopes as outlined by Mr. Bartels is worthy of study. We have always believed that collecting stamps is mostly a problem of mounting, according to some prearranged system than the simple amassment of items. If you have ever called on a collector in Chicago by the name of Severn, you will understand what we mean. He uses a cigar box album, and any stamp can be located within five years. Of course we all have a box like that, one that is stowed away somewhere, heaped with stamps we didn't know what to do with, but beyond our jackdaw nature to cast away. But between friends, that's all right. In your cellar isn't there a box of junk, gas pipe plugs, hose couplings, rusty nails, clothes line hooks, tin foil, bolts without nuts, and nuts without bolts, wire without end? Even so, the system of collecting is the thing, and Mr. Bartels tries to keep us straight in the envelope game.

New Box Type Frank—Mrs. Guest circularized the A. P. S. with an original reply card, showing the new box type frank combined with a Business Reply Card. We never saw this combination before and we don't see why it isn't one of the best business ideas covered by the new regulations. We are giving Mrs. Guest the credit before J. E. claims it.

New Aero Stamps—The new aero stamps are welcomed additions to any collection. The occasion as it existed within the minds of the body politic may have been trivial, but the historical importance is worthy of commemoration. As such, we hope these stamps will have current use, and not be dropped into the rare postage stamp class. Whenever an issue is limited both as to use and sale, we feel as if our foreign critics haven't logic on our side of the water, altho we have the postage stamps. Every gyp salesman at a country fair shouts his comer-on about a limited supply. This country uses enough stamps to issue stamps by the billion, at every post office and to every customer. We feel slighted when our post office clerk gives us two stamps and says he hasn't been able to get a supply, as the issue is limited. In the financial world, that very point is the basis for gaining a few points on the floor in any favorite stock or bond, and we cannot help but feel that altho comparisons are odious, the methods are identical. The occasion for the Ericsson stamp was unknown to almost every collector, and few if any collectors can talk intelligently about the Huguenots and Walloons. Yet we have gone to the extent of commemorating events which are of such trivial consequence in order to issue postage stamps, limited in quantity, limited in sale, bought for speculation. Within a few years, we will have a hundred years of stamps to collect. Daily we must drop some stamps from our lists, we can't collect them all. We can't buy them all. As the days pass, new stamps are being issued by necessity, leave alone those by compliment. It's hard to see the dirt in your own home, and even big pictures won't cover all the cracks. Let us issue postage stamps, not steel engravings.

PURCHASE OF STAMP STOCK
C. I. Crowell, the well-known Brooklyn dealer who has been advertising British Colonials extensively, has added to his large stock the Cortlandt Stamp Co.'s British Colonials. This will doubtless give Mr. Crowell one of the finest stocks of British Colonials extant. Watch his future advertisements.

High Values = Postally Used

Here is an offering that will hit the spot with a host of collectors. Many collectors prefer really used stamps and a lot of items are also much cheaper used and money savers. All are really used. No cancelled to order or fiscally used material. These are mostly high values, the tops of the sets and among the best material to buy. Some of these used high values are far scarcer than the unused and this fact is going to be borne out in the catalog pricing some day. Please note that a big portion of the items offered are less than half catalog and we know that many of our clients will jump at this opportunity. It's not every day you'll get a chance to buy material of this kind. Get our 32 page Monthly Bulletin for a host of other offers. It's FREE.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

FREDERICK W. ALLEN, Editor, 521 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, N. D.

BOUNDBROOK NJ KOKOMO IND. Crosby N. Dak.

This installment will appear after the Christmas mailing rush has subsided, but it is written prior to that event. Every year many new precancels are issued as a result of the heavy demand and to chronicle these interesting emissions means considerable effort on the part of a new issue editor. This week I'll sort of clear the air and be ready with a clean slate to write up all the newest information of interest to the precancel collector.

The 1929 Standard Precancel Catalog is off the press. It is a commendable work of 700 pages, the combined effort of all the important authorities on the hobby. Thirty-seven state editors and nine special editors working together with the editor-in-chief, Victor W. Rotnem, are to be congratulated on the publication.

In October the Bureau printed new denominations for eight cities, all regular users of the Bureau precancel. They are as follows:

Birmingham adds the 8c ordinary, which will be difficult to tell from the local print because of the similarity of plates.

Chicago at last ordered the 7, 8 and 9c. They will be in the new standard style.

Detroit, a heavy user of coils, adds the 3c and may be expected to order the balance of the set above this denomination before long.

Philadelphia will have the 8 and 9c to complete the set to 10c, but these two probably will be in the new style.

Providence has ordered the 10c coil.

St. Louis will receive the 8c, which leaves the 7 and 9c still unknown as Bureau printed.

Seattle replaces the 1½c coil with the 2c in the same style.

Syracuse has requested the 3c coil.

Saint Paul 1½, 4, 5, 6 and 8c with the old style on the new perforation are going to be mighty good items. With this parting tip, we take leave of the Bureaus.

Bound Brook, N. J., illustrated above, is rather neat, don't you think? My guess is that it is a regular electroplate printing. The 1½c denomination, perf. 11x10½ is all I've seen.

Kokomo, Ind., appears in dashing black upon the 10c Monroe, which is the first locally printed precancel it has issued. It must be typeset as it is not in line with the style of plates the Bureau has been producing for offices.

Crosby, N. D., is a newcomer in precancels. The style is clearly typeset and makes a pretty specimen out of the 1½c it comes on.

Greenfield, Mass., current handstamp style shows up spelled "Greenlield," for the first time to my knowledge. Watch for it.

Harrisonburg, W. Va., precancels are used for chick shipments and little else. So you'll have to go around to the neighboring hatchery branch to try to locate a specimen of the U-13 style, which electro has just been placed in use by that office.

Clearwater, Fla., is quite familiar to us all during the big league training season. Precancels will serve to supplement baseball as a reminder, as the U-54 handstamp is in service at that point.

West New York, N. J., is using its second handstamp. The style is similar to U-10 reading "WEST NEW—YORK, N. J." in two lines.

Sheboygan Falls, Wis., is another new one. I am indebted to G. W. Hawse for a specimen of the 1½c in the same style and set up as the West New York.

French Lick, Ind., is a third with this same style. Precancels from there have been out for quite a while, but I have never mentioned them to readers.

Eureka, Calif.—All right, all together "I have found it." I really have, though, precancelled in serif caps by a rubber handstamp on the 1, 1½, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7 and 10c. All are current design except the 3c offset.

Shawnee, Okla.—"Heap big Injun town" has a new U-12 plate and a new thin serif letter style of handstamp like the Pella, Ia., that has been previously illustrated in this column.

Detroit Lakes, Minn., formerly known as simply "Detroit" is a pretty dead "burg" in the winter, but in the summer the tourist business makes the merchants sing. The postmaster ordered a handstamp last spring and has used it sparingly for I have been unable to pick up anything save a current 10c. If you are interested in styles, "she was dressed similar to U-10, but in caps and lower case."

Rocky Mount, N. C., surely is not a thriving farming community, and it is too far from home for me to tell you much about it except they are using 1c precancels "down thar." Oh yes! U-53 is the rest of the story.

Andover, Mass., famed educational center is using quite a few precancels. Not on laundry cases either! Prof. Gamber shows me the 7, 10 and 50c, in the U-75 style.

Troy, N. Y., "with the U-12 electro" means more than what that bare statement might seem. For years this office has precancelled with three handstamps, all practically alike, that produced such a sorry array that many precancel collectors have often expressed the wish that the above would come to pass. Troys are generally punched with the perforated initial "C." If you know your shirts and collars, you'll know the reason why.

And there are more U-12 electroplates to chronicle. Duluth, Warren, Pa., break away from the U-1 and U-4 styles; Columbus, O., from the U-3; and Newark, O., from a handstamp, that precancelled with a soluble ink many a collector found to his sorrow when he soaked the wrapper. Alderson, W. Va., also gets in line with the U-12.

Olivet, Mich., is a rather refreshing specimen for it bears a neat handstamped style of caps and lower case between very thick bars. The 20c I am looking at happens to be in a pretty block of 8.

An A. P. S. circuit book recently looked at, contained a number of precancels new to me. They were all the fractional value, ½c. Ashland, Ky., Athens and Canton, O., and Butler, Pa., bore the style I mention in the paragraph on Eureka. Celina, O., is a new user, and owns a "U-54," if you follow me. New Philadelphia and Martin's Ferry, O., are two more. Both were dressed like Detroit Lakes. If you will bear with me, I'll wind up the story by mentioning New Lexington, O., in three lines.

If any one shows me a "Molly Pitcher" precancel, I'll suspect that there is something not so right in Denmark.

London-Orient

—Supplementary Information About the L.-O. Flight Issue.

By PERCY A. HILL.

Supplementary to mine of a few days ago the following data as regards the current issue of the Philippines to the peso value surcharged or overprinted L. O. F. may be of interest.

In the first place the issue was entirely unnecessary as the British planes had touched at perhaps forty different points in the Br. Empire on their 25,000 mile flight, not one of whom deemed the flight worthy of being commemorated by a stamp, so far as I know.

In the second place the Director of Posts, Sr. Jose Topacio, decided that this issue should not fall into the hands of speculators as the former air-mail commemoratives. As a consequence he has been criticised for doing a perfectly legitimate action. I, myself, can attest it, and for a still better reason, for altho I am a member of the Association Filatelica, and have money on deposit with the Post Office for my quota of five sets, I have not received a single stamp from the postal authorities, to this date. Pressure was brought to bear on Sr. Topacio from all angles, but he can say he kept the issue from falling into the speculative class.

The general public were allowed to buy a block up to the 30c value on the day of the arrival of the planes, Nov. 9th, and all listed collectors, who presented personally at the windows, only five complete sets. Two hundred complete sets were sold to the general public at 1.30 p. m., Nov. 9th, which are all the peso stamps available to the public of this issue. Sales were continued on the 10th and the 12th. On the 16th the four fliers left for Salomague, carrying 1,300 pieces of mail, amounts limited to 50 pieces from single persons. On the 18th they flew to Hong Kong, carrying 900 pieces of mail, 500 of which were returned to Manila. Postage was two pesos (one dollar) per letter to Hong Kong as being a minimum, otherwise the load would have been too heavy for the planes. No letters were brought by the planes from Empire points, except from Puerto Princesa, their first landfall in the Philippines to Manila, the numbers

OUR readers are asked to give close attention to the following letter which has been received from Mr. J. J. Klemann, Jr., of the Nassau Stamp Company, New York: "On December 4, 1928, by agreement among the leaders of the House of Representatives at Washington, wheels were set in motion for a general revision of the tariff, which it is believed will be undertaken at a special session of Congress in the spring or autumn of 1929. A resolution was adopted by the Ways and Means Committee, directing that hearings on fifteen schedules of the tariff law shall begin on January 7th. The hearing relating to stamps, Paragraph 1671 of the Tariff Act of 1922, comes under Schedule 15, Free List, and will be held on February 20, 21 and 22. This paragraph reads as follows:—'Stamps: Foreign postage or revenue stamps cancelled or uncancelled, and foreign government stamped post cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon.' This paragraph permits the free importation of foreign postage and revenue stamps and foreign post cards, but discriminates against United States stamps. By a ruling of the Honorable McKenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, dated April 18, 1923, uncancelled postage stamps were declared not subject to duty, as they were not considered goods, wares or merchandise, as ordinarily understood, and United States stamped envelopes and post cards were also declared free of duty, as the value of the envelope was insignificant as compared with that of the stamp. On the other hand, the value of cancelled postage stamps resulted from the desire of stamp collectors to secure them for their collections, and this created a commercial value and, therefore, cancelled United States stamps were declared dutiable as printed matter on their foreign value at the rate of 25% ad valorem, under Paragraph 1310 of the Tariff Act. These rulings created considerable confusion, and it is our belief that Paragraph 1671 should be amended so as to remove the discrimination against used United States stamps. We would suggest, therefore, that your readers take up this matter with their Congressmen and prepare a proper brief to be submitted at the hearing before the Committee on Ways and Means, making a change in the paragraph by eliminating the word 'foreign' where it appears, and adding the words 'envelopes or,' after the word 'stamped,' making the paragraph read as follows: 'Par. 1671. Stamps: Postage or revenue stamps cancelled or uncancelled, and government stamped envelopes or post cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon'."

THE present tariff regulations are unfairly discriminatory against U. S. stamps and are inimical to collecting interests. When the Tariff Act of 1922 became effective it was seen that United States stamps were penalized unjustly in being adjudged taxable at 25% ad valorem and a measure of relief was granted by the Honorable McKenzie Moss in 1923, who, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, relieved unused U. S. from the imposition of duty. Now is the time for representations to be made by philatelists with the object of removing the ban against used U. S. The arguments in favor of unrestricted importation of these stamps are based on logical premises and now, if ever, is the accepted time to throw our strength in support of a change for the better. Fortunately, there are friends to philately in Congress, and if collectors will bestir themselves generally to write to their representatives, it is not unlikely that the effect of concerted action will be felt to advantage. When a new tariff bill is under consideration, there is every reason to press legitimate measures as it is apt to be difficult to remove objectionable findings from a law when once it is enacted. Each collector has his influence, and he should not sleep on his rights when his cause is just and for the general philatelic weal. Immediate action on the part of philatelists is demanded, and they are importuned to write, quoting the words of the proposed Par. 1671, as given in the last sentence of the preceding note.

MR. KENNETH LOUCKS, News Manager of the Indiana Construction Recorder, Indianapolis, with characteristic generosity has sent a beautiful booklet descriptive of the sesquicentennial of the surrender of Fort Sackville to Colonel George Rogers Clark, the commander of the troops of Virginia in the west, on February 25, 1779. The historical phases of this moving event are presented in a most interesting manner in the book, which has an illustration in colors of Frederick C. Yohn's picture, "Surrender of Fort Sackville to George Rogers Clark, February 25, 1779," which has been adopted for the central design of the commemorative issue next month. Mr. Loucks says that other pictures of Mr. Yohn's conception of Clark's activities "can be found in illustrated copies of that old familiar classic, 'Alice of Old Vincennes'." The book, "Indiana, 1779-1929" is published by the Board of Public Printing and the Indiana Historical Bureau, Indianapolis.

MR. JULIUS LOEFFLER, Chicago, president of the German collectors' stamp club, has returned from a philatelic sojourn in Europe over a period of nine months, where he observed conditions and reported different activities for readers of the WEELKY. Mr. Loeffler got much publicity here through a despatch of a special correspondent who told of the sending by Mr. Loeffler of three hundred covers on the Zepp flight to America. Mr. Loeffler says that the Berlin post office was a center of activity when the probable date of the flight of the Zeppelin was announced. Incidentally, he says that one cautious collector in this country wrote to send 25c, and ask that in return for it six envelopes be bought and mailed to him. He added that if the covers arrived safely, he would pay the postage of them.

IN a circular from Jose Topacio, Director of Posts, Manila, Philippine Islands, telling of the issue of the surcharges in honor of the First British Far East Good-Will Flight, the last paragraph of the announcement is significant: "It is requested that stamps purporting to commemorate this event not exactly surcharged as above be presented to any postmaster or post office inspector so that proper action may be taken."

A CARD from Mr. A. Rivera, San Salvador, says that an issue of 100,000 stamps is impending in Honduras, to underwrite the flight of Garay to establish air mail connections between Tegucigalpa, Honduras and New York. The stamps are to be sold for 50 centavos each, we are informed. A number of newspapers carried this information in their columns last week, we find.

WE cannot close our eyes to the complaints that have been received from collectors who are awaiting their Wright stamps from the Philatelic Agency, which in some cases were ordered weeks ago. At the beginning of the new year, some of the patrons are suffering eye-strain watching for the letters that do not come, and while we sympathize with the collectors that seem to be forgotten, logic would suggest that they write to Washington and not to us. Our idea is no to add to the Agency's troubles, but t lighten our own. Probably by the tim that this paragraph appears in print a will be quiet along the Potomac again.

—Author of the "Postage Stamps o Island of Mauritius."

Dr. Georges Brunel, a laureate of th French Academy, has produced the firs handbook on Mauritius stamps. Th colony was formerly the Ile de Franc and the author of "Les Timbres Poste d l'Ile Maurice" (Paris 60 francs) remind us that it owes its chief fame not to th "Post Office" stamp errors, but to th charm of Bernardin de St. Pierre's ro mance, "Paul and Virginia."

There are rarer stamps than the "Po Office" Mauritius, but none so muc sought after, and only two or three mo costly. The price has soared instead c fallen with the discovery of new copie Dr. Brunel gives a record of twenty-fiv specimens known, with photographs c twenty-four of them. He also provid his readers with well-executed facsimil in colour, which would not be permitte to an English publisher.

A register is given of all the know copies, and the latest to change han deserve special mention. Mr. Ha Lagerloef, a Swede resident in Ne York, has this year given his two copi (known as Numbers 8 and 9) to t Stockholm Postal Museum, a very ge erous gift worth over £5,000.

Mr. Lagerloef, who shares with t Crown Prince of Sweden the honour being vice-president of the "Friends the Postal Museum," has formed impo tant collections of most countries' stamp and is gradually passing them on to th museum. He has never exhibited England, but showed his Great Brita collection for the first time at the Lond Stamp Exhibition at the Memorial Ha last month. The collection fills six vo umes, and includes nearly all the prom nent rarities, together with a remarkab range of English stamps used in out-o the-way parts of the world.—Star Lover.

"FORT ORANGE PHILATELIST"

By CHAS. G. RIESS:

(The Fort Orange (N. Y.) Stamp Club is a live body and we are pleased to note its activities. Mr. Riess sends us a copy of its official organ for January, and we make a few quotations that speak for themselves.—Ed.)

Program for the Coming Month

Jan. 1—New Years—no meeting.
Jan. 8—Talk, exhibit, or both, by W. W. MacLaren of Cleveland, Ohio, who will visit us on this evening.
Jan. 15—Talk, exhibit, or both, by Chester J. Moore.
Jan. 22—Talk, exhibit, or both, by John J. Shea, Jr.

December Activities

Dec. 4—Talk on the Development of the U. S. Air Mail Service by Charles G. Riess. On this evening the Club acted as judge for a contest held by the members of the "Albany Junior Stamp Club." Seven prizes awarded by our members to the embryo philatelists.
Dec. 11—Henry L. Dean of Brooklyn visited our club and displayed two volumes of early U. S. revenue stamps to the members. About everything one could wish for was there—pairs, strips, blocks, inverts, part perforates and parts of sheets in wonderful condition. Mr. Dean has collected and studied U. S. revenue stamps for over fifteen years, and has probably the best collection of these stamps in the country.
Dec. 18—Daniel H. Myers entertained the members with an exhibit and talk on the stamps of the Danish West Indies.
Dec. 27—"Christmas Tree" meeting.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Letter from Chamber of Commerce, Enid, Okla., states that their Airport will be dedicated early in the spring and that a cachet will be used. Mr. J. Paul Gleason, Secty., further states, "and you may rest assured that the dedication of the Enid Airport will be the greatest one Oklahoma has ever seen!" That's a pretty big order to complete!

Francis J. Field advises that an East African aviator, who flew from Amsterdam to Cairo early in December carried a small mail, the first to be flown over this route and the first in recent years to be flown over the Eastern Mediterranean.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

Jamaica: Its Postal History, Postage Stamps and Postmarks. By G. W. Collett, W. Buckland Edwards, C. S. Morton and L. C. C. Nicholson. Published by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., 391 Strand, London, Eng. Price, U. S., 11sh3d postpaid in cloth, and 16sh3d in leather.

This is one of the very notable publications of the year 1928, and its authoritative nature may be estimated by the names attached to the work for the four whose names are given above were aided by Astley C. Clerk, a specialist in Jamaica, H. Cooke and G. C. Gunter. In the preface the compilers also give credit to a dozen other philatelists, including Delf Noronha, "who sent his collection from far-off Virginia."

Having written the above, the reviewer does not need to say much more. A substantial volume of 250 pages, handsomely printed and fully illustrated awaits any specialist in the stamps of Jamaica, who wants to know the last word regarding his stamps.

Historical Air Mail Catalogue. Published by K. Lissiuk Philatelic Co., 1476 Broadway, N. Y. City. Price, $2.00 plus forwarding charges. This is a handsome, authoritative and rather unique book. "The Conquest of the Air" by Nicholas Afonsky, a McClure Syndicate article, occupies first place, 192 cartoons give the "Conquest" pictorial interest. Henry C. Renouf contributes a "History of Air Mail," there is a descriptive record of Pioneer Flights, and Kalenik Lissiuk with John W. Nicklin present a catalog of air mail stamps and historical covers. The book is cloth bound and a superb production.

Ode to Winter

("Precancel Bee")

The wind it blows, the snow it snows.
The brooklet, too, no longer flows.
The hot fire glows to warm my toes
And near the hearth the kittens doze.

I have no woes. The door I close
Upon my rough and wintry foes.
In mood jocose, I now propose
To mount, at last, my stamps in rows!

Nov. 19 Brain Teasers

Our Juniors showed a decided lack of interest in our contest of Nov. 19. Perhaps football was the reason. We received only 13 solutions as follows:

P. H. Hardacre, Los Angeles, Cal.,	100%
Lewis Weiss, New Haven, Conn.,	100%
Arthur F. Doe, Jr., Sheepscot, Me.,	100%
Albert Gruber, Brooklyn, N. Y.,	90%
Geo. Buckman, New York City,	90%
(No name on entry),	90%
W. I. Gray, Dorchester, Mass.,	90%
Henry Tiergeni, Edgewood, R. I.,	90%
Billy Burr, Beverly Hills, Cal.,	80%
Robt. Herrera, Chicago, Ill.,	80%
Glenn Cox, Jr., Portland, Ore.,	80%
Wm. Stewart, San Fran., Cal.,	70%
Geo. Holt, Santa Monica, Cal.,	70%

Prizes have been mailed the three leaders. No. 1 was the stumbling block. Hungary and Ukrainia were named by several contestants. Mr. Hardacre's answers were as follows, and Messrs. Weiss and Doe also submitted the same list:—

(1.) 1911 Nicaragua.
(2.) 1901, Dominican Republic.
(3.) 1925 Hungary.
(4.) The difference between numbers 99 and 102 of India is that number 102 has AS in the upper corners, while number 99 has only A. Also number 99, in the written value has only ONE AND HALF ANNA, omitting the letter A between AND and HALF, and S on the end of ANNA as has number 102.
(5.) "Magyar Tanacskoztarsasag" overprinted on the stamps of Hungary means Hungarian Soviet Republic.
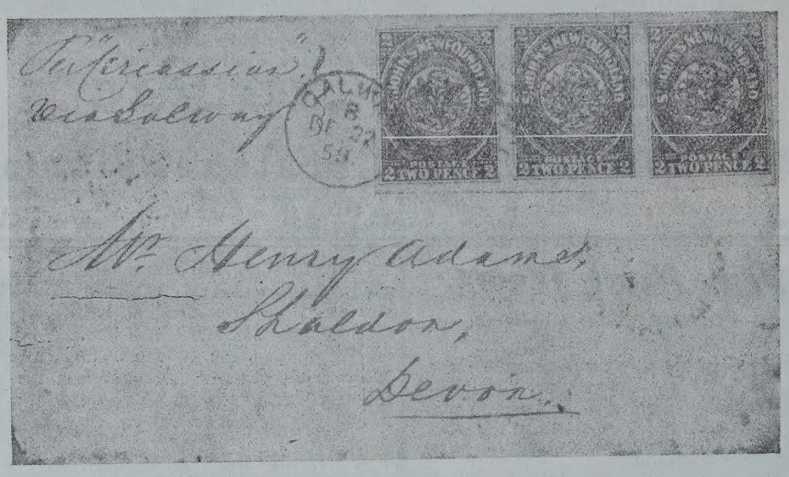
(7.) "Colis Posteaux" on French Colonial stamps means Parcel Post. Tunis issued a set of these stamps in 1906.
(8.) The event that both Peru and Venezuela issued a stamp for in 1924 was the Battle of Ayacucho. This was fought in 1824 against the Spanish.
(9.) Stamps that bear the inscription "Postzegel Z. Afr. Republik" are issued by Transvaal.
(10.) The Statue of Liberty is shown on the 1919 issue of Uruguay.



THE LUCKY FIND OF A JUNIOR

A London Dealer Bought This Cover At An Auction For $3,000

One day there was a very fortunate grandson, ten years of age, and when a letter arrived from Newfoundland he used his persuasive powers to gain possession of the envelope, franked with a strip of three of the scarlet-vermilion stamp. This was in 1858, and, instead of the boy soaking off the stamps, he kept the envelope entire, with the result that it recently sold in a London auction room for no less a sum than £600. The price constitutes the highest ever recorded for such a strip, no other being known. Even single copies of this stamp are rare. Messrs. Harmer, Rooke and Co. sold the envelope to a London dealer.—Postage Stamp.

The U. S. 2c with "Caps"

Allen W. Hughes asks for information regarding the 2c stamps of the 1890 issue for the United States with "caps" on the numerals. These varieties were caused by damaged transfer rolls, that is, on the impressions taken from the original die and by means of which the design is transferred to the plates. Mr. Luff expresses the opinion that these particular transfers were damaged during the hardening process—probably the steel cooled too quickly with the result that small pieces chipped off. The defects occurred at the tops of the numerals, giving, in the finished sheets, an appearance of a white cap above one or both figures "2." There are three varieties. (1) With cap above the right numeral, (2) with cap above the left numeral, and (3) with caps above both numerals of these, variety (1) is by far the rarest and either the plate made from this damaged transfer roll was but little used or very few impressions were made on a plate from this roll before it was discarded. The other varieties are by no means uncommon and both were used for separate plates and also, I believe, both may be found on the same sheet. It is curious, with the great care usually taken in stamp production, that transfer rolls with such prominent defects should ever have been used at all.

King Alfonso XIII of Spain

Born 17th May, 1886; succeeded Alfonso XII. and Queen Maria Christina; married 31st May, 1906, H.R.H. Princess Victoria Eugénie Julia Ena Maria Christina of Battenberg (born 24th October, 1887).

The King of Spain has been for many years an enthusiastic stamp collector, specialising in the stamps of Spain and her Colonies, France and Portugal. On his behalf were struck the famous "King of Spain" Reprints of the stamps of Portugal and Colonies to complete the Royal collection of these issues.

His Majesty takes a keen personal interest in all matters appertaining to the stamps of his country.—Who's Who in Philately.

Junior News Release

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

Egypt.—Egypt will soon be able to claim a position similar to that held at present by Portugal if they keep on issuing stamps for all the conferences held there. The latest international medical congress was the occasion for the appearance of a set of two stamps on December 15th. The 5 milliemes, brown, portrays the Egyptian god of medicine, Im Hotep, while the 10 milliemes, red, carries a likeness of Mehemet Ali Pasha.

Great Britain.—The first country to issue stamps has decided to issue the second commemorative set of the country. The first commemorative set which Great Britain issued was in honor of the Wembley Exposition, and the second one, which will appear next year, commemorates the conference of the International Postal Union. The commemoratives, ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2½d and 1 pound, will take the places of the current adhesives for three months.

Japan.—To commemorate a great national event, the crowning of the Emperor of "The Land of the Rising Sun," the Japanese Post Office has issued a series of four stamps, printed on yellow paper. The 1½ sen, green, shows some fairytale bird; the 3 sen, claret, portrays the special temple erected for the ceremony; the 6 sen, carmine, is of the same design as the 1½ sen value, while the 10 sen ultramarine shows the 3 sen value picture.

Leeward Islands.—The two highest values of the current set have been received here, both King George design, of the "Nyasaland" type key-plate. They are the 10sh green and carmine on green paper, and the 1 pound black and purple on red paper. They are printed on multiple crown CA watermarked paper.

THE BIRTH OF PERFORATION

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The first adhesive postage stamps issued anywhere in the world were those which appeared in Great Britain in 1840, but it was not until seven years later that the subject of perforation first received official recognition. In the English Churchman for October 28, 1847, an article appeared under the title of "Improvement of Postage Stamps," which is probably the earliest mention of a scheme which took many years to come to fruition. From this article we make the following excerpts:

"To provide a remedy for the inconveniences thus experienced (i.e., in severing the stamps one from another), a plan has been invented, by the aid of a machine, by which more than double the number of stamp-sheets that is now annually required may be so minutely indented in the direction of the whit lines as to allow the stamps to be instantly detached from the sheet without the question of cutting; perfect, too, in every respect, or, in other words, in no way mutilated or disfigured like most of the stamps that are now torn from each other. . . . The plan, we understand has been submitted to the Postmaster General, who, with his usual desire to facilitate the despatch of letters and to promote the convenience of the public has referred it to the practical department of the Post Office, with a view to ascertaining the efficiency of the machine for the required work, and whether or not it would be desirable to adopt the proposed plan, the noble Marquis intimating at the same time to the party who waited upon his lordship that if the plan could be carried out it would, in his opinion, contribute very much to the convenience of the public."

The plan referred to in the above paragraph was the invention of an Irishman named Henry Archer. With the aid of a practical machinist, Archer had constructed a machine which pierced the small gutters between the stamps with a series of cuts in such a manner that the stamps could be separated one from another without the aid of scissors. This machine consisted of two parts, which were used in succession. One of these contained a roller carrying thirteen spur-wheels, placed the width of a stamp apart, and with this part the vertical perforation was made. The other part contained a roller with twenty-one spur-wheels the height of a stamp apart, and with this the horizontal perforations were made. It was a rouletting machine inasmuch as it made cuts in the paper without removing any of it. The sheets of stamps that were thus rouletted by Archer by way of experiment were, by a resolution of the Commissioners—which was approved by the Lords of the Treasury on Jan. 7, 1848—authorized to be placed in circulation by the Post Office. These experimental stamps on original cover are much prized by British specialists and are of considerable rarity.

This machine was not found practical mainly on account of the difficulty in finding a suitable medium as a bed for the spur-wheels. If the bed on which the cutting edges descended were of wood it wore too speedily, whereas if metal were used it blunted the wheels too quickly. Archer, nothing daunted, then set to work and modified the machine by substituting a series of lance-shaped blades for the spur-wheels, but this proved even more unsatisfactory than the original machine. Specialists can distinguish between stamps rouletted by these two machines. The cuts made by the first machine vary in length and they are not equi-distant from each other. Furthermore, the cuts themselves are irregular and jagged and the stamps are seldom left square at the angles. The rouletting made by the modified machine consists of straight and clean cuts, widening at the extremities, which are spaced more regularly and closer together.

Far from discouraged by these failures Archer immediately set to work on an entirely new machine devised to punch a series of holes between the stamps—or what we now call true perforation. It is said the idea suggested itself to him from observing office window blinds of that period—blinds made of sheet-metal punched with a series of holes close together by means of which they were adjusted. This machine was sent to the works of Perkins, Bacon & Co., who were printing the stamps for Her Britannic Majesty's government, on December 5, 1848, with a view to testing its efficiency. It was found that the matrices into which the punches worked were constantly clogged with gum. This is easily understandable when the thick mucilage used for adhesive purposes at that time is examined, for it would easily flake and clog machinery. The perforator was, therefore, returned to Archer for further improvements.

This final machine was modified by Archer on the lines of suggestions made to him by Mr. Hill and Mr. De la Rue, and when received at Somerset House for further trial on Jan. 9, 1850, it was found quite satisfactory. After some little delay the Treasury offered Archer £600 for the machine and patent rights connected with it, but considering this offer too niggardly he rejected it. Further negotiations regarding proper payment extended over a period of more than two years and about the end of May, 1852, Archer finally agreed to relinquish all his rights to the machine on payment of £4000.

Probably about 5,000 sheets of the one penny stamp were used by Archer in his experiments from first to last, and the majority of these were undoubtedly used —indeed, during the session of 1851 stamps so perforated were regularly on sale to members of the House of Commons. After the Treasury had purchased Archer's machine further improvements were effected by the mechanical branch of the Post Office Department and it was not until January 28, 1854, after entirely new machines had been constructed by James N. Napier, an eminent engineer, that perforated stamps were issued officially.

The United States issued its first stamps in 1847—the year that saw the birth of Archer's experiments—but did not adopt perforation until ten years later.—Philatelic Opinion.

being slightly over 900 in all. Eighty sets of the overprinted stamps were given the aviator-pilots, or ten each.

After the limited distribution for the public and collectors a mad scramble began, to acquire those sold the public, prices going up from double to five times face value in two days. At present we can say that altho many of the sets have been bought up by some people who desire to be millionaires in the future, this issue is in more hands than any other issued in the Philippines since 1926, the date of the Madrid-Manila emission. Unfortunately, the great mistake which is so often made by air-mail commemoratives is the extremely limited number of the issue. Five overprinted stamps available to the public in the 100,000 numbers per each value would have been better. The Philatelic Association was against the overprinting up to the ten peso value, and succeeded in making the issue almost double that, as at first suggested.

An attempt to make another cliche after the first one was destroyed so as to fill orders lying in the Post Office was discontinued on advice of the Association.

Cash deposits for at least 15,000 of the 6,000 sets issued were on file with the Postal authorities. These were scaled down from not more than 30 sets to those with 1,000 deposit to 5 sets to known collectors. There was one request with cash order for half of the issue. The one making this, received only 30 full sets, with the others. At present writing there are said to be some 2,500 full sets, part of which are reserved for the United States. But all an observer can say is that the issue fell into the hands of the general public and was well distributed. The first day cachet was a double circle bisected by a band. The circle read, "London-Orient Flight. Manila, November 9th, 1926." The band, "First Day Cover." Two planes above the band and two below, as four planes formed the squadron. Letters flown from various points had a cachet of a plane with London-Orient-Flight, Nov., 1928. (No date.) Those flown from Manila to Hong Kong had the legend above the plane changed to "Manila-Hong Kong. British Far East Flight," and below, "First Air Mail." There were no cancelled to order covers. Only those actually flown received the cachets. There were a few of the first day covers cancelled, but only as first day covers, and not flown at all, naturally.

Altho the Bureau of Posts sent out advisory circulars in reference to this issue, it was not known generally until the actual arrival of the flight in Manila, hence the care to keep the stamps from falling into speculative hands. The most sets (150 each) were sold to the committee, who were in charge of detecting and destroying all errors and varieties, so this should be an Error-Less Issue.

FOR AIR MAIL FANS

By AARRESS.

According to the constitution of the American Air Mail Society of Chicago an election of officers must be held at the last meeting of the year, and on December 26 the results were that R. J. Schwarz was elected President; J. Unseitig, Vice Pres.; J. E. Mansfield, Treasurer; H. A. Opalla, Secretary; and C. L. Hall, G. F. North, M. L. Behrens, W. H. Gilley, E. W. Carlson, were chosen for the Board of Directors. E. O. Howle, the outgoing president, became Honorary Director.

There was some discussion as to why most of the Kitty Hawk, 25th Anniversary of the Wright Brothers Flight, Dec. 17, 1928, covers were received so many days after the occasion. One member received his on Dec. 23, and others showed covers back-stamped Dec. 22, at Chicago. Secretary Opalla somewhat clarified the mystery. From information he had gathered he stated that Kitty Hawk is a fourth class office, and the post-mistress had already used up her allowance for extra help when the announcement of the special cachet was made. When the deluge of covers poured in it was impossible to get them all cancelled by the 17th, and it was not until the evening of the 17th that a man who was sent by the Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., was able to reach there to help out; and coupled with this delay it was impossible to land a plane within miles of the town so that the mail had to be trucked a long distance before it could be sent on its way.

The Rare Provisional

2½d on 2d Brown Violet

Scott's Cat. No. 52

I have been fortunate in securing a few MINT copies of this exceedingly rare stamp and I am able to offer same at £30

(Signed and guaranteed.)

Orders will be dealt with in strict rotation.

ONLY 1179 copies of this stamp existed, most of which were used on the outgoing mail and in all probability the majority will have been destroyed.

The extreme rarity of this stamp can easily be seen by comparing its rarity to the rare 10/- Malta, Scott's No. 65, of which 1440 exist, hence the FALKLAND ISLAND item is about 25% rarer.

SELECTIONS SENT ON APPROVAL TO ANY PART OF THE WORLD

5 Blake Hall Rd., Wanstead, London, E11, England

AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION

By E. WEST.

The exhibition was held in Melbourne, from Monday, 29th October, to Thursday, 1st November. Although the official opening was timed for 8 p. m., many collections were only brought along by exhibitors on the Monday morning, when all were classified and a selection made for exhibition purpose. A large number of volunteers, including delegates and visitors, assisted the committee and all worked diligently throughout the day. Rooms on the second floor were used to store the collections, and many ascents and descents had to be made. The committee and delegates were conspicuous by their badges, a map of Australia outlined in blue, on which was printed in blue "Fourth Australian and New Zealand Philatelic Congress and International Philatelic Exhibition." In the lower hall an early start was made to arrange the frames for the stamps and a busy array of workmen put the stands in place and as soon as a display was arranged the glass was placed over and battened down.

Quite late in the day it looked as if things would not be ready in time, but an extra spurt in cleaning up debris in the early evening left nothing undone and with a display of bunting and some palms the hall looked very attractive.

The opening ceremony was performed by the Lieutenant-Governor. The chairman, in introducing Sir William Irvine, made a few remarks regarding the King's philatelic activities. He, however, made one slight mistake in asserting that this was the first Australasian International Philatelic Exhibition, as the one associated with the first philatelic congress held in Sydney in 1911 was certainly the first International exhibition held in Australia.

Sir William Irvine, in declaring the exhibition open, regretted that he was not a philatelist, but said he believed in everyone having a hobby, and one could not have a better subject than stamps.

The authorities responsible for the erection of the printing and perforating machines also had their arrangements well in hand and immediately the opening ceremony was performed the machines were in operation. They were of continued interest, and at times it was impossible to get anywhere near. The postal authorities had an obliging staff who were always willing to accommodate by cancelling one's letters with either red or green ink as desired.

The list of awards published give readers some idea of the magnitude of the work done in judging and arranging. Unfortunately there was not time to judge the stamps before a selection was taken out for display and the judges had necessarily to do their task in sections, which involved them in additional work going to and from the hall and upstairs.

I regret that space will not admit of an exhaustive account of the collections sent in for competition, but a few notes may be appreciated. The outstanding collections were entered in Division I. Mr. Lichtenstein's Capes were, of course, the admiration of all, especially the three-cornered issues, and I am sure no one on this side of the globe had ever seen so many of the woodblock issue.

Mr. Harvey's Victorian early issues were plated and profusely annotated, and no one would imagine that "half-lengths" were scarce, judging by the quantities shown. Mr. Harvey also had a number of "Sydney Views" with "butterfly" (Victoria) postmark, shown as the first stamps issued in Victoria.

Mr. Fryar, with his well-known collection of South Australian stamps, secured the trophy for the best collection exhibited by a resident of Australasia. Mainly specimens of the early issues were displayed and the superb condition of a country which produced so many badly centred stamps shows how persistently Mr. Fryar has searched for perfect specimens. The error "Fourpence blue" is truly a magnificent specimen.

Mr. Malone came next with his Tasmanian stamps and his first issues in reconstructed plates were very fine. A penny stamp, with watermark double lined 2, was shown as being worth £500 and caused many enthusiasts to bring along any 1d V.D.L. stamps they possessed to see if they, too, were the error.

Mr. Purves' collection of Commonwealth, which secured first prize in its class, came fifth in the general display list, and showed how much there is to find out in our own stamps, and how difficult it is becoming to get a complete collection of our issues, which only emanated in the last decade.

Mr. Smythies' specialised collection of Indian ½a 1854 stamps was beautifully annotated and illustrated and showed a wonderful amount of research. His collection was awarded the prize for the best annotated display. Quite a number of collectors had entries in many classes and Mr. E. L. Brown is to be congratulated on his successes, having been awarded eight medals, including the Sydney Philatelic Club's Gold Medal for the best collection exhibited in the New South Wales section. Mr. Brown's collecti was a good general display of all issu of New South Wales stamps, but it is be regretted that this State was not re resented by a specialised collection wi reconstructed plates of views and laur ates.

Practically no displays were sent fro New Zealand, but all the States of t Commonwealth were represented by t owners of collections.

Mr. B. Goodfellow, F.R.P.S.L., Manchester, England, whose word is a thoritative on New Zealand stamps, se for non-competitive display his wonde ful collection of the Dominion's "fu face" stamps.

At the close of the exhibition an au tion sale of stamps donated to swell t funds was held, and the auctioneer spe a very busy two hours, with the resu that about £50 was added to the revent

Almost immediately the committ commenced the dismantling process, a all stamps were taken delivery of or r turned to the storeroom before ma hours had elapsed.

The exhibition must be considered huge success and it was announced congress later that 6,000 visitors h viewed the exhibits. It was also stat that about £1,140 worth of the 3d Koo aburra stamps had been sold, but t the postal department were disappoint having anticipated that at least £2,0 worth would have been disposed of. learn that between five and six thousa letters were posted at the exhibition, a the post office was always the scene a throng of people bearing bundles f correspondence.

The judges were warmly congratula on the completion of their task, wh occupied all the time the exhibition w in progress, and it was realised t many had worked extremely hard a had barely had time to view the exhib generally. Later it was announced t the judges were to be presented wi silver medals in recognition of thr valuable assistance.—Australian Stam Journal.

PELHAM STAMP CO. 1844 Paulding Ave., BRONX, NEW YORK

ROOM FOR ALL IN PHILATELY

By "HILL BILLY."

There was a stamp fiend of Tobago
Who was a right nutsome tomato,
  He only saved tints
  Of Labrador mints;
As a fad I'd prefer lumbago.

There was a collector of Leeds
Who lamented, "My garden's all weeds;
  Each good item I've got
  Is a fake, like as not;
Honesty is what this game needs."

Now, there was the chap from Tobasco
Who only would collect Alaska;
  He would seek and would seek,
  And get one stamp a week;
The darn thing just would not grow fasta.

Of a philatelist I've heard,
A super-expert, my word!
  He spent ten years on a plate,
  Then had the sad fate
To learn there'd never been such a bird.

Then, too, there are dopes that I know
Who think they can buy the whole show;
  Every mint since year one,
  Each tint under the sun,
And that's how the forgeries grow.

I know a collector, by heck,
Who says he prefers a Sebeck;
  "Indeed, for my part,
  All I care faw is ART."
He gives me a pain in the neck.

Now, I like 'em pale, wan and dim,
But the classics mean nothing to him.
  My stamps he calls bunk,
  And his I call junk.
Collecting's a jest somewhat grim.

The moral, so it seems to me,
Is plain that in philatelee
  There is room for the mutts,
  The wise ones, the nuts,
And to this we might well agree.

tions. At Gand, Huy, Liege, Mons, Namur and Tournai, monolingual precancels of this year also exist; those from Huy and Namur are of branch offices.

I shall appreciate any additions to this list, with face value of stamp and position of cancellation. I can furnish these data for most of the places listed above.

4. Precancelled Surcharged Stamps

These are the 3c on 2c and 10c on 15c of 1927, Scott Nos. 191 and 192. They are exceedingly common with 1928 dates; in fact there are more surcharged 3c and 10c of the surcharged issue than of the regular issue, Nos. 145 and 149. I have not yet seen any surcharged stamps with printed precancellations; all are handstamps.

In 1927 the precancellation of surcharged stamps began; 1927 dates on these are scarce. The following are the only ones as yet known to me; Mr. Metz and Mr. Williams contributed to this list:

Ath 3c on 2c down.
Brasschaet 3c on 2c down.
Courtrai 3c on 2c down.
Liege 10c on 15c invert.

Here again I shall appreciate additions to the list. All save Liege also have the regular stamp of the value with the same precancellation.

5. Precancelled Postage Due Stamps

The ordinary precancellations do not occur on Belgian postage-dues. A cancellation consisting of just the name of the place, in block capitals 3.3 to 3.5mm high, without date or frame, is found from Hasselt and Arlon, on the dues of the 1915 issue, Nos. 392 to 396. Hasselt comes on the 5c; Arlon on the 5c, 30c and 50c. The Hasselt cancellation appears to be printed; that from Arlon handstamped. I am entirely uninformed as to whether these are precancellations, and as to their status in any respect. Some collectors appear to consider them precancels. Gibbons' catalogue, 1927, says of these stamps on page 101:

"In consequence of thefts many of these stamps were handstamped with the name of office of origin."

Whether or not these are precancellations remains to be decided. Some definite evidence as to their status would be appreciated by me.

6. Some Good Items

By this time it has become clear that certain of the Belgian precancels are exceedingly difficult to get. Mr. Williams, in the Precancel Gazette, says that Anvers 1894 on No. 55, the 2c of 1886 issue, is one of the rarest of all Belgian precancels. All precancels on No. 61, the 2c yellow of 1893, are very scarce. As mentioned above, the 1910 bilinguals, except Brussels, and the 1927 surcharges, are decidedly not plentiful. All 1918 precancels are scarce; Brussels, in two types, is the only surely known locality. Mr. Williams reports one from Averbode, but admits some doubt as to the date, since it is on the pre-war 1c, No. 92. Any precancels on Nos. 50 and 55 are sure to be very scarce. The charity stamps of 1910, Nos. 241, 242 and 245, come precancelled Brussels 1911 bilingual handstamp; they are decidedly scarce. Almost anything from the following towns is likely to be scarce:

Court St. Etienne
Dolhain Limbourg
Gosselies previous to 1927
Gouvy Hooshei
Lacken
Marchienne Au-Pont
Menin
Montaigu
Morlanwelz
Oostacker
Orp (if they exist at all)
Roux Vilvorde
Waremmes, except 1928
Wavre, except 1928

7. Pitfalls

The chief pitfall is "false doubles." Where the edges of successive applications of the precancelling rocker come together on the sheet of stamps, there are apt to be produced what appear to be double precancellations. This overlapping is not a genuine double precancel, and should not be counted as such. It can be distinguished from a genuine double very easily, because the displacement of the two cancellations from each other is so great that the overlap is slight. A sidewise overlap is usually one of these "false doubles."

If the perforations at the bottom of the stamp come close to the design, it is not always easy to tell No. 60 from No. 82, or No. 62 from No. 83. These pairs of similar designs can be told apart under the magnifying glass very easily, since the design in the earlier ones is continuous across the bottom perforations onto the Sunday-label. When that label is detached, no matter how close the perforations are to the bottom of the design, there is always enough of the design left on the teeth to enable No. 60 or 62 to be recognized. Nos. 82 and 83 show a colored line across the teeth with white paper beyond it.

It is often difficult to tell black and purple ink apart, especially under electric light. Recent precancels are nearly always in purple ink if they are handstamped. Purple ink previous to 1910 is very rare. Under the magnifying glass, doubtful specimens will usually show little dots of purple ink amid the undifferentiated color of the cancellation lines, if they are purples at all. Very often the back of the stamp gives a clue, for the Belgian inks frequently penetrate through the stamp. When they do this, the black or purple character of the precancellation is always very obvious. Rather faint or light precancellations with a bluish tinge are usually purple, not black.

8. The 1928 Printed Types

All printed precancels of 1928 are reset and differ from those of the same towns for 1923 to 1927. The general lay-out is essentially similar; but this year's precancellations have the place-names in a slightly taller, somewhat less bold-faced, and slightly less expanded or wide type than was used in previous years. The date is set from the same font as in previous years. I know of printed precancels in 1928 from the following places only: Anvers, Bruxelles, Charleroi (note return to old spelling of 1896-1905 precancels), Gand, Liege, Louvain.

9. What Stamps Come Precancelled?

A correspondent has asked me for a list, with Scott numbers, of all the stamps of Belgium that come as precancels. Such a list will form a fitting conclusion to this article.

Those not marked are actually seen by me; those starred are reported to me by others. Those not often found have the word "scarce" in brackets after them.

*1 centime gray 1885, Scott 50 (scarce)
*2 centimes purple-brown, Scott 55 (scarce)
1 centime gray, Scott 60
1 centime slate, Scott 60a
*2 centimes yellow, Scott 61 (scarce)
2 centimes violet-brown, Scott 62
5 centimes green, Scott 63 (scarce)
2 centimes red-brown, Scott 77
1 centime gray, Scott 82
2 centimes red-brown, Scott 83
*5 centimes green, Scott 84
1 centime orange, Scott 92
2 centimes orange-brown, Scott 93
2 centimes olive ("Tin Hat"), Scott 124 (scarce)
1 centime orange, Scott 108
2 centimes chocolate, Scott 109
5 centimes green, Scott 110
1 centime orange, Scott 145
3 centimes terra cotta, Scott 147
5 centimes gray, Scott 148
10 centimes blue-green, Scott 149
2 centimes olive, Scott 179
3 centimes on 2 centimes olive, Scott 191
10 centimes on 15 centimes plum, Scott 192
2 centimes "Caritas," Scott 246

Nos. 64, 85, 94, 111, 241, 242, 245 are mentioned as probably existing precancelled, but I hesitate to list them. Dues Nos. 392, 395, 396 are known with the possible precancellation discussed above; and probably Nos. 393 and 394 come the same way.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) LEXINGTON, MASS.

AN ENVELOPE RARITY

Several years back, Congress changed the postal rates, which necessitated the issuing of a 1½c envelope in place of the 1c used extensively previous to this time. In order to meet the immediate requirements of the several post offices, and so that their large stocks of 1c envelopes on hand could be utilized, the Postmaster General authorized the overprinting of the 1c envelope—1½c. In doing this work, most of the envelopes on hand were used up and as a result, several varieties were issued in exceedingly small quantities, hence, are real rarities in their line. As the work of surcharging was discontinued some months back, prices on the several varieties have now become more or less stabilized.

In a collection recently purchased, there were quite a number of the scarcer varieties and I am in a position to offer them at exceptionally interesting prices. There is only one or two of each, so that an early order is advisable.

1½c on 2c green on white, issue of 1887, #2716-a—Catalog $30 ..... $17.50
1½c on 1c buff—issue of 1907, #2722—Catalog $15 ..... 10.00

1½c on 1c blue on white, issue of 1887, #2732-b—Catalog $35 ..... 18.00

The above are in unused entire condition and as fine as can be had, as the collector retained these in wax envelopes, just as he had purchased them.

All of the commoner surcharged varieties are on hand and want lists are solicited from interested parties.

1869 Issue Used in Japan

One of the most interesting, as well as unusual covers used abroad bearing United States stamps that has ever come to my attention, has recently been shown me. This cover, bearing date of April 11, 1871, was mailed from Hiogo, Japan, and addressed to Yokohama, Japan. It is marked in manuscript "Per Oregonian," hence, traveled from one port to the other in an American steamship. The cover bears three stamps of the 1869 issue, namely the 3-cent, the 15-cent Type I, and the 24-cent. They are tied by a round smudge cancellation, in addition to part of a red Yokohama cancellation. No doubt, they may be around, but this is the first time that a Japanese cover has ever come to my attention bearing our stamps used from one Japanese port to another. They are usually found on letters mailed from Japan to this country.

Molly Pitcher Variety

Supplementing my recent remarks relative to blocks of the Molly Pitcher stamps showing a wide spacing between the surcharge on the upper stamps and the surcharge on the lower stamps, would advise that I have now seen a block in which the surcharge is so spaced that one stamp shows the word "Pitcher" alone, the margin above showing the word "Molly," so that by removing the individual stamp, a variety surcharged "Pitcher" only is to be had. The block in question has been located by Mr. Holcolm York.

New Envelopes

Through the courtesy of Mr. H. Clay Reed, we are in a position to list a number of unchronicled envelopes with the old watermarks. No doubt, from this date on, envelopes made under the new contract and bearing the 1929 watermark, will become available. As the different sizes and varieties appear at the different post offices, we would thank our readers for early information as to the envelope discovered, as these varieties will not be placed on sale in Washington on the first days of issue, hence, we must depend upon our many readers for notice of their appearance. The list furnished by Mr. Reed is as follows:

1c green, size 3, die C, white, high back, wmk. 27.
1c size 8, die A, extra quality, high back, wmk. 27.
1c size 8, die A, extra quality, high back, wmk. 27, no gum.
1½c size 5, die A, blue, low back, wmk. 27, no gum.
1½c size 8, die A, extra quality, high back, wmk. 27.
1½c size 8, die A, white, low back, wmk. 27, no gum.
1½c size 13, die A, white, low back, wmk. 26, no gum.
1½c size 3, die H-2, white, high back, wmk. 25.
4c black, size 8, white, high back, wmk. 26.
4c size 9, extra quality, high back, wmk. 24.
5c size 8, blue, high back, wmk. 27.

It is expected that the new 5c air mail envelope will become available during the first week of January, so that it no doubt, will have appeared by the time these notes reach our readers. As previously mentioned in this column, the Philatelic Agency will not be in a position to send out first day covers, hence, there is no advanced notice of the exact date.

Belgium.—The new issue of Charity stamps has been received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. They are line engraved with no watermark and as follows: 5+5c carmine, oblong small format, perf. 14; 25+15c sepia, oblong small format, perf. 14; 35+10c green, upright and large format, perf. 11½; 60+15c red-brown, upright large format, perf. 11½; 1.75+25c ultramarine, upright large format, perf. 11½; 5fr+5fr purple, large upright format, perf. 14.

Dutch Indies.—Whitfield King & Co. have shown us the new 75c green, air post stamp, and advise the other values received are 10c mauve, 20c brown, 40c carmine and 150c orange.

Egypt.—We are now informed that the issue of the Farouk commemoratives has been deferred until February 11, 1929, the prince's birthday, and there are to be four values (5, 10, 15 and 20 millièmes) instead of three.

Medical Congress Commemoratives.—5 and 10 millièmes, to be issued December 15th, statue of Im Hôtep and portrait of Mohammed Aly Pacha respectively. Im Hôtep was the first of the ancients to write a medical treatise; Aly Pacha was the founder of the School of Medicine, Cairo.—Stamp Collecting.

Estonia.—Whitfield King & Co. advise that they have received the 1c and 15c, with the background of colored pattern.

Hungary.—Copies of the 6 filler on the new watermarked paper are to hand from Whitfield King & Co.

Japan.—Mr. H. L. Meeken and Mr R. Roberts advise regarding the Coronation stamps. It is a special issue put on sale Nov. 10th last, and is line engraved on yellow paper, no watermark perf. 12½. The values are 1½s deep green, Phoenix design; 6s carmine, same design; 3s claret, Palace view and 10s deep blue same design as the 3s They are beautifully engraved although the effect is somewhat diminished by being on yellow paper. The Phoenix design used for the 1½s and 6s is taken from the emblem on the Takamikura, the Imperial throne, with sprays of mandarin oranges in the border design on one side and cherry branches on the other. The design for the other values is (the same size but oblong format) reproduction of the Palace in which the grand Harvest Festival will be observed.

Luxemburg.—Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of a surface printed series, with Portrait of the Infant Princess Marie Adelaide, perf. 12½x12, no watermark. The values are 10+5c myrtle green and mauve, 60+10c brown and myrtle green, 75+15c carmine and blue-green, 1fr+25c blue-green and brown, and 1½fr+5c bistre and blue.

Malta.—Mr. Harry Griffin has shown us the 1p chestnut and 1½p red, overprinted "Postage and Revenue" in three lines in black. They were mailed to Malta, Nov. 7th last.

Newfoundland. — Information has been received from George Pryor Enk Jr., that a 28c value has been added to the recently issued series. The stamp is printed in slate-green, in the same design as the 12c value. It was issued on December 15th last.

Portugal.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the 16c blue, Ceres type, surcharged "15 C." in black.

Russia.—Whitfield King & Co. send for note the 14k green, design as A87.

St. Vincent.—We are officially informed that there are no more of the stamps with the old C.A. watermark stock at the Post Office, and as we do not think there has been any speculation in these stamps they are likely to be quite scarce.—King's Philatelic Bulletin.

Surinam.—Whitfield King & Co. report a 7½c+2½c red Charity issue. Additional values are 1½c+1½c blue, 2c+2c green, and 5c+3c violet.

Switzerland.—The issue of Pro Juventute stamps for 1928 has been received from Whitfield King & Co. and Mr. R. Roberts. Values and shades are 5+5 purple and vermilion on yellow; 10+5

COLLECTOR'S CONTEST

Some of our loyal friends have apologized for the few subscriptions sent in, saying "my total is so small that I feel ashamed and especially when I see what others are doing." Of course a dealer has unusual advantages over the collector.

Here is a contest, however, for the collector only. During Jan., Feb. and March, we will award individual prizes each month to the five collectors leading in points secured, one point for each three months subscription. One year counts four points, six months, two points.

Additional prizes will be given the THREE leaders on the three months' totals:—

DATA ON CONTEST

¶ Send for a supply of our 25c yellow subscription forms.
¶ January report will close on JAN. 30, and be printed FEB. 11.
¶ The new subscriber gets a premium.
¶ Any collector can compete.
¶ Mark each remittance "For Subscription Contest."
¶ Get busy in your stamp club.

Uruguay.—Stamps from this country often come badly centred and collectors will no doubt be glad to know that in consequence of the deficiencies in the work carried out in Uruguay, it has been decided to order a complete new set from Messrs. Waterlow & Sons at the end of this year, including stamps of 2, 3, 4 and 5 pesos, which will be of large size showing the bust of Artigas. It is also stated that a new set of Official stamps is to appear shortly and a complete new series of Air Post stamps in beautiful designs and colourings.—King's Philatelic Bulletin.

Kookaburra

—The New 3d Australia is Proving to be a Very Popular Stamp.

Most of our readers will have seen by now the 3d stamps issued in connection with the recent exhibition in Melbourne, and of which a specimen was illustrated in these columns last month. The design is almost identical with that of the 6d Kookaburra issued in 1914, with the exception, of course, of the altered inscriptions of value. The word "Australia," however, on the top of the stamp is in smaller and differently shaped letters than was the case in the former issue.

The sheets printed and issued at the exhibition are of sixty stamps, consisting of five horizontal blocks of four and three vertical, each block of four being surrounded by a margin. No marginal imprints nor plate numbers are to be seen on the sheets. The colour of the stamps is officially described as "dark oriental blue," and we have noticed several variations of shade. The paper is unwatermarked. The perforation, which gauges 11, has been done by a single-line machine, and in the sheets which we have seen the stamps are, in the majority of cases, well centered. The gum is shiny.

An interesting point about the sheets is the presence of a "guide dot" outside each stamp, level with the top frame line and about 1½mm to the right. Except when the dot is cut out, as often happens, by the perforations, it can readily be seen without the aid of a magnifying glass. The dot is made by the roller at the same time as the impression is "rocked" into the plate, as a guide for the next position of the roller.

The postmarks employed at the post office at the philatelic exhibition in the Town Hall at Melbourne from October 29th to November 1st, were of the usual "coin" type, inscribed round the circumference, "International Philatelic—Exhibition Melbourne," with the date in one line across the centre. They were struck in either red or green ink, and while the former colour shows out very nicely on the special exhibition stamps, the green postmarks are rather difficult to distinguish. No special cancelling stamps were used for registered mail.

On the 2nd inst. the 3d "exhibition" stamps were placed on sale generally throughout Australia, the sheets consisting of one hundred and twenty stamps in twelve horizontal rows of ten. The colour, paper, perforation and gum are similar to those of the special exhibition printing detailed above. The guide dots noticed on the exhibition sheets are also in evidence. There are no plate numbers nor marginal imprints.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

MELANGE—

THE Rockville (Conn.) Stamp Club will hold a one-day exhibit on Thursday, January 24th, at the store of G. H. Friedrich. All stamp collectors who may be in Rockville on that date are cordially invited to drop in and make themselves acquainted.

EVERYONE has wondered what becomes of the paper from all those tiny holes in the postage stamps. Now Uncle Sam tells the secret. He sells it to a Baltimore concern and they total seventy-two tons in a year. Somebody who has nothing better to do might count the dots and see how many this would be.—The Pathfinder.

WE are indebted to Frank E. Wilson, of the firm of W. T. Wilson, Birmingham, England, for Christmas greetings in the form of the holiday number of the London Sphere. The magazine is a beautiful production with many illustrations in color, and Mr. Wilson also favors us with greetings from the London Stamp Exhibition. A special cancellation in honor of the event was issued by the P. O. department.

THE Nashua (N. H.) Philatelic Society was organized Dec. 4, at the local Y. M. C. A. John F. Boutelle was chosen president, and Charles Johnson, secretary-treasurer. Herbert E. Kendall addressed the members, and, as the oldest stamp collector, was honored by being given membership card No. 1. The club will meet alternate Tuesdays. We are indebted to Elmer Hoag for this information.

THE Directors of the Buffalo Stamp Club have elected the following officers for the coming year: President, James Storer; 1st Vice Pres., Frank J. Sleght; 2nd Vice Pres. and Treas., Harry C. Flierl; Sec., J. Russell Lowell; Lib., Adolph Steeg; Auct. Mgr., Fred L. Koepf; Sales Mgr., Harry E. Klotzbach.

PRINCE DORIA PAMPHILJ

Prince Doria was descended from the great Admiral Andrea Doria of Genoa, born 1466, died in 1560. He was given the title "Liberator et Pater Patriae" for his great services in expelling the French and reestablishing the Republic. He was created Prince of Melfi in 1531 and later inherited the titles and lands of the house of Pamphilii-Landi, Patrician of Rome and Prince of San Martino. The present Doria Pamphilj palace in Rome is a splendid edifice which was built in the Seventeenth Century and which contains a magnificent collection of paintings.

The Villa Doria outside the city is situated in one of the loveliest gardens of Italy. It was Garibaldi's headquarters in 1849.

The great Italian stamp collector, Prince Doria Pamphilj was born in Rome on the 25th of September, 1851. He was well known as a patron of the artistic world, as a lover of the fine arts, as a politician being a member of the Senate, and above all as a benefactor and a sportsman.

The Prince was educated in Birmingham, England, at the Oratory School being there from 1861 to 1870. It was during his residence there that the Prince acquired his perfect knowledge of the English language and also he acquired the love of stamp collecting in my late home and the home of the great early British Philatelist, E. L. Pemberton.

At the age of 18 he was living at Genoa where the Doria family originated. He there formed a general collection, but a little later on he tired of it and presented this to a friend. Towards 1894 he restarted collecting in one of Stanley Gibbons Imperial Albums and in 1896 he found out that he had no scope for his energies and for the collection he was making, in a spaced album, and transferred all his stamps to English Oriel Albums. The exquisite taste with which he was endowed was revealed in the careful way in which he mounted his collection which was entirely written up by himself. In 1904 Prince Doria decided to part with his general collection chiefly British Colonies, and this was sold to my friend W. H. Peckitt and many of the stamps were acquired by myself. The Prince then decided to specialize in the stamps of all of the States of Italy and of which he had a truly magnificent collection at the time of his death which took place in December, 1914. This portion of the Collection is still owned by the Doria family who keep it in remembrance of the late Prince Alfonse.

Prince Doria was very much English through his education and through his relations, his mother being Lady Mary Talbott, daughter of the Earl of Shrewsbury, and his wife was Lady Emily Pelham Clinton, a daughter of the Duke of Newcastle.

Prince Doria was a great lover of the fine arts taking a special delight in his famous picture gallery of over 800 pictures. He was personally showing me around the gallery once when I commented on the wonderful Valasquez and Raffaellos which he had pointed out to me. He turned round to me and said, "Well, Phillips, I have a little advantage over many of the other Italian Princes because I have had two Popes in my family and most of them have only had one." The most famous picture in this gallery is perhaps Pope Innocent X, by Valasquez. This Pope was of the Pamphilj family.

The Prince was very noted for his sportsmanship as he was connected with the leading horse breeding society in Italy and had some of the finest blood stock in existence. He was President for many years of the Jockey Club of Rome.

In his collections it is curious that the Prince wrote all his notes in the English language. He was especially a lover of the Classic Issues on original covers of which he had many rare specimens. He had also a special leaning for Essays and Proofs many of the greatest rarity.

In Philatelic Classics No. 5, in writing a short account of the late Lord Crawford I mention that Prince Doria sent for me to come to Rome to expertize a collection that was being offered to a friend of his. On this accasion after my work was done, Prince Doria took no end of trouble to make my visit a pleasant one. He got me invitations to several functions at Palaces in Rome and one day took me out to the famous Villa Doria in the country, one of the most magnificent homes and gardens in Italy. Prince Doria was a very fine type of collector. He was highly connected with the English and French aristocracy. I remember very well one day I was with him in Paris and he said to me, "Phillips, I want you to come to breakfast with my Aunt." I accepted, and the next day he called and took me to the home of Princess Matilda Bonaparte. On this occasion he got me to show the Princess one of my books of rare stamps, but the dear old lady could not see anything in them and said to her nephew, "Well, you may keep your old stamps, but give me my pictures."

After all, let people say what they may there must be something very enthralling in postage stamp collecting when we see men of the high position of H. M. King George, Prince Doria Pamphilj, and other noted men in all parts of the world, taking up this hobby.—Philatelic Classics.

FOOTBALL ON STAMPS

Where They Honour the Game and the Collector Pays

By GEORGE F. COCKS.

There is a legend to the effect that a certain M.P. forwarded a suggestion to our Post Office for the issue of a set of stamps to commemorate a certain event. The first official to whom it was sent for report became a staunch teetotaller, while the other to whom it was submitted for "consideration and remarks" was found with blanched hair trying to swathe himself in red tape like an Egyptian mummy.

In Uruguay, stamps are less sacrosanct. Their stamps, like ours, are for "postage and revenue," but in the two countries there is a difference in emphasis. We emphasise the "postage"; they the "revenue."

They realise that philatelists are milch cows which never run dry, our officials ignore their existence.

In the recent Olympic Games, the team from Uruguay beat the Argentine team and the sequel is an emission of stamps which will produce a satisfactory revenue in spite of the weirdness of their design.

It is said that when "Sammy" Woods was being tested as to his fitness to become a Rugby referee, he was asked: "if, after a place kick, the ball came to rest on the cross-bar of the goal, what would you give it?" Like a flash came the reply, "A ruddy miracle!" He qualified.

On the cross-bar of the creeper-clad goalpost the ball is poised, and perched upon it is a bird that "never was on sea or land."

A very sorry sequel this to those issued in 1924, when their team won its first victory.

Then they chose the "Victory" of Samothrace, but botched it a little by putting her the wrong way of the stamp. Still, they could put forward an excellen defense. She was placed against th boundless empyrean. So the victory wa reduced to its proper proportions, an could say she accurately symbolised th postal officials, for they both appear t have "lost" their heads.

Hungary's football stamp was qui frankly part of a money-making affai In 1925 the Government decided to en courage athletics. The Chancellor thou oughly approved, but could not financ the project. An appeal was made to th natives of the country and to the philat elists outside its borders. A finely de signed and beautifully engraved set o eight stamps was issued and sold a double their face value.

On the 2,000 kreuzer stamp appeared very tense moment in a match. "Goali has jumped to save a shot, and it within a foot of his outstretched hand The opposing forward is "gallumphing praying him to miss it, the home back transfixed with horror at the grim po sibilities, and the left half, in a ten attitude of terror, is saying, like Lytto "What will he do with it?"

It is a brilliant little vignette of foo ball action, and was cheap at its fa value with tax at 4,000 kreuzers.

It is curious that cricket has receiv no philatelic commemoration, thou something like a row of stumps wi rather original bails appears on one d nomination of the first Olympic stam of Greece in 1906.

Discus-throwing, racing, hurdling, sk ing, skating, diving, and fencing have been duly apotheosised, but football the only game that has two sets of stam and a singleton printed in its honour. London Star.

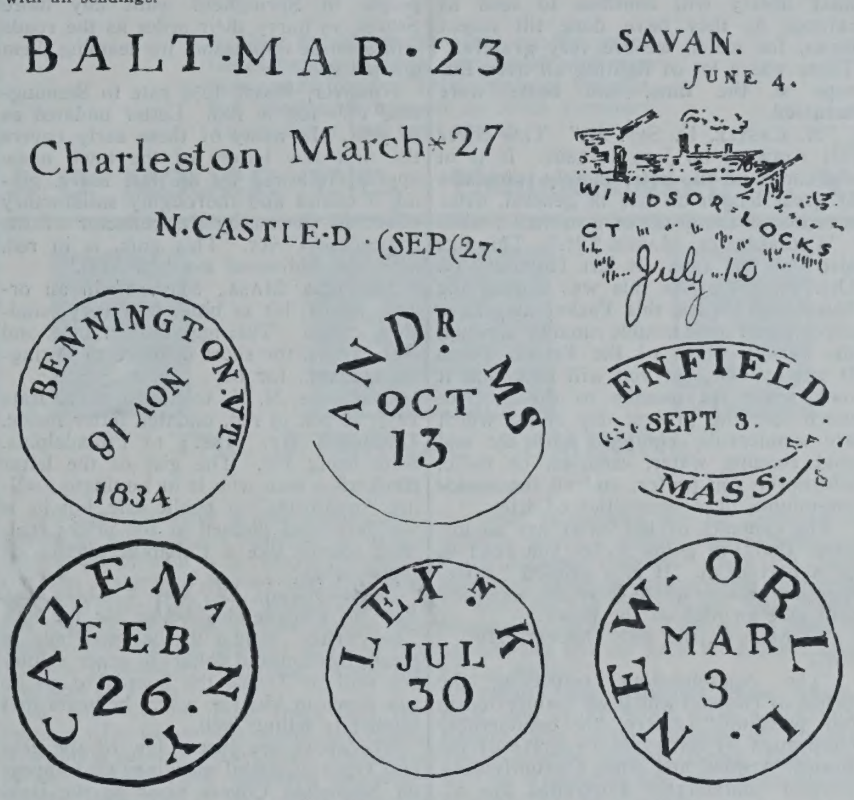
Devoted to United States postage stamps, 1847-1870 only. Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.



Stampless Covers Cancellations

This is always an interesting subject, even to the non-philatelist. The non-collector looks at these things in a very different way than does the collector. He enjoys delving into the contents of these odd looking old letters, and the Historical viewpoint is uppermost in his mind.

The above miscellaneous grouping is composed of the straight line postmarks in use around the year 1800. They are peculiar in that none of these actually started from the town designated, with exception of the Savannah. The town with the Old World sound to its name, New Castle, Del., is some 10 miles south of Wilmington on the Delaware River. Back in 1800 this was probably a very flourishing seaport, and made one of the principal ports of certain ocean going ships. Much of this old straight line postmarked material in my collection is cancelled by towns which were on the seaboard.

Taking them as shown:

"BALT., MAR. 23." (1797) Rate 12½ to Philadelphia. The dating of this letter is "L'arcahaye, le 19 Janvier 1797." I am not able to find any record of this town in France, the letter being in French, leads me to believe that it started in that country. Moreover, if it left there in the middle of January, it would just about reach Balto in three months.

THE RAREST 20TH CENTURY

British Central Africa 1907, 2d and 4d, Nos. 71 and 72, watermarked multiple Crown & C. A.
Who wants them worse than I do? Price on application.

H. A. ROBINETTE
Successor to 509—7th, N. W., H. F. COLMAN, Washington, D. C.

The letter mentions a draft on Port-au-Prince, which is no three months away in those days.

Another Balto letter bears same type of pmk. in red. This has mss. notation "Sh 29" for its rate. It was mailed from Nantes, June 22, 1793, and pmkd. from Balto on Sept. 15th, an ordinary run at that time from France to America. The contents of the letter are interesting.

It says that they will need wheat and flour all next year, and "we flatter ourselves that our American allies having in mind that which the French did for their liberty will continue to send us cargoes as they have done till recent times, for which we are very grateful." There was a lot of fighting all over Europe at the time, and boats were harassed.

"N. CASTLE. D. SEP. 27." This cover left Antwerp on June 3, 1802. It is in magenta, and the letter merely ruminates at great length on life in general, after mention of the death of a mutual friend.

"CHARLESTON, MARCH * 27." This has also "Sh 29" rate. It left Hamburg on Oct. 25, 1874. As this was during the Napoleonic Wars, this Packet may have experienced some trouble running through the various ships of the British Fleet. It got by OK, but you will note that it took some six months to do it. Not much like the present day ships, which are wonderfully equipped with hot and cold running water, canaries, or radio, whichever you prefer, and all the up-to-the-minute near necessities of life.

The contents of the letter are so unusual that I'm going to let you read it, or a part of it. It is a printed "Price-Current," and to quote from the foreword will give an idea of the times:

"HAMBURG, the 25th October, 1794.
Sirs,

"The Apprehenfions refpecting the fafety of Holland which we manifefted in our preceding Letters, are confiderably augmented by the rapid Progrefs of the French Armies, and other Circumftances. Several confiderable Fortreffes are already in their Pofeffion, and others are invefted. The Importation of Property from thence to this place continues. The Exchanges at Amsterdam fluctuate very violently and rife or fall according as the Enemy approaches or recedes. They are now 30% under par, which depreciates proportionably the value of the Bank Money, and precludes the poffibility of eftimating the prices of Goods with any degree of precifion.

Our Market for Weft-India and American Produce continues favourable notwithftanding the confiderable Supplies we receive. We refer you to a Price-Current you will find at the Foot of this."

"SAVAN. JUNE 4" (1799) the rate being 25 to Philadelphia. It mentions the shipping of 10 hogsheads of tobacco on the Barge Sea Flower. Cost of same being $921.63.

These covers listed below are after 1800, and prior to 1847.

The favorably received Windsor Locks, Ct., was sent to Bath, N. Y., was used in 1843. This was taken from a cover loaned me by Mr. D. F. Kelleher. The single rate for this trip was 18¾, while a double rate was 37½ cents. It is one of the most interesting cancellations, the minute detail being fairly well depicted in the finished stamped result. It pictures a boat passing through the Locks on the Connecticut River.

The Bennington in red is an early Year Date—1834—to Springfield, Mass., 12½ rate. The letter says that if the people in Springfield want any more Stoves, to hurry their order as the roads will soon be impassable for teaming them down there.

Andover, Mass., 12½ rate to Bennington, Vt. Hit in red. Letter undated as to year. In many of these early covers the first few letters of the town name appear, followed by the last letter, giving a quaint and thoroughly satisfactory effect as viewed by the collector of the Stampless Cover. This pmk. is in red, as is the additional word "PAID."

"ENFIELD, MASS., SEPT. 3" in an ornate frame, hit in blue, is a very handsome cancel. This appeared in 1836, and was carried the short distance to Springfield, Mass., for 6c.

Cazenovia, N. Y., to Sterling, Pa. Rate 12½, struck in red, undated letter inside. Lexington, Ky. (1827) to Philadelphia. Rate being 75c. The gist of the letter concerns a man who is in Lexington selling "ornaments" at public sale, but he is not very well pleased at the prices realized, sounds like a Philatelic auction of sorts—what?

"New Orleans, La., Mar. 3" hit in blue. Rate to Philadelphia being 25c in 1832. The writer wants to borrow only a couple of thousand dollars to erect a lumber mill in Texas, the boards to go on sale down in Mexico, where he hears that lumber is selling well.

The above are just a few of the general types of postal markings that appear on Stampless Covers prior to the issuance of postage stamps. The early straight line cancellations are neat, and attractive, and not plentiful. The ornamental affairs such as the Windsor Locks are extremely hard to locate, while the Enfield type is not at all common.

The majority of early postmarks are similar to these on the bottom row, with the town name almost impossibly abbreviated. I suppose that Waterbury would be something like WATy and Bridgeport BRIDt, etc., etc., instead of our familiar Wby and Bpt as hurriedly written today.

This is just a trial lot of the early postmarks. If you like them, and would care to see others, let 'em come in if they are interesting; but it would not be very interesting to publish a lot of well-known towns all of a design similar to those of the bottom row of the above group. Anything out of the ordinary would be better to show in the Forum. It is difficult to trace these old cancels, and if the detail is not fairly distinct, there would be small use in sending them, as I'd reluctantly return them as being unable to make an accurate drawing. Odd and fanciful designs always use the most interest among the readers and should you care to send any, they will be returned ultimately, though I may have to keep them some little time before drawing them up, as my time is rather limited at present.

Hope some of you all had a Merry Christmas by having a mess of old correspondence handed you to keep for your own. It is a philatelic dream that seldom comes true, but you have my best wishes for 1929.

THE ETERNAL FEMININE

By J. T. MOLONEY.

Although philately is not supposed to appeal so much to the feminine as to the masculine mind, it is a curious fact that the first stamps of two of the European Great Powers portray a woman's head—our own Penny Black, that classic example of Frederick Heath's art, and the French 1849 series, depicting Ceres, the Goddess of Corn.

In view of her long reign and the number of colonies over which she ruled, it is only natural that Queen Victoria's picture should have appeared on more stamps than that of any other man or woman, and it is interesting for collectors to study Her Majesty's different types when she was young, middle-aged, and elderly, such as full-face and side-face, and with head crowned or laureated. These types range from the artistic gems of the Penny Black and Half-crown Falklands to the crude productions of the Post Paid Mauritius varieties.

Victorian Variations

Apart from the well-known design which forms the basis of so many of the Queen Victoria stamps, there are one or two peculiarities which may pass unnoticed by many collectors.

For example, in the earliest Ceylons the head is inclined too far forward, a mistake which I believe was rectified by King Edward himself when the first proofs of his own stamps were submitted to him; on the other hand, in Gibbons' illustration of India, Type 9, the head is upright but too far back from the centre of the stamp.

Colonies like Bahamas, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia have a full-face picture, and certain stamps of Canada (three-quarter face or facing right), as well as Falklands, are exceptions to the general "left-face" rule.

Other Feminine Features

While space does not admit of any exhaustive list, Queen Mary appears in Canada, Rhodesia, and Newfoundland; Queen Alexandra in Canada and Newfoundland; and Princess Mary in Newfoundland.

Apart from British Royalties the catalogue is crammed with feminine features of all kinds and all classes.

King George's first cousin, Queen Victoria of Spain, as well as the Spanish Princesses, have stamps to themselves and also appear in a group of the Royal Family, while the Grand Duchesses Marie Adelaide and Charlotte of Luxemburg lend their faces to some very beautiful stamps.

Isabella II of Spain covers several pages of catalogue, and the historical student will remember how that monarch's hurried departure from the throne, in 1868, was one of the indirect causes leading to the Franco-German War of 1870. Another Isabella, Henry VIII's mother-in-law, is seen in the Columbus issue and elsewhere.

Maria Theresa of Austria, the Empress Zita, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, Queen Wilhelmina of Holland (as a child, in her teens, and as a grown woman), Carmen Sylva (Roumania), Queen Maria (Portugal), Elizabeth and Katherine II (Russia), the ill-fated Duchess of Hohenburg (Austria), the Empress Jingo (Japan), five Hawaiian queens and princesses, numerous wives of native chiefs—these are a few of the celebrities, past and present, who pass before our eyes, in addition to a large number of figures such as Britannia, Germania, Helvetia, Liberty, Peace, Charity, Victory, and Justice.

Lady Stamp Artists

It would be ungallant to omit from this short review of the "Eternal Feminine" those ladies who have designed Colonial stamps, among whom are Lady Carter (Barbados), Mrs. Garbett and Miss Cheesman (Iraq), Miss Girling and Miss Williams (Irish Free State).

The true artist might well say that it would have been better to leave the designing of the Irish 1d, 1½d, and 2d to these ladies as well, for, if the order of designers' names in the catalogue corresponds to the order of the four stamps illustrated, they might at least have avoided making the map of Ireland resemble a wild and wooly animal—like Agag, walking delicately!—Stamp Collecting.

The above offerings should be of interest to the wide-awake collector and speculator—particularly when it is considered that these stamps are in the justly famous "Berg condition"! Seldom is such a fine lot of blocks offered at advantageous prices. Blocks appeal to the fastidious collector—and they form a wonderful supplement for the collector who limits his activities to a smaller geographical range.

There are great doings in 20th century British Colonials these days. An ever increasing demand has forced me to more than double my buying activities, which for years have been on a very large scale. Just one recent purchase—of a great many made by me during the present season—has a ready market value of $14,000, and what makes this one purchase all the more remarkable is that it consists of nothing but modern stamps of one Colony.

Yet, replenishments keep us constantly busy—does anybody doubt the soundness and investment possibilities of twentieth century British Colonials(!)? ? ?

VICTORIA

I have the pleasure to announce the purchase of the collection of Victoria Postage Stamps
FORMED BY MR. ALEX. A. HUNTER, OF SYDNEY, N. S. W.

This collection contains some rare blocks of four of the first issue and many fine pieces in early and middle issues.

It is exceptionally strong in the issues of 1890 to about 1920 and Mr. Hunter bought this portion of the famous collection formed by the late Mr. H. J. White, who left his New South Wales collection to the Mitchell Library of Sydney.

I have remounted the whole collection in a number of my approval books and can send selections on approval. Prices are very moderate. [85

PHILATELY IN DETROIT

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

The December 8 meeting of the Michan Stamp Club turned out to be a most teresting affair. After concluding the eliminary business, President Harry rter introduced the speaker of the ening, Dr. E. J. Bernstein of Detroit, o gave a most illuminating talk on overs before Stamps," with special ess on those of Michigan and Wiscon-. Dr. Bernstein traced the growth of "Stampless Cover" movement and plained difficulties encountered in colting. This field of collecting has now come very popular in Detroit, and the its were interesting to all. Then, to d to the store of information Dr. rnstein imparted, he very kindly ised around original mounted covers d photostatic copies of rarer covers, ich he possessed, showing the differ- types of postmarks used in the East- cities. "The value of covers before mps," said Dr. Bernstein, "has been atly exaggerated. The beginner, when ding old covers, at once conjures vis- s of fabulous sums which the covers ght be worth. As a matter of fact, highest sum paid for a stampless er to my knowledge is $17.40. The erage run of covers are worth about each." The members applauded rtily, and a rising vote of thanks was en Dr. Bernstein.

Other business included a motion by Hedrick that the club be authorized buy several foreign standard catalues. This led to the authorization of ving bookcases in which to house the b library, which up to the present e has been in the possession of the rarian. Foreign catalogues show many ces and stamps which are not listed in standard catalogues, and the members of the club will surely benefit by the of these editions.

The Windsor exposition, held on Deember 12-12, was reported a huge sucs, and the Border Cities Stamp Club ited all members to attend the "last the year" meeting. An invitation to end the 1st meeting of the Ann Arbor mp club was also read. The meeting ke up after the usual auction sale, ich was full of fine U. S. covers.

PERMANENT CANAL ZONE, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The issue of the first two denominations, 1c and 2c, of the permanent series of postage stamps for the Canal Zone, advocated annually, by the Director of Posts, in his reports on the working of the postal system (to replace the "Canal Zone" overprinted United States stamps, re-introduced on July 1, 1924), was approved by Governor M. L. Walker, in April last, and on April 27th official photographs of Gen. Gorgas and Gen. Goethals were forwarded to Washington, from which to make engravings.

The new stamps were expected to be on sale by September 1st (according to the Panama Canal Record of June 20, 1928), but as they were not shipped from Washington until August 28th this was impossible. In his circular of September 6th, No. 175, the Director of Posts announced their issue for October 1st (2c) and October 3rd (1c).

"The Panama Canal—Canal Zone. Executive Department.
BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z.,
September 6, 1928.

Circular No. 175.

Goethals and Gorgas Postage Stamps.

To all Postmasters:—

One and two cent postage stamps of the permanent issue of Canal Zone postage, bearing likenesses respectively of General W. C. Gorgas, and General G. W. Goethals, will be placed on sale—The two cent stamps on October 1st and the one cent stamps on October 3, 1928. The date selected for the one cent stamp is the anniversary of the birth of General Gorgas, on October 3, 1854.

The United States one and two cent stamps surcharged 'Canal Zone' will be continued in circulation until further notice, and shall be offered to patrons unless the new issue is requested.

A supply of the new stamps will be forwarded to all postmasters without requisition therefor, on Saturday, September 29th, and will be invoiced by the Collector under date of October 1st. The receipt of such stamps will not be shown by postmasters in their September stamp accounts, but will appear in October accounts as having been received during that month.

Postmasters are cautioned not to make any sales of the new stamps before 8.00 a. m., on the day that they are to be placed in circulation, as shown above.

Signed, C. H. CALHOUN,
Director of Posts."

The stamps, vertical rectangular in shape, and measuring 19x22mm, were line engraved and recess printed, from flat plates, in sheets of 400 (20 horizontal by 20 vertical), with a margin on all four sides, in which the plate number appears over (or under) the 5th and 15th vertical rows, and in the side margins (reading up at the left and down at the right), opposite the 5th and 15th horizontal rows.

Between the 10th and 11th vertical rows, and the 10th and 11th horizontal rows, guide lines, in color, divide the 400 subjects into four panes of 100 stamps each (10x10), and knives passing along these guide lines (while the sheets are being perforated 11), cut the 400 stamp sheets into four Post Office sheets (of 100 stamps each). The stamps of each pane bordering on the guide lines (19 in each Post Office sheet of 100) are not perforated at their outer edges, i.e., they are "straight edged". These Post Office sheets of 100 stamps have margins only at the top and one side (upper left and upper right panes), or at the bottom and one side (lower left and lower right panes).

The central vignette of the 1c consists of the head of Gen. W. C. Gorgas, facing the right, within an oval, inscribed at the foot, "Gorgas". Around the sides and top of the oval is "Canal Zone Postage", and in the upper corners are triangular ornaments. Ovals in the lower corners contain the numeral of value "1", with "One Cent" in a straight line between. The numerals and all lettering (except "Gorgas") are colorless.

On the 2c the vignette is that of the head of Gen. G. W. Goethals, facing the front, with "Goethals" at the foot. On a curved ribbon at the top is "Canal Zone Postage", in color. A spray of laurel extends upward at either side, from solid circles in the lower corners, which bear the numeral "2". "Two Cents" in a straight line at the foot, completes the design.

The frame of the 1c was engraved by Edward M. Hall, and the vignette, Gorgas, by Louis S. Schofield; the engravers of the 2c were Edward J. Hein, and Fredk. Pauling, of the frame and vignette, Goethals, respectively.

One set of four plates (of 400 subjects) was made for each denomination: 1c: 115180, 115181, 115182, 115183; 2c: 115184, 115185, 115186, 115187.

The quantities printed, and those dispatched on August 28, 1928, were as follows:—

Printed.

	Sheets of 400.	Stamps
1c,	3,000	1,200,000
2c,	8,000	3,200,000
	11,000	4,400,000

Dispatched.

	Sheets of 100.	Stamps
1c,	11,568	1,156,800
2c,	30,936	3,093,600
	42,504	4,250,400

The issue was well advertised, and despite the low denominations, the Philatelic Agency at Balboa Heights, dispatched over $500 worth of these stamps on the first day, to cover mail orders; in addition large quantities were sold over the counter at all Canal Zone Post Offices.

Until the stock of overprinted 1c and 2c United States stamps is disposed of,

IMPORTANT—IF TRUE
I have been accused of selling half a million dollars' worth of stamps—mostly old U. S.—in less than two years and will neither admit the allegation nor defy the alligator because the statement is true—in part.

RARE AND BEAUTIFUL
The 12c Continental (1873) in block is a tough bird to snare. I now have the finest used block of four my eyes have ever met. Bought it because I couldn't resist it and if you like stamps like that drop me a line.
5c Taylors (1879 issue) used to Japan at $1 per cover.
Also have a few similar covers bearing a 2c and 3c 1879 at four bits (50c) each. The stamps are common but used to make the 5c rate to Japan, they're probably rarer than the Taylors. And for those who like U. S. and Jap stamps used on the same cover, I can supply a few at higher—but reasonable—prices.
The famous Westfield Peach Orchard bears good fruit all the year round. Good picking for those who seek odd stamps and covers not usually obtainable elsewhere.

Harry Burgess, who has for thirty years past been connected with Bright & Son of London, is now the proprietor of the firm of Harry Burgess & Co., Malden Hill, New Malden, England. Elsewhere in this issue will be found the initial announcement of the new firm. In addition to numerous specialties this company will handle a 10% new issue service. It may not be generally known, but Mr. Burgess has been quite active as a writer for the philatelic press. Articles on the Waterlow printings of Guatemala, the chain-breaker issues of Jugo Slavia, the postage due stamps of Poland, pictorial issues of Mozambique, Ukraine tridents, etc., give evidence of the wide range of study of the proprietor of the new firm. (Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

As forecast in this column two weeks ago, the new route between New Orleans and Houston, Texas, to be known as CAM 29, will commence operations on January 23rd. An intermediate stop will be made at Beaumont, Texas. The schedule reads as follows—Northbound planes leaves Houston at 8.45 A. M., Beaumont at 9.35 A. M., arriving in New Orleans at 12.30 P. M. The Southwest bound plane will leave New Orleans at 11 A. M., Beaumont at 2.20 P. M., and arrives in Houston at 3.15 P. M. It is understood that when pending, changes are made by the Mexican Air Mail Service, so as to change the exchange point between the two countries from Laredo to Brownsville, that the New Orleans-Houston route will be extended to Brownsville.

I have been shown a very handsome cover, mailed from Kitty Hawk, N. C., on Dec. 17th, franked with a block of four of the 5c value of the Conference issue. The stamps are tied to the cover with the regular Kitty Hawk cancellation, and the cover bears Orville Wright's autograph in the upper left corner. Mr. Geo. H. Kieley is the proud possessor.

Mr. Clarence Montgomery calls my attention to an error in my statement recently that Jackson, Mich., did not send a cachet for Dec. 17th, as he has covers in his collection mailed from this point that bear a cachet.

A correspondent in Tokio advises that a new Japanese Air Mail service will be inaugurated late in March or early in April. Points to be served are Nippon, Koku, Yuso, Kabushiki and Kaisha. A charge of 15 sen will be made for letters of ½ oz., and 7 sen for post cards in addition to the regular postage. It is rumored that a new Air Mail stamp will be issued for this flight.

Can you imagine going into a cigar store to get the Conference issue? And yet, the United Cigar Stores in Boston are selling the 2c value over the counter, while the Boston Post Office had not received a supply of either value up to January 4th, over three weeks after their appearance in Washington. I was told that each store was supplied with 200 stamps, the sheets having been received a day or so after their first sale in Washington. Evidently there is "one of us" in the background!

Messrs. J. A. Galbraith and C. A. Forster have sent covers from the first Flight, FAM No. 7, Nassau to Miami for examination. The covers are very cleanly cancelled and bear a two line cachet "By First Air Mail—To Miami Fla." Cancellation date is of January 2nd at Nassau (no time), and the covers are backstamped the same date at Miami time being 6 P. M. As I had quite a number of covers on this flight myself I have checked them over for any differences in cachet or cancellation, but find none. The cachet is in red ink. From the same flight, I received a cover from Mr. Henry O. Meisel, but Mr. Meisel's cover is a round tripper. On the face of the cover appears the Miami cancellation of January 2nd, 8.30 A. M., the big round cachet of the First Flight, depicting a three-motored plane in flight over the water, with a steamer, land and palm trees in the picture. A double

A NEW JOAN OF ARC STAMP

The gallery of celebrated pictures of an of Arc will shortly be enriched by e that is destined to gain a wider ne than has as yet come to any. It trays after the best traditions, a sim- peasant girl on a gaily caparisoned se, with the fleur-de-lys of France ting behind her against a royal blue ; and it will adorn a special postage mp of 50 centimes that is to be issued the French Government in connection h the 500th anniversary of the relief Orleans.

e Design

his design, which is the work of an nent French artist, has been chosen m five of the most successful entries a public competition instituted by the istry des Beaux-Arts for prizes given the city of Orleans. In the upper t-hand corner will appear the denom- ion 50 centimes, whilst across the om of the stamp runs the dedica- , "ORLEANS, 1429-1929."

here is a monogram enclosed in a el of heraldic shape with the initial (Republic Francaise), while Joan's l breaks into the word POSTES at top of the design. Altogether it is a y pleasing and notable addition to ever-increasing numbers of com- norative stamp issues. An enlarged reproduction of this stamp appears at head of this article.

Fear of Offending Great Britain

Thus will be consummated a project long cherished by patriotic Frenchmen: that the noble figure of the Maid of Orleans should grace the stamps of her native land. On several occasions in the past proposals for a Joan of Arc stamp have been put forward, but have been rejected on the grounds of political expediency. Apparently, however, the present Minister of Posts has no fear of giving offence to Great Britain by any possible revival of painful memories; and in this he is perfectly right. No one will welcome the appearance of this beautiful and significant addition to the stamps of France, with whom they are, as ever, firm favourites, more than the philatelists of this country.

Pigeon-Holed for Eight Years

It may be recalled that some thirty years ago a Joan of Arc motif for reproduction upon the French postage stamps was prepared by the famous poster artist, Grasset, at the instigation of the Ministry of Commerce, but for some reason or other it remained pigeon-holed for eight years, until it was eventually dragged out and adapted to the series issued for use in Indo-China in 1906.—Bazaar.

EDITORIAL

ON January 7, 1929, the Associated Press reported to the newspapers enjoying its news service, what may be called the opening gun in the campaign of propaganda in behalf of the George Rogers Clark commemorative stamp, which is to be placed on sale at Vincennes, Indiana, on February 26th. We have reason to predict that this special issue will be welcomed by many preliminary salvos in the press, and that in consequence of the advertising, a greater degree of general attention will be directed to the stamp than has been given to any other recent issues of the kind. The design of the stamp, printed in two colors, will give it a commanding position in the public eye; and it is unnecessary to add that beneficial consequences will redound to philately. Say what one will, the authorities through the emission of special issues are contributing to the spread of stamp interest in the great open spaces, and now truthfully may it be said that collecting has broken the bounds of its pent-up Utica. The whole country must be made fallow for philately so that its sway will be determined by numerical instead of geographical calculation.

A NUMBER of letters have been received commenting on the delay of the Postal Agency in sending out the Wright stamps, but as several of the writers have penned a second letter to say that the stamps have finally come, why say more about it. It is almost certain that all the orders have been attended to by this time. Those who protested against the long waiting period may know that the Agency did not procrastinate on purpose, and that reasons existed for the interval even though they may not have been discernible from the surface. Any public notice of delays such as have been spoken of really places the Agency in a false light, and gives here and there a wrong impression of the workings of the bureau; and we have no wish to contribute to the burdens under which the Agency labors at times.

THE suggestion has been made that a drive be started in favor of two or three special stamps to commemorate, some time during the next six months, the completion of that huge undertaking, the "canalization" of the Ohio river. The Waterways Journal, St. Louis, in the issue of January 5, 1929, comes out with a ringing appeal for celebratory stamps, and makes the point that the impending event will have a wider significance than any other engineering feat conducted by the government. The stupendous feat dwarfs any other enterprise that has been compassed by the government engineers, and the paper presents its claims for stamp recognition in these terms: "It is fitting that the Government issue at least three stamps to commemorate this important event, the completion of a stupendous undertaking well done by the Engineer Corps of the United States Army. What more fitting tribute can be paid at the culmination of this great feat than to issue a green one-cent stamp bearing the picture of a Pittsburgh Coal towboat, a red two-cent stamp showing a side-wheel passenger packet, and a blue five-cent stamp depicting a towboat being put through an Ohio river lock? Naturally, the Ohio River Valley Improvement Association through its officers should broach the matter; and there is no doubt the Association can bring pressure on the Post Office Department through the representatives and senators from the Valley States to successfully put the idea into reality. Surely the completion of such an important engineering feat as the canalization of the Ohio river is more important than an exposition or the meeting of an aeronautics association. Let all river interests bestir themselves to secure the printings of these stamps to perpetuate the slogan: 'Nine Feet, Pittsburgh to Cairo'."

THE foregoing paragraph is an interesting call to arms to march victoriously to the promised land of special stamps. None will deem the cause of the proclamation unworthy, but without doubt, a pretty obstacle race will have to be run before the proposal will have a serious hearing. What can Washington do when there were in the files of the Post Office Department some time ago, according to a veracious correspondent on the spot, scores of petitions for commemorative stamps. Of course, when many are called and few are chosen, there is always a possibility that our project will invite the lightning. Too, influences political and what not, are not to be ignored in any consideration, and so hope eternal has some excuse for high-jumping, even though it is a far cry from suggestion to realization. Then, even when the stage is all set for the beginning of the act, the lights will not go on because they have been turned off by the company. The Department says that it has no funds for the creation of all the commemoratives, which seems to support the contention of some of us that the department does not run the special stamp show at a profit.

FROM Dr. Walter Hess of Nassau, Bahamas, we have received a cover "By First Air Mail to Miami, Fla.," with the Nassau postmark of Jan. 2, 1929, and Miami, Jan. 2, 1929. Mr. Albert J. Morgan, New York, a collector of first editions, has sent us an envelope, with a 3c of 1857 that he found in a book published in 1862, recently acquired by him.

FROM Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, we have had two new stamps of the Egyptian Medical Congress, the five and the ten m., in light brown and dark red, respectively. Mr. Drossos says that two stamps instead of three, as expected, have been issued and that his agent at Cairo says that much difficulty was had in securing supplies of the stamps. Only five or ten stamps were sold to each applicant at the window of the post office on any one occasion. Mr. Drossos expects to have details concerning the stamps, which have the inscription, "Centenaire de la Faculté de Medicine-le Caire," in tablet at left.

air mail service in Central America. A special air mail cachet was applied to all first-class mail at Cristobal, beginning Dec. 28, 1928, reading: "First Commercial Flight, Air Mail, Panama-Canal Zone to Costa Rica, Pan-American Airways, Inc., Dec. 28, 1928." The poundage of mail on the first trip was given at 350.

THE following notice signed by W. Irving Glover, Second Assistant Postmaster General, marks the era of International Air Mail Service: "Route F.A.M. 1. From January 15, 1929, all regular mail articles (ordinary, registered and insured) will be accepted for transportation on this route from New York via Albany to Montreal, at rates of 5 cents for each first ounce or fraction, and 10 cents for each additional ounce or fraction, including regular postage, but in addition to registry or insurance fee."

WE learned but recently of the death of Charles A. Erickson, Chicago, who was one of that city's leading general collectors, and withal one of its most successful physicians. His philatelic enthusiasm was genuine, and he really stole time from the demands of his practice to commune with his stamps; and with real regret we chronicle the news of his death at the age of fifty-two years. He left a wife and son, both of whom are interested in philately. One of Chicago's oldest collectors, Charles L. Aouste, died recently. For many years he followed philately, and his linguistic talents were remarkable, as we have reason to testify.

The King and the Molly Pitcher Stamp

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

I have seen lately in the columns of various philatelic magazines of the United States several articles and letters about His Majesty, the King of England, and his polite return of a gift of the Molly Pitcher stamps. The several authors have given their versions about his reason, but the real one is that in his position as King of England, he cannot, for very obvious reasons, accept gifts from various individuals, especially from those of foreign countries. This policy has always been maintained, and accounts for the return of a first flight cover signed by Lindbergh, and many other items, news of which has come to public notice.

A Good Cheap Blank Album

F. L. SHULTES (Age 13), Berne, N. Y.

Many a collector of small means wishes to specialize, or to keep the stamps of some certain country separate, but when he looks for a blank album he thinks that the price is too much for what use he would get from it. Instead of buying a blank album you can go to a book or department store and get a stiff back binder and a blank filler, or you can get heavier paper from a printing company. The type of binder in which the rings are concealed is better than the other.

Obsolete

Another familiar philatelic expression is obsolete. Stamps that are no longer on sale at a post office owing to the fact that they have been superseded by a new issue are said to be obsolete. Many obsolete stamps are available for postage long after they have ceased to be in issue, but sometimes old issues cease to have franking power, and in this event they are said to be demonetised. A demonetised stamp, therefore, is always obsolete, but an obsolete stamp is not, of necessity, demonetised.

Some Definitions

Carriers' Stamps.—The name given to certain United States stamps which, during a period extending from 1842 to about 1861, were used to defray the postage from a post office to the addressee residing in the district served by that post office. At this period the ordinary postage only defrayed the carriage of mail matter from post office to post office. In many of the larger towns private posts of a semi-official character undertook to deliver letters from the post offices to addressees for a fee of 1c or 2c, and most of these posts issued stamps for the collection of these fees. In 1851 the Government itself undertook to deliver letters and issued special 1c stamps for the collection of the extra charge for this service. The issue of these was discontinued Jan. 27, 1852, when it was probably considered that the ordinary 1c stamp might very well be used for this purpose.

Catalonia.—An old principality and province in the extreme northeast of Spain. During the Carlist insurrection of 1873-6 the Catalans threw in their lot with Don Carlos, and with the advance of his troops into this territory a special stamp was issued (April 15, 1874) by the orders of the Commissary-General.

Two Corrections

By KERMET E. PARKER.

On your Junior Page in the December 31 issue I notice an error by Mr. LeDuc in his two paragraphs on "Surcharges". He says that "we call such overprint a surcharge. Sometimes the surcharge is a new value . . . Other surcharges are placed on stamps to denote historical events . . . which may or may not change the original value of the stamp for postal purposes."

A surcharge is an overprint, but an overprint is not always a surcharge. Anything printed over a stamp to change its value, its purpose, or its significance is an overprint, but when the overprint changes the value of the original stamp —and only then—it becomes a surcharge. The very make-up of the word shows that.

Another misleading statement is made in his item on "Blocks." He says "stamps that come from sheets that have not been perforated should be collected only in the form of pairs or blocks." Surely this does not apply to U. S. 1847's or other stamps that were never issued in both perforated and imperforate form.

Covers

By A. C. LeDUC.

We have clothes to cover ourselves, umbrellas, hats and roofs to cover our heads. But it takes an envelope to "cover" a letter. Therefore, when we speak of covers we mean the envelopes that carried letters. Of course a postal card can also be called a cover. Before the days of the use of envelopes for carrying letters, the sheet on which the correspondence was written was folded so that the written matter was on the inside, then the corners of the folded sheet were sealed and the address written on the blank outside part of the sheet. These covers are sometimes found without stamps on them as letters were sent "collect" before the general use of stamps for prepaying letters. Covers make very interesting collections as they show the stamp affixed to the letter, the name of the town from which it was mailed, and it bears the address of the person to whom it was mailed. In the case of registered mail the name of the town to which the letter was sent is stamped on the back to denote receipt at that office.

At the present time the interest taken in air mail letters has created a demand for special airpost cancellations on such history making "covers."

REMINISCENSES OF AN OLD-TIME COLLECTOR
PICKING OUT YE BLOCK OF FOUR

A LESSON ON GREAT BRITAIN

By F. J. MELVILLE.

Early British.—A good knowledge of English stamps is a liberal education in philately, and every collector ought to endeavour to make himself familiar with the issues of his own country. Many of the earliest stamps of Great Britain are still easy to obtain, as they were used in enormous quantities, and it is astonishing the numbers that have been saved from the limbo of the waste-paper basket. Every collector can have easy access to large quantities of our early penny red stamps, in the same design as their historic original, the penny black. Nor is it difficult to procure many of the ½d rose, 1½d red, and the 2d blue stamps printed from plates engraved in recess between the years 1841 and 1880.

British "Line-Engraved".—There is a family resemblance in all the early British stamps printed from plates engraved in recess—"line-engraved," as they are frequently termed. And yet there is almost infinite variety amongst these stamps of one group. As they are so accessible, being mostly cheap and obtainable in quantities unsorted, they provide an excellent basis for an exercise in the study of minute differences which trains the eye of the philatelist to observe every detail in his stamps.

Perplexing "Plates" and Corner Letters.—No stamps have been more extensively studied and written about, but the new collector invariably finds much to perplex him in trying to understand their almost endless variety. So many correspondents are always asking me for explanations of the letters in the angles of these stamps, and wanting to know how to recognise the plate numbers, that I need make no apology for devoting an entire chat to these two subjects.

Plate Numbers.—In the earliest 1d and 2d stamps of Great Britain, there are no plate numbers on the stamps themselves, and it is a matter of great difficulty and much uncertainty to allocate specimens to any particular plate. This need not concern any but the most advanced specialists in British stamps, but in the later issues of the "line-engraved" stamps, each stamp bears two repetitions of the number of the plate from which it was printed. None of the imperforate issues bore a plate number on the stamp, nor did the 1d red or 2d blue stamps, with letters in the two lower corners only (the upper corners being occupied by tiny star devices).

The plate numbers first appeared on the 2d blue stamps in 1858 and on the 1d red stamps in 1861, and in each case the change was accompanied by a new system of corner lettering, giving a letter in each of the four corners, so that the stars no longer appeared in the upper angles.

1d and 2d Plates.—In the 1d and 2d stamps the plate number appears in tiny uncoloured figures in the interlaced white lines forming the inner vertical lines of the frame of the portrait.

Of the 1d red stamp you may find the following plate numbers:—71 to 74, 77, 78 to 125, 127, 129 to 225. The printers only started this method of denoting the plate number with plate 69, and ended with plate 228; but 69, 70, 75, 77, 126, 128, 226, 227 and 228 were never used, though copies are known of plate 77 probably from proof-sheets which may have been perforated in error and put into stock. These plates (excepting the last three) were discarded or never completed because of some defect in them. The last three were never required for use owing to a change in our stamp d igns. Plate 225 is a scarce plate number worth searching for.

Of the 2d blue stamp, the plate numbers to be found are 7, 8, 9, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Midget Halfpenny.—The little halfpenny stamp of this group was issued in 1870, and its critics complained of the niggardliness of the Post Office in issuing a halfpenny stamp that was half the size of a penny one. From the start the ½d stamps had letters in all four corners and the plate number. The number appears twice on each stamp, in the reticulated background between the sides of the oval and the panels bearing the figure of value ½d as indicated in the diagram.

The plate numbers to be found on this stamp are 1, 3 to 6, 8 to 15, 19 and 20, number 9 being the rarest variety.

Surface-printed Plates.—In the surface-printed stamps, where the plate number appears on the stamps, the figure is always bold enough to be easily discerned, the position varying according to the design, sometimes being in the spandrels, sometimes half-way up each side of the stamp, or otherwise incorporated in the design, but generally it figures twice on each stamp, except in the high value stamps of 1867-83—the 5/-, 10/- and £1—where it occurs midway across the bottom of the stamp.—Stamp Lover.

THE scheduled exhibit of The Rockville (Conn.) Stamp Club has been postponed until January 31.—K. M. WHITE, Sec.

NASSAU, Bahamas, has now joined the ranks of countries using a machine cancellation, quite similar to ones in use in the United States, consisting of a circle with "Nassau Bahamas 1928" in a circle, and "Dec. 30" in a straight line in center. Then an advertising slogan in a box to the right in three lines reading, "Come to Nassau Bahamas, Ideal Tourist Resort." This cancellation now places Nassau in the group of colonials using similar postmarks such as St. John's, Newfoundland, Kingston, Jamaica, Hamilton, Bermuda and Port of Spain, Trinidad.—W. M. MCFARLAN.

THE Southern Tier Stamp Society will hold a dinner meeting at the Baron Stueben Hotel, Corning, N. Y., Monday, Jan. 28, at 6.30 P. M. Lyman J. Seely of J. O. Moore, Inc., will speak on "The Pioneers of Aviation." Mr. Seely's connection with the Curtiss Aeroplane Co., during the early days of its existence, in an executive capacity, together with his philatelic slant, will make this a most interesting subject to Air Mail Cover Collectors. Frank W. Wright, 305 College Ave., Elmira, N. Y., is President, and Kenneth B. Levegood, W. Church and Lovell Ave., Elmira, N. Y., is Sec'y and Treas.

JAMES BYERS sends us a letter received from the Washington, D. C., postmaster, in which he is advised that that office cannot accept orders for the new 5c airmail envelopes, which require addressing or the affixing of self-addressed stickers. This letter resulted from a request made by Mr. Byers in connection with the new 5c airmail envelope.

THE Yorkville (N. Y. C.) Stamp Club recently held its sixth annual Christmas meeting at its rooms at 1568 Second Ave. About one hundred members and friends were present. Various officers and members were called upon to address the club, which they did informally. A surprise was served when Mr. Shenitz appeared in the attire of a French chef and announced a real philatelic menu. A lively auction sale was held and refreshments were served. Local philatelists are invited to attend the meetings of the club, Friday evenings.—L. REINER.

A UNIQUE and very interesting wholesale pricelist is at hand from L. Rosenberg, Berlin, W. 35, Germany. Mr. Rosenberg is a member of the A. S. D. A., as well as the A. P. S., and made a visit to the United States quite recently. The list before us covers a wide range of offers with prices per ten and one hundred. A useful index is noted. This pricelist should be very acceptable to every dealer, and we urge interested parties to write for a copy.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found the advertisement of the Stamp Exchange, formerly at Auburn, Cal., and now located in San Francisco. The firm recently held its 97th auction sale.

JAMAICA

Its Postal History, Postage Stamps and Postmarks.

This new book deals most completely with every aspect of Jamaican philately and throws much new light on the problems connected with the various issues of this popular group.

Collectors already interested in Jamaica, or who are looking for a country which will not make too heavy demands on the purse, should certainly order this book.

George F. Wild advises that he has been in touch with Aviator's Post, No. 734 of the American Legion with regard to the use of a cachet during the forthcoming Aviation Show to be held in New York, Feb. 6th to 13th, and that from all appearances the Post Office Department may sanction an official cachet, as was done in Chicago. Mr. Wild further states that it is intended to have a special post office booth in the Show, and that an exhibition of Air Mail covers may be one of the features. The Show is being held for the benefit of the widows and orphans of aviators, and the Government, as well as the Aeronautical industry, is inclined to give it a boost in every way possible. Mr. Wild kindly offers to handle covers for collectors on the usual basis — ready to mail — and anticipates being in attendance at the Show every evening. Collectors residing in and near New York are urgently asked to attend the Show.

Just as this week's News column closes, the first of the Miami Air Meet and Dedication covers have arrived. These are cancelled January 7th, and arrive in Boston today, January 8th. The cachet used is quite similar to that applied to covers at Los Angeles during the Air Races, but much larger, and consequently much more distinct. The cachet certainly tells the whole story, "Municipal Airport Dedication—All American Air Meet—Miami, Jan. 7-8."

FALKLAND ISLAND

The Rare Provisional

2½d on 2d Brown Violet

Scott's Cat. No. 52

I have been fortunate in securing a few MINT copies of this exceedingly rare stamp and I am able to offer same at £30

(Signed and guaranteed.)

Orders will be dealt with in strict rotation.

ONLY 1179 copies of this stamp existed, most of which were used on the outgoing mail and in all probability the majority will have been destroyed.

The extreme rarity of this stamp can easily be seen by comparing its rarity to the rare 10/- Malta, Scott's No. 65, of which 1440 exist, hence the FALKLAND ISLAND item is about 25% rarer.

the new stamps will be sold only on request.

On June 24, 1929, the Bureau of Posts of the Canal Zone will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its establishment (on June 24, 1904), and it is quite probable that another denomination in permanent design will be ready for issue on that occasion.

October, 1928.—Permanent series for Canal Zone. Line engraved and recess printed (from flat plates) by Bureau of Engraving & Printing, Washington, D. C. Unwatermarked, perf. single line 11.

1c green (Gorgas) Oct. 3.
2c carmine rose (Goethals) Oct. 1.

Stamp Booklets, Nov. 5, 1928

Booklets of 2c stamps (25c and 49c) were also requisitioned, but as these are not printed from 400 subject plates (as used for the sheet stamps) but from special plates of 360 subjects, these were not dispatched to the Isthmus until October 12th (1c booklets with stamps in the Gorgas design have not yet been ordered).

The booklet stamps were printed from plates of 360 subjects (20 horizontal by 18 vertical), with a ¼ inch margin between each third horizontal row, and then cut into 60 panes of 6 stamps each (2 horizontal by 3 vertical), with a margin at the top for binding. The stamps of these panes (perforated 11) are imperforate at the outer edges. On the sheets of 360 stamps, the plate number appears in the upper margin (over the 14th stamp), and in the lower margin (under the 7th stamp), but in cutting into the small six stamp panes, the lower margin with plate number (and side margins as well) is trimmed off, leaving only the one in the top margin, and through this top margin two wire staples pass in binding the small six stamp sheets between covers.

The 25c stamp booklet contains two panes of six stamps each, and the 49c booklet, four panes, with interleaving wax sheets.

The six-stamp panes placed sideways with the top to the left, are stapled at the left between colored covers, 79x43mm, bearing on the front a double lined circle (on an engine turned device) lettered "Canal Zone—Postal System", and to the right, nine lines of printed matter, viz., "The Panama Canal (curved)—25c (on a shield)—This book contains—Twelve—Two-Cent—Canal Zone—Postage Stamps—Price—Twenty-five Cents." The inside and back covers contain postal information.

The 25c booklet cover is buff, and the 49c cover pink. The letter press is in red.

One set of four plates (of 360 subjects) was made up—115457, 115458, 115459, 115460.

Canal Zone on United States

In Scott's catalogue (1929) the statement is made that type i. overprint (flat "A") is known on all values except the 3c, 17c and 20c. This is not correct, as the ½c and 1½c (400,000 of each printed) issued April 15, 1925, exist only with the flat "A" overprint.

The 14c (50,000) in the shipment of Sept. 26, 1927, were doubtless sharp "A" overprinted, but I have not yet seen this variety.

The 50c (50,000) sent out during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, and probably partially, if not all sharp "A" overprinted, was issued about July, 1928, as it was sent me by the Philatelic Agency, on July 21st.

According to the latest list of stamps available at the Philatelic Agency, Balboa Heights, the ½c, 2c and 10c from flat plates, have exhausted, although the 2c and 10c are still to be had in rotary form.

Bridgeport, Ct.

—Fourteen New Members Admitted at Annual Meeting, Jan. 3.

By R. S. FOSTER.

At the January 3 meeting of the Bridgeport Philatelic Club the following officers were elected for the year of 1929:—Pres., F. J. Wieler; Vice-Pres., Geo. Gordon; Sec. and Treas., R. S. Foster; Vice-Pres. in charge of Juniors, Gordon Taylor; Trustees, Messrs. Steinkamp and Loveland.

Fourteen new members were admitted, and the Club is showing the healthiest condition since its inception in 1909, and the outlook for the present year is fine.

The report of the Exhibition Committee in connection with the stamp exhibit held at the Public Library in December was voted a big success. The Library wished us to hold it over for another week, but it was decided that the four days in which it was open would be enough. It was voted to make this exhibit an annual affair. Any communications may be addressed to R. S. Foster, 1604 Laurel Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Kotab

—Philatelic Linotype Operator Receives Mail from Byrd.

("Plain Dealer"—C. E. Horn.)

William J. Kotab, 12706 Melgrave Avenue, S. W., is a linotype operator. He is a quiet and unassuming young man, and to look at him you might not suspect that he receives letters from Commander Richard E. Byrd, but the fact remains that he does.

He also receives letters from Capt. Alton U. Parker, pilot with the Byrd expedition to the Antarctic. At Parker's request he is clipping all the stories about the expedition that appear in the Plain Dealer, and mailing them to Parker's wife.

Kotab is an inveterate stamp collector and all this correspondence improves his collection. One cover he is particularly fond of (stamp collectors never call envelopes envelopes; they always call them covers), was autographed by Commander Byrd and mailed at sea when the bark C. A. Larsen passed the Royal Mail steamer Maturka, just east of the international date line, Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The cover carried a 2-pence New Zealand stamp, which was yellow, and a 5-cent United States stamp, which was blue. The 5-cent stamp was put on so the letter would come to Cleveland by air mail after it reached San Francisco.

It passed through a cancellation machine in the San Francisco post-office at 2 p. m., Nov. 23. Two days later it was dropped in William Kotab's mail box. The letter, it developed, was from Capt. Parker.

A letter from Commander Byrd was mailed at Dunedin, New Zealand, Nov. 29. The postmark was City of New York, the base ship which is temporarily a branch United States post-office. On the back of the cover appears a cachet of the open Antarctic Sea with drifting icebergs and floes and a monoplane flying above them.

Beneath, on the rim of a brief map of the south polar cap, is printed "Byrd Antarctic Expedition." The letter arrived in Cleveland, Dec. 26.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith), Lexington, Mass.

AN ENVELOPE RARITY

Several years back, Congress changed the postal rates, which necessitated the issuing of a 1½c envelope in place of the 1c used extensively previous to this time. In order to meet the immediate requirements of the several post offices, and so that their large stocks of 1c envelopes on hand could be utilized, the Postmaster General authorized the overprinting of the 1c envelope—1½c. In doing this work, most of the envelopes on hand were used up and as a result, several varieties were issued in exceedingly small quantities, hence, are real rarities in their line. As the work of surcharging was discontinued some months back, prices on the several varieties have now become more or less stabilized.

In a collection recently purchased, there were quite a number of the scarcer varieties and I am in a position to offer them at exceptionally interesting prices. There is only one or two of each, so that an early order is advisable.

1½c on 2c green on white, issue of 1887, #2716-a—Catalog $30 .....$17.50
1½c on 1c buff—issue of 1907, #2722—Catalog $15 ..... 10.00
1½c on 2c on white—issue of 1916, #2731—Catalog $30 ..... 17.50
1½c on 2c on blue—issue of 1916, #2731-a—Catalog $50 ..... 25.00
1½c on 2c on buff—issue of 1916, #2732—Catalog $30 ..... 17.50
1½c on 1½c on white, #2732-a—Catalog $30 ..... 17.50
1½c on 1c blue on white, issue of 1887, #2732-b—Catalog $35 ..... 18.00

The above are in unused entire condition and as fine as can be had, as the collector retained these in wax envelopes, just as he had purchased them.

All of the commoner surcharged varieties are on hand and want lists are solicited from interested parties.

CONTINENTAL AIR-MAIL

The Collection of Air Mail in America has taken already such extent that prices are more or less stabilized, whereas on the Continent this part of Philately is still "terra incognita", so full of chances for those who catch the right moment. In a few years a cat. may also price the cover.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

New 5c Air Mail Envelope

It is officially announced that the new 5c air mail envelope will be placed on sale in Washington for the first time on Saturday, January 12th. It is expected, at the present writing, that only size 13 will be available. Later sizes 5 and 8 may be had by the collector. These are printed on white only, with the usual red and blue markings around the edges.

Molly Pitcher Variety

One who has handled a great number of postage stamps through the Post Office Department writes in regards to the oddly spaced "Molly Pitcher" varieties, "I did not see many of them, but there were some few." The same valued correspondent writes that it also occurred in the case of the 2c Hawaiian Island overprint.

2c White Plains Stamp

The philatelic fraternity has always been much interested in the 2c White Plains stamp, which was issued at the time of the International Philatelic Exhibition in New York, and was placed on sale for the first time at the Exhibition, where the stamps were being printed. The illustration shown on the stamp is from a painting by a local White Plains artist, Mr. Edmund F. Ward, who attended the Exhibition, and became much interested in stamps.

The collector will learn with pleasure that a collection is now being taken up in White Plains among the school children to start a fund in order that this picture shown on the stamp of the Alexander Hamilton Battery may be reproduced in bronze for the new post office shortly to be erected in this small, enterprising New York town. Dr. Jason Samuel Parker is entitled to a great amount of credit for putting this town upon the philatelic map through the issue of this special commemorative stamp.

George Rogers Clark Variety

The sketch for the George Rogers Clark Campaign variety announced in this column a few weeks back has been approved, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is now working upon the die. It is hoped and expected that the larger portion of the thirty-five million ordered will be available for distribution immediately after the stamp goes on sale at Vincennes. This will be the last new variety issued by the Coolidge Administration, and it is to be hoped that if a new Postmaster General is appointed that he will be one favorably inclined to the philatelic fraternity. Stamp Collectors would be exceedingly pleased to find this honor conferred upon the present Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, and if Mr. New is not re-appointed, it would not be surprising to see such an appointment made. Stranger things have happened, and it is doubtful if a better equipped man is available to the new administration, for Mr. Glover is thoroughly familiar with all activities of the Post Office Department.

Revenues

Mr. J. W. Wilson informs us that he has recently inspected five sheets of the 1c carmine-rose, overprinted "Cigtte. Tubes", in which one stamp on each sheet in the same position is without the period. We do not recall this variety having been noted heretofore.

Canal Zone

Mr. R. S. Carter reports that there is a possibility of a new overprinted 25c Canal Zone stamp being issued in connection with the establishment of the air mail service with this country, whereby a fee of twenty-five cents per ½ ounce is charged.

Mr. Carter also sends a clipping from the Panama-American of December 20, 1928, where a great objection is made by the Postmaster General of Panama, because of the fact that much of the mail for Panama, which is a separate and independent country, is designated as the Canal Zone. In other words, letters arrive addressed to Balboa, Panama, U. S. A., and mail meant for Panama is addressed to Panama, Canal Zone. Further letters are sent to Colon, Canal Zone, instead of Colon, Panama. These incorrect inscriptions have aroused the ire of the Director of Mail, and he announced that in the future all such mail will be returned to the country of origin.

Complaint is further made that large users of international mail in Panama post their communications from the Canal Zone Office. This, it is stated, is due to the fact that the Panama postal service is not efficient, and it is thoug that efforts will be made to change the conditions.

Philippine Island Air Mail

Through the courtesy of Mr. Walt Bruggman we are furnished with photographic copy of a communicati from the Acting Director of Po wherein he certifies that 228,700 of t recently overprinted "L. O. F." air m stamps were surcharged and distribute consisting of the following quantities each denomination:

Quantity	Denomination
101,200	2c
50,500	4c
12,000	6c
10,000	8c
10,000	10c

9,000	16c
8,000	20c
7,000	26c
7,000	30c
6,000	1 peso

These, we are told, were overprint and placed on sale at Manila on Nove ber 9, 1928, to commemorate the arrival the Philippines on this same date of fo British flying boats from Singapore their London-Orient Flight. The A ing Director also certifies that as so as the overprinting was completed at Government Bureau of Printing, plates for surcharging were destroyed entirely sold out about November 15th, at least in Vienna.

The reason is that only 100,000 sets were printed, and not 500,000, as you had announced. Your informant was wrong also in the date of issue, this being November 5th and not 12th. As early as November 8th this set could no more be obtained at the philatelists' counter of the Vienna G.P.O.; they had sold more than 27,000 sets in two days; the rest had been distributed to the post offices of Vienna and some provincial towns, where the stamps are probably sold out.—Stamp Collecting.

Dominican Republic.—We are indebted to Hermann Focke for the following information:—

"I may state that the entire set of the new issue with the ruins of Columbus' home at Santo Domingo is now at hand, consisting of the values of ½c lilac, 1c green, 2c carmine, 5c dark blue, 10c light ultramarine, 20c scarlet, 50c dark green and 1 Peso orange-yellow. The 2c is enclosed for your inspection."

Ecuador.—Provisionals. — To commemorate National Assembly. Commemoratives of 1920 overprinted "Asamblea Ncnal, 1928" (two lines), and surcharged with new value. 2c on 5c blue, 10c on 2c on 7c brown, 20c on 8c green. Messrs. Yvert & Tellier, who report these, also notify us of the arrival of two curious hybrids, viz.:—Semi-official air stamps of Colombia (Nos. 57 and 58 of Champion's Special Air Mail catalogue) overprinted "Provisional" diagonally, "Ecuador" at top, and value at foot. 1 sucre on 20c grey, 1½ sucre on 30c blue.—Stamp Collecting.

Holland. — In September-October five airplanes left this country for the Dutch Indies at intervals of one week, all of them carrying mail. Four remained in the Indies, and the fifth returned with mail. In the early part of December, a sixth airplane left Amsterdam with Christmas mail, and is expected back early in January. These are trial flights and forerunners of a regular airmail service between Holland and her Asiatic colonies.—OTTO WEISMANN.

Italy.—Copies of the 15c claret, Pneumatic Post stamp has been shown us by Whitfield King & Co.

Jamaica.—New design and new value now in preparation.—It has just come to our knowledge that an order has been dispatched to the Crown Agents for the new design 1d and 1½d Jamaica stamps. It is understood that these will be of similar portrait design to the Cayman Islands present issue; we do not know what the border design is to be.

We also understand that an entirely new denomination has been ordered, viz., 9d. It is not clear what rate this stamp is meant to cover. The double parcel rate is 8d, and it is difficult to understand why, from a postal standpoint, a 9d value is being introduced into the series.

It is possible, however, that the Post Office authorities have in view the use this stamp will be on telegrams, the minimum rate for which is 9d. Incidentally the postally used specimen should be scarce, as there will be little or no use for it as a postage stamp.—Stamp Collecting.

Mauritius.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent for chronicle the 10R, King George type, Die 11. The stamp is script watermark, emerald paper all through, chalky surface. The colors are green and carmine.

Paraguay.—Whitfield King & Co. submit for chronicle the 10 pesos, Hayes Jubilee Commemorative stamp. It is of oblong format, and at the top bears the inscription "1878 Republica del Paraguay 1928." Beneath at the left is a portrait of our late President Rutherford Girchard Hayes, while on the other side is the view of several buildings within a frame. The figures of value are in each lower corner with "Cincuentenario Del Laudo Arbitral Villa Occidental," in two lines between. The color of the stamp is sepia. Our correspondent also informs us that he has received the same value in red-brown as well.

Portugal.—Two new provisionals have been received from R. Roberts. They are the 1E.20c, yellow-green, and 1E.20c, buff, both having been surcharged "96 C." in black.

San Marino.—The following Parcel Post stamps have been received from R.

Austria

—The Austrian Philatelic Agency a Very Limited One.

By A. WAGNER.

I am a collector of mint Austrian stamps and was, therefore, glad to note by No. 1976, page 662, of the WEEKLY that a Philatelic Agency is also being run by the Postal Administration of the Austrian Republic. In reply to a letter asking for a list of the stamps on sale at present, and for general information, I received the enclosed postal from the "Sales Office of Postage Stamps for Stamp Collectors and Dealers, Vienna I," which has been a grievous disappointment to me. The card reads as follows:

"VIENNA, 12-13-1928.

With reference to your enquiry relative to Austrian postage stamps, you are hereby informed that a list of the stamps obtainable at the windows does not exist, as only the current stamps in the schilling-and groschen-currency are being sold at the windows. Austrian stamps are supplied neither to Germany, nor to any other foreign countries."

Perhaps you may think it advisable to publish the above in the WEEKLY with a view to save American collectors of mint Austrian postage stamps unnecessary trouble and unpleasantness.

PHILATELIC KNOWLEDGE? PHILATELIC RESEARCH?

From the little experience we have had in connection with philatelic exhibitions held in New Zealand, we have come to the conclusion that a fixed table of marks to be allotted for the various classes is not satisfactory. There are so many classes and so many branches and by-ways in philately that it is quite impossible to give a fair judgment by a scale of marks as set by most of the controlling bodies.

The marks which are to be allotted by the judges at the Melbourne exhibition are practically the same as have been set for previous exhibitions in Australia and New Zealand; and although they have, in the past, given general satisfaction, we are of the opinion that serious consideration should be given to the question in the near future. The clause which seems to open up a field for controversy is that which provides for a certain number of marks for "Philatelic Knowledge and Research." What is Philatelic Knowledge and Research? Are we to understand that Philatelic Knowledge is Philatelic Research, or that Philatelic Research is Philatelic Knowledge? Personally we consider that Philatelic Knowledge is quite different from Philatelic Research, although Philatelic Research must necessarily prove that the student has obtained knowledge whilst conducting his research.

If we take as an example, a collection of modern British Colonial stamps which have been copiously annotated by the aid of a catalogue, we find that the collector has displayed a very fair knowledge of his stamps. But this knowledge has not been gained by his own undivided effort of research. He has merely used his catalogue to ascertain practically all there is to be known about these issues. And if he has taken the trouble to memorise much of the knowledge obtained from the catalogue, it can be safely said that he has a very fair general knowledge of the stamps in question. And in recognition thereof, the collection receives full marks for "Philatelic Knowledge and Research" displayed by this collector.

But what of the collector who displays a collection of stamps which offers a wider field for personal philatelic research than does a collection of modern Colonials? The collector of this group has used his own endeavours to probe into the intricacies of his subject, and his collection proves that he has expended much more time and personal effort than has his competitor. Why then should both exhibitions be awarded an equal number of marks?

It seems, therefore, that the whole question should be reviewed, and that marks for philatelic knowledge should be made quite separate from those for philatelic research. Specialized collections of single issues or groups which show individual effort, are surely deserving of a greater number of marks than are those which do not require the same study and research, and the knowledge of which are merely obtained from catalogues and handbooks dealing with the stamps exhibited.—New Zealand Stamp Collector.

PAPUA

(BRITISH NEW GUINEA)

By HERMANN FOCKE.

CONSIDERING that this once so popular country has ceased to be in the philatelic lime-light for over ten years, and no novelties have appeared since 1925, when two values, those of 1½d and 10/- were added to the current issue, it is perhaps difficult to re-awaken the interest in its many varieties which formerly served to give excitement to a good many collectors. Still, being one of—perhaps—the few who have kept faith with these prodigies of by-gone days, I once more want to dwell upon a certain issue, regarding which very little has been said, and perhaps less is known about, nor particular interest shown in aside from the specialist.

We know from the catalogues that the first issue, inscribed British New Guinea, existed on papers of various thickness, and with the rosette watermark in horizontal and vertical position, the rarer varieties being those on thin paper. In perusing the catalogue of Stanley Gibbons, which mentions all of the known varieties, it will be seen that there are two values (the ½d and 2½d) given on thin paper with horizontal wmk., to which I may add the 6d in my collection, and the entire series of eight values on the same paper with vertical wmk., plus a shade variety of the 2½d of both; in my opinion the thin paper with vertical wmk. was the normal way in which this late issue was printed, and the three values with horizontal wmk. may be regarded an accident, or error, if one wants to call them such, and the much higher prices quoted for them may prove my contention.

It will be seen furthermore that Stanley Gibbons gives prices also for the used stamps of all but the three highest values, i.e.: the 6d, 1/- and 2/6, and it is here, where the "rub" comes in, and my story begins.

It is well known, that in 1906, when the name of the Territory was changed to Papua, the remainders of the British New Guinea stamps, which were available in the Colony, were surcharged with what is commonly known as the large, or heavy-faced, overprint, and that only the three lowest values, the ½d, 1d and 2d, are recorded with this overprint on thin paper, which would indicate that they were the only ones, ever sent out to do actual postal duty, altho it was once rumored that also the 4d and 6d, and even the 2/6 values existed with the overprint, but I have never seen them and have my earnest doubts in their having reached the Colony. It would, therefore, appear that none but the three low values should exist postally used, and still we find some of the others recorded, priced highly, for certain, but priced they are, thus they must exist in this condition, but how did they originate?

Having begun to specialize in these stamps around 1905, when the stamps of Br. N. G. were still in issue, and being the lucky owner of genuinely used copies of the 2½d, 4d, 6d, yea and even the 2/6 value, I may be permitted now to tell the story of how I secured these, in my opinion, very great rarities. Some time in 1906 there came to me a price list of a Canadian dealer, specializing in British Colonials, who quoted the entire set of Br. N. G. stamps at very attractive prices, including the 2/6 for which he asked 80c each, and in a mood of utter recklessness I invested in a pair of each value, and lo and behold, when I received them, I noticed a certain difference of their appearance from those already in my possession, though I did not notice then that they were on a thinner paper, as later on they proved to be, when more became known of this variety.

Having always had a preference for postally used stamps, I took one value each, put them on various covers, and these I sent out to the different post offices, which were known to me at the time, to have them returned in the regular way. All of them came back in due course, safe, the sadness of it, the 1/- value which, if well I remember, I had sent to Daru; the 6d value was the first with postmark Samarai, July 3, 1906; the 2½d from Port Moresby, dated Aug. 26, 1906, the 4d (2 of them, as I had secured 3 copies) from Woodlarks, one postmarked with the familiar bars, and the other, together with a 1d cancelled across the pair "WOODLARKS—B. N. G." under the word "REGISTERED," a very rare cancellation to appear on a stamp proper, and finally the 2/6 value from Port Moresby, with date of Nov. 10, 1906, said to be the last day on which

On page 54 will be found a very complete list of Canadian issues at present in stock. We list a great many of these in unused blocks of four as well as unused singles as we find an unusually large number of collectors are taking an interest in Canadian stamps in block form. Our supply of unused blocks, however, is very limited on most of the earlier issues. On many of the King George issues from $104 to $155, we can supply plate blocks of six or 8 at a very small additional cost and will be glad to quote on items in stock.

We can also supply paste-up strips of the coil stamps in most instances.

RARE UNITED STATES STAMPS

We have a few unusual United States items in stock at present such as the 1c Franklin Carrier, fine used copy, the 15c 1869 invert, a copy of beautiful appearance though not absolutely perfect, the 10c 1908 coil in superb pair and also in a line pair, superb blocks of the 50c and $1.00 1916, no watermark, perf. 10, also a very fine used copy of the 3c Orangeburg coil $389.

We should be very glad to quote prices or send on approval any of these items to interested parties.

If there is any more popular stamp in the world—and one that can approach it in the possibilities of specialization—than this first three cent issue of United States, I'd like to know it.

EUROPE'S RAREST STAMP

By K. A. WALLQUIST.

The cut shown here is a photograph of the original cancellation on the now famous Swedish error of the 3 skilling yellow, instead of green, of the 1855 issue. Of the four great rarities of Europe this has been called the rarest, as only one copy is known to be in existence. It was bought recently by Mr. John Ramberg of Gothenberg, Sweden, at a price a little over ten thousand dollars. A value of $16,000 has been placed on this stamp by experts. It was discovered in 1885 by a fourteen-year-old schoolboy, now Colonel G. W. Bachman of Boras, Sweden, who sold it to the Swedish stamp dealer, H. Lichtenstein in Stockholm. In 1894 it was bought for an unknown price by a dealer, Friedl, in Austria, and later by Count von Ferrari in Paris. At the auction in Paris, 1922, of the Ferrari collections, it was bid in by Baron Leijonhupred of London, for 32,500 gold francs, who later sold it for 30,000 Swedish crowns to Mr. C. A. Tamm, Stockholm, Sweden, who in turn disposed of it.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

We have received from the J. M. Bartels Co. their catalog of "Envelopes of the United States." The price of the book is 25c and can be obtained from the firm at 116 Nassau Street. As might be expected this catalog is a marvel of completeness and anyone at all interested in envelopes should procure a copy. The Bartels firm has also issued a price list of U. S. stamps, which may be had for the asking.

THE HOUSE IN ORDER

By CHARLES L. HALL.

It has been the writer's personal observation, in talking with, and personally visiting a number of collectors and small dealers in various parts of the country and in all walks of life, that we all have on hand, too many accumulations and odd lots of stamps and not enough completed collections and properly arranged stocks. We really are, most of us, swamped with stamps, thus causing a certain stagnation in our collecting and dealing activities because we have reached the point where we have over-bought, and further buying is retarded because we do not know what we have in stock and we are always putting off the time when we should get everything in first class shape. Collectors should have more collections and less duplicates.

It is perfectly all right to form collections in several branches of our hobby, but before the winter season sets in, in full blast, we should resolve, I believe, to get down to business and properly arrange every single last stamp, cover, postmark and whatnot that we have in our collection. If we have enough duplicates to make a second collection, of any kind, no matter how small it is, it should be neatly mounted and offered for sale or exchange to our friends. A collector who is only mildly interested in stamps because he has not the time to go more fully into the work, will be pleased to buy such duplicates as are made into collections, mounted in blank albums so that he can be proud to show them to his friends or look over them himself of a winter evening. There are thousands of business men who were collectors as boys, who would be glad to purchase just such material.

If we will all put a little study and thought into this problem, we can bring more real collectors into the fold. Collectors have in the aggregate, a large amount of money to spend for worth while, artistically made collections. A small classified ad in the stamp magazines or in the Sunday newspapers of the large cities near you, may surprise you with the number of inquiries from people who are just lukewarm collectors, but with plenty of money to invest. Action along this line will pave the way to cleaning up all surplus, especially with collectors who are not dealers, and will enable them to buy more stamps that they really need and can put into their collection. There are several well-organized exchange circuits, both in and out of the large stamp societies, as well as the sales departments, and right here we come to the problem of not having the time to properly arrange our duplicates and so dispose of them. What the stamp collecting world needs today, is a large number of "secretaries" who can take care of such work. The pay would necessarily be small, sometimes not more than $5.00 per week. This work could be undertaken by people who are "shut in" or confined and who know something about stamps. In large cities as many as a dozen people could be kept

2157 Central Av., Cincinnati, Ohio

Every collector has some part or all of his collection which he knows he will never sell and that will be passed on to others when he is called by The Great Collector. Of what use is a bunch of odd lots and accumulations? If we are going to leave an inheritance of stamps, for goodness sake, let us get it in shape so that our heirs will be proud to keep our stamps intact and to show them for years afterward. And, if the time should come when they should be forced to dispose, our stamps will most certainly bring a great deal more if they are properly arranged and written up. So let us resolve to get a good supply of blank albums, stock books and stock cards, and get the stuff out of the envelopes and cigar boxes, get that stuff "on paper" washed and ironed. Show our friends that there is something to stamp collecting; in fact, a great deal more than many of us really suppose. Let us be collectors and not accumulators. Let us get out of the stagnation period and the "Great Swamp" of duplicates and get into the well kept, healthy country of Philately.

ROUND-ABOUT—

THE Southern Tier Stamp Society of New York State, Kenneth B. Levegood, Elmira, N. Y., is sending out interesting notices of meetings. The new president is Mr. Frank Wright of Elmira.

GILL'S STAMP GOSSIP, issued biweekly from Portland, Oregon, is edited by Mr. John C. Adams of that city. It is mimeographed, and the December 15, 1928 issue of six pages contains an article on the Colombian Airmail Service, by Mr. Adams, among other readable material.

GARFIELD-PERRY GOSSIP, Cleveland, is a mimeographed double page sheet that is devoted to society notes and information of particular interest to members of this alert and active organization.

RECENTLY, the Cleveland Plain Dealer contained a brightly written stamp story that was based on the sale at auction of Mr. W. W. MacLaren's stamps at New York on Jan. 10, 1929. Mr. MacLaren provided good copy and his friends should know that he has already started on a new collection, which he expects to have in shape for exhibition in two years.

MR. CHAS. H. FLETCHER, Newburgh, N. Y., wants to know which is the best container for covers. "What is the best way to keep them in good order," he asks, and having nothing of original value to suggest, we refer the question to readers. The cover albums sometimes used are huge affairs, some of which are imported from Germany.

THE annual meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society is slated for January 15th, and at the meeting of February 5th, an auction sale will be held. Arrangements probably will be made whereby the junior members may get together on Saturday afternoons once or oftener during the month.

MR. W. G. ROBB, Sterling, Ill., corrects the name of the "Dictionaire de Bureaux de Poste du Monde," the list of the world's post offices, as given in the WEEKLY some time ago. We omitted "du Monde" from the title, through an oversight.

BRITISH EMPIRE NEW ISSUE SERVICE at 12½% Over Face—PROSPECTUS FREE.

No New Issue Service has as yet been able to supply each and every stamp issued. Claims to such perfection would be ridiculous, and any business-like service is run on the representation that stamps as received will be distributed. So reads my contract—and there is no catch to it!

For instance, the recent Falkland Is. Provisional was not distributed at N. I. S. rates by anybody,—in fact, very few dealers have to date even seen a copy of the stamp

My British Empire New Issue Service holds the unique distinction of having offered its subscribers the opportunity of acquiring this stamp—not at the 12½% rate, to be sure!—but yet at a price which already shows a very handsome profit.

To state that my New Issue Service is the premier one is, therefore, hardly more than a very modest statement. Its list of subscribers sounds like a "Who's Who" of collectors.

U. S. COVERS OF W. W. MacLAREN BRING STOCK PRICES AT AUCTION

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On January 10, 1929, the W. W. MacLaren collection, consisting mainly of early United States covers with unusual cancellations, was sold by George B. Sloane at the Collectors Club. This was one of the choicest lots of early covers that has been dispersed at auction in recent months, and some of the unusual prices are well worthy of note.

The owner of this collection spent upward of eight or nine years in systematically searching for stamps in old homes, courts, law offices and the like throughout the country, and during this time retained for his own collection the choicest pieces that came to hand. At the recent sale, these were spread to the four winds.

The 3-cent 1851 on a temperance cover from Concord, N. H., showing a female figure brought $52.00, while another showing an illustration covering the entire envelope, depicting scenes of drunkenness, etc., sold at $13.50. Fine campaign covers brought prices ranging from $16.00 to $83.00, depending upon condition, the latter price being paid for one showing a portrait of Abraham Lincoln with the inscription "The cold water candidate."

Covers showing the 3c 1857 carried through the lines from the Confederate States north and bearing the cancellations of the Adams Express Company at Louisville, brought $120.00, $210.00, and $210.00 respectively for three items, the higher price being paid for unusually choice copies.

A Central Overland California and Pikes Peak Express showing an error in cancellation sold at $115.00. Railroads on the early issues brought anywheres from $1.20 up to $70.00, the latter amount being paid for a 5c 1847 with Northern Railroad postmark.

Cracked plate covers on the 3c 1851 brought from $52.50 to $85.00, and perforated copies of the same stamp sold from $42.00 to $102.50, the latter price covering a very choice cover with a greenish-blue postmark.

In the general issues, where cancellations were not the main consideration, a 10c 1847 used from Canada showing a crease brought $390.00.

The record price of the sale was paid for a 10c 1847 split showing enormous sheet margins at the right. This was bid up to $1,200.00, which is believed to be more than a similar copy will bring for some little time to come.

Throughout the sale, odd cancellations brought prices that could not have possibly been estimated before the sale, for some items brought $2.00 or $3.00, while others of not much more importance, such as a shield on the 3c 1861 brought $52.00. Masonic cancellations throughout were high.

One of the most important plate positions of the 3c 1851 namely, the co showing the bust and medallion, re position 74R6, on a very neat cov reached $85.00.

Stamps off cover, when describ as superb, brought anywheres from thr quarters to double catalogue or more.

Just as soon as, however, an imp fection was noted, the price was mate ally lowered. As an illustration, a spl did copy of the 1869 with inver center, slightly damaged, brought $360.00, whereas a copy of the 24-cent similar condition where an attempt h been made to clean the cancellati brought but $350.00.

PURCHASE OF THE GREAT COLLECTION OF

Afghanistan

FORMED BY THE LATE
SIR DAVID MASSON

This famous collection was formed by Sir David during 20 years' residence in Central India and is one of the finest lots of these interesting and rare stamps ever gotten together. The collection is up to 1907 and is remarkably complete in uncut and reconstructed sheets, in the finest obtainable condition.

The catalogue value of the collection is about $30,000.00 and I shall be pleased to send selections on approval.

As I bought this collection on unusually good terms I am pricing it all very low and can offer great bargains in stamps that are seldom in the market. [8

A Study in Shades from Stamps of Various Countries

By HERMANN FOCKE.

The new 1½d stamp issued recen for this Colony has been described brown, a convenient way of getting aw from the question of the exact sha but if one would put side by side all stamps catalogued as brown, one wo have a fine variety of shades, and wo not know which of them applies to t little 1½d stamp.

To say the truth there is no stamp the British Colonies of recent issu which if laid next to this newcom would match its color exactly, for stance, the 1½d Malta, also brown, entirely different, and the 1/- of Grena although similar, is called orange-bro and is also of a different hue.

There are three stamps of almost same shade, that I can think of for present to compare with, the 60 Pfg. Germany, 1924, Scott's No. 337, cal red-brown, the 6 cent Holland, 1925 1927, Scott's Nos. 175 and 186, cal orange-brown, and perhaps the 50 c values of Dutch Colonies, issues 190 called under Curacao and Dutch In red-brown, and under Surinam (No. lake-brown. So there you are! In opinion the best description for the 1½d V. I. would be Cinnamon.

As had to be expected, with the appearance of the 1½d in rose-red, rather carmine-red, and return of penny postage, the 1d violet of V. I. 1d to change its dress also, but like a g it did not don its old dress of 1922, cal rose-red, but bought a brand new one a more vivid color of deep carm More work for the shade specialist.

The 1½d red has been mentioned a coming rarity, but I think that the violet will be the better of the tw postally used.

Sevard's Twinkles

The chap who adheres his stamps to tters with a wire paper fastener rings e bell once on the Baumes Law as far we are concerned. Having started thing, he has nothing to finish.

Mr. H. M. Southgate, Chevrolet hase, Maryland, sends us a vial of riginal gum he has collected off of tamps. This method is keenly adised for those who collect stamps and um separately. In case a stamp is ot O. G., one can point to the phial. h! Gee!

We have used the term 1-2-3 in conction with various townmarks. In the niversal machines, the inner legends of e townmark show in the first line, the onth and day, in the second line, the arest hour or half-hour of the time of ncelling, and in the third line, the year te. This pattern conventional die thus ndardizes the placing of these lines as 2-3. One would believe that the setting these types would be an easy matter, t we have found certain cities which ntinually run the hour first, or perhaps e year date. Minneapolis and Aurora, inois, both run their towns non-standd, as well as Erie, Penna. Of course, ere are hosts of other towns which, w and then, put in the months upside wn, and even invert the entire townrk. In general, however, one finds e exceptions in the Universal machines ly. The Internationals, Americans, lumbians, usually are the same. Anyy, that's the idea of the 1-2-3.

As the New Year advances, slogan ncels are coming along mostly with the form Correspondents and Air Mail ves Time boxes. About February first, icago will tell us it's time to Let's . The Register or Insure and Adess Your Mail slogans are getting ver and fewer. The slogan fans are sy waiting for this year's dies, and te a few cities and dies are missing far. The flu epidemic got a number the sick ones.

The precancel envelope one reads so ch of, is just another effect of the ½ P. L. and R. In some localities, use of a one cent precancel stamp was mitted only when the regulation notice s printed above the stamp. The precel envelope solved this difficulty, and course, evoked a necessary issue. The cancel envelope is not a fad, nor a latelic creation, but rather a help to ter mailing, to better business, to bet prosperity.

NOTHING SURPRISES US ANY MORE

Some time last May, the gifted Campbells of Athens, Pennsylvania, who are among our star contributors, sent us a string of clever stanzas, telling of the woes of "The Stamp Collector's Wife," which was received with a chorus of chuckles from our discerning readers when it was published. A period of over six months elapses between the last sentence and the next one. The Philatelic Magazine of London copied the poetry, after reducing it to the prose form, copyrighted by Walt Mason; and when we espied this stroke of enterprise, we thought that we would do a little reprinting with a word of explanation. Sad to say, the "explanation" became detached from the clipping, and on Page 32 of the issue of January 14, 1929, the Campbell poem appears credited to the Philatelic Magazine. Here is something that appeared originally in the WEEKLY credited to a contemporary, that incidentally seems to have forgotten to name our publication when it printed our piece! But nothing surprises us any more.

MILITANT RELIGION ON STAMPS

PARADOX OF CHRISTIANITY AS WAR INSPIRATION REVEALED BY STUDY

By KERMET E. PARKER.

Militant Christianity—that strange, paradoxical side of the religion founded by one of the mildest and most peaceful beings who ever lived—proclaims its hybrid self from the faces of several postage stamps issued by the government of those lands which were torn by the medieval wars between Christians and pagans, and which still build their legends around national heroes chosen from the knights of that time.

The greatest conflicts of the time were the Crusades, and the deeds of the armies which struggled across Europe to combat the Moslem in the Holy Land live on, on postage stamps, as well as in history and fable. Possibly the most lasting concrete result of the First Crusade was the organization of the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem—a sedate body of nobles which has endured to the present day. This order was a very aristocratic and strict one, and its members for centuries waged war against the Mohammedans.

Knights Ruled Two Islands

In 1309 the Knights Hospitallers conquered the Island of Rhodes, which they held for more than two centuries against the assaults of the Moslem armies. At last, however, they were forced out under an honorable capitulation in 1522. They then retired to Malta and made their headquarters on that island until 1798, when Napoleon secured their surrender. Since that time the order has not been a land-holding organization, but it still exists and wields great power. Its members have always been drawn from the nobility, and at one time Paul, the "mad czar" of Russia, was its grand master. Its long history is recalled by Maltese stamps bearing the famed Maltese cross, the symbol of the order.

Richard the Lion-Hearted, probably the most famous of all the Crusaders, is pictured on a stamp which was issued by Cyprus last year to commemorate the semi-centennial of British domination. The story of Richard's campaigns against Saladin, his traitorous imprisonment in Germany, his dramatic return to the England of Robin Hood's day, and his eventual death while besieging a feudal baron is too well known to bear repetition at length. The Cypriote stamp shows a heroic statue of him on horseback.

Mountaineer Defied Turks

A hero of a different sort was Skanderbeg, the great national figure of Albania. Born George Castriota early in the 15th century, he was taken by the Turks as a hostage and was trained in the Turkish army, where he took the name of Iskander Bey. But all the while he remembered his nativity, and in 1443 he proclaimed himself a Christian and fled back to his Albanian mountains, where he defied the Turks in 13 campaigns before his death. Skanderbeg is considered to have been an invaluable aid to Christianity, having engaged troops which otherwise might have been sent against the harried Christian armies on other fronts. Several Albanian stamp issues show the bearded features of this unusual character.

Sobieski Saved Europe

The man who finally laid the specter of Turkish conquest has also found his place on a postage stamp. He was John Sobieski, King John III of Poland. He had won many victories over the Turks, and these had brought him election as king in 1673. In 1683 the Turks reached Vienna and laid siege to the great city, this being the high water mark of their invasion of Europe. And, when the tide of the continent hung in the balance it was Sobieski who hastened down from Warsaw and led the cavalry charge which routed the Turks, stopping their advance forever, and beginning the movement which led gradually to the near elimination of Turkey from the map of Europe. Poland has fittingly honored him by placing a picture of him astride a rearing charger, on one of its stamps.

Several orders of knights who are not so well known as those who battled in the Near East existed in the Middle Ages along the Baltic coast. These

ATE NO. VARIETIES, 5c AIR MAIL

By HENRY C. DEWITT, JR.

The recent five-cent air mail stamp be-printed in two colors leads philatets to hope to find an inverted center as urred in the twenty-four cent stamp 1918.

The two plate numbers and the word
OP" lead us to collect plate number cks of six, eight or ten. These come y in tops, but there is a right and a t pane. The left pane having a red te number, a blue plate number, and word "TOP" in red; the right pane ring the word "TOP" in blue, a blue te number and a red plate number.
e numbers on the right pane being ceded by the letter "F", signifying shed.

A very interesting error occurs on e No. 19597. This plate being of the ter (blue) it should have the word OP" so that it will print on the right
e. The word is, however, on the left e, and prints over the red "TOP" on plate used for the border, so that the it pane does not have the word OP", and the left pane carries it e, the red and blue printing being osed one upon the other.

nother error occurs on plate No.
05 on which the "F" appears with the le plate number.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

The most important development this week has been the news of Col. Lindbergh's request to be allowed to pilot the plane that will make the First Flight from Miami to Cristobal, FAM No. 5, on February 4th. As the newspapers throughout the country carried the news in headlines, there is sure to be a heavy mail carried on the First Trip, notwithstanding the high rate of 25c per half ounce.

Another important announcement comes from the Canadian Post Office in Ottawa. Another series of special flights are to occur beginning January 28th, the terminals being Ottawa and Halifax, N. S. The first route will embrace Ottawa, Montreal and St. John, N. B., and the second will connect St. John with Halifax, N. S. The former will operate semi-weekly and the latter daily except Sunday. Planes will leave Ottawa at 5.45 A. M., Montreal at 7 A. M., arriving at St. John at 12 noon. Direct connection will be effected with the Halifax plane. The return plane to Ottawa leaves St. John at 12 noon, arriving in Ottawa the same evening. No mail will be carried between Ottawa and Montreal for delivery in these two cities. Special cachets will be used at all the above points and the rate is 5c for the first ounce and 10c for each succeeding ounce or fraction. Special delivery and registered service will be available. It is intended that the two routes will operate for a period of three weeks.

The new 5c Air Mail envelope made its initial bow on January 12th, and we can't say that it makes much of a hit with collectors seen in the last 24 hours. In fact, the comments were far from complimentary. Personally, I believe the envelope looks fairly well, but wish the Department would cut down the size of the red and blue "wedges."

Covers from the Northbound flight of FAM No. 6 indicate that a stop was made at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, although this point was not included in the official schedule. My covers, placed with the Postmaster prior to official publication of the schedule, bear the familiar fancy circle enclosing a crude drawing of an airplane and the word "AVION." In addition, there is a double-lined semi-circle carrying the two words "PREMIER VOL". Covers are cancelled January 9th. The San Juan cachet is an outline map of the route and includes a tri-motored plane flying West. The wording—"First Flight —Airmail From—San Juan—International F. A. M. No. 6." Covers are cancelled at 7 A. M., January 9th. The cachet used at Santo Domingo consisted of a large oblong, divided into thirds by a vertical line. On the left side of the line "Correo Aereo" with a small plane dividing the two words—to the right—"de Santo Domingo A * Port-au-Prince * San Juan, Pto Roco * Santiago de Cuba." The date stamp reads January 9th, 1929, no time. Covers from Havana to the United States have not been received up to time this note was written.

Billy Burr sends in a clipping from the Los Angeles Times which gives a reduced size cut of a cover dropped from the Question Mark while in flight over the Imperial Valley. The cover bears a 2c ICA stamp, is postmarked "Imperial, Calif." and is addressed to one of the members of the Times staff. The stationery on which the letter was written bears a printed heading, "On board the Question Mark over Southern California, January—1929," indicating that it was intended the crew would drop mail as desired. We wonder if any collector secured a cover from this flight.

The Post Office personnel at Rome, N. Y., took good care of collectors' covers on the recent flight by "smacking" covers on the back with the big cachet in addition to the regular backstamp. The re-

EDITORIAL

ACTING at once on our plea to write to representatives at Washington to advocate an amendment to the tariff law that will allow the entry of postage stamps, used or unused, duty free, Mr. Henry A. Diamant, St. Louis, Mo., has had printed an ample number of slips, reading: "I am in favor of amending Paragraph 1671 of the Tariff Act of 1922, which comes under Schedule 15, Free List, to read as follows. Par. 1671. Stamps:—Postage or Revenue Stamps, Cancelled or Uncancelled and Government Stamped Envelopes or Post Cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon. Signed ..... Address ..... Town and State .....". He will supply the slips without charge to those who will interest themselves in circulating them. The sooner we get to work the better, and surely there is a will to labor to remove a restriction that sometimes or other is felt by almost every collector. Mr. Diamant's address is 210 N. Main St., St. Louis, Mo.

A LETTER from a reader, Mr. Harvey W. Dwight, Boston, deplores the fact that collectors are beguiled, he says, by U. S. issues to the extent that they give scant attention to other stamps, and he professes to see a danger sign in this monopoly of attention. Yes, if one's experience is limited to certain circles, one gets the idea that only U. S. are welcome, but if one is in a position to really mix with all kinds of collectors, one finds that while our stamps are very popular, they do not wholly eclipse other countries' issues. In this connection, it may be observed that at the banquet of the London Stamp Exhibition, held recently, a speaker "drew attention to the comparative lack of interest taken by British collectors in the stamps of their own country, which he hoped the Exhibition would remedy." Some years ago, if we remember correctly, British stamps occupied a position in the foreground in Great Britain, and it is likely that they will have their day again.

IN speaking of the recent London Stamp Exhibition, which was "a great success" according to the press notices, all praise is given to Mr. F. H. Vallancey and his associates who labored so manfully to achieve the happy results. While the exhibition space was limited, the display thoroughly exemplified the study of British and Irish stamps.

A CORRESPONDENT says that the current Canal Zone two-cent is to be surcharged twenty-five cents for use in paying the air mail rate "on the flight postponed to February 4th."

THE question involving approval selections that are sent unsolicited is included in the broader one applying to unordered goods that has been subjected to analytical inquiry by business bureaus in different places. We have received the following letter from Mr. Herbert S. Lucas, Chicago: "I read recently remarks in your column on unsolicited approval sheets which are the source of annoyance to collectors oftentimes, and which generally cause friction in the relations between the persons concerned. You will be interested in a statement that has been issued by the Chicago Better Business Bureau wherein definite conclusions have been reached, which cover the ethics of conduct of the recipient of unordered goods. In the first place, the person addressed is under no obligation to keep the goods or to pay for them, and what is more, to return them. However, the recipient must make his position secure by notifying the sender to make provision for the return of the goods, even though the holder may demand 'storage charges,' if they are not called for in a reasonable period of time. I quote: 'Unordered goods should not be used or appropriated for use by the recipient unless he wishes to incur liability to pay for them. If he does use them, the recipient cannot legally avoid paying for them by saying that they came into his hands without his solicitation or not at his specific order'."

THE foregoing findings are to be accepted as authoritative, and their applications may be extended to unsolicited approvals, with slight modifications. Since the post office department maintains that "delivery" is effected by placing the letter or package in the mail box or porch of the addressee, it is incumbent on the recipient to keep the goods intact. When he is written to by the sender, the supposition is that he will tell the sender to call for the goods or pay for the charges for their return. It is apparent that the necessity of keeping the goods intact enters into any legal inquiry; and so the collector who takes out of the lot sufficient stamps to meet the postal charges for return may not be proceeding with strict legality. However, no expense is to attach to the recipient in sending back the stamps, and it is expected that postage for the purpose be sent him. The unsolicited approval sheet has been responsible for many heart-burnings, and philatelic opinion is almost unanimous in condemning it, even though a collector here and there will say that he does not object to them.

IN some of the reports of the Associated Press covering the suicide of Emil Fuchs in New York, who was the designer of the King Edward portrait on the stamps of Great Britain, and who as well enjoyed the friendship of Edward, the artist is given credit for the design of the 2c White Plains commemorative. Mr. Fuchs was the writer of an interesting series of autobiographical sketches some time ago, in the course of which interesting philatelic reminiscences were given, in the Saturday Evening Post; and later he collaborated in bringing forth a striking philatelic study illustrated in the Collectors Club Philatelist.

CANADA is developing its air mail service, and experimental flights are to be made on two new routes on or about January 28th, Ottawa, Ontario, to Saint John, New Brunswick, via Montreal, semi-weekly; and Saint John, New Brunswick, to Halifax, Nova Scotia, daily except Sunday. To commemorate the first official air mail service to the Maritime Provinces, special cachets will be used at Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax. The announcement of the post office department recently distributed contains a number of paragraphs addressed to collectors of air mail. Write to the post office department at Ottawa, Canada, asking for future announcements of the kind.

MR. FRANCIS J. GROSS of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes that on January 1, 1929, the new 1d and 1½d chocolate of Montserrat and Leeward Islands were placed on sale at Montserrat, B. W. I.

THE following paragraph has come from Mr. Thorpe L. Updegraff of New York: "I am pleased to see that you have the right idea about advancing philately and that you are ever ready to encourage publicity on it, with the idea of impregnating all the people with it, or at least being informed about collecting. You have referred to the assistance given by the Associated Press in the circulation of stamp news, and I want you to know that our United Press has its eye peeled for philatelic material as you will see from the enclosed stamp statistics that were sent out from Paris in January by the United Press." The hundred words or so told that up to last August there were 56,874 varieties of stamps for the collector and so on, and we welcome the coöperation that the United Press or any other service might extend.

WHY COLLECT AIR-COVERS?

By ARTHUR B. MOSS

Practically every stamp collector is the proud possessor of at least one or two complete covers to which a certain meaning or special value attaches. There is the pre-stamp group with its peculiar historic significance. What a collection could be formed of the earliest issues of the United States showing fine specimens of the stamps tied on by the various multi-formed and multi-hued cancellations of the period, some of which would be far more rare than the proverbial hen's teeth. A wide range of interest lies in the so-called "patriotic covers"; and the employment of government slogans and mottoes, in the cancellations of recent years opens an instructive and fascinating specialty. And then we have the absolutely limitless field of the many foreign countries each with its own peculiarities and special interests.

The covers we treasure the most are often those with some personal sentimental connection. I have a small size ½ anna King George stamped envelope of India, postmarked from Gyangtse, Tibet, many miles across the border of India, far away on the age-old trade route to Lhassa. Aside from the philatelic interest of the cancellation from a British trading post-office deep in Tibet across the Himalayas, the real value of this cover to me lies in the fact that it brought me a quaint letter of appreciation from a half-breed trade agent for a little courtesy that had been extended to his family. What shall be said of freak covers—albino stamped envelopes; bisected stamps, never officially issued but having passed the postal authorities without connivance of sender or receiver; covers that travelled without any stamps at all and without postage due charge; and so on "ad infinitum."

Among covers, however, the true royalty are the airmails. And of these there are endless varieties that but multiply with the days. Every one, actually flown, has been carried at immediate risk of life and limb. Some bear the actual marks of accident and tragedy. All witnesses to the shrinking of the world's vast distances to an extent that amazes and leaves us gasping. A map of the United States, drawn to represent the speed of air routes of today as means of mail communication, would be only about two-fifths the size of a map drawn to demonstrate the fastest rail service. The unending cachet varieties, official, semi-official and surreptitious, keep the specialist in this field ever on the "qui vive." And each in the procession represents some new route, some new airport, some further shrinking of the map.

What is taking place in our own land in the increasing speed of communication, and in the bringing of distant and isolated areas into direct contact, is happening all over the world. We are weaving a network of air routes that is fast compressing the world to the confines of one total community. For this, our flown covers are the definite and tangible symbols that we may talk about, and see, and actually handle.

There are the new-formed links in the chain binding the Americas together. With the opening of the Canadian and Mexican extensions of our national air system, vistas of rich meaning appear. More than half a ton of mail over the New York to Montreal line on the first two days of operation. Connections for Newfoundland, Labrador, the Far West, and for Europe via Rimouski at the mouth of the St. Lawrence, are immediate. Along the Mexican extension, direct connections for the West Indies and Central and South America are in the offing.

Overseas, wide development is coming likewise. There are the souvenirs of explorational flights, such as the 1926 and 1927 arctic flights of Sir Hubert Wilkins —and now the historically invaluable covers he carried this year from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen on his epoch-making flight. The cards carried by Mears and Collyer this summer when they circled the world faster than the moon will always hold intense interest, even though Collyer may beat his own world's record of less than 24 days if he takes off again. Covers from Commander Byrd's and Sir Hubert Wilkins' antarctic expeditions will be priceless mementos of heroism and faith, true symbols of a new day for the world.

Although not an actual air cover, I would mention here, with the explorational covers, a card, recently given me by a good friend, representing the 1924 expedition to scale Mt. Everest. This bears the ordinary ½ anna green, King George, India stamp, postmarked at Yatung, Tibet, July 9, 1924. Two official cachets of the expedition were applied, one noting that the cover was sent from the Main Base Camp at Rongbuk Glacier, 17,000 feet above sea level. There is also a neat poster stamp of Mt. Everest; and there are proper backstamps applied at the destination in India. This cover holds vividly the memory of the heroic men who were last seen surmounting the final ledges of the world's loftiest pinnacle—and who never returned.

But the covers of covers, at least for this writer, are those actually officially airflown from the four corners of the earth. There are the 1912 Zeppelin flights in Germany. The first definite airmail stamp was issued by Italy in May, 1917, for flights between Turin and Rome. German "subs" were putting shipping out of business so successfully that airmail became sheer necessity. This cover, whether "first flight" or not, is classic. Far away Siam enters; and covers from that weird country can be paralleled by those flown from Teheran, Persia, to Busshire. Regular service is projected, if not actually established, from the distant interior of the Belgian Congo to the Coast. Nearly seventy stamp issuing countries have already found themselves under the need of issuing stamps specially for airmail, and more may be expected to enter the ranks in 1929.

What a day is ours! Vast, sweeping changes astound us in industrial, social, international life. And here, we common men may possess, and treasure, and veritably hold in our own hands the physical symbols of our newest mode of communication blown on the very "wings of the morning to the uttermost parts of the sea." Air-covers will live, least of all from their investment worth, great as that may be in many instances wisely chosen—but fundamentally because of what they really are. They are ties that bind us men, race to race, continent to continent. Carried by the intrepid heralds of the dawn, they mean for the world, faith, trust, honor, unity and peace.—The Air Mail Collector.

Mounting Stamps

The correct method of mounting stamps seems, at first sight, a somewhat trivial matter to discuss, and yet I venture to assert that more good stamps are spoiled by careless mounting than anything else. First of all it is false economy to use anything but proper stamp hinges, i.e., the hinges specially prepared and sold by all stamp dealers for the purpose. The cost of these is, now-a-days, so trifling that it is foolish in the extreme to use odds and ends of gummed paper as so many collectors—especially beginners—are fond of doing.

Good peelable hinges should always be used as these can be removed from one's stamps whenever necessary with a minimum of risk, while promiscuous gummed paper can be removed only with a great deal of trouble and, more often than not, the stamp is torn or damaged in the process.

Care should be taken that too much hinge is not attached to the back of a stamp, but only just sufficient to hold it firmly. About an eighth of an inch will be found ample for all practical purposes and this should be attached as near the top of stamp as possible without projecting beyond the edge or the perforations. It is hardly necessary to fasten all the remainder of the hinge to the album page. The lower portion should be attached as firmly as possible and then the stamp can be turned over to examine the watermark, etc., without any fear of the perforations being folded or creased.

A ROYAL PHILATELIST

Though the rolls of the London Philatelic Society have contained the names of not a few titled personages, it was with particular pride that the members welcomed one of the Royal Family to their circle in 1893. It is understood that the King, then Duke of York, intimated his desire to join the Society and was thereupon elected its Honorary Vice-President by acclamation. In 1896 he accepted office as President of the Council of the Society, and since 1900 has been its highest officer owing to the death of the Honorary President, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

The interest of His Royal Majesty in stamps began, as with most of us, when he was a boy, and as he was brought up in the Royal Navy his voyages naturally gave him many opportunities of acquiring stamps at first hand. In 1892 his collection had attained considerable proportions but was then largely increased by the purchase of another collection of some magnitude, which caused an entire rearrangement into the modern form of movable leaf albums.

It is understood that the collection is now practically confined to the stamps of the British Empire, and the portions of it which have been exhibited show that the royal philatelist is an advanced collector of no mean order. His interest in our pursuit is evinced by his participation in the private exhibitions of the London Society. It is also stated that "his stamps are always placed at the disposition of his fellow-members when they can be of service for any of the purposes of the London society."

But perhaps the greatest event in which the King figures philatelically, was his purchase of the 2 pence Post Office Mauritius at auction in January, 1904, for $7,500. This episode is familiar to the collecting world, but it created great astonishment in the lay mind when the news was telegraphed over the globe from London.

His Royal Majesty has also given the London Society the results of some of his own investigations in the philatelic field, the first being a note embodying his researches into the vexed question of the method of manufacture of the first stamp of Denmark, and again upon the Postal Issues of the United Kingdom during the Present Reign.

Approvals

By A. C. LeDuc.

There seems to be some question in the minds of the readers of this page about approvals. Approvals really mean goods sent on inspection with the expectation of purchase. In the stamp collecting world, approvals mean various sheets of stamps sent to a prospective customer.

When a stamp collector answers the advertisement of some dealer in stamps and asks to have stamps sent to him on approval he must abide by the customary rules set up for the business. Stamps on the approval sheets remain the property of the dealer until paid for by the customer or returned to the dealer. The stamps should be kept in very fine condition so that none may get soiled or lost or damaged in any way. Certainly the dealer is entitled to receive his stamps back in as good condition as he sent them out. It is also important that all those that the customer buys are kept in fine condition for his collection.

Some collectors seem to think that it is all right to keep approval selection any length of time. This is not so as all stamps not purchased should be returned within a day or two after receiving them. Practically all dealers allow 10 days for the customer to go over the selections. This is rarely ever necessary as the general line of approvals can be gone over thoroughly in an hour.

Worn Plate Impressions

The fact that a plate can wear to such an extent as to require re-engraving obviously shows in impressions printed from it and one thus finds such terms as early impressions and worn plate in philatelic literature. An early impression, as the name implies, is one taken from the plate while all the details of the design are bold and distinct, while in stamps printed from a worn plate the finer lines of the design have disappeared altogether, and the whole is indistinct or blurred. Between these two extremes there are innumerable stages which are more or less explicitly described as intermediate or medium impressions. These "states of the plate" have considerable bearing on the value of such stamps as the early New South Wales, Mauritius, Tasmania, etc. For instance, Gibbons prices an early impression of the 1d "Post Paid" Mauritius of 1848 at $125.00, while the same variety from every worn plate is only valued at $10.00

NEW CANADA STAMPS ARE IN BEAUTIFUL DESIGNS

We have received from Ivor Giblin and the Marks Stamp Co., newspaper clipping and information regarding the n Canada stamps. The Marks Stamp Co., very kindly sends us the following details: In addition to the new 1, 2 and 10c stam recently issued, seven new stamps have been issued by the post-office department and are on sale to collectors and others d siring special sets today. These stamps are issued by the department to replace the old issue which is at present in use. the new issue the highest value is the one dollar, which is olive-green in color, and depicts Canada's legislative building Ottawa. The blue fifty cent stamp shows a fishing schooner, off the banks of Newfoundland. The twenty cent is pink color, and depicts a threshing scene. Next in order is the twelve cent gray, on which is shown Quebec bridge. The next thr of the set issued today, the eight, five and three cent stamps, show a portrait of King George, and are dark blue, purple a red, respectively in color. The issue has been acclaimed by collectors and others who have seen the advance plates, as t most beautiful set ever issued by this country, and one of the best issues, as far as collections of colorful stamps are concern in the world. Each has a large amount of scroll work around the pictures.

HERE AND THERE—

"I JUST want to let you know about a little joke. I mailed 300 covers from Miami to Nassau with a request to my man down there to return the covers to me. He tore off the stamps and sent them back to me, and threw the rest of the covers in the waste. You see plainly it's a joke, but it's on me this time. Consequently, I am not able to supply them as previously advertised."—E. STRASSER.

WE are indebted to R. C. Bach for a post card sent us from Havana, Cuba. The card was mailed upon the "Araguaya" of the Royal Mail steamship line. The beauty in the card rests upon the fact that it bears the inscription "Posted on the high seas," with the date Jan. 9, 1929.

CAN anyone give C. E. Morrison, Jr., 2 Sheridan St., Lawrence, Mass., the present address of one Richard Kelly, formerly 3400 Lexington Street, Chicago, Ill.? It will be appreciated.

JEAN GERMAK, 49 Rue Ste. Anne, Paris 2, France, has just issued a finely illustrated pricelist for 1929. A fine range of stamps is covered in singles, sets and collections. A copy may be had for the asking.

A NEW house organ is at hand from the C. D. Reimers Co., Fort Worth, Texas. It is dated January, which indicates a monthly publication, and is called "Reimer's Bulletin," "full of sunshine bargains."

HERMAN W. BOERS sends us a copy of the Detroit News containing a story concerning Postmaster Charles C. Kellogg. According to a secret ballot taken by the Chicago Aero Philatelic Society he is ranked as one of the most popular postmasters in the country. Mr. Boers pays a hearty tribute to Mr. Kellogg, and writes that he has shown a keen interest in the local societies, and has attended their functions on a number of occasions.

"WILL you kindly advise the subscribers of Argosy that we were obliged to skip the December and January issues of Argosy, thru the illness of the publisher, W. R. Fradsham. He has been laid off some time now with a very bad attack of the 'flu'."—FRANK F. VILLS.

LOUIS WEISSMAN, 81 Nassau St., N. Y. City, has on hand a lot of Thrace, Greece and Epirus, recovered from Nevins & Williams, who were connected with the recent New York robbery. Mr. Weissman believes it likely that these stamps are stolen property, and he is anxious to return them to the owner.

F. JONES sends us a clipping from the Norfolk and Western Magazine in which the editor expresses an interest in stamp collecting, and invites those of his readers who would like to form an exchange club to communicate with him. Mr. Jones also sends us a syndicated cartoon showing the Molly Pitcher stamp accompanied with "What did the father of our country ever do to deserve a blow like this?"

MAX F. BIER, proprietor of the Max F. Bier Co., 91 69th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., has sent us a copy of a very fine pricelist of postage stamps in sets. The list is a very comprehensive one, of 40 pages, and is not only well printed, but nicely illustrated. Anyone interested in purchasing stamps by sets should certainly send for a specimen copy, which may be had for the asking.

OUR dealer friend, Frank Pollard Brown, has taken up his residence in Chicago for a brief season. He can be addressed at 4278 Hazel Ave., Chicago, from Jan. 28 to Feb. 27.

THE 1929 election of officers for the Wayne Stamp Society resulted in the following members being elected: Pres., George Bauer; Vice Pres., J. L. Sipley; Sec., Henry Fritz (Re-elected); Treas., M. Doig (Re-elected); Pub. Mgr., Ward R. Chapin. All members who reside in Detroit, and visitors as well, are cordially invited to attend the meetings, and we can guarantee to make you feel at home. We meet each Thursday evening at the St. Clair Recreation Bldg., Fairview and Canfield. — WARD R. CHAPIN.

TESTIMONY TO QUALITY

The recent stamp exhibitions at Durban, London and Melbourne have furnished remarkable testimony to the value and quality of the Gibbons range of albums, catalogues, handbooks, accessories and other publications.

At these three exhibitions our goods received no less than twenty-six direct awards, many of them the highest in their respective classes, while we are the Publishers of works for which the authors received four further awards.

Mail us a postal card and we will send you free our new 104-page lists of albums, publications and a wide range of packets and sets, together with a free specimen number of the most interesting British stamp magazine, Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

DEPT. 20, 391 STRAND, LONDON, W. C. 2, ENGLAND

A LESSON ON GREAT BRITAIN

By F. J. MELVILLE.

Three-Halfpence Stamp.—There are only two plates to consider of the 1½d red stamp, with the portrait in a shield-shaped frame, first issued in 1870. The first plate used was not numbered, and is identified as No. 1 by the absence of the number. The only other plate used had the figure 3 inserted in the interlaced lines immediately above the lower corner letters, as shown in the diagram. A second plate (number 2) was not used, as it was defective.

Corner Letters.—The corner letters on the early English stamps are apparently always perplexing to the beginner, but they are quite simple to understand. They conform to a system by which every stamp on one sheet printed from one plate has a different combination of letters, and the idea was to make it more readily noticeable if anyone attempted to counterfeit any one stamp. In the first 1d and 2d stamps ("line-engraved") there were 240 stamps to the sheet, arranged in twenty horizontal rows of twelve stamps. These stamps at first had letters only in the two lower corners, and the first letter indicates the horizontal row in which the stamp occurs on the sheet. The other letter indicates the vertical column on the sheet. Thus a stamp lettered "A.....A" was the first stamp (column 1) in the first row. This system so far as it concerns the lower corners of the stamps printed 240 to the sheet never varies, and consequently in the bottom left corner the letter must always be anything from A to T (the twentieth row) and the right-hand bottom corner letter anything from A to L (the twelfth column).

To make this simple system more perfectly clear, let me give a few examples:—

1st row—AA, AB, AC, AD, AE, AF, etc., to AL.

2nd row—BA, BB, BC, BD, BE, etc., to BL.

3rd row—CA, CB, CC, CD, etc., to CL.

10th row—JA, JB, JC, JD, etc., to JK, JL.

15th row—OA, OB, OC, OD, to OK, OL.

20th row—TA, TB, to TH, TI, TJ, TK, TL.

Letters In All Four Corners.—Later on, when letters were introduced in the upper corners as well, the system was the same; the lower corner letters follow the arrangement described above, the upper ones are the reverse of the letters in the lower angles. Thus a stamp lettered is the fourth (D) stamp in the second (B) row.

D	B

Letters On the ½d Stamp.—For the ½d stamp of 1870, as the stamps were only half the size, the sheets contained double the number of stamps—480 instead of 240—and consequently the arrangement of the lettering was extended to cover the long horizontal rows of twenty-four (instead of twelve) stamps. So the column letters run from A to X (the twenty-fourth letter of the alphabet), but the letters indicating the rows remain from A to T, as there were just twenty rows. The ½d stamps all have the letters in all four corners, but it will save much confusion if collectors will bear in mind that the lower corner letters in every case give the simplest key to the position of the stamp on the sheet; the upper corner letters should always correspond in reverse with the lower ones. A stamp lettered T.....X at the foot should be lettered X.....T at the top, and so on.—Stamp Lover.

5c AIRMAIL ENVELOPE

The new 5c Airmail envelope is a rather unique production. The stamp is circular in shape, a large 5c on a blue ground standing out very prominently. Quite naturally an airplane occupies the most prominent place. We are indebted to Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, M. C., A. E. Gorham and W. H. Boatwright for first day covers. They are dated January 12, from Washington.

RE-ENTRIES

In the exhibition of Great Britain stamps a section in the line-engraved class is devoted to those interesting varieties now keenly sought for, known as re-entries. Among the exhibitors in this section is Mr. Bertram McGowan, the collaborator with Mr. Chas. Nissen in the great book on the Penny Black.

Mr. McGowan's comments on the distinction between "Re-entries" and "Fresh Entries" will be read by students with special interest. We quote them from advance proofs of the catalogue.

Mr. Bertram McGowan states:—

This is a collection of what are commonly called by collectors "re-entries," and is limited to those which have been found on the 1d red imperf. stamp from Die 1 with first alphabet (exclusive of the "black" plates), being Plates 12 to 131, inclusive. The term "re-entry" should strictly apply only to stamps from plates which have been repaired, and which therefore occur in two states, in the second of which the re-entry has been made. The term "fresh entry" should be used for those stamps which show a duplicated impression of part of the design, caused by an original entry of this stamp or an adjoining one having been made in the wrong place, and the impression of the roller not having been completely erased. "Re-entries" proper are very scarce, and in the collection exhibited there are only three examples out of 167 stamps shown. These are the stamps lettered EB from the second state of Plate 30, PA from the second state of Plate 33, and KB from the second state of Plate 40. The last-mentioned is rather peculiar, as the stamp shows in the first state marks of an original erroneous entry and in the second state the letter "B" was shifted from the extreme right to the centre of the square. Unfortunately it has not been possible to show this stamp in the second state, but the stamps EB and PA, before referred to, are each shown in the first state for comparison. The remainder of the stamps are good examples of "fresh entries," and it has been thought useful to show these in duplicate where possible for two reasons—first to prove that the varieties are constant; and, second, seeing the stamps are used and portions naturally obliterated by the postmark, to have two copies in order that one or other should, as far as possible, show the whole marks of the defective entry.

Supplementary to the collection proper are shown—(a) some stamps with constant marks, which are sometimes included among "re-entries"; (b) a few examples of double-bottom (or top) varieties, caused by slipping of the transfer-roller, which are very numerous, and should be kept separate from a "re-entry" collection; and (c) stamps showing a duplication of the lines of one or other of the letter squares, some of which possibly are examples of an original erroneous entry.—Postage Stamp.

Gum

—Intensive Study Affords Relief to a Long Suffering Public.

At the request of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Bureau of Standards is making a coöperative study with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing of United States postage stamps. The request was prompted by occasional complaints that stamps did not adhere satisfactorily and that sheets of stamps sometimes tore across the stamps instead of along the perforations. The proportion of defective stamps would appear to be small when it is considered that while 85,000,000 stamps are produced daily, the complaints received average less than one per day. Moreover, as concerns the adherence of stamps, it is problematic as to how many complaints are justified in view of such hazards as improper affixing of the stamps, the use of envelope papers resistant to adhesives, and unfavorable storage conditions.

Tests of the raw materials made by the Bureau of Standards indicate that both the stamp paper and the adhesive are satisfactory. The paper, which is a uniform, well-sized sulfite sheet, takes both ink and adhesive properly and has satisfactory strength. The adhesive is being compared experimentally with commercial gums, and the results thus far indicate that the present formula is the best obtainable. The present paraffined inter-leaving sheets in stamp books have been found to have objectionable features. Glassine paper, a hard, transparent, moisture-resisting paper, has been found, experimentally, superior to the paraffined paper, but its workability in the manufacturing process has not been established.

The printing and gumming operations are done as a continuous process by means of an ingenious machine devised by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The rotary printing presses take the paper from a roll, and progressively wet the paper for printing, print by means of a rotary plate roll, and dry the ink. The printed paper is then coated with adhesive by means of a gumming roller, the adhesive is dried, and the paper then wound in rolls. The work is next taken to the perforating machines, which break the adhesive to make the paper lie flat, perforate the paper between the stamps, and cut the paper in sheets.

One complete printing, gumming, and drying unit is being used for experimental purposes. It has been found to be highly efficient mechanically. There is, however, a possibility that some defective stamps have been turned out as a result of over-drying and because of variations in the wetting of the paper and the tension on the paper in printing. On the experimental press, experiments are being carried out with the introduction of temperature control and air circulation in the drying. Satisfactory drying of the adhesive has been accomplished at a temperature 60° F. lower than that ordinarily used. The tension on the paper has also been controlled accurately by using a simple indicating device.

Studies of the affixing of stamps, including consideration of automatic stamp-affixing machines, and studies of the reaction of the adhesive of the stamps to the different types of envelope papers in use, are in progress.

The number of complaints has been steadily decreasing and the Bureau of Standards is advised that the Post Office Department offers no criticism of the present product.—Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

MOLLY PITCHER

(Clipping from D. B. Damon)

Nothing that has occurred in many years is more appropriate than the picture of Molly Pitcher on the postage stamps of the government she so ably assisted into being.

"Captain Molly" has thrilled every generation of American history student since the first textbook carried her story. She was almost as much a "spirit of '76" as were those three generations of drummers which officially illustrate it. The picture of Molly, with the body of her cannoneer husband in the foreground working the swabbing stick of the muzzle-loading cannon of the period, can be conjured back into the mind's eye of every American who ever had a speaking acquaintance with an old history. It was one of the things patriotism has fed upon until it has become as great as it is.

The story of Molly Pitcher has bobbed up prominently many times in literature and the drama. A well-known playwright wove her into a melodrama in which the late Katherine Kidder attempted to carry on a popularity achieved by several seasons of "Madame Sans Gene." The redoubtable Molly was given a scene there in where she was expected to outfence with an ordinary fireplace poker, a fencing teacher villainess armed with an unbuttoned foil. She did it. It was not convincing and it lacked considerable of being art—but it was Molly. And we let it go at that.

It would please "Captain Molly" to know she was on a stamp. She was not a very good advertiser, as we remember her. We don't recollect that they ever did much for her in a material way. She probably had gone to her reward before she ever had a picture made. So we must, perforce, take her resemblance on the postage stamps of today with the faith built almost entirely on the way we think she should have looked—working that cannon the way she did, and all.—Jackson News.

It will also be remembered that evil-minded critics discovered in the King's face the nude body of a woman, with arms uplifted, the King's eye being the head, the upper part of his nose the right arm, and the unshaded part of the cheek the torso of the figure.

The artist's work, however, had pleased His Majesty, and the picture was permitted to remain on the stamps until his death in 1911.

"Post Office, San Francisco, Calif.
January 9, 1929.

Letters endorsed for dispatch on the speedboat between Oakland Air Field and San Francisco, California, cannot be so connected as no mail contract has been let for service via that route, consequently all letters are being returned to senders.

H. L. TODD, Postmaster."

The foregoing, received as Air Mail from Mr. John Rausch, tells its own story. Evidently the Speedboat has struck a snag!

AT INDIANAPOLIS

The Indiana Stamp Club held its first meeting of the new year at Room E, Chamber of Commerce Building, Indianapolis, Friday evening, January 4th. Election of officers for the coming year was held and these men were named: LeGrande Payne, president; Marion Clark, vice-president; Louis Otto Ward, re-elected secretary-treasurer. The following will form the executive committee: C. O. Warnock, Floyd Shockley and Glenn Padgett. The meeting was enjoyed by all, the election running smoothly, as the choosing of these worthy men was practically pre-arranged. The out-going president, Harry Coburn, was presented with an appropriate token in appreciation of his untiring efforts during 1928.

FOREIGN COVERS

I have just had turned over to me a choice little collection of early foreign covers in beautiful condition valued at several hundred dollars. While there are only one or two pieces priced over $100.00, nevertheless, there are in the lot many difficult items to find on the original covers.

Off-hand, I note such unusual things as a combination of Argentine and French stamps, several early Argentine, some very choice German States, a combination cover with early Egypt and Italy, some Greece used on cover from Vienna, one or two early Mecklenburg Strelitz, some odd Mexican splits, early Portuguese India on cover—quite unusual, Prince Edward Island split, a Russian Wenden used with the regular issue—very rare, several other Russian covers, including splits, a Spanish inverted center, some early Turkey and a Poland single and strip of three of No. 1.

I am also in the market to purchase early issues of all countries on the entire cover from the beginning through 1860. Rare and choice pieces especially desired and it is requested that those having such items for sale kindly submit them at their best net price for immediate cash.

Early covers from the British West Indies are especially wanted, including the rarities. Early blue lithographed Trinidads in fine condition are desired for plating purposes. What have you to offer?

2-Cent Vincennes Stamp

It is expected that the proof for the new 2-cent Vincennes stamp will be approved during this coming week, the middle of January, and it is understood that a good supply of the variety will be available at most of the large post offices on the second day after issue. It is suggested that dealers and collectors wanting unused copies should secure them locally rather than through the Philatelic Agency, as at the present time they are far behind in deliveries, and it is not likely that the service which they desire to give can be given to the new stamp.

It will be placed on sale at Vincennes, Indiana, on the first day, February 25, 1929, and first-day covers should be obtained from that point. There will be no supply whatsoever at the Agency on the first day, for the honor will be given to Vincennes of being the exclusive point in the country where the stamp may be had.

The Bureau has ample time to make up the issue, and no doubt, the supplies will reach even the distant post offices in time to satisfy the collector, so that he will not have to write to Washington, as is the usual custom.

Mr. E. D. Determann kindly sends a clipping from the Vincennes Commercial of January 9, 1929, in which the stamp is mentioned, and it is stated that not more than twenty-five copies will be sold to one purchaser. This is an error, as as many unused copies may be purchased as desired. The postmaster will also be pleased to cancel just as many first-day covers as are handed into the post office at that time. He, however, will not use his own employees to stick stamps for collectors on more than twenty-five covers, as he will not have facilities for doing this. Such a step is necessary when it is realized that some are writing into the Department asking them to apply stamps to three or four thousand letters.

Mr. Determann writes that he has urged the Chamber of Commerce to communicate with post office authorities and endeavor to have the air mail stop at Vincennes on its way south and north on February 25th to receive letters from the local office.

5-Cent Aeronautics Conference Stamp

Mr. Warner S. Robison kindly sends for inspection two minor varieties of the 5-cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamp, which are worthy of note. A slight scratch on two plates namely—19,659 and 19,661 are noted in the upper right pane. On the first plate the scratch occurs between the ninth and tenth stamps, that is, the last two stamps on the second horizontal row. The scratch begins near the end stamp and runs diagonally into the left copy.

In the case of plate 19,661, there is a slight scratch running horizontally between the eleventh and twelfth copy, the scratch being near the top.

As the scratches are light, no doubt, later printings will not show them, as the constant polishing of the plate will possibly wear them out.

Department Variety

A complete left pane of the 2c War on soft paper has recently been noted in which the entire seventh vertical row shows a distinct stitch watermark. A block of fifty of the 3c of the same series shows a similar stitch watermark through the fourth vertical row.

Playing Card Varieties

In a recent article appearing in one of our contemporaries the question was raised as to whether the Playing Card stamps could be legally collected.

I have before me an opinion from R. M. Estes, Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, which settles the question and shows conclusively that we have the legal right to collect these varieties in cancelled condition. I quote from the letter as follows:

"This office is in receipt of your letter of December 31, 1928, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, in which you ask if there are any restrictions on the sale or purchase by philatelists of revenue stamps used on packages of playing cards.

You are advised that playing card, like other internal revenue stamps, are issued exclusively for use of taxpayers in payment of internal revenue taxes. They are furnished to collectors of internal revenue for sale only to such manufacturers as have registered as required by law, and to importers of playing cards. The regulations require that the stamp shall be affixed in such manner as to seal the pack and to necessitate the stamp being torn in two pieces when the pack is opened. While it is evident from all the provisions of the laws relating to internal revenue stamps that they are not intended to be made articles of traffic, or of use otherwise than for the prescribed revenue purposes, the collection for philatelic purposes of used and cancelled playing card stamps is not prohibited by law so long as they are not reused to denote payment of tax."

New 5-Cent Air Mail Envelope

On January 12th, the new 5-cent b circular design Air Mail Envelope w first placed on sale at Washington. Th design shows an airplane in flight wi "U. S. Postage" at the top, and "Via Air Mail" at the bottom, with a large wh "5c," surrounded by a blue backgrou in the center. It certainly cannot be c sidered attractive and as previously m tioned, gives one the impression of a price tag. It is so small in connecti with the envelope, with red and bl border, that it is not noticed at fi glance. It is vastly different in appe ance from any envelope variety e issued.

So far, only the size 13 on white is available, and these are postmarked "U. S." in single line monogram, with "19" horizontally across the top. It is pected that the size 5 and size 8, will be on sale at the Agency during the wk of January 14th.

France.—The following is from the New York Times:—By an order of the French Minister of Posts issued Dec. 6, a Joan of Arc stamp will displace the normal issue of the fifty-centime stamp on and for six months after April 9, 1929, the latter being the five-hundredth anniversary of "La Pucelle" raising the siege of the city of Orleans and her defeat of the English. The same ministerial order also announces the winning design for the stamp in a competition instituted by the Ministry of Fine Arts last summer. This design presents a simple peasant girl in the costume of Domremy, as it was in the fifteenth century, showing under her armor, on a gayly caparisoned charger, with the flu-

We have a goodly number of applications this week for membership in our Honor Club. To become a member all that you need to do is to send $5 for a five years' renewal of your subscription.

Mr. Jonas in making his remittance informs us that he has been a constant subscriber from 1891 to date.

We take the liberty of quoting the following from a letter written by Mr. Graham and many of our readers will voice the sentiment that he expresses:—

"I have just noticed on the first page of No. 1983, at the top of the page, that you say, 'No real Philatelist will ever acknowledge that he is old.' I am not going to make a claim to being a real philatelist; I am just a common, garden variety, with a general collection, but I am certainly not going to claim that I am old, not as long as I get as much real enjoyment out of stamp collecting as I do."

Only eight this week!

Too bad—ought to be ten.

Ten is in the making however.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

"PLEASE EXPLAIN THE REASON"

During the recent holiday season we have been the recipient of a number of complaints, dealing with the late arrival of the WEEKLY. Our regular schedule was considerably disrupted, not only by the Christmas and New Year's holidays, but also by the large increase in mail, attendant upon the holiday season.

The WEEKLY is supposed to be in the mails upon Saturday, but occasionally part of the mailing is made on Monday and this two days' delay in the receipt of the paper is a keen disappointment to many of our subscribers. We assure all our readers that we are doing all we can to speed up the delivery of our publication, and we shall not cease trying to secure improved service. We print this statement for the benefit of certain subscribers who write us "please explain the reason of the delay in the receipt of my paper."

STAMP NOTES AND NEWS

Abyssinia.—We have received our full supplies of the new stamps showing portraits of the Empress Zaoditou and Prince Tafari. These stamps are in the new currency, Mehaleks and Thalers, sixteen Mehaleks equal one Thaler. The denominations of this new set are as follows:—⅛, ¼, ½, 1, 2, 4, 8 mehaleks, 1, 2 and 3 thalers.

Alexandria and Port Said.—The Caisse d'Amortissement stamps have now been issued in a new colour, 15+5 milliemes lilac, the orange-coloured stamps are obsolete and unobtainable.

Bolivia.—Three new air stamps have been issued, 15c green, 20c blue and 35c red-brown. By arrangement made between the Bolivian Government and the Lloyd Aereo Boliviano Company the stamps have been put on sale at certain Post Offices in Bolivia and are used to prepay the additional cost of conveyance of letters by Air Mail. These stamps being authorised by the Government will be included in our catalogue.

Dutch Indies.—The new permanent Air Post stamps are to hand, 10c mauve, 20c brown, 40c carmine, 75c green and 150c orange. The provisional issue has had only a very short life and is likely to improve in value.

Egypt.—Two new stamps have been issued to commemorate the Medical Congress now being held in Cairo. These stamps were put on sale on December 15th, the 5 milliemes representing the statue of Im Hotep, God of Medicine, and the 10 milliemes, a portrait of the late Mohammed Aly Pasha, Viceroy of Egypt. The special issue to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the birthday of Prince Farouk will not be issued until February. There will be four denominations, 5, 10, 15 and 20 milliemes, each bearing the Prince's portrait.

Finland.—We have been unsuccessful in obtaining a full supply of the two stamps issued at the Philatelic Exhibition at Helsingfors. We are informed that each day the Exhibition was open there were long queues waiting to buy these special stamps, and although our correspondent made several attempts he only got to the counter once before the supplies for the day had been sold.

Holland.—The new Charity stamps are to hand, 1½c+1c, 5c+3c, 7½c+2½c, 12½c+3½c. Each denomination shows a portrait of a celebrated Dutch professor, Minchelers, Boerhaave, Lorentz and Huyghens; the additional charge on these stamps goes to the Child Welfare fund.

Japan.—Four stamps have been issued to celebrate the coronation of the new Emperor of Japan, the values being:—1½ sen green, 3 sen mauve, 6 sen carmine and 10 sen blue, all on yellow paper. These stamps were issued on November 10th, the 1½ sen and 6 sen being the same design, showing the Imperial Throne called "Takamikura," the bird appearing in the centre is called the "Ho-o" or "Phoenix," the symbol of the crown and its golden figure is placed on top of the Takamikura. The 3 sen and 10 sen stamps are also of the same design, representing the Daigo-Kyu, where the Daigo-Sai, or great thanksgiving takes place.

Latvia.—In addition to the set of six stamps recently issued to celebrate the ten years' Independence of this country, a further set of six stamps, similar in design, was issued, a surtax of 10 santimi on each stamp being charged, this surtax going towards a fund for the erection of a Statue of Liberty. The denominations issued are as follows:—6, 10, 15, 30, 50 santimi and 1 lats, 20,000 of these sets were issued perforated and 20,000 imperforate. There was a great scramble for these stamps at the Post Office and only ten sets were sold to each applicant.

Leeward Islands.—Two high values have been issued, 10/- red and green on green, script watermark, and £1 black and purple on red, watermarked multiple Crown C.A. in block letters. These stamps are of large size and of the same type as the high value Nyasaland stamps.

Luxembourg.—The Charity stamps for this country were issued on December 12th, values as follow:—10c+5c, 60c+10c, 75c+15c, 1fr+25c, 1½fr+50c. These stamps show a portrait of the baby Princess Marie Adelaide.

Paraguay.—We have received some new high value stamps for this country, 10 and 20 pesos, the former being in the type showing a portrait of Columbus and the latter the Map design as shown in our catalogue under type 26. For some reason unknown to us it has apparently been necessary to issue both these stamps in three different colours, 10 pesos, blue, vermilion and red, whilst the 20 pesos appear in green, purple and red.

Russia.—We have seen advance illustrations of the two Child Welfare stamps that are to be issued this month, the denominations are 10+2 kopecs and 20+2 kopecs, the former representing Industry and printed in black and red, the latter Agriculture, printed in black and blue.

San Marino.—A set of handsomely engraved Parcel Post stamps has been issued for this small Republic, similar to those of Italy, except that they are not perforated down the centre. Full supplies are on order and if they arrive in time they will be included in this month's distribution of new issues.

Surinam.—A set of Charity stamps has been issued for this Dutch Colony in weird futurist designs showing a nurse attending a sick person. The denominations and colours are:—1½c+1½c blue, 2c+2c green, 5c+3c violet and 7½c +2½c red.

WHEN ordering stamps write "as per advt. in MEKEEL'S"

Trans-Jordan.—In our October Bulletin we gave some particulars of the stamps surcharged in Arabic, "Dastour" (meaning "Constitution"), including the numbers printed, and we are now able to give the exact numbers which were sold during September, and the numbers of remainders which were destroyed in the presence of a Board on October 20th.

Denominations.	Quantity printed.	Quantity sold.	Quantity destroyed
2 Mils	21,500	8,724	12,776
3 "	16,500	5,989	10,511
4 "	15,500	5,531	9,969
5 "	25,800	16,522	9,278
10 "	11,800	4,401	7,399
15 "	16,200	8,279	7,921
20 "	9,600	3,289	6,311
50 "	8,500	2,523	5,979
90 "	6,300	2,197	4,103
100 "	6,300	2,202	4,098
200 "	5,600	1,798	3,802
Total,	143,600	61,455	82,145

It will thus be seen that of the total number printed of all denominations, considerably more than half were destroyed, whilst of the highest value less than one-third were sold. We have just received a letter from a correspondent at Amman stating that complete sets are being sold locally at £3 and we understand that even higher prices are being charged in Egypt.

Upper Volta.—A complete new set of both postage and postage due stamps has been issued for this French Colony. There are 23 values in the postage set, from 1 centime to 20 francs in three different designs, the low values, 1c to 10c show a picture of one of the native chiefs; the 25c to 90c, a rather bashful-looking negress; the higher values, a native warrior on horseback. The postage due stamps are of the same design as those of the current set of Upper Senegal-Niger.—Whitfield King & Co's Bulletin.

U. S. Civil War Revenues

SOME NOTES CONCERNING THE RARER PART PERFORATE PAIRS OF THE FIRST ISSUE ACCOMPANIED BY VALUATIONS

By HENRY L. DEAN, 239 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

While it is evident from the accumulations of Advanced revenue collectors of the past or present, that the Part-Perforate group of the first issue revenues of the Civil War period never has possessed the magnetism of the Imperforate section, it must be recognized that these stamps represent distinct varieties, approved, regularly issued and thus obviously collectible, and particularly so by specialists.

The original intention of the Government was clearly to provide nothing but perforated revenues, but shortly after the firm of Butler and Carpenter of Philadelphia, who held the contract for the production of these stamps, began to make deliveries on September 27, 1862, it became apparent that the capacity of the existing perforating machines was inadequate for handling the output of the printing department. Appreciating this condition, recognition was promptly given by the Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue and remedial measures took the form of a telegraphic order to Butler and Carpenter, under date of November 7, 1862, to "Fill all orders for stamps with utmost despatch without perforating."

Subsequently through the addition of new machinery by the contractors and the growth of the reserve stock in the vaults, conditions permitted returning many of the imperforate sheets for finishing, and that this was done is clearly attested by the Butler and Carpenter records, which were all available to the Committee which prepared the "Boston Book" in 1899. Equally clear is the fact that this deferred perforating must have been thoroughly attended to or else the entire initial supply of certain values and titles received some degree of perforation, since even today they are unknown in imperforate form.

Naturally the general revenue collector is quite satisfied with single specimens, and here lies probably the reason for the ennui displayed in connection with Part Perforates, for wide differences in catalogue quotations obviously can be taken advantage of by the unscrupulous. Wide margined perforated examples offer the possibilities of fraud without detection, for claims to the contrary notwithstanding, the person never lived who could identify the perforation varieties of the first printings by the paper. For this reason the informed collector demands pairs or larger multiples of all these particular stamps, and the writer has nothing in his own accumulation but such pieces imperforate between. Even such items while bearing the prima facie evidence of genuineness must frequently be carefully scrutinized since partial reperforation of some of the cheaper imperforate pairs has been resorted to by the fakirs, and their products noted in collections.

The present discussion will be confined to the rarer pieces only, and further limited to a treatment of the group which can properly be termed Non Fakeable.

1c Proprietary

While pairs of this dull, unattractive stamp may and probably do repose in small collections or unappreciated accumulations, the fact remains that the evidence at hand justifies its classification as Rare, and I have only seen a single piece upon the market in over ten years. This must likewise have been the experience of others at an earlier period, since it was lacking in the properties of Messrs. Ackerman, Lapham and Bister, and all of these were specialized collections of exceptionally high rank. Mr. A. G. Bishop owned a block of four, which is quite probably unique, but unfortunately somewhat defective. There are some horizontal pairs imperforate between the stamps, but with diagonal perforations as well, and various individuals have advanced the theory that the perfect pieces known came from the portions of a sheet untouched by this irregularity in perforation. However, I do not subscribe to this assumption, which is unsupported by shades, cancellations and dates of usage. Concerning the latter there is a fine vertical pair dated July 9, 1863, while my own, also vertical, bears the date March 5, 1864, representing a nine months interim for a stamp, which, irrespective of degree of perforation, was used at the average rate of four million a month for nine years. With regard to present worth of a perfect pair the Specialized rating of $15.00 is merely nominal and the writer will be glad to purchase any at double this figure, or to take a block at $125.00, if such an item without defects has to date been blushing unseen.

2c Playing Cards

Departmental records of the Butler and Carpenter establishment appear to indicate that about 200,000 stamps, either Imperforate or Part-Perforate, were available in the vault for issuance, these being a portion of the stock finally used, but a multiple imperforate is still quite unknown and the part perforate strip or pair is decidedly rare. No data is available concerning the usage of the latter, except that some were employed in July, 1864, but where or by whom is shrouded in doubt. Anyone having the facts that would round out this chapter would, through the presentation of such information, receive the sincere thanks of the writer and other earnest students. The best piece known to me is a vertical strip of four, and well worth full catalogue of $150.00 to anyone seeking a fair degree of completion in their collection.

2c Proprietary

The existence of a fair number of satisfactory imperforate singles has always led me to be hopeful of unearthing a pair, but patience and search is as yet unrewarded. Possibly the pleasure remains for another. In any event the part perforate multiple has long been known, and while a fine, desirable piece, is not by any means, in spite of some opinions otherwise, as good as the Playing Cards just discussed. In addition to a few pairs I know of vertical strips of three, four and five, Mr. W. S. White picking up one of the latter in a leading New York auction for $17.00, as against a price of $57.00 for a defective pair brought about by an uninformed commission agent. At the moment a block is apparently unknown, but is entirely within the range of possibilities, as about 100 million of these blue stamps were used altogether.

3c Foreign Exchange

While there is no record of any partly perforated stock of this stamp in the Butler and Carpenter books, and pairs were unknown as late as 1899, a horizontal piece, imperforate vertically, turned up in the Eagle collection and passed to Mr. White. A few years ago the same gentleman secured two more similar but poorly centered pairs from a New York dealer, and the report has been current, but unconfirmed, that a holding of fair quantities is known. The present specialized catalogue lists a pair at double the valuation placed upon the 2c Proprietary which appears rather radical, but to deliberately rate such an item as 33% better than the pair of 2c Playing Cards is ridiculous, for the latter even on a price parity would invariably be taken by the informed. One pair of Foreign Exchange was marketed by Mr. White at $40.00, another, offered by a dealer, at an exhorbitant figure was refused by a wealthy and enthusiastic collector, and subsequently by several others, proving that it is idle to visualize or quote fantastic levels, which a very narrow market will not support.

3c Proprietary

In common with the stamp just reviewed the 3c Proprietary was unknown in multiple part perforate form to any collectors during the nineteenth century, and when the wonderful Eagle property began to be dispersed about fifteen years ago the only representation in this line was a reconstructed strip of three. This piece remained unique until Mr. Stromberg turned up a pair in Illinois, since which time I personally know of three more in collectors' hands. Regarding the specialized price I feel that the list is high enough, but the utter lack of any multiples for so many years, combined with the value always placed upon a single copy, has probably had a psychological effect upon the compilers. Still there were four times as many (Perforated and Part-Perforate) issued as of the 2c Playing Cards, so I will follow the law of averages and string along with the latter, at least until greater illumination is shed upon all these rare varieties.

10c Contract

A study of all of the 10c titles, both from the standpoint of the imperforate and part perforate stamps, is extremely interesting, especially with reference to the known multiples today, and the evidence of the contractors' books up to early in 1864. Indications point to the original supply of imperforates in the vault ranging from Inland Exchange, as most plentiful, down through Bill of Lading, Certificate and Contract, of which there were about equal quantities to the Power of Attorney, of which the record tends to reveal about one-fourth as many as of Inland. Now the actual situation today presents the imperforate Power of Attorney pair as overwhelmingly the rarest, Contract unknown in this form, Certificate and Inland readily obtainable, and B. L. the commonest. This latter title in turn is the rarest of the 10c part perforate pairs, with Inland far and away the commonest, hence it is easy to understand that there was no uniformity on the part of the contractors in reperforating, either in whole or in part, any particular portion of the imperforate supplies. To revert to part perforate multiples of Contract, of which I, personally, know of around a dozen examples, the main difficulty appears to be in the matter of condition, as some are most ordinary. The list price of $15.00 a pair I consider too low, especially for a perfect piece, the badly defective item in the Hetrich collection recently bringing $25.00 at auction. However, the public sales results frequently differ widely, as witness my procurement last month in New York of a good strip of four of "Contract" at less than half the price of the Hetrich pair. Incidentally Mr. White had a block of four.

70c Foreign Exchange

Of all the part perforate revenues this stamp is probably the least likely to appear in the form of additional pairs or larger, and is one of the three items in this group which Mr. Eagle diligently sought, but never secured. The value did not readily lend itself to multiple use, the initial supply was extremely limited, and the four known pieces are now so old that their early history is lost. Some have maintained that only a portion of one sheet of 85 stamps escaped perforation, and a pair which I formerly had tends to support this contention, which, however, will quite likely never be positively confirmed. There was a

THE MOST POPULAR U. S. STAMP

Analysis of our sales records over a period of nearly ten years shows that we have sold, in gross value, more than twice as many of the Three Cents of 1851-1857 as of any other U. S. stamp. The number of students of these stamps is steadily growing, and the appearance of Dr. Carroll Chase's great reference work (now on the press) should widen the field.

These stamps range in value from a few cents to $100.00. They are collected for shades, printings, plate varieties, such as shifts, unusual recuts, flaws and cracks; cancellations, covers, rates, etc. Invariably we carry a large, specialized stock of them. We quote on a few popular items:

A set of dates, 365 (lacks July 16 only) one for each day in the year. All have clear dates, but Jan. 1, Feb. 14, Feb. 29, July 4, and Dec. 25 are beyond question. There are some very fine shades and copies; a few orange browns. Catalog as singles at least $100; net $45.00.

Plate III has extra and missing side lines on many of the last Three Rows. A fine set, plated, complete, $55.00.

Recut button, a favorite variety; list $15.00; net $8.00.

Line thru Three Cents, another pet; list $20.00; net $12.50.

Five lines recut on the orange brown, in a pair with normal variety; on fine cover, net $40.00.

Fine covers with railroad, or red or green town cancellations; pairs, strips, blocks for plating, sent on approval to those furnishing customary trade references.

Always the same old guarantee: "Your money back if you want it".

"MARINE INSURANCE STAMPS"

Remainders of Scott's 401-407 Now Offered For Subscription At Face

On the 1rst February, 1921, the Dutch Postal Authorities afforded the opportunity to send registered mail destined for the Dutch East Indies by so-called "floating safes." The origin of these safes is due to the great war, during which many mailsteamers were torpedoed or struck mines and were lost with their valuable cargoes. In order to save at least the mail from destruction in future they were not stowed away in the holds but carried on deck in safes, especially made for that purpose, which depositaries in case of loss of the ship detached themselves automatically and floated on the surface of the sea.

An agreement was entered into by the Dutch Government with the discoverer; for this mode of transport extra postage was due to be paid by using special stamps, named "Marine Insurance Stamps" by Gibbons and Scott, issued by the government; the discoverer and undertaker received a certain percentage of the stamps sold. So they are almost similar to the air-stamps issued in 1928 in Holland for the flights Holland-Dutch Indies, of which the company carrying the mails also receives a certain share in the proceeds of the stamps sold.

The Marine Insurance Stamps were issued in 7 values, viz.: 15, 60 and 75 cents, f1.50, f2.25, f4.50 and f7.50, representing a total face value of f17.25 (equal to about $7.—) for the complete set. A set with the inscription "NEDERLAND" and another set with the inscription "NEDERLANDSCH INDIE" was issued.

In 1921 the risk of floating mines had considerably lessened, the extra postage was rather high, no wonder that this mode of transport was never very popular. Consequently, the stamps in question were not often utilized. Of the total issue, comprising many millions, only a very small number was taken up and this day not more than 1,451 sets of Holland and 658 sets of the Dutch Indies (of a few values something more) have been brought into circulation.

The undertaker, the Van Blaaderen's Co., Ltd., however, had the option on 11,600 sets of both series, which he had to call for within specified time. Hence, the maximum number that can exist is respectively 13,051 sets of Holland and 12,258 sets of the Dutch Indies.

After expiry of the specified term the sets not called for will be burned, which fate was already met with by the balance of the original issue. It is easy to understand that given such small quantities these stamps soon increased in value.

At first, when the existing quantity was considered to amount to 1,451, resp. 658 sets, prices of from f80.— to f90.— were made at the auctions in Holland. Later on, when the number extant proved to be 13,051, resp. 12,258 sets, prices of from f40.— to f50.—were paid, at which price the stamps are still obtainable.

In Scott's catalogue (1929) they are valued at $32.15 per set.

One of the Dutch philatelic journals, De Philatelist, Rotterdam, protested against the procedure of the government. Though the fact could not be denied that the v. Blaaderen Co., Ltd., could enforce some rights against the State, the editor of the article in question characterized the proceeding as inimical to the interests of philatelie in general that the v. B. Co., Ltd., was afforded an opportunity to sell the stamps which were officially valued at f17.25 per set, at the above mentioned prices, thereby realising an enormous profit at the expense of collectors. This view was almost unanimously endorsed by the whole of the philatelic press. The protest in said paper has not failed to produce its effect. So far the v. B. Co., Ltd., has only succeeded in disposing of 100 sets and that after many round about ways.

Thus the Dutch Government has had thrown on its hands 11,500 sets of Holland and the same number of sets of the Dutch Indies. That a protest in our press may have good results has now been proved! The 11,500 sets of both will be offered for subscription at the original face value of f17.25 per set, Applications from philatelists residing at home and abroad to be sent to the banking company, the Nederlandsche Handel Maatschappij at The Hague, Holland, to be received there not later than the 31rst March, 1929 and accompanied by the amount; with each application 30 cents should be added for postage.

The allotment takes place pro rata in such a way, however, that at least one complete set is allotted to each applicant.

These surely are mean ones to get, especially in fine condition. The ones which we have listed as Well centered are finer than any we have had submitted for a long time, and those described as Extra well centered—well, they are the cream of our fine copies — Superb! Yes, we know how much these items catalog, and still think they're worth more than we are asking.

THE WORLD'S GREAT STATUES in STAMP DESIGNS

Greek Issues with the Hermes of Praxiteles. The "Headless Victory" on an Uruguayan Stamp

By DOUGLAS ARMSTRONG.

¶ Are you a lover of Statuary? Would you possess examples of the work of the master sculptors of all ages? Then you need only set to work upon collecting the many examples of picturesque postage stamps whereon they have been reproduced in miniature.

FROM ancient Egypt, where the art of the sculptor flourished, come the well-known statues of Rameses II in the great temple at Thebes and one of Amenhotep III, builder of Luxor, who appears on the Statiscal Congress commemoration stamps of 1927. Persia contributes a bas-relief of King Darius on his throne, from the ruins of Persepolis.

Greek Masterpieces on Modern Stamps

Sculpture reached its apogee at the hands of the Greek masters, whose finest work has been handed down to posterity upon postage stamps. The Hermes of Praxiteles, discovered during the excavation at Olympia, is seen in all its glory in the design of the 2-drachmai stamp of the Olympic Games series of 1896, whilst the head alone is reproduced upon a 10 lepta denomination of the island of Crete issued in 1908. To the same school belongs the famous Victory statue by Peonias.

Myron's Disc Thrower, of which there is a replica in the British Museum, figures on another stamp of this series, as well as in the Belgian Olympic set of 1920. It is a far cry from Samothrace to Montevideo, but for a stampic representation of the celebrated "headless Victory" associated with that island we must turn to a comparatively recent emission of Uruguay which commemorates the success of the national football team in the Olympic Games of 1924.

A characteristic subject of the Italian Renaissance that has inspired many stamp designs is the classical bronze "Mercury" of Giovanni de Bologna, preserved in the Bargello at Florence. This beautiful piece of statuary adorns not only the Greek stamps of 1901, but also certain issues of Uruguay and the negro republic of Liberia.

Giovanni was a pupil of Michel-Angelo, whose group of the "Libyan Sibyl" from the fresco of the Sistine Chapel at the Vatican has also been adapted to some stamps of the Italian colony of Libia, circa 1924. An unidentified statue of Diana of the Ephesians, unearthed during some excavations near Tripoli, is also represented upon certain stamps of this country.

Two stamps of the Saar Valley depict a curious example of French wood sculpture dating from the early Twelfth Century, in the Madonna of Bliescastel, a figure of the Virgin supporting on her knees the crucified body of Christ. It reposed originally in the priory of the Guillemites at Grafinthal, but was removed to Bliescastel at the time of the French Revolution, where it still attracts numbers of devout pilgrims.

Houdon's Bust of Washington

Several of the portrait busts of bygone Presidents which appear on postage stamps of the United States are the work of eminent sculptors who visited the great Republic shortly after its severance from the Mother Country. Most familiar of all is the profile bust of George Washington after the French artist Jean Antoine Houdon, now in the State House at Richmond, Virginia. Cerrachi's bust of Benjamin Franklin has also been extensively introduced in the designs of the United States postage stamps over a lengthy period.

The gigantic statue of Liberty by Bartholdi, which guards the entrance to New York Harbour, may be found not only upon the contemporary 15 cents stamp of the U.S.A., but also as the subject of a set of Peace commemoration stamps which appeared in Uruguay in 1919.

"The Fighting Newfoundlander"

A striking example of modern sculpture in postage stamp form exists in the 3 cents Newfoundland stamp of 1923, e central figure of which is the bro statue of a "Fighting Newfoundland" by Capt. Basil Gotto from the V Memorial at St. John's, the capital. T figure of "Peace" which surmounts Victoria Memorial outside Buckingh Palace, furnished the design of higher values of the Peace celebrat stamps of Barbados (1920), whilst sc of the groups surrounding the base Sir Thomas Brock's monumental w are seen upon the New Zealand "Victo series of that year.

This does not by any means exha the list of well-known statues in wh the designers of the world's post stamps have found inspiration, but su cient has been written to show the timate relationship which exists betw Philately and Sculpture.—Bazaar.

DEATH OF E. C. FARNSWORTH

Portland, Maine, has lost a veteran philatelist in the death of Edw. C. Farnsworth. He passed away Jan. 21, at the age of 75. Mr. Farnsworth started collecting in the sixties, and has been interested in stamps during his entire life. He had specialized in Br. Cols., U. S. Postage, revenues and Match and Medicine. In the last named field especially, he ranked with Adenaw, Andreini, Carter etc., in his study of these stamps. Mr. Farnsworth was widely known as a philatelist, author and philosopher. He was a classmate of the late Robt. E. Peary, Arctic explorer.

Mr. Farnsworth left considerable property, one interesting item being a bequest of his collection of postage stamps," also patriotic war envelopes in 17 or more volumes" given to a nephew, Hugh M. Farnsworth, with the understanding that they are to be kept as remembrances and sold.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Resignation of Mr. Markee

Press of business has caused Mr. Markee to resign as Air Mail Editor of the WEEKLY. We regret very much that we are compelled to make this announcement, and so will many of our readers. Mr. Markee will continue until we secure a new editor—who will make application for the position?

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Evidently the First Flight of FAM No. 6, northbound, was well patronized by collectors, judging from the number of covers sent for chronicle in this column. So far, I have not noted any variations in cachets or cancellations. Specially printed envelopes were quite prevalent, some of them being very attractive in their design.

Official notice of delivery of air mails at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, was contained in the postal Bulletin under date of January 14th, the first stop of the southbound plane being scheduled for January 21st.

The postponement of the First Flight of FAM No. 5 to Feb. 4th, has given collectors a chance to double their coverage in view of Col. Lindbergh's announcement that he will pilot the plane. Additional word has been received from the American Air Mail Society that the Colonel will pilot the return trip as well. No mail will be carried for intermediate points between Miami and Cristobal, and the same plane will make the return trip, the date being problematical, although it is hoped that no great delay will occur.

A clipping from Harry Leonard states that the current 2c value of Canal Zone stamp has been overprinted "AIR MAIL —25 cents" in blue ink, and that 50,000 were put on sale January 11th, the original date of the inaugural flight from Miami. The same clipping also states that there may be a further delay in starting flights, February 13th being given, due to incomplete arrangements by the contractor.

Looks like the speedboat affair at Oakland, Calif., is another "Off again, on again" proposition. Last week, just as the column closed, came word that the P. M. at San Francisco was returning all covers held there, a printed slip being attached to covers stating the cause of return. Now comes a letter from the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, dated January 12th, saying "no definite date." Your guess is as good as anybody's!

Waterhouse

—Eminent British Philatelist Takes Renewed Interest in U. S.

(It is not generally known that Sir Nicholas Waterhouse has resumed the collecting of U. S. stamps. The lure of the hobby has again cast its charm around this eminent philatelic authority as evidenced by his exhibit before the J. P. S.)

The Christmas spirit was in the air at the J. P. S. London meeting on Friday, December 21st, and it showed itself at the outset when the President rose to address the large gathering of members, and introduced the guest of the evening as St. Nicholas. Perhaps just a lapsus liguæ, for it was Sir Nicholas Waterhouse who had come to show us a few selected pages from his wonderful collection of United States stamps.

Sir Nicholas has always had a penchant for "New Yorks" and showed a very rare specimen with the initials R.H.M., and some of the most notable shifts or re-entries.

Among the 1861 issue were two remarkable covers, each bearing a 90 cent. All the early 90 cent United States stamps are rare on covers. One of these was used with other stamps to pay a 96 cent rate on a letter to Zanzibar, and the other addressed to a bank at Liverpool probably contained a heavy pass-book, and the high postage was due to its weight. The full set of premières gravures was displayed.

In the 1869 issue were some beautiful copies, always difficult to get in this pretty issue. The 30 cents inverted flags was shown, along with one of the fakes of this great rarity, made by the late Dr. James Petrie.

Another outstanding item was a block of four of the 24 cent of 1870 with red postmark. Only one other used block is known, and that has a blank postmark. The block shown was acquired at a London auction a little over a year ago, when the bidding started at £5, someone else said £6, Sir Nicholas immediately took the field with a bid of £97 and ultimately got it for £120.

The 2c brown of 1873, with clear double impression, was another unusual item. Of the 1901 inverted centres, Sir Nicholas said the 2 cent was as scarce as the 30 cent 1869 with flags inverted.

Mr. Frank Godden proposed and Mr. G. Bridgmore Brown seconded the vote of thanks to Sir Nicholas.—Postage Stamp.

DEATH OF THORS BERG

A large circle of our readers will learn with sorrow of the death of Thors Berg, which occurred Jan. 22. For months he has used the WEEKLY, and had built up a large clientele among our subscribers. The sad news comes from Mr. J. Murray Bartels who writes:—

"It is with extreme regret that I have to inform you of the sudden death of our good friend, Mr. Thors Berg of High View, N. Y. He suffered a sever attack of mastoiditis which affected his brain before he could reach the hospital at Middletown, N. Y. On his arrival it was found to be too late for an operation.

His loss will be keenly felt by the many collectors of 20th Century British Colonials with whom he had built up a large trade in the last two or three years. During the World War he was engaged in the export business, and made substantial profits. These he invested in British Colonial stamps of which he held the largest and most valuable stock in America.

A Norwegian by birth, he came to this country shortly before the war. Being fond of rural life he built a home on a mountain near High View, N. Y., from where he conducted an extensive stamp business. He was a bachelor in his early forties, and is survived by a brother in St. Petersburg, Fla., and a sister in Norway. The funeral was held Thursday, Jan. 24, from the home of his old friends, the family of Capt. Norman in Brooklyn."

CANAL ZONE AIRMAIL, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Service on Contract Air Mail route No. 23, between New Orleans, La., and Atlanta, Ga., 479 miles (operated by the St. Tammany Gulf Coast Airways, Inc., of New Orleans), and CAM No. 19, between Atlanta and New York, 763 miles (Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., of Philadelphia, contractors), was inaugurated on May 1, 1928.

In his report for 1927-28, the Director of Posts of the Canal Zone, writes:

"On account of the increase in number of letters mailed locally for conveyance by the U. S. air mail routes, special dispatches were made up to New Orleans to connect with the air route from Pilottown to New Orleans, and thence with the New Orleans to New York air mail route."

The Pilottown to New Orleans route, 80 miles, known as FM-3, is operated by A. E. Cambas, of New Orleans.

On December 1, 1928, service was inaugurated over CAM No. 25, between Atlanta and Miami, Fla., 595 miles (Pitcairn Aviation, Inc.), and on the same date, over CAM 30, between Chicago, Ill., and Atlanta, 785 miles (Interstate Air Lines, Inc., of Chicago). This provides air mail service from New Orleans via Atlanta to both Chicago and New York.

Subsequent to the opening of the air mail route from New Orleans to New York, on May 1, 1928, the Bureau of Posts of the Canal Zone had manufactured at the Panama Canal Press, Mount Hope, Canal Zone, a supply of 2c air mail envelopes, with blue, white and red horizontal stripes, in two sizes, No. 6 (6½x3⅝"), and No. 9 (9¼x4⅛"). Of the former, 10,000 were made, and of size No. 9, 5,000. These are sold at the regular retail price of the other stamped envelopes. Size 6 was issued May 21, 1928, and size 9 a few days later. The difference between the stamped value (2c) and the prevailing U. S. air letter rate (i.e., 10c per half ounce) was added in postage stamps.

On June 7, 1928, by Order 7773 of the Postmaster General of the U. S., announcement was made that effective 1st August, 1928, the air letter rate would be 5c for the first ounce, and 10c for subsequent ounces. For this service, a special 5c air mail stamp was prepared (described, and announced for issue on July 26, 1928, in a notice of June 19, 1928), printed in red and blue, with the central design representing the Beacon Light on Sherman Hill in the Rocky Mountains.

In July, 1928, the Director of Posts of the Canal Zone, ordered from Washington, 50,000 (later increased to 200,000) of the new 5c air mail stamp, overprinted "Canal Zone," which requisition was not approved, inasmuch as there was no air mail service operating in or from the Canal Zone. When it was learned that this requisition would not be honored, remittances for the new stamp, which had been accumulating at the Philatelic Agency, Balboa Heights, were returned, with the following circular:

"The Panama Canal.
Canal Zone.
Bureau of Posts.
Philatelic Agency.
BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z.
September 10, 1928

Collectors and Dealers:

For some time the Director of Po has been negotiating with Washingt endeavoring to obtain the new 5c mail stamp surcharged for use in Canal Zone. These negotiations h been unsuccessful, and it is not lik that the Canal Zone will have an air m stamp in the near future.

The amount of your remittance inte ed for air mail stamps is being retur herewith.

Respectfully,
(Signed) R. GRAHAM,
Postmaster.

Further quoting from the Director Posts report for 1927-28:

"When the route is established to ami and Key West, special air mail s will be made up and routed via Haba

The air mail route from Key We to Habana, Cuba (FM-4), 104 miles, o rated by the Pan-American Airways, I of New York, was inaugurated on O ber 19, 1927, and from Habana nort to Key West, on October 29, 1927. Sept. 15, 1928, air mail service f Miami to Habana was established. a short time, the plane from Mi stopped at Key West to take on mail on hand for Habana, but this soon discontinued. The return se from Habana to Miami, and contra for by the Cuban Government, it is ported will be started shortly after first of the year.

The Director of Posts of the C Zone also mentions the through se to Panama in the following terms:

"It is expected that the air mail r to Panama from Key West via Ha and Central American ports will placed in operation during the co year."

On July 10, 1928, the Postmaster eral of the U. S. awarded to the I American Airways, Inc., the contrac carrying mail by air from Key W Fla., to the Panama Canal Zone, a bid of $2 per mile. A SPECULATIVE ISSUE

POPE PIUS XI AND KING ALFONSO XIII OF SPAIN APPEAR ON NEW STAMPS

Translation by HERMANN FOCKE.
(M. Galvez, Madrid, dealer.)

Distressing news comes from Spain, nouncing the issue of two sets of 14 lues each of postage stamps, the proeds of which are destined to continue excavations in Rome of the Catanbs of St. Damaso, for which Pope is XI has granted permission for his gy to appear on the stamps at the side H. M. King Alfonso XIII of Spain.

But mind you, the stamps are not to sold all over Spain, but exclusively the cities of Toledo and Santiago, there only under certain restrictions, only during the days from Decem- 23d to January 6th last, from which er date on, the distribution is to be rusted to a certain dealer of Madrid, also had secured this privilege for so-called Red Cross set issued in y, 1927.

he stamps have been printed by terlow & Sons, Ltd., in London, and goes without saying that they have luced, as usual, a set of striking apance, but the circumstances connected their issue is such, that we collect- should certainly think twice before sting our good money in the stamps, it would be to the best of philately eneral, if the catalogues would either ain entirely from giving these stamps gnition, or treat them as highly—or scott mentioned in reference to anoth- set—"rank speculative stamps for tly local use."

his method may appear radical and rary, but if no stop is made in these almost daily issues of "pasters", it t be long before the collectors will must lose heart, and a severe blow ealt to the hobby in general.

he stamps are large, of oblong shape, long by 1⅛" high, printed in two irs, the effigy of His Holiness apng at left, and of H. M. the King ght, facing each other, framed by a with a tassel at both ends, tied in a in the centre at top.

scriptions: "Correos—España" at top, "Pro Fide et Artibus" (For Faith Arts) at bottom, with values in e tablet at either lower corner.

The two lowest values have been printed in two shades, to make the issue more interesting yet, and the number of stamps issued is the same for each value for both cities mentioned, as follows:

For Santiago

2 centimos	violet and black
2 "	lilac and black
3 "	blue-black and lilac
3 "	blue and lilac
5 "	olive and lilac
10 "	yellow-green and black
15 "	blue-green and lilac
25 "	carmine and lilac
40 "	dark blue and black
55 "	red-brown and lilac
80 "	red and black
1 peseta	gray and lilac
2 pesetas	brown-red and black
3 "	rose and lilac
4 "	violet-brown and black
5 "	gray-black and lilac

For Toledo

2c deep blue and carmine,	1,230,000
2c light blue and carmine,	210,000
3c sepia and blue,	822,000
3c olive and blue,	190,000
5c brown-violet and carmine,	575,000
10c yellow-green and blue,	337,000
15c gray-blue and carmine,	337,000
25c rose-carmine and blue,	432,000
40c ultramarine and carmine,	102,000
55c black-brown and blue,	92,000
80c black and carmine,	89,000
1p yellow and carmine,	87,000
2p gray and blue,	32,000
3p violet and carmine,	30,000
4p lilac rose and carmine,	28,000
5p orange and blue,	26,000

The reason why the two cities named were favored with this particular issue is given. For Santiago because it had given shelter to the Patron Apostle of Spain, and for its famous cathedral visited by pilgrims of the whole world; and Toledo for being the See of the Metropolitan Prime Cardinal of Spain.

The two sets of a total face value of about 35 pesetas, or roughly, $6.00, are offered to enthusiasts, if such there should be, for 44,30 pts., or $7.50, so, boys start the rush, before it is too late, and buy your pesetas before they advance to 20c each.

A REAL STAMP FAN

You can't bother with a busy Managing Editor and get away with it. So discovered Clarence D. R. Clark of Mountainside, N. J., a suburban correspondent for the Plainfield Courier-News and a rabid philatelist.

Clark has been making profitable use of the overflowing waste-paper baskets of the Courier's editorial room in building up his collection of unusual stamps. Saturday afternoon it happened that he had his head far down into the waste receiver of Norman Nairn, managing editor, when said Managing Editor got back to his desk.

"Say, if you keep on in my way rummaging into that basket I'll get you a couple of garbage pails."

"I'd appreciate looking through those if I thought I'd get a good stamp in them," shot back the "Bug." "Say, what do you think of the time made on that letter I just got from the Bahamas? It got here in less than two days."

"How should I know," answered "Pop." "I never traveled around that country, but I do know how long it would take to walk from here to New York."

"How long?" queried Clarence.

"Six hours," says "Pop", apoplectic.—Courier-News.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN CO.

EDITORIAL

THE Scott Stamp and Coin Company has accomplished a neat stroke of business diplomacy. We all know how freely criticism of prices in the catalogues flows from lips that are slow to move disapproving as a rule; and now, in effect, the protesting clan is invited into the open and asked to start their oratory suitable for the occasion. The following letter is signed by Hugh M. Clark, treasurer, and evidently was sent to the members of the American Stamp Dealers' Association, and no doubt to others who are supposed to qualify as critics of quotations: "I am taking the liberty of enclosing herewith a pad of blanks for use in making suggestions and criticisms of the prices contained in the 1929 edition of our Catalogue. I will esteem it a favor if you will aid me by jotting down any comments that occur to you and forward to me. I know of no body of men whose knowledge is greater and whose comments more valuable than the membership list of the American Stamp Dealers' Association, and I earnestly bespeak your coöperation in making the Catalogue more accurate with each edition. . . . May I count on your aid?" We harbor the suspicion that the next edition of the catalogue will be the book of a thousand editors. If this move does not meet with a ready response, the critics should hereafter hold their peace.

DR. LISTER TUHOLSKE, St. Louis, writes: "In the past year or two, I have become greatly interested in cancellations on British West Indies stamps, and I believe that there is a small number of collectors scattered throughout the United States who are interested in this same side-line. I have looked in vain through the philatelic literature for information regarding which post office the various numeral cancellations signify, so just recently, I wrote to the Postmaster at Bridgetown, Barbados, and I am enclosing a copy of his reply." The postmaster's letter follows: "There are eleven Post Offices, one in Bridgetown, No. 1, referred to as the general Post Office, and one in each of the ten Parishes into which the Colony is divided. The names of these Parishes with their numerals are: Christ Church, 2; Saint Philip, 3; Saint George, 4; Saint John, 5; Saint Joseph, 6; Saint James, 7; Saint Thomas, 8; Saint Andrew, 8; Saint Peter, 10, and Saint Lucy, 11. The word 'Bridgetown' has never appeared on any cancellation, and the numerals are no longer in use, each Office being denoted by name."

WRITING further on the Medical Congress stamps of Egypt, Mr. P. J. Drossos, Athens, Greece, says: "Although three values were expected, as in the case of the previous Congress issues, no 15m stamp appeared, thus bringing down the face value of the set to half the usual figure. The 5m brown depicts the God of Medicine, Hotep; issue, 300,000, and the 10m red, the portrait of Mohamed Ali, the founder of the reigning Dynasty of Egypt; issue 204,000. The rush to buy the stamps at all the post offices of Egypt (Cairo, Alexandria, and the other larger towns), was tremendous, and scenes resembling those at Port Fuad were repeated everywhere. By the early afternoon, the post offices in Cairo and Alexandria had stopped selling, the 5m having been completely sold out by that time." Mr. Drossos adds the postscript: "My agent in Cairo has again, as on previous occasions, debited me with the cost of a new suit to replace the one ruined in the crush and fights before the post office wicket."

WE have never filled space to better advantage than by reproducing the halftone of the letter that Roger W. Babson, whose name is almost sacrosanct in financial circles, so keen and accurate are his analyses of investments, that he wrote to Mr. H. E. Harris of Boston. Mr. Babson's letter was published in the Bi-Monthly Journal of H. E. Harris & Co., Boston, and the courtesy of Mr. Harris in securing the permission of Mr. Babson for us to use the cut is appreciated. In our opinion, no greater tribute in a practical way has ever been paid to philately, and we are gratified in being able to pass the good words along.

THIS is how Mr. Kenneth Loucks of Indianapolis rises to the occasion. He writes: "While enthused over the oncoming George Rogers Clark stamp, I thought perhaps Mr. Herschell would like to tell about it to the folks of Indianapolis and the Hoosier State. So taking our own WEEKLY of December 24th, and my Clark data, I went a-visiting to Bill's office and 'sold' him the idea without much trouble; and how he has produced is shown herewith—don't you like his style?" We do! and why shouldn't we since "Mr. William Herschell is considered one of the coterie of Indiana writers along with Kin Hubbard, Nicholson, Ade and Tarkington, and his poems, 'Songs of the City Streets' are read generally. He has the feature in the Indianapolis News every Saturday night. I am just interesting him in stamp collecting, and hope to send you work from his typewriter on this subject in the future." Mr. Herschell's article is indeed a feature and is headed: "Indiana Enters Realm of the Immortals with Vincennes Stamp, Commemorating Capture of Ft. Sackville by George Rogers Clark." The illustrations set off the readable text in an impressive manner and the stamp theme is interwoven in a masterly way. We shall have to provide space next week for a generous slice from Mr. Herschell's article, and we shall welcome the day when this brilliant writer will offer himself to be dubbed philatelist.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor,
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

Mr. Bryant to the Mgr.-Editor

"As you are aware, the numerous issues recently presented by the post office department have resulted in a greatly increased interest in the stamps of our country, and is daily adding to the great host of collectors, who are more and more specializing in these issues. This has become so pronounced that the philatelic press devotes large amounts of space to the various groupings in which they may be classified, i.e., precancels, covers, bureau prints, air mail, etc. To the foregoing groups another field may now be added as worthy of attention. I refer to plate numbers and plate markings in all their various characteristics. As the tendency of the times leans to such marked interest in our country's stamps, so does interest increase in this latter field, so that now every issue of practically all philatelic magazines contain notes and data on these subjects. The number of collectors interested in this field is considerable, and a healthy and flourishing society has grown as the result. However, up to the present time no serious effort has been made to systematically present in the philatelic press, a complete and exhaustive record of the wealth of interesting data that is available on these subjects.

With this in mind, and after careful deliberation, I am convinced that the time has now arrived when the establishment of a special column devoted to these subjects will fill a long felt need, and find a welcome response from the readers of MEKEEL'S. It is of sufficient importance to attract a large number of leading philatelists, and will greatly help to create the interest of beginners and prospects. The subject of plates and all the various sub-divisions that present themselves is indeed a wide one, and much data is on hand to furnish excellent material for presentation to readers of the WEEKLY. I have broached the subject to several officers of the Philatelic Plate Number Association, and they are quite enthusiastic. Being a member of that association, naturally I am in touch with many of its members. The consensus of opinion is that the column, if properly conducted, will be an instant success, and will do much to spread and maintain the general knowledge of plates and plate numbers.

Atherton's column, as conducted during the past few years, has been a great source of information in its chosen field, and it is my ambition to conduct a like column devoted to plates and plate markings. The entire range of plate markings will be included within its scope. Arrows, guide lines, stars, letter 'A' and 'F', initials, numbers, defects, errors, flaws, and all individual characteristics constitute a wide field for specialism. Each phase will be carefully covered, and from time to time supplemented with special articles. As its heading states everyone is invited to write in for information. By arrangement with several leading members of the Philatelic Plate Number Association the cream of the plate specialists of the country have offered their services in an advisory capacity, and are willing to actively cooperate when necessary. Thus, if some reader writes in for information on some technical question that the editor is unable to answer from records on hand, a transcript of the inquiry will be forwarded to one of these specialists, who has agreed to answer at once and send back for publication. This feature alone is a valuable asset to any magazine. Mr. Ward, in his column has done much for plate specialists, especially in furnishing lists of numbers as prepared. Such information should continue to appear in that column. The data contained in the proposed column is that of plates that actually went to press, together with such information on individual plates that may be gleaned from nation-wide correspondence. Records of imperforate sheets are not kept at the Bureau, and the only way these numbers may be obtained is through the efforts of interested collectors.

I suggest that a bi-weekly appearance will be ample for a start, but if necessary, material for weekly presentation can be arranged. The Philatelic Plate Number Association has its own official organ, and is not directly concerned with the proposed column, but many of its officers and members have promised to collaborate with the writer as individuals, and its many records pertaining to plates and plate markings are available through Mr. R. W. Becker, the treasurer and founder of the Association. Once started, you may rest assured that material will be forwarded regularly for publication, correspondence handled efficiently, and that everything will be conducted on the same high standard usual throughout the WEEKLY. Further issues are about to appear, and a very bright future is evident for the field covered in the proposed column."

The Mgr.-Editor in Reply

"You may begin at once with your proposed department on a bi-weekly basis, and if the interest warrants it, we shall be very glad to make it a weekly feature. Anything that concerns U. S. stamps should be of value to our readers."

San Juan-Miami

—Curious Situation On Short Paid Air Mail Sent Out Jan. 9.

By NELSON F. GERKEN.

When Foreign Air Mail Route 6 was inaugurated January 9, a friend, a high official in Porto Rico, posted to me a letter franked with 7c postage, flown on the initial flight San Juan to Miami, thence through to destination—St. Louis—where it was backstamped.

A letter was enclosed stating it was originally reported at San Juan that postage on letters flown to the states would be 5c plus regular postage, or 7c per one-half ounce, but this was later nullified by an order from Washington, fixing the rate at 10c plus regular postage, or 12c, as the air mail fee. In the meantime, however, a considerable quantity of first flight mail had accumulated at the post office, and rather than disappoint those who had sent such mail for posting, the postmaster at San Juan appealed to Washington, and was authorized by the Department to forward all short paid mail as if fully paid, merely imprinting a rubber stamp notation, "Postage due ..... Cents," and inserting the deficit so that same could be collected on delivery at destination.

My letter came through without any deficit notation, nor was any shortage collected, and am wondering if other collectors received short paid first flight mail out of San Juan on this trip, or if mine just happened to slip by.

It would seem such short paid covers delivered without postage due stamps being affixed should be of considerable interest as it is not often Uncle Sam overlooks a thing of this kind.

A Philatelic Problem

Juniors may call in their "dads" to help them out on this problem—if they need any assistance. You may have to Feb. 18 to send in answers. Get busy and report:—

Add the digits of a certain year of issue of a U. S. stamp, and divide it by eight, which will give the face value of the stamp. The first three digits added together will give the perforation gauge of the stamp. The face value of the stamp multiplied a hundredfold will give Scott's present catalog value either used or unused. What is the stamp?

The Boy and His Stamps

By WM. B. BALL (12).

Very little does one, who is beginning to collect stamps, know, what an interesting, profitable education is soon to open to him. A boy of perhaps ten, will gather a little money, and go to a nearby stationery store.

"Mister," he asks of the clerk. "Have you any stamp albums?"

The much desired reply will be.

"Oh yes, my boy."

"Well, how much are they?" will be the next question.

"Sixty cents is the cheapest," is the reply.

"Kin I see it?" queries the boy.

One is shown him. It is apparent after an examination of the book, that the lad is satisfied, and he lays 60c on the counter and starts home.

How many boys, now rich men, and how many boys, rich men to be, have done the very same thing? Do they realize what fortunes may be theirs through that meager start? Do they realize that the stamps thus gathered in boyhood may be worth large sums to them when they are grown men? Most boys who are but beginners in this great hobby, expect little more than entertainment with their collections. In many cases a boy will begin to collect stamps, and in a few months, or even weeks, he will have forgotten his album and stamps completely, and his attention will be drawn toward another hobby.

Was it not but a short while ago that he resolved to have a collection that would rival the greatest? Oh certainly, but it had become rather tame. Was not this new hobby of building a shanty in the vacant lot next door much better?

Another lad will industriously save each stamp. He will search his house from cellar to garret, constantly in quest of stamps, old covers, and old finds of correspondence. Perhaps he may stumble on a letter bearing a Confederate States postage stamp. Sitting there in that dusty room gazing at it, his thoughts will take him from that room to the old plantation days. He hears the negroes crooning songs, while at work in fields of cotton. Again he visions a young man dressed in the gray uniform of the Confederacy, stepping into a stage coach, he bids farewell to his loved ones, departing, perhaps, to some military camp to join his regiment. Then the boy does not fail to realize the historical associations of stamps.

Philately

By A. C. LEDUC.

To most people stamp collecting is just stamp collecting, but to the real student of stamps it is more properly called "philately." The word "philately" was invented by a Frenchman, M. Herpin, about 1865, and was derived from two Greek words, philos meaning fond, and ateleia meaning exemption from tax. It is not very clear why the word was coined.

It may have been the custom for a fee to be collected upon the delivery of letters, but under the new order of things the recipient would have his mail exempt from any tax.

Is a Paradise for me.

Sevard's Twinkles

The new Air Mail envelope is out and e think it's a neat trick. Phil Ward hinks the design looks like a price tag, ut unfortunately we never look at the rice tag on anything that costs a nickel, o we don't know. The chap in Buffalo ho designed the light weight Air Mail nvelope and paper is still a few miles head of the Bureau's stationer. Imagine using a 60 lb. paper, or is it 72, for he envelope alone?

St. Joseph, Mich., has tired abbreiating their patron saint, and we note he new machine has Saint Joseph pelled out.

We have several inquiries as to the recancel error MIKWAUKEE. So nuch has been written on the subject hat we thought there could be no more nquiries. The error, we learn, was disovered in the Milwaukee Post Office nmediately on receipt of the stamps. here were 500,000 each of the 1½c and ne 8c stamps in sheets. As there were wo errors per sheet, there should be 0,000 copies of each variety of the eror. The stamps, however, were not all sued, and would not have been, except nat two stations ran out of the 1½c and c stamps, and the errors had to be isued. As far as we can learn, more than ,000 sheets of the 8c errors were reurned to Washington for destruction, nd about 2,000 of the 1½c error sheets. ew of the 8c errors were sold in sheets. learly all of the 1½c errors were sold sheets. A Milwaukee precancel perhit holder informs us that altho he purhases precancels almost daily, he was ble to get but one sheet of the error for the c, but more than 200 of the 1½c. He inorms us that he knew of the error the ay the stamps arrived from Washingon, but none were sold to him. Later, y necessity, the stamps were offered for ale across the counter, but not thru the holesale window. Thus the 8c was ailed at the Parcels Post window, and any are obtainable from mixtures. The ½c is not so scarce, as they were used oundantly by letter service concerns.

Mr. Hoover, beating as he sweeps om New Rochelle, asks about the key tters to plate numbers. The United tates has never used a key letter, but s used key stars to indicate experiental plates. Both Mr. Ward and Mr. outhgate have treated this subject well past papers, and we believe many of are still looking for the hollow and lid stars, and the hand sketched star ar the plate numbers of the rotary isues. The matter of phantom letters in e margin, platemen's initials, the letter near the top right plate number in the t bed plates meaning FINISHED, is subject for an encyclopedia, when ked with the arrows, guide lines, roy guides, separation lines and dashes, oklet varieties and coil stamps lines d plate numbers. Then we have those shes and dots in the earlier issues, as the 3c 1873, and 2c brown, appearing the line even with Washington's uth, to the left, in the medallion, dots der the 3 or 2, dots in the four corners, til one collects dots only;—and then stamp sizes.

One day, after an hour's watching the ld fish, to see if they'd go thru the stle or not, we measured stamp sizes the 3c 1879, and found that 38.6% re 21½mm by 26½mm between perfs. e append this table to emasculate the llible:

m by 26mm	1.0%	21½mm by 26mm	3.6%
m by 26½mm	6.8%	21½mm by 26½mm	38.6%
m by 27mm	1.0%	21½mm by 27mm	9.4%
m by 27½mm	0.4%	21½mm by 27½mm	3.6%
m by 28mm	0.4%	21½mm by 28mm	1.6%
m by 28½mm	0.4%	21½mm by 28½mm	1.4%
m by 29mm	0.2%	21½mm by 29mm	0.6%
m by 26mm	0.8%	22½mm by 26mm	0.2%
m by 26½mm	6.0%	22½mm by 26½mm	2.0%
m by 27mm	2.8%	22½mm by 27mm	0.6%
m by 27½mm	0.6%	22½mm by 27½mm	0.2%

All other sizes range below 0.2%, ich brings to mind the jumbo stamps the early issues. Mr. R. L. Hustis showed us a 6c Continental, which is the largest stamp we have seen thus far. And 16.8% of the stamps showed prominent dots, which no doubt are the original position dots in the plate. We asked the Mrs. to check our figures, but she simply would not. Out playing bridge with her girl friends, whose granddaughters are married.

The Model D Universal with seven lines is still with us, mostly with the usual Town A combination, i. e., without die number or station. Most of these postal markings show worn prints, altho here and there we find a new cut. This machine is easily identified by the seven line wave and the 20mm townmark. Bit by bit, we'll solve this mystery of postal markings.

WE WERE GREEN WITH ENVY WHEN THE AERO CONGRESS USED A COLORED MACHINE CANCEL. AFTER ALL WE'VE SAID ABOUT COLORED MACHINE CANCELS, OF COURSE THERE HAD TO BE ONE REGULARLY ISSUED. ALL YOU FIRST DAY COVER COLLECTORS NOW HAVE SOMETHING UNUSUAL.

We wonder how many have collected the postal markings of the Expeditionary Forces in Nicaragua? There was a war down there, and soldiers sent letters home. We recall coming back from France, some two years after this hero business died out, and nobody seemed to care whether we had fought, slept, eaten, or existed, until we met a stamp collector, who was keen on A. P. O. handstamps. To be a hero, one has to squawk at the right moment; and the same with stamp collectors. Anyone can find a rarity if you can squawk.

Of the Model D Universals, Six Line Fall, we've been talking about, one finds 99% of them of a single type showing a characteristic 20mm town, with the usual 1-2-3 arrangement in the townmark. The auxiliary mark is almost always a six-line wave mark, which begins with a decreasing arc, hence the term, fall. Years ago, the wave mark used in Chicago, had the usual C inserted in the bottom wave, and a die number in the second wave. Of this type of wave mark, we believe none are in existence today, all being of the full wave type. The slogan type for this machine is fast dying out, and we believe Findlay, Ohio, uses the only remaining example.

Mr. A. E. Clattenburg, Jr., of Cynwyd, Penna., kindly sends us a checklist of his odd cancels, a worthy list of many pages which contains many items of colored cancels of the past few years. Altho the colored letter rate cancel is specified for black inks, one often finds smaller towns using a colored cancel. In most cases, this is by error, as daubing a normally black canceler on a magenta pad, or using a handy pad of blue or red ink for postal purposes. A checklist of colored cancels on current stamps appeared in the "Scott's Monthly Journal", to which many additions could be made. Those from Battleships, and from alluringly named towns, are appealing. Moon Run, Penna., Cheyenne Agency, S. Dak., Saint Clair Shores, Mich., Alexandria, Va. (Theological Seminary Rur. Sta.), are as imaginative as is Whiskey Corners, Wisconsin. Try and get it.

THE 17c STAMP OF CANADA

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

With the advent of its first postage stamps Canada soon became involved in the morass of two valuations in connection with the English monetary system it had inherited from the Mother Country —"sterling" and "currency." The advantages of the decimal system were manifest in all its transactions with the United States, and it was obvious that sooner or later the cumbrous pence and shillings would have to give way to the more simply computed dollars and cents. This change in the monetary system of the Province of Canada, as it was known at that time, was promulgated on July 1, 1859, and it was immediately reflected in the postage stamps of the Province. A Postmaster-General's circular published regarding this change announced:

"Decimal stamps of the value of 1, 5 and 10 cents for ordinary correspondence, and of 12½ cents for Canadian, and 17 cents for British Packet Postage rates, were obtained in readiness for the commencement of the Decimal Postage Law in July, 1859, and have from that date been issued in lieu of the stamps previously in use."

The designs of the stamps of this new issue were adapted from those of the corresponding values of the pence series hitherto in circulation. The odd value of 17 cents—the only stamp of this denomination issued by our northern neighbour—which is the only one with which we are concerned in these brief notes, had the value SEVENTEEN CENTS in place of TEN PENCE on the inscribed oval around the portrait. Owing to the extra length of this new inscription the ornaments which had previously divided the designation of value from CANADA POSTAGE had to be erased and in their place small ovals were inserted. The numerals "17" took the place of "10cy" in the lower angles, but the legend "8 stg" in the upper corners was unaltered.

This 17c stamp was engraved in taille douce by the American Bank Note Company, of New York, whose predecessors, Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson had manufactured the stamps for the pence series. Only one plate was made for this denomination, and this consisted of 100 stamps arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten each, and while all the other values of this set showed the manufacturer's imprint in all four margins this 17c stamp is, curiously enough, entirely devoid of marginal inscriptions.

The normal color for this stamp is deep blue, but as there were several printings many shades are found, including one that can best be described as slate blue. The perforation gauges 12, and is the work of a single line machine. Offset varieties, of more or less striking appearance, may be found. As these were simply caused by one sheet being placed on top of another before the ink was properly dry, their philatelic importance is not very great.

Specialists will find it profitable to hunt for the re-entries or double transfers. The most pronounced of these shows a distinct doubling of the upper portion of the left frame line. Another shows a dot of color at the right of the inscribed oval band, with a thin vertical line passing through this dot parallel with the outer frame line. Another re-entry shows a line in and above the letters GE of POSTAGE. Guide dots may also be found—generally outside the center of the left frame line.

Slight variations in the paper may also be noted. The paper varies from yellowish to white and its texture from thin to fairly thick.

This value is known entirely imperforate.

A total of 599,999 stamps (we should like to know what became of the odd one) was received from the printers, and of these 516,026 were issued to postmasters. As this value became practically useless after a while it is probable that some of these were returned to Ottawa when the 1868 issue made its appearance. This stamp has shown considerable appreciation in catalogue value within the last few years, but really fine copies are by no means dear at full present quotations.

The portrait on this stamp is that of Jacques Cartier, the explorer and founder of Canada. At one time there was considerable discussion over the identity of the original, it having been claimed that the subject was Sebastian Cabot. However, it was eventually positively proved to be Cartier and the portrait was undoubtedly taken from an engraving reproduced from a three-quarter length painting of Cartier in the Hotel de Ville, at St. Malo, France, the birthplace of Cartier.

Jacques Cartier, as we have already shown, was born at St. Malo in Brittany in 1494. His early youth was passed upon the sea, as was customary with most youths of this village at that period, and it is probable he was already acquainted with the coast of Newfoundland when Francis I of France appointed him to the command of the two ships which, on April 20, 1534, set sail from St. Malo for the purpose of exploring the district beyond the fishing grounds. Cartier touched at Cape Buenavista, on the east coast of Newfoundland, then passe northwards along the coast and, sailin southwest through the Straits of Be Isle, he discovered the mainland of Ca ada and he claimed the same for Fran by erecting a wooden cross bearing t inscription "Vive le Roi de France Next year a second expedition was plac under his control to explore the estua of the St. Lawrence. He penetrated far as Hochelaga, a large fortified villa at the foot of a hill, to which he ga the name of Mont Royal, and which the site of the modern city of Montre But he did nothing more and return on May 16, 1536, disgusted with t climate and with his crew weakened scurvy, a disease then unknown Europe.

The only other stamp of Canada which Cartier's portrait appears is t 1c value of the Quebec Centenary iss on which he shares honors with Samu de Champlain.—Philatelic Opinion.

ROGER W. BABSON

Mr. H. E. Harris,
535 Commonwealth Ave.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Mr. Harris:

It always pleases me to see the work which you are doing to encourage stamp collecting because you are thereby rendering a real educational and social service. I say this for two reasons.

(1) I believe that children who collect stamps have the best records for success in after life of any group. Stamp collecting is not only the most practical method of learning geography and other subjects, but it furnishes the fundamentals for a business training.

(2) I believe that adults not only have in stamp collecting a legitimate form of investment, but it gives them a greater interest in other nations, which they would in no other wise acquire.

I am very glad to hear from you occasionally and have always admired your industry, honesty and interest. With kindest regards, I am,

Very truly yours,

Roger W. Babson

New Europe

—Ten Years of New Europe Stamps, a Field for Specialism.

It is just ten years ago since the first amps of Croatia made their appearance, ague heralds of a new State which be-me the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, nd Slovenes.

The Croats were the first to send us ich evidence of the independence so ardly won from the Hapsburg do-inion. The Magyar stamps, in all their ar-time variety, had been seized and verprinted with the mystic symbol .H.S. and the name Hrvatska (Croa-a). The set originally contained no ewer than forty different stamps over-rinted with those initials, but errors nd minor varieties exist of all of them.

It was at Zagreb that the first spe-ally designed stamps were issued to mmemorate the liberation of the South-n Slavs. They bear the date 29 Lis-pada (October), 1918, but they were t issued until November 28, 1918. This as a limited issue, and it was counter-ited locally. In January, 1919, there llowed a neat little series of litho-aphed stamps for Croatia, showing a ryatide of Victory, a Jugo-Slav. flag-arer, and an eagle perched upon the uble-headed eagle of the Hapsburgs.

These interesting little stamps have not en so closely studied by philatelists as e separate issue for Carniola made at ubach in the striking "chain-breaker" signs, although, being lithographed, ey present some similar points of in-rest. The vigorous "chain-breaker" sign gradually superseded all the sepa-te issues for other parts of Jugo-avia, and there are no longer any dis-ctive stamps for Croatia.

In 1925, when the Croats wished to ve a set of stamps to commemorate the llenary of the ancient Croat Kingdom, mps were prepared, but the plan met h such opposition at Belgrade that it s abandoned.

The ten years that have elapsed since Armistice have been marked in sev-l of the New European States by mp issues celebrating the tenth year their foundation. The Republic of tvia celebrated its first decade on No-nber 18th, and has a set of pictorial mps in hand showing views of the ef towns, and on the highest value the tional Theatre, where the independ-e of Latvia was proclaimed. Aus-a has issued a set of four stamps ring a portrait of the President, on occasion of the tenth anniversary of Republic. The values are 10 gros-n sepia, 15gr brown, 30gr grey-black, 40gr indigo.—Postage Stamp.

A large number of newspaper clippings reach me each week, and from these I endeavor to secure items that are of interest to readers. Obviously, I cannot guarantee their accuracy as to time or place of events. Readers who sent covers to Spokane, Seattle and Yakima, in anticipation of an early contract flight, based on the item which appeared in the Dec. 24th issue, would do well to read the item over again and note that "soon", as given by the newspaper clipping, may mean almost anytime, but not necessarily "at once". As you should know, we usually have plenty of advance notice on domestic contract flights, so the sending of covers on a newspaper item is inviting extra expense and possibly disappointment.

Mr. Frank W. Wright sends a tear sheet from an Elmira paper of Jan. 13th, wherein is illustrated three souvenir covers, the property of an Elmira, N. Y., collector. The noticeable feature of the article is the fact that no attempt has been made to deface the reproduction of the U. S. stamps, all of which appear in normal size.

A correspondent at Nassau writes he made inquiry of the P. O. as to why the discrepancy in rates between Miami-Nassau and Nassau-Miami, the former being 7c, and the latter 2c. The answer given was—"The Miami-Nassau service is an air mail service, the Nassau-Miami service being Mail Carried By Air at ordinary postal rates!" Barnum was right!

The Postal Bulletin dated January 19th gave unusually clear directions for collectors contemplating sending covers to the Canal Zone via First Flight of FAM No. 5, as well as how to handle their return covers. This little attention to collectors' interests will be appreciated by those lacking definite knowledge of "the ropes."

RARE ERRORS

Two of the most desirable errors of the twentieth century United States Issues are the 1922 5-cent Roosevelt, imperforate, Scott's No. 557a, and the 10-cent Monroe of the same series, in similar condition, Scott's No. 562-b. There can be no more of these stamps, as the flat plate press has long been discarded, insofar as the printing of our lower denominations are concerned. Only one pane of one hundred stamps of each of these varieties exist, the 5-cent having been located by a Stamford, Connecticut collector in New York City, and the 10-cent in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Both sheets were formerly in the Sinkler Collection, but when this was sold, the sheets were broken up and pairs or blocks of the two items were hitched together and sold in this shape. They were all mostly distributed immediately. I now have on hand a wonderful block of four of each in mint condition for the collector who appreciates real rarities. Each one of these stamps are just as rare as the 24-cent inverted center airplane, which sells for considerably more. The two blocks will be broken into pairs if there are two collectors who would prefer pairs rather than the block.

I also find in stock at the present time several twentieth century U. S. errors, which will be gladly submitted to interested parties. It is only when an important collection is purchased that these pieces, which are quickly sold, become available. The collection now being broken contains blocks which will be broken into pairs of the following:

1917, 1c pair imperf. between, ₴498b.
1918, 1c surface print, pair imperf. between, ₴525c.
1919, rotary 1c and 2c part perf., ₴538a and 539b.
1922, 2c imperf. vertically, ₴554a.
1924, 1½c perf. 10, double paper, ₴582a.

All of above are now obsolete.

If there is anything else in the way of United States issues that you desire, your want list is requested.

2-Cent Vincennes

Mr. E. W. Determann sends a further clipping from the Vincennes Sun of January 17th, relative to the issuing of the new 2c red and black stamp at Vincennes, Indiana, on February 25th next. The Vincennes Chamber of Commerce has taken note of the event and will use it to the advantage of advertising the city. There is every reason to believe that the Post Office Department will arrange to have the air mail plane stop at Vincennes on this special day. The mail contractors are, as a rule, most pleased to aid the Department in granting such requests, for it not only advertises the service, but will result in the carrying of an unusually large amount of mail. The local postmaster is already receiving numerous requests for first-day covers, and as previously announced in this column, any collector may make application for any number not exceeding twenty-five, providing he furnishes addressed envelopes. If quantities in excess of this amount are desired, it is suggested that the dealers or collectors arrange with some local agent to take care of their requirements. The stamp will be on sale in most of the larger cities of the country immediately following its appearance in Vincennes, and it is again recommended that these stamps be purchased locally, instead of through the Philatelic Agency at Washington, in order to prevent delay, as they are still materially congested.

As there will be thirty-five million issued, there is of course, the prospect of the appearance of an inverted center, and it is suggested that collectors follow their post office carefully when these stamps finally appear. It will give us great pleasure to announce the finding of such an error.

New Plates

Through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. Hall, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to and including those issued to January 10, 1929.

It will be noted in the list that the Bureau has made plates for the ½c rotary. On seeing this, I immediately phoned to Washington to learn in behalf of our readers if such a stamp was to appear. I am informed that the plates were made up in order to fill a small order for additional requirements, but it was later decided to print these from the flat bed press so that there would not be a new variety.

The list also includes the recently issued International Civil Aeronautics Conference stamps, as well as the additional plates for producing the current 5-cent air mail variety. It is expected that the new air mail envelope will tend to lighten the demand for the stamp.

Grilled (?) Coils

Several of our readers have submitted from time to time copies of our current and earlier coils, with what appears to be a stitch watermark, consisting of a set of vertical, parallel lines about one-eighth of an inch long, running entirely across the horizontal coil.

This is not applied at the Bureau, but is found on stamps coming from a coil machine, and is due to the little wheels that turns and forces the stamps out after the money has dropped into the slot. It is in no way official, and damages rather than adds to the variety.

Envelopes

Mr. H. Clay Reed reports the finding of a new envelope of the old issue with 1925 watermark. This is the 1916, 4c black, size 8, extra quality, high back, watermark 27.

Washington also announces the appearance of the new size 6 envelopes furnished under the present contract.

Canal Zone

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. S. Carter, we have received the new 2c Goethals issue overprinted in two lines in blue—"Air Mail—25 Cents 25," for use in payment of postage on the newly established air mail route between the Canal Zone and the United States.

The surcharge is so applied that "Air Mail" is across the top and "25 Cents 25" across the bottom, with the new figure of value falling over the old figure "2." Mr. Carter writes that fifty thousand have been issued, and he is under the impression that nearly twenty thousand were sold on the first day.

Mr. C. H. Calhoun, Chief of the Division of Civil Affairs, states that these were printed at Mount Hope, and further advises that when the first flight is made to the States that a special cancellation will be used.

Mr. Carter also writes that during the present fiscal year it is expected that one million new 5c stamps will be issued, oblong in size, and carrying a picture of the Gaillard Cut, taken in 1913, at the time the dry excavation was completed, just before the water was turned in. There will also be issued five hundred thousand 12c stamps in brown-violet, bearing portrait of Col. Gaillard, f whom the name of Culebra Cut w changed. The third stamp to the ser will be a 50c lilac-brown, of which t hundred fifty thousand will be issu and these will bear portrait of the f mer Governor Jo. C. S. Blackburn.

These stamps will commemorate t twenty-fifth anniversary of the openi of the Canal, and will be placed on s in June, 1929.

Mr. Carter writes that in referring Governor Blackburn as "Governor," t those in charge in the early days did definitely bear such a rank, but that are now referred to in this manner.

Abyssinia.—Post Office Commemoratives. On Oct. 27 we listed the ⅛, ¼, ½, 1 and 2 mehalik values, and we n learn that the set has been compled with the addition of the 4 and 8 meha values and the 1, 2 and 3 thaler values—Philatelic Magazine.

Canada.—We are indebted to Mr. Roberts for copies of the 4c and postage due stamps, both in violet, soft paper.

Information regarding further stamps is sent by Mr. C. A. Forster Mr. Henry A. Kiehl. Added to the and 5c King's Head stamps mentio recently is an 8c in a light blue shade. the pictorial series there is a 12c car blue, with a view of the Internatic Bridge; 20c red, Harvesting Grain sc with mountains in the distance an view of the fast Continental Limited press; 50c dark blue, pictures a Y Race, while the $1 olive-green, shows Parliament Buildings pictured on the Confederation stamp of 1927.

color in a red frame. Mr. Falkas also informs us that Prince Farouk, the son of His Majesty King Fuad, will attain his tenth birthday this month. The Postal Administration will commemorate the event with a set of stamps bearing His Highness's picture. The stamps will be on sale for one week only, commencing Feb. 11.

France.—Champion's Bulletin informs us that there are two spacings of the Ile de France overprint, one measuring 6mm between the surcharge and the lower of the two cancelling bars, the other 8mm. The latter is by far the rarer of the two, only existing on 300 of the 10fr on 90c and on 100 of the 10fr on 1fr50c.

Iceland.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly reports that in 1930 a stamp will be issued commemorating the Millenary of the Althing, the Icelandic Parliament.

Italy.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent for chronicle a 50c+10c olive-green stamp bearing the likeness of the portrait of King Victor Emanuel II, and the dates "1878 1928." The stamp is to commemorate the fifteenth anniversary of the death of this late King.

Latvia. — Monument Commemoration Stamps have been issued. The values are the same as the Independence series, and also bear the inscription "1918—1928." The object of this series (which has a premium of 10 sants. on each stamp) is to raise funds for the erection of a memorial to celebrate the 10th anniversary of Independence.

The following graphic notes come from our Riga correspondent, G. H. Jaeger:

The Monument Commemoration stamps have been issued in 30,000 series each, perforated and unperforated. The unperforated stamps appeared at the counter on November 17th, and were all sold in a couple of hours. The counters were crowded, as only 10 series were sold to each person. The perforated stamps of this issue appeared at the counter on November 20th, and were also sold in a few hours. These stamps were sold in Riga only at the counters of the Chief Post Office, and, besides, only in two Latvian cities, Libau and Mitau, whereby Libau received for sale in all 1,000, and Mitau 500 series.—Philatelic Magazine.

Mexico.—Copies of the 25c myrtle green and sepia, perf. 12, type as before are to hand from Mr. R. Roberts.

Monaco.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 2fr sepia and violet, surcharged "1f50" in black.

New Zealand.—There is a movement on foot to provide the New Zealand Dependences of Union Islands, Fanning Island and Pitcairn Island, with a small set of stamps, probably 5 or 6 values, ½d to 1/-. At present these islands use New Zealand stamps. Perhaps the current New Zealand may be surcharged for the purpose. There are also rumors of a fine new set of New Zealands for the Dominion, the set to consist of pictorials and King Georges ½d to 5/-. It is 13 years since New Zealand had a change.—WILCOX, SMITH & Co.

Portugal.—Two more provisionals are to hand from Mr. R. Roberts. This time the 20c grey has been surcharged for use as "15"c, and the 25c pink bears the overprint of "15"c also. Both stamps are of the Ceres design.

Also by a later mail comes the 24c blue-green, surcharged in like manner and value as those mentioned above.

Roumania.—A second printing of the Air set has now arrived. It differs in two noticeable respects from the first. The stamps are now watermarked with horizontal wavy lines instead of vertical, and the paper has now been gummed after printing, instead of before, with a very poor, brown, sparsely applied mucilage.

The total first printing was, we understand, 200,000 sets. The second was 90,000, but our agent tells us that owing to the bad gumming and perforating only about half of this number exists in a collectible condition. — Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

Russia.—This year's Child Welfare stamps, forecast in these columns in November, will be on sale throughout the year. Similar stamps can be expected each year in future, and commencing from 1930 the year of issue will be indicated upon them.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

Saar.—1928 Charity Issue. Maison M. Fischer (Paris), enable us to give the following details of this series. On Dec. 15 the values were given. 40c, Blind Beggar; 50c, Blind Beggar; 1fr, Blind Beggar; 1fr50c, Almsgiving; 2fr, Almsgiving; 3fr, Almsgiving; 10fr, brown, Raphael's Charity. The "Blind Beggar" is from the picture by the Belgian painter, J. L. Dyckmans (1811-1888). The original picture is in the Antwerp Museum. "Almsgiving" is from the picture by Schiest, another Belgian painter. —Philatelic Magazine.

Sweden.—Mr. U. Söderborg tells us that on the 24th December a new Swedish liner, T.M.S. Kungsholm, made her maiden voyage to New York. She is the first Swedish vessel to contain a post office, and on this first trip a special cancellation was used.—Gibbons' Stamp Monthly.

Philadelphia

—Chapter 18 Elects Officers and Names A. P. S. Candidates.

By P. M. WOLSIEFFER, Sec.

Philadelphia Chapter, No. 18, A. P. S., met in the club room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, Thursday, Jan. 17, with President Philip Dengler in the chair.

The following were nominated for A. P. S. officers: Pres., Gustav M. Mosler, Ohio; Vice Pres., Dr. W. C. Hennan, Adolph F. Boehm, Charles F. Mann, all of Ill.; Sec., H. A. Davis, Colo.; Int. Sec., Eugene Klein, Pa.; Treas., Howard H. Elliott, Mass., and Directors at large, A. H. Wilhelm, Calif., and Harry M. Konwiser, N. Y.

The election of officers for Chapter 18 resulted in Philip Dengler for President, and H. Peyton Hopkins for Sec.-Treas.

Mr. Klein suggested that the A. P. S. convention for 1930 be held on board ship during a two weeks' cruise to Cuba and the West Indies, a most excellent idea for a vacation. The expense was stated to be exceptionally reasonable with first-class accommodations. The suggestion was favorably received, and we expect to hear more about it in the very near future.

Exhibitions of stamps followed. Mr. Klein started with a nice lot of odd combinations of covers and some scarce Mississippi Steam Boat cancellations. Rev. C. C. Silvester showed some splendid 20th Century U. S. revenues; Dr. S. J. Gittleson a remarkable rare strip of all values of Fiji Unpaids, Nos. 301 to 305; Gordon F. Bottomley, a very fine lot of British Colonies; Maurice Apfelbaum, a large block of 3c 1869, and other blocks; Mr. Brinton, several large blocks of $2.00 and $5.00 stamps, and many other fine items were shown.

Chapter 18 will meet hereafter the third (3rd) Thursday of each month, except July and August. Members and friends to the number of forty-nine were present. Gordon F. Bottomley will exhibit for our pleasure, his very fine collection of U. S. "Blocks of Four," at our next meeting Feb. 21.

block of four in the large accumulation of Mr. Strauss, as well as two vertical pairs, Mr. White taking the block at $400.00, while I added the pairs to my own collection, but subsequently turned one over to a friend for $175.00. The fourth piece, another vertical pair, was purchased by Mr. E. Perry for $100.00 more than ten years ago, and has been held by his customer since that time. All of the pieces are somewhat off center, the block particularly so, but the proven rarity permits no choice, although the condition did interfere with its resale.

$1.00 Inland Exchange

The uninformed may immediately question my inclusion of this pair in the list of non-fakeables, but the reason is found in the fact that it is entirely different in character from any known imperforate, and probably resulted from a mistake in a sheet of a late printing. A bogus pair may easily be made at any time, and possibly sold, but most certainly not to any who have seen the genuine. It is my faint recollection that Mr. Arthur Ballard told me that the original piece was a block which Mr. Eagle subsequently separated to provide a pair for trading purposes, but both gentlemen are now gone, and this detail remains unsettled.

$25.00 Mortgage

This stamp, while listed and accepted as a part perforate, should, in the interests of accuracy and customary procedure, be carried as a variety "imperforate vertically" of a perforated stamp. All known pairs are horizontal, imperforate between, but likewise perforated all around outside, thus showing that one vertical line of perforations at least was omitted. The date of usage was usually April, 1864, and the stamps are always of good, full color, and never of the softer shade noted in some of the imperforates. Concerning quantities, the writer knows of seven pairs, with others entirely probable, hence he is not in accord with the current listing of $200.00, which is out of line on the upward side in comparison with pieces two or three times as rare. It is admitted that a pair of $25.00 is a large attractive item, the oddity of perforation renders it an object of curiosity, but on what grounds it is rated better than the pairs of 70c Foreign, or the $1.00 Inland is a mystery.

These notes cover all of the real first line pairs in the part perforate group, but if responses from readers indicate a reasonably broad interest in the subject, consideration can later be given to other rare but dangerous pieces, i.e., those which may be the result of manipulations. Meanwhile the suggestion is offered that an examination be made of any old lot or collection of revenues, or particularly a batch of notes of the 1863-64 period, for it is from such obscure sources that the items now known have been largely obtained. The writer in turn will be pleased to be informed of any new finds, or to receive for examination or purchase, anything in these rarer part perforates, although blocks of even the cheaper varieties are solicited, and in the case of the fakeable stamps, are especially desired on the original document.

Historic Stamps of the Pope

CALLED TO MIND BY THE APPEARANCE OF HIS PICTURE ON NEW SPANISH SET

By DOUGLAS ARMSTRONG.

THE appearance of a portrait of Pope Pius XI upon a newly-issued Spanish stamp calls to mind that in days gone by the Vatican rejoiced in a particular postage stamp issue of its own. That was before the unification of Italy had been brought about by the efforts of Garibaldi and Cavour, when the Pope still held temporal sway over a portion of Central Italy covering an area of 16,000 square miles with Rome as its capital, and known as the Pontifical States or States of the Church.

It was in the time of Pope Pius IX that a reorganisation of the postal service within the Papal provinces was ordained by a decree dated November 29, 1851, and signed by Cardinal Antonelli, providing inter alia for the future prepayment of postage by means of adhesive stamps ("Bollini"). A further ordinance of December 19 of that year set forth the denominations that were to be available to the public for the first time on January 1, 1852.

Printing of Papal Stamps

For this purpose the whole of the Pontifical territory was divided into three zones, and charges upon correspondence were calculated according to distance, commencing with 1 Bajocco for local letters up to 5 Baj. for those conveyed from the First into the Third Zone. Special rates were also applicable to printed matter, registered correspondence and for letters sent out of the country.

The actual printing of the Papal stamps was entrusted to the Director of the Printing Office of the Apostolical Chamber, M. Salviucci, who in turn employed a Roman type-founder named Jean Valagna to provide the necessary dies engraved with the device of the Papal Tiara and crossed Keys of Heaven, one of gold (signifying Power), and the other of silver (denoting Knowledge). Three crowns encircling the tiara represent the triple dominion of the Church militant, purifying and triumphant, whilst the two streamers typify the Literal and Mystical senses, respectively.

Different frames enclosed this central design in the case of each value, but the stamps bore no other indication of their origin. The actual engraving was the work of two Roman engravers, Doublet and Decoppet by name.

Tinted papers were used for the impression, which was made in black from metal cliches clamped together to form the printing plates, and these varied in size and composition according to the dimensions of the paper. In order to avoid

What The Sound Philatelist Looks For!

A country, or group of countries, never having issued speculative or unnecessary stps.

There are very few groups—even among the Br. Cols.—of which this can be truthfully asserted. Here, however, is one of them:—

India and Indian Convention States
(Chamba, Faridkot, Gwalior, etc., overprinted on Indian stamps)

INDIA, apart from the 1st issue, is a much neglected country. The intermediate and later issues are inexpensive, highly interesting, and abound in shades and vars.

The Indian Convention States form a highly interesting group, which has been very little studied.

I hold an unusually good stock of the above stamps, unused and used, at very attractive prices. WHAT DO YOU NEED?

waste in cutting up the sheets, they varied from 64 to 120 subjects.

Initial Series Imperforate

The initial series of eight stamps was issued imperforate, three additional denominations being included in the following October in consequence of the conclusion of a postal treaty with Austria, comprising 8 and 50 Bajocchi and 1 Scudo. Owing to the variety of coloured papers obtained from various sources numerous shades may be noted. The rarity of this emission is the 50 Baj. deep blue in the worn impression (circa 1864), listed today at £15 unused and £10 used. Many stamps of this issue exist also cut into fractions and used to defray a fraction of their nominal values.

Consequent upon the introduction of new currency in Centesimi in lieu of the former "Bajocchi," equal to about one half-penny and peculiar to the Papal States, a decree of the Minister of Finance ordered in 1866 the preparation of new postage stamps. The dies were accordingly re-engraved by another typefounder named Montarsolo and on September 21, 1867, seven values in "Centesimi" made their appearance.

Perforation Adopted

By order of Prince Massimo these were printed on highly-glazed paper, with a tinted surface, but varieties are known upon unglazed paper also. The 3 centesimi is scarce postally used, and fetches about £5 in fine condition.

In 1868 (February) the convenience of perforation was adopted, and all supplies issued between that date and October, 1870, were perforated 13 by means of a single-line machine. Meanwhile political events had been moving rapidly. On September 20, 1870, the Italian army entered Rome after a very feeble defence by the Papal guards, and in the following month the stamps of the Pontifical States ceased to circulate.

Collectors require to be on their guard against private reprints of these stamps which are on the market in considerable numbers.

The Pope Makes Stamp History

Although, as related above, the Vatican had at one time its own stamps, the head of His Holiness did not appear upon them. This year, however, by special dispensation the portrait of Pope Pius XI is reproduced in company with that of King Alfonso, in the design of a special Catholic issue to be sold in the Spanish cities of Toledo and St. Jacques de Compostelle from December 23, 1928, to January 6, 1929, only in aid of a fund for the restoration of the Catacombs of St. Damascus and St. Pretextatus is illustrated.—Bazaar.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

MORE ALCAZARS, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The Alcazar de Colon series of the Dominican Republic, introduced in October, 1928, with the 1c, 2c and 10c, was completed in December, with the issue of the ½c, 5c, 20c, 50c and 1 peso, all in the same design, the denominational numerals and words at the bottom of the stamp only being changed. The margins of the sheets (50 stamps) are plain, without plate number, or marginal inscription.

Hair lines, white spots, etc., are in evidence on many of the stamps, some more or less constant, and others due probably to foreign matter adhering to the printing stones.

On No. 44 in the sheet of ½c there is an accent over the "E" of "Centavo", and on No. 3 of the 20c there is an accent over the second "E" of "Veinte."

Another more important variety in the ½c is on the 19th stamp of the sheet. The door in the second story of the palace appears as a window, or as if an attempt had been made by partially closing the opening to convert it into a window. Photographs taken when I was in Santo Domingo City in August, 1919, show that as a door it is correctly shown on the normal stamps.

In sheets of the 5c, on No. 45, there is a large white spot, having the appearance of an extra window, in the north wing, of the second story.

The 1c and 50c are very similar in color (blue-green and yellow-green), as are also the 2c and 20c (carmine and rose-red, respectively).

Pan-American Airways Air Service, 1929

In a notice of December 19, 1928 (published in the Postal Bulletin of December 21) formal announcement was made by W. Irving Glover, Second Asst. Postmaster General, that "air mail service on F.A.M. No. 6, from Miami, Fla., to San Juan, Porto Rico, and back, will begin Jan. 9, 1929," the rate being "10 cents for each half ounce or fraction in addition to regular postage."

The schedule calls for flights from Miami on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, leaving at 9.15 a. m.; arriving at Habana by 11.30 a. m.; spending the night in Eastern Cuba; arriving at Santo Domingo the next day by 11.30; and reaching San Juan by 4 p. m.

Planes leave San Juan on the same days, at 8 a. m.; reach Santo Domingo City by 11 a. m.; spending the night in Eastern Cuba; arrive at Habana the next day at 1.15 p. m., leave at 3 p. m. and reach Miami by 5.15 p. m.

The first plane from San Juan, NC-5192, on Jan. 9th, was in charge of L. Rowe, previously connected with West Indian Aerial Express of Santo Domingo; and the first from Miami, NC-9637, was piloted by S. O. Swanson.

AIR MAILS
The number of collectors who collect AIR MAILS either exclusively or as a side line is increasing so rapidly that we felt sure we would only be keeping pace with the times if we made these stamps available under our popular INTENSIVE APPROVAL SERVICE. This system, under which packets are sent out on approval in envelopes marked at ½c, 1c, 2c, etc., is particularly adapted to include AIR MAILS, "SERIES A" of this group is now at your disposal. Although the selection includes both mint and used stamps it would be advisable to mention—when applying for selection—which kind you prefer.
We can also take care of Want Lists or quote lowest prices on practically any Air Mail stamp.

The square pence issue of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have a great appeal for most collectors of B. N. A. We always are in the market to buy them, and seldom have enough in stock to make advertising them desirable. Just at present we have a very nice lot of the 1d, 3d and 6d values. Most of them are extra fine copies. We offer them as follows:

NEW BRUNSWICK	Net	NOVA SCOTIA.	Net
No. 1. 2 shades. Superb	$20.00	No. 1. Fine copies	$25.00
Same; smaller margins	7.50	No. 1. Pen canc., fine	20.00
No. 1. On cover. V. fine	25.00	No. 2. Very fine copies	6.00
No. 2. 6d olive yellow. Superb	40.00	No. 2. Good copies	3.25

Many others in both the pence and cents issues, either superb or medium, according to your needs. For instance:
Nova Scotia—5c blue, used, good ..... Cat. $1.25 Net 40c
8½c green, white paper ..... Cat. 12.00 Net 7.50
These last are very fine; either used or unused.

Circular Designs.—Have you ever noticed how large a percentage of cancellation on early U. S. stamps have a circular form? Probably 50% of them are circular. These above designs are some that I had saved as of the round types, and there are some which we seldom see. Have seen but one of each of No. 1 and No. 10, while I have seen more than one of each of the other eight designs.

No. 5 is an odd thing, it has somewhat the appearance of letters of a foreign language, maybe Japanese. Have seen several, and they are all distinct, and of the same identical design. Who knows what this thing means and the town of origin? No. 8 is made up of delicate lines, and when evenly hit is really a handsome cancel.

This is the 41st group of cancellations which have been shown in the Forum. Averaging about ten per group, you have now about 400 different cancellations. The coming 20 groups have considerable of interest, many traced from the 3c 1851-57 stamps in the collection of Dr. Carroll Chase, and some of these are very interesting and scarce. A number are from a large collection of U. S. Departments, and on these stamps we find cancellations which never seem to appear on "Postage" of the period. Then I traced off all the cancels from my own lot of Black Jacks that I liked, and some are interesting, with a couple that are not yet duplicated to my knowledge.

These three large lots, added to what has arrived since the third series of groups started, gives us some rather nice new cuts to add to the scrapbook of cancels.

For some time I have been saving lists of names of printers and booksellers which appear printed on the Civil War Patriotic Envelopes. This is a start of a list only, and is compiled from some couple of thousand patriotics that I have had access to in the past six months. Should you care to send in names of any others imprinted on your patriotics, there are many who are interested in these names.

List of Printers and Booksellers whose Imprints occur on Patriotic Civil War Envelopes which have been seen by the writer:

BRITISH COLONIALS

1929 shows every indication of a phenomenal demand for British Colonials. My Jan. sales are at a new high record, and this rapid expansion of my business was responsible for my recent purchase of the Cortlandt Stamp Co. To keep pace with this increased demand I have doubled my buying program. I carry the premier stock of these popular stamps in America, and offer prompt service.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor,
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

Before going into details and explaining the various plate markings, a few lines concerning our column will enlighten readers as to its purpose. The column is to be conducted in the interests of all, the novice as well as the more advanced collector so that something will be found of interest to everyone. In succeeding issues, it is planned to take each phase of plate markings and explain in detail their various characteristics in the hope that this feature will prove helpful to prospective beginners.

The first step to be taken by anyone contemplating collecting plate markings is to obtain a check-list of plate numbers. This is absolutely indispensable. Fortunately, readers of the WEEKLY are presented with such a list through the medium of the column conducted by Mr. Ward. These lists should be carefully preserved for constant reference. They form an excellent source from which to check your plate holdings, and are in fact the only accurate lists of current numbers available to the average collector. Readers will find that these lists are usually issued in advance of the actual appearance of the numbers listed, a feature that makes them of great utility.

Beginning with the current issue a complete record is to be kept of each and every plate as the numbers appear. Notes on plate numbers, guide lines, arrows, spacing, initials, letters "A" and "F", imperforate sheets, booklet panes, coils, color varieties, errors, plate flaws and defects, surcharged stamps, and in some instances, bureau prints, will be chronicled. As individual plates develop certain characteristics and these are discovered, this additional data will also be included, thus forming a comprehensive and exhaustive record of every plate that actually goes to press. This is quite an undertaking, but with the coöperation of reader-contributors it can be accomplished, and as the list grows it will prove invaluable as a source of information on plates and allied subjects. Readers are urged to send in all information as outlined above for chronicle. Acknowledgment will be made in this column and due credit given.

We will start our record with number 19,000 (or earlier if advisable), and include everything from then on. Thus readers will have the advantage of using Mr. Ward's list as a ready reference in their search, and that list will also be the basis upon which we will work. All data submitted will be presented under the number of the plate, if known, and all notes will be so arranged. By keeping to this system it will be easy to locate any desired item by merely referring to the plate number.

Guide lines are frequently puzzling to many collectors who are not familiar with their purpose, and a brief outline will help beginners to understand the subject.

The flat press printings still in use on some denominations of the current issue are in sheets of 400 stamps, having a continuous line running through the center of the sheet from the middle of one side and top. These two lines divide the sheet into quarters, and are intended as a guide for the cutters. To indicate how and where the sheet should be cut, an arrow is placed at the beginning of the line on the left side of the sheet. The sheet is fed into the perforating machine with the circular knife running on the line. The end of the line on the right side of the sheet is always plain and does not have an arrow. The sheet of 400 stamps is thus divided into halves, and the stamps are perforated in one direction, parallel with the cutting. There is an arrow at both the top and bottom of the sheet so that both halves can be fed into the perforating machine following the arrow and line, and the center cut by the knife divides the halves into quarters.

It is a difficult job to cut on the line, and generally the knife will follow to one side or the other. When both guide lines on any quarter sheet are visible at the point of intersection, one stamp will show both lines. It will be the only stamp in that sheet of 400 to have this distinction. This condition may occur to any one of the four central stamps of the entire sheet, thus making four varieties of the double guide line stamps. Many collectors save the double guide line and arrow stamps, which occur in eight positions, of each denomination

Afghanistan
FORMED BY THE LATE
SIR DAVID MASSON

This famous collection was formed by Sir David during 20 years' residence in Central India and is one of the finest lots of these interesting and rare stamps ever gotten together. The collection is up to 1907 and is remarkably complete in uncut and reconstructed sheets, in the finest obtainable condition.

The catalogue value of the collection is about $30,000.00 and I shall be pleased to send selections on approval.

As I bought this collection on unusually good terms I am pricing it all very low and can offer great bargains in stamps that are seldom in the market. [87

OUTLINE OF AN ADDRESS MADE BEFORE THE SOUTHERN TIER STAMP CLUB

By LYMAN J. SEELEY.

"Some three or four of your members have asked me to talk on as many different subjects, each of the suggested topics being a handfull. But the original invitation, as I recall it, called for some discussion of the one- and three-cent stamps of 1851-57. I intend to stick to that because it fits in with a discussion I had a few weeks ago with one of America's leading stamp dealers.

We had been talking of the various ramifications of stamp collecting; debating as to whether the technical or the historical side was making the greater appeal at this time. All of a sudden he popped out with something to this effect:

"Whenever I hear anyone speak of the investment value of stamp collecting I get red-headed. It is and must be pure nonsense. Everybody knows that no matter what he buys in any store a certain percentage of his purchase money represents selling expense, rent, light, heat, insurance, overhead and profit. People collect stamps primarily for diversion; not to make money. It is just as unreasonable to advise a man that he can spend money for stamps for his collection and expect to get out at a profit as it would be to buy a ticket for the theatre, see the show, and then expect to cash the experience."

All of which, so far as it goes, is perfectly true. Something like 40% of the retail price of a new automobile represents sales expense and another 10% or more the manufacturer's profit. Costs of distribution, classification, registration, etc., on comparatively common stamps such as small boys paste in their albums must represent a very large percentage of the value. To those who collect stamps as casually as boys once collected cigarette pictures, the little money they spend represents just so much amusement, plus a certain amount of history and geography they can hardly escape acquiring.

But it is not true of the collector who is not satisfied to merely fill the spaces of a printed album, of one whose pleasure in stamps comes from a close study of them. Such a collector can pay more than his stamps are worth if he is overanxious to secure a certain variety, or if he does not know how to sell his stamps when he decides to dispose of them. The chances, however, are all in favor of showing a profit in cash in addition to the years of enjoyment he has had, in the case of the stamp student.

Any boob who can find a trunkful of 5 and 10c 47's in an abandoned attic can turn them into what looks like a fine profit. Unfortunately, trunks full of 47's are few and far between, but right under nearly every collector's eyes are scarcer and more desirable items if he can recognize them at sight. For that reason I choose to talk somewhat about the one- and three-cent stamps of 1851-57. They are comparatively common; and few collectors of any experience fail to run across a lot of them sooner or later. A great deal can be learned about them from the Scott Specialized U. S. catalog. Hardly one collector in a hundred owning the book appreciates its resources. From the standpoint of advanced specialization it leaves a lot unsaid; but if half the owners of it studied it until they understood one-half its contents a talk like this would be superfluous.

Real "finds" are being made every day. A few come as the result of searching old attics and trunks, but the bulk of them are made by studious collectors; and the finds are made in the stocks and accumulations of leading dealers. Here are a few instances:

We have a representative in Europe whose instructions are buy any sound U. S. stamps offered in quantities of a dozen or more. In one lot of 300 10c bank notes, bid in at less than $4.00, there were 153 Supplementary Mail cancellations. Another interesting lot was an album page of 1c 1857s. There were 30 or 35 copies, listed as Type II. They cost about $30, and the lot when examined yielded three fine copies of Type Ia; two or three fine copies of Type III; half a dozen Type IIIa; a full o.g. mint copy of Type IV; the balance consisting of several varieties of Type II. A very pleasing "find," and one well calculated to offset a number of bad "buys." A more usual error was made at the last International Exhibition in New York not long ago. An out-of-town dealer "specializing" in U. S. exhibited in his stand a recent find of 1c '51 covers he thought particularly interesting because of a large "1ct DUE" stamped on the covers. The mark was interesting, but not more so than the stamps, which were rated and priced as Type V, when actually they were Type IIIa from the rather scarce Plate XI. They had been handled and passed up by a dozen collectors of U. S., who thought two or three dollars each too much to pay for the postmark, so the owner was glad to offer a discount

Do not mistake "finds" of this sort with the buys of unscrupulous dealers or collectors who mislead a greenhorn regarding the value of his stamps. No first-class dealer lets out a yell when one of his customers picks up a legitimate sleeper. I don't recommend rubbing it in too hard; no need to call the dealer a boob if he happens to sell you a Type IV with double recut top for the price of the commoner variety. Don't give him the horse laugh; if you must laugh go and tell some other dealer about it; he will be in better position to see the fun of it all.

One of the most sought for of U. S. stamps is the real type I of the 1c 1851. From catalog illustrations I assumed for years that any fool could distinguish a Type I at sight. I never found one, but I filled album pages with what I thought were Types II and IV. But when E. R. Jacobs of Chicago first ran his eye over those pages he showed me that I had four copies of Type I, even though they were not No. 7 R from the early state of Plate I. They were the stamps now classified as Type Ib. I think they were positions 3, 6, 8 and 9 in the same row. The scrolls were there all right when I looked for them with a glass. The Type I of the perforated stamps is quite another animal. The scrolls or balls under the lower label of the perforated Type I are as clear as any other portion of the stamp, but the scrolls from the top row of Plate I are generally quite faint, even on the famous No. 7, unless it happens to be printed in the deep blue shade. Type Ia is another matter; strongly marked in most copies I have seen. At an English auction—

There are several distinct varieties of Type II. They come imperf. from plates 1, 2, 3 and IV; and perforated from plates II, IV, 11 and 12. Those from the early state of Plate I have fairly well-defined outlines, but generally not so clean cut as copies from Plate II. Plate IV copies are easily distinguished from the other by the unevenness of the erasures at top and bottom. They look smeary and unfinished; sometimes there are parts of scrolls below the labels; and sometimes the outer lines at top and bottom are thin or broken. In the Type II stamps those from the top rows of Plates IV and XI are the most desirable, but are far from easy to distinguish.

Plenty of collectors deceive themselves about Type III stamps. Sometimes they mistake the Type V stamps from Plate VI, which have side ornaments almost complete, for the real Type III; more often the Type III stamps seen in collections are certain positions or impression from Plate IV. It is the only case I know of where the same position may print as Type III in one printing, and as Type IIIa in the next. The Simon-pure article most of us are looking for in vain is 99 R.II. Hen's teeth are common as huckleberries compared to this particular stamp. It is very easy of identification once studied. The illustration in the specialized catalog shows the identification mark. It is a shift or double transfer in the ornament at the lower right, just opposite the extreme end of the lower label. It looks like a thorn in the center of the scroll. There are very good type III positions from Plate IV, but they are worth only a fraction of 99 R.II, and cannot be mistaken for it if you remember that shift.

Type IIIa is a stamp very often passed by as the cheaper Type II. It is distinguished only by a break in the outer line at the top or bottom of the stamp. The varieties from Plate IV I consider fairly common stamps, uncertain in their outlines and not particularly attractive. But there are two varieties from Plate XI well worth looking for. They seem to be at least ten times as scarce as those from Plate IV, and they are more satisfactory because more uniform. At the exposition in New York an out-of-town dealer sold a find of these stamps on cover at $1.50 to $2.00 each. They were lying on his table as I wandered past. Three or four collectors had looked them over and passed them as Type II, failing to notice the odd little gap in the line above the upper label. The first copy I picked up was one of the fine shifts, perfectly centered, and easily worth its catalog value of $30.00 off cover. Here, of course, was a legitimate find, without attic hunting.

No need to say much of anything about Type IV, as they are the commonest of the 1c 51s. They are distinguished by the recutting of outer lines at top and bottom; scarce only when perforated, or in the inverted shifts.

The stamps we have reviewed up to this point are all fairly uncommon, ranging in catalog value from $3.50 to $2,000.00. But there are just as good finds relatively to be made among the common Type V stamps if you take the trouble to study them and learn to recognize the minor varieties. There is, to me, more kick in finding the curl on shoulder variety, or the "earrings", or a fine shift, among a lot of 35c stamps as in finding a few 5c 47's in an attic. More so, I believe, because the attic find represents nothing more than luck, or perseverance. The discovery of the fine minor variety is the fruit of patient and interesting study.

How does one learn these details? Until recently they could be learned only by personal study, exchange of notes with other students, questioning of dealers, etc. But in recent years students have freely given their findings to fellow collectors. Stanley B. Ashbrook of Cincinnati has written a most interesting and instructive monograph on these one-cent stamps of 1851-57. Elliott Perry has plated and written up the minor varieties of the 10c '47, and it was published by the Collectors Club Philatelist. Next month will appear Dr. Chase's great work on the 3c stamps of 1851-57. Chase & Ashbrook wrote up the varieties of the 10c of 1851-57, and it was published several years ago.

There are reference works on many phases of collecting; and any man who talks of collecting stamps from an investment standpoint, who does not have all available information on his special line, is talking through his hat. Even stamps you must know your grocerie

The talk was illustrated by sine items, pairs, strips and blocks, fr plates showing combinations of types a block of six from the top two rows f Pl IV top Type II; second row, T IIIa; a block from Plate 12 showg types I and II. Strip showing III tween two IIIa-s, etc.

SURRENDER OF FORT SACKVILLE

Motif on New Vincennes Stamp from Painting by Boston Artist

BOSTON, MASS., Feb. 4.

A nationally known local artist, Frederick C. Yohn, has won the distinction of having the scene depicted in one of his paintings selected to adorn a commemorative issue of United States postage stamps.

The painting, called "The Surrender of Fort Sackville," is the artist's conception of the surrender of Fort Sackville in Vincennes, Ind., by Col. Henry Hamilton, Lieutenant-Governor of Detroit and British commander in the northwest, to Col. George Rogers Clark, the commander of Virginia troops in the west, on Feb. 25, 1777.

Historical Painter

Artist Yohn has been painting historical scenes since his youth, starting in 1893. He is a native of Indiana, and well versed in the history of his section of the country. He first became more than locally known when he illustrated Henry Cabot Lodge's "The Story of the Revolution." Later he illustrated Roosevelt's "Life of Cromwell," which added to his laurels, and then Gen. Funston's "Memoirs." He also does a great deal of magazine illustrating. He has two sons, one a student at Harvard, and the other taking extension courses at Boston University.

In speaking of the selection of his painting to adorn the new issue stamps, he said he had not been officially notified; that he had presented the original painting to the Indiana Historical Society some years ago and he presumed that the negotiations had been between the post-office authorities and the society direct.

Highly Regarded

The picture is very highly regarded in Indiana, depicting as it does, one of the outstanding events in the history of that state. Clark's accomplishment in capturing the fort with but 150 frontiersmen, has been described as the key manœuvre which affected what is now Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

That the subject is a popular one is shown by its reproduction on hundreds of fine English Wedgwood plates, which have been sold widely throughout the country.

APPRECIATION OF GREECE

BY ADAM ADMAN.

ere is something undeniably fasci- g about the first type stamps of ce, once you acquire an understand- f them.

ese stamps are unique in several What other example can you find single design gracing every postage issued by a country for a period of ars? And where else will you find eries of imperforate stamps of the of this one.

casual philatelic observer who ines specimens of these first type stamps representing different printings made during this 25-year period, protests when he is asked to believe that all these printings are from one set of plates.

Such is a fact, however. A single design was engraved in Paris by M. Barre, the artist who designed the early stamps of France. All the values were made from the same matrix, an electrotyped plate being made for each denomination. The plate consisted of 150 stamps arranged in rows of ten.

The seven plates, one for each value (1 Lepton, 2, 5, 10, 20, 40 and 80 Lepta), from which were printed the 1861 issue commonly designated as the "Paris prints," served for printing the issues of the succeeding 25 years without being either reengraved or retouched in any way.

The "Paris prints" were fine and delicate; those that followed were of varying degrees of coarseness. Several causes contributed to these variations, viz: differences in skill of the workmen, wearing of plates, and quality of paper.

A temporary effort to return to the beautiful impressions of the "Paris prints" was made in 1870-71 when the plates were cleaned carefully, removing the accumulations of ink that had begun to fill in the fine lines of the design. Two printings show the effect of this cleaning of the plates. Then the printers became careless again and from 1875 on the printings tell a story of worn plates that grew gradually more and more encrusted with ink. Even among the late printings, however, one value occasionally would be treated more carefully than the others, so that there is quite a contrast sometimes between different values from the same printing.

When plates for two new denominations —30 Lepta and 60 Lepta—were used for the first time in 1876, the workmen were able to obtain results comparable to the "Paris prints" of 1861, but apparently the ink was not wiped off when the plates were laid away, consequently when a second printing was called for a year after the first, the stamps were about as poorly executed as those from the older plates which had been in use for years.

Opinion differs as to the exact number of printings of the various values of this first type. The largest number of printings claimed by any student of these stamps, within the knowledge of the writer, is as follows:

1 Lepta, 28 printings; 2 Lepta, 20 printings; 5 Lepta, 30 printings; 10 Lepta, 26 printings; 20 Lepta, 38 printings; 30 Lepta, 7 printings; 40 Lepta, 21 printings; 60 Lepta, 2 printings; 80 Lepta, 10 printings.

A total of 182 printings of nine values of the same type. Surely, this is a philatelic record.

Although the writer has been studying these stamps only a short time, he has obtained specimens of about three-fourths of the printings listed by this earlier student. These are distinct varieties of paper, color of ink and class of impression and are easily identified when you know what points of difference to look for.

EDITORIAL

THAT philately will progress, come what may, is the belief of many amateurs and professionals who show their faith in its future by word and work and the investment of large sums of money in stamps. The only question that enters into the calculation is as to the rate of progression that is to be maintained. Some collectors seemingly are content to trust to the natural increase of collectors but the majority feels that in this day of advertising necessity, methods should be employed to catch the eye of the great public in order that the number of collectors may be increased at a rapid rate. Nowhere else is there to be found so promising a field for sowing seed as in this country. In some sections of our national domain, stamp collecting is practically unheard of and, if in isolated instances faint whisperings of it have met the ear, the tendency is to associate philately with boys and eccentric fellows. A mention of coin collecting, for instance, will meet with some response, even in remote sections, as a consequence of the centuries of traditions behind numismaty and its tangible qualities while philately remains in total eclipse. The objective of philatelists is to bring stamps to the attention of the great mass of people who as yet have no appreciation of the man and money power of collecting as it is to-day. The work of awakening the ignorant and indifferent outsider to a realization of the existence of the world of stamps goes on. Our readers send us each week testimony to this condition in the shape of newspaper and other clippings, not a few of which are inspired by their own enterprise. We cannot comment on each of these printed notices but we can say that those who are credited with the results deserve the thanks of all who can visualize the golden days to come. Slowly the philatelic ignorance of a large part of the people is yielding to the enlightenment of the press and a recognition is coming that stamp collecting is a regulated means of enjoyment that stands forth in the open divested of mysterious trappings.

THE speculative side of collecting has not been emphasized by us as fairly as it might be stressed. This restraint has been due to several reasons, one of which is a caution based on a wish not to mislead the inexperienced collector, who is always with us. The danger of spoiling the sentiment of many collectors who recoil from dollar consideration is understood and has its weight, as well. However, from a seat high in the tower of the financial seers, there has come a pronouncement that is one of the biggest stories that may be imagined. No other than Mr. Babson has approved stamp investments. We have reproduced Mr. Babson's letter of endorsement which in our opinion is one of the biggest bits of news that ever broke on this philatelic planet. We repeat that Messrs. H. E. Harris & Co.'s Bi-Monthly Journal scored heavily in offering Mr. Babson's letter and we are glad to voice again our appreciation of the courtesy of the firm in securing Mr. Babson's consent for us to use the half-tone of his letter in our columns. Incidentally, it has been reported to us that one of the financial leaders in New York has placed a fund of one million dollars at the disposal of a dealer who has been deputized to buy stamps for his collection and probably for investment purposes as well.

RECENTY, in the Chicago Daily News, Cleo Mayfield, the wife of Cecil Lean, the same musical comedy star who established his fame in Chicago, told of Mr. Lean's room in their home at the foot of the White Mountains in New Hampshire. She said: "It's the billiard room in the boathouse, papered from top to bottom with stamps he has collected from all parts of the world. It's beautiful, really beautiful. How he got the stamp collecting idea I don't know but he's been saving them for years and all his friends knowing about it have sent him stamps from everywhere. These paper the walls." While Mr. Lean's album is unusual, it is not unique because there are other rooms whose mural decorations are wholly of stamps. Mr. Lean was invited to attend a meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society in order that he might disclose his philatelic leanings, but on the evening of the meeting, he was compelled to telephone that contrary to his wishes, he could not be present.

HERE is a paragraph written by Mr. Ralph E. Warner, Oberlin, Ohio, that may well be brought forth, as showing how an eminent scholar makes his stamp collection a sort of corollary of his studies, let us say: "Our president of Oberlin College, Ernet Hatch Wilkins, is a stamp collector. As you know, he is one of the foremost Italian scholars in this country and as would be expected he collects Italy. I was rather surprised to find that he collected stamps and I enjoyed seeing his collection. President Wilkins begins with the Italian states and continues them logically into Italy proper, which he brings down to the 1900's. His interest has been the historical development of this country; he does not go in for minor varieties but confines himself to trying to complete the major varieties. There were very few blank spaces and it was a pleasure to follow it through, reading the historical data he has placed under each issue."

CAPTAIN B. B. LIPSNER, America's first air mail superintendent, was a delegate to the recent International Civil Aeronautics Conference at Washington and he was an interested spectator at the post office booth where the Wright Brothers stamps were sold. Captain Lipsner has many a tale to tell of the early days of the air mail service and of the philatelic demand for air mail covers that keep his listeners from nodding. In 1918, as a captain in the army air service, Benjamin B. Lipsner proposed plans for an air mail service in this country. At the request of the post office department, he resigned from the army and joined the post office division. History relates how his constructive plans were employed to advantage to found the great aerial system that we now enjoy. He made a record for himself and all through the busy years to the end of 1918, he devoted himself to firmly establish the service. At the banquet and exhibition of the Chicago Aero Philatelic Society held January 2[illegible] Captain Lipsner was awarded first prize for his frame "Commemorating the Wrights' First Successful Flights. [illegible]ver Anniversary. Dec. 17, 1903-Dec. 17, 1928."

THE season of philatelic banquets is at its height and invitations are coming to the fore. From all accounts the annual dinner of the Collectors Club, held at the Hotel Astor on February 2, 1929, was a scene that beggared description, to quote an emotional correspondent. The philatelic refinements of the occasion were afforded a background of brilliant light due in great part to the presence of the ladies, with the concomitants of music and dancing.

WE are working on the proposal to amend Paragraph 1671 of the Tariff Act of 1922, under Schedule 15, Free Stamps to read as follows: Par. 1671. Stamps—Postage or Revenue Stamps, Canceled or Uncanceled and Government Stamped Envelopes or Post Cards bearing no other printing than the Official Imprint thereon. We have a supply of the slips that were printed by Mr. Diamant which readers may have by writing the editor for use in addressing your representatives at Washington. Let it be known that we are interested in the proposed change by making a showing to our legislators at Washington.

IRELAND AND SCOTT'S CATALOGUE

IRISH STAMPS RANK AMONGST THE MOST INTERESTING PRODUCED BY ANY COUNTRY

By RONALD A. KING.

In your issue of the 24th December, 1928, you published an article under the above heading by Mr. Hubert Lyman Clark, who deplores the fact that the Irish list has been revised in the 1929 Scott Catalogue. Mr. Clark states that his interest in Irish stamps has been wrecked through the new catalogue changing the list from a straight forward one, into a complicated list of minor varieties only capable of being understood by a specialist, who would have to enlist the aid of a very accurate millimeter scale and magnifying glass, to enable him to classify the stamps in the new catalogue order.

Nothing could be further from the truth than this, as unless Mr. Clark has very defective eyesight there is no need to use a magnifying glass, and the very accurate millimeter scale can be dispensed with altogether. The stamps issued by the Irish Free State since 1922 rank amongst the most interesting issues produced in any country, and the different printings are so easily classified that the veriest novice should have no difficulty in arranging them either by Scott's 1929 or Stanley Gibbons Catalogues. Let us take each printing as listed in the 1929 Scott and see the ease with which they can be distinguished from each other, in the hope that renewed interest may be awakened in Irish for Mr. Clark, or any collector who like him is puzzled and perplexed by the new list.

Firstly, one takes Scott's Nos. 1 to 14, the ½d, 1d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 9d, 10d, 2/6, 5/- and 10/- stamps overprinted by Messrs. Dollard, Ltd., of Dublin, with the inscription "Rialtas Sealadac na Heipeann 1922" in black, meaning "Provisional Government of Ireland, 1922." One notes that the date is printed in antique figures without a stop. As the black overprint did not show up well on the 2½d, 4d and 9d values of this issue, they were overprinted in red from the 1st April, 1922.

The 4d is found showing two shades of overprint, a bright red, and a deep carmine, the latter being much the scarcer of the two.

Next, one comes to Scott's Nos. 15 to 18, the 1½d, 2d die I, 2d die II, 6d and 1/- values overprinted by Messrs. Alex. Thom & Co., Ltd., of Dublin, in black ink, which is very similar in appearance to the Dollard Black Overprint, but has the date printed in block figures followed by a stop.

Following this set comes Scott's Nos. 19 to 22A, the ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d die I, and 2d die II values, overprinted in a glossy black ink by Messrs. Harrison and Sons of London, the actual printers of the stamps. This printing was only issued in vertical and horizontal Coils for use in automatic stamp vending machines, and is easily distinguished from the Thom Black printing as the overprint is wider and deeper, and the I in Rialtas is very much longer than in the previous printings.

In addition the foot of the last letter in Rialtas is always situated to the left of the third a of Sealadac, instead of to the right as in the normal Thom Printing.

Now comes Scott's Nos. 23 to 38, the ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d die I, 2d die II, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 9d Brown, 9d Green, 10d, 1/-, 2/6, 5/-, 10/- values, also overprinted by Messrs. Alex. Thom & Co., Ltd., in a glossy blue-black ink, the 2½d, 4d and 9d stamps being overprinted in red. This blue-black overprint is easily distinguished from the black one if a stamp of the latter set is used for comparison, as the appearance of the two overprints is quite different in both daylight and artificial light.

The 2/6, 5/- and 10/- values, Nos. 36, 37 and 38, are the only stamps overprinted by Messrs. Thom with the date in antique figures without stop, and can be distinguished from the Dollard high values Nos. 12, 13 and 14, without difficulty as the H and E in HEIPEANN are very much closer together than in the former printing.

One now comes to Scott's Nos. 39 to 43, the ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d die II, and 1/- values, also overprinted by Messrs. Alex. Thom & Co., Ltd., in blue-black ink, but with the overprint larger than that on the previous set. If one takes a stamp from this set and places it alongside a stamp from any of the previous ones, the difference is at once apparent, as the lettering through being wider spaced stands out more clearly and has a more even appearance.

Next on the list is Scott's Nos. 44 to 58, the ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d die II, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 9d, 10d, 1/-, 2/6, 5/- and 10/- values, the last issue printed by Messrs. Alex. Thom & Co., Ltd., which has quite a different overprint reading "SAORSTAT EIREANN 1922," meaning "Irish Free State 1922," as is apparent from the catalogue, and should present no difficulty whatever to anyone.

This issue is printed in blue-black ink, the 2½d, 4d and 9d being in red.

Then comes Scott's Nos. 59 to 62, the ½d, 1d, 1½d and 2d die II values, with a similar overprint in black, the work of Messrs. Harrison & Sons of London. These stamps were issued in Vertical and Horizontal Coils for use in automatic stamp vending machines.

The overprint can be distinguished from the Thom Saorstat by the colour of the ink, and has a heavier and thicker appearance.

The foot of the 1 in the date is round instead of straight as in the Thom printing, and the letters of the word "EIREANN" appear to be out of alignment in comparison with the Thom. Both Harrison Printings can also be identified by the perforations, as these are frequently cut on opposite sides of the stamp, or have the straight cut teeth, which stamps torn from sheets never possess.

The Current Issue, Nos. 65 to 76, need no description beyond that given by Scott, which also applies to the Postage Dues.

Lastly comes Nos. 77, 78 and 79, the 2/6, 5/- and 10/- values, overprinted by the Government Printers in Dublin Castle, and generally called the Dublin Castle Printing. This is similar to the Thom Saorstat Printing in blue-black, but the overprint is in a dull black ink and the figures in the date are set so close together that they are nearly touching, whereas in the Thom Printing they are set wide apart.

This completes the description of the normal issues listed by Scott, all of which can be distinguished from one another with the greatest of ease by the naked eye. The Errors listed are also easily distinguished as an "Inverted Overprint" or "Missing Accent" is quickly noted, and the "Handstamped" and "Reversed Accents," and "Pencf" varieties present no difficulties to a collector with a knowledge of the normal issues. Irish stamps are simple in comparison to some of the complicated issues of other countries listed in Scott's Catalogue, with their numerous and minute eye straining differences of perforation and watermark.

Lockport, N. Y., Provisional

Lockport is a city in the state of New York, having a population of about 18,000, which is known to philatelic fame from the fact that in 1846 its then postmaster issued a provisional 5c envelope to facilitate the prepayment of postage. These envelopes were suppressed in the following year when the Government issued adhesive postage stamps.

Minor Defects

Every once in a while a subscriber will send us a stamp where a trifling defect is found in the design. We sent a letter of this character to Mr. Ward recently, and he has given us a carbon copy of his reply, which we now print for the benefit of all our Juniors:—

"Replying to your letter of December 30, relative to the current 15c stamp, would advise that these little defects that you note are prevalent on many issues, and are not constant defects, due to defects in the plate, but are simply due to the plates not being properly cleaned, or the paper not being properly moistened. They are so common and of so little interest, that they are not worthy of Chronicle. We thank you for writing us and trust if you run across anything else odd or unusual, that you will bear us in mind."

I Love Them All

By EVERETT KLASS.

A bright new stamp on an album page,
My heart with rapture fills!
A wee little stamp, or a great big stamp,
Gives me a lot of thrills;
A bright red stamp or a deep blue stamp,
Or a stamp that's colored green
On a page of white is a pretty sight,
It's the grandest I have seen.

I have them square, upright or long,
I have them triangular, too;
They make a rainbow colored throng
As they pass in grand review.
When I slowly turn each album page,
I gaze with loving eyes
On each one mounted in its place—
My own to idolize!

Remainders

Young collectors often hear the term "remainders" applied to certain stamps and have probably only a very hazy conception of what the term means. Some confuse them with reprints, while others consider them an objectionable class of stamps, though on what grounds is not always clear.

They are certainly not reprints and where they are the remainders of stamps issued for bona-fide postal purposes they can hardly be considered very objectionable. Remainders are the stamps left on a Government's hands after a set has gone out of issue. They may be destroyed—a course that commends itself to most stamp collectors—or they may be offered for sale in one or more lots to the highest bidder or bidders. If they are sold unused the stamps are generally demonetised—that is, not available for postage at any future date—but in the case of British Colonial stamps even then they are not sold below face value. When it is decided to sell them in a cancelled condition face value is of course a secondary consideration and the lot goes to the highest bidder.

Many remainders have been marked in so distinctive a manner that they stand quite apart from the ordinary used or unused stamps of the same series. For instance, certain Mauritius stamps bearing the word "Cancelled" are remainders; the Spanish stamps overprinted with three or four black bars are remainders; the St. Helena stamps with a diamond shaped cancellation in violet are remainders; and so on.

Stamps on the Radio

By J. N. BURTON.

The fact that we have a radio right near our desk where our stamp letters are written most caused us to jump Monday evening, Jan. 28, for the radio commenced to exclaim that her husband had been riding the hobby of collecting stamps since he had been the Postmaster of Tompkins Corners.

She said their Post Office had been fourth class for years, but now since the Air Mail to California had started Uncle Sam had recognized what a good man she had and made the Tompkins Corners Post Office a third class office. So this was their celebration and they expected the Postmaster General to be with them, however, their company turned out to be three stranded actors from New York City. They were fed up, and in return furnished entertainment for the celebration.

We are informed that the Air Mail from Tompkins Corners was sent by Elmer, and his wheelbarrow, to meet the busses where it was conveyed to Albany, thence by airplane to California. And it is well to say that Elmer was some character in the Corners.

While from the arrangement of this little skit sent by Radio from WLW at Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, Ohio, it would not seem to have been put up to help interest people in collecting stamps as a hobby, still there was enough of it to make us sit up and take notice.

Gustavus Adolphus, Crown Prince of Sweden

President of the Swedish Philatelic Society.

The stamp collection of H.R.H. the Crown Prince of Sweden is formed on general lines from the standpoint of interest rather than rarity, and it contains none of the classical rarities. His Royal Highness has a predilection for the early issues of European countries, especially old German States, and possesses many much-sought-after specimens, e.g., Wurtemberg, all the 18kr and 70kr varieties of the 1851-73 issues. The early Italian States are also well represented, and include, among other choice items, the Sicily 50 grana in used condition. In Sweden the chief item of note is a copy of the scarce error of the 20 öre, worded "Tretio" (30) for "Tjugo" (20). The collection also includes some rare specimens of British Colonial stamps, notably the Nova Scotia 1/- of 1851. H.R.H. is keenly interested in the welfare of the Swedish Philatelic Society, of which he is President.—Who's Who in Philately.

Sevard's Twinkles

(There is always a reason for everything—there is a reason for this rhapsody. We are not at liberty to divulge it but Sevard in due season must let the light stream in.—W. O. W.)

Recently we came by a vast amount of philatelic research work of an earlier day, tome upon tome of laboriously handwritten pages of odd bits of breathless gasps of inklings and blots of some momentous authority on an elusive subject of erudition. As one glances the pages, a clipping here, an odd scribble there, one reacts to an enthusiasm smoldering under the cold embers of a relinquished purpose. Once, we suppose, there was fire kindled, and the flaming baton for Vestal hearths was guardedly passed from hand to hand, yet here lies the half-burned brand to rekindle, or destroy.

ENTHUSIASM FOR ANY PHILATELIC SUBJECT WELLS UP TIME AND TIME AGAIN. IT FOLLOWS A LEADERSHIP. IT FLOWS WITH AN INDIVIDUAL. IT REACHES A CRESCENDO IN ITS FLUID MELODIES, BUT ONLY AS A PRELUDE. IT NEVER REACHES THE MAIN THEME. THERE ARE NO GALLOPING VALKYRIES, NO CORONATION MARCHES, NO PRIZE SONGS, NO ARPEGGIOS TO SEEP THE MORTAL SOUL.

America is a speeding world of individualists. Opportunities are rampant. They are within the grasp of each. And as suddenly one takes himself to the altar of collecting one thing, so soon does he run to other Gods to adore in his ever changing moods.

The moralists cry that there is but one set purpose to success, and that is patience. Patience to stick to one's task, no matter the friends of Alcibiades. Nothing ever runs itself except down hill. Keeping everlastingly at it brings success. A stamp collection is worth no more than one's purpose to perfect it. One cannot jump from Scylla to Charybdis without falling into the torrent. Or Lorelei's singing looms for you the Rock —not the rock of strength, but the rock of disaster. The siren calls of a new philately should bind us ever faster to our bark as it scuds the foaming waters.

Our littoral is strewn with the derelicts of many collections, collections which in their hey-dey of enthusiasm blossomed like the roses of June, withered, and then passed away. The yellowed leaves of time, pressed between the pages of some forgotten book, crackle between the fingers, and fall away like dust. That, that was life, now is destroyed. No magic can repair its beauty, no necromancy can put its cheeks, no ritual can give it adoration, for its spirit is gone.

Guatemala

—New Currency Based on "Quetzal" Now Seen In New Stamps.

By HERMANN FOCKE.

It seems that this country is now going over to the new currency of the "Quetzal", which I understand is to be the same value as the Mexican dollar, ., in silver, equal to 50c U. S. gold cy., d I hear that already several values ve appeared as provisionals, surcharged the 15 pesos black of 1924 and 1926; wever, there is also on hand a new rmanent issue in this new currency, the centavos de Quetzal purple, of which enclose a used pair, together with the value already known and catalogued.

This newcomer is similar to the 25c lue of the 1926 set with portrait of renzo Montufar, Scott's type A-75, d also bears the Series number of 1926, t is printed by De la Rue & Co., Ltd., hereas the 1926 issue was printed by aterlow & Sons.

I presume that the old 25c value was t to the printers as a model for the w stamps, without instructions to ange the year of issue to 1928, as it ght to have been, considering that the w monetary system was decided upon t year.

CORRESPONDENCE

TO THE EDITOR:—

Your editorial quotation from a Chicago correspondent's letter on page 736 (Dec. 24), regarding unflown Latvian covers, comes at an opportune time. The demand for flown covers has increased beyond all anticipation. In America, American aerogrammes obviously have the monopoly of attention, but when the buying power of American collectors discovers the interest and intrinsic value of foreign covers, as it will do eventually, then may we expect a flood of covers in search of this rich market—covers that will include outright fakes, covers "flown" over routes which are metaphorically, but not literally "in the air", "cancelled to order" covers, and so forth. Had I the leisure, I would broadcast a list of covers already on the market that are not what they appear to be, but that duty must be deferred at present.

My purpose in writing is to make two suggestions: the first, that the collector read, mark and learn every item of appropriate news that comes his way through the philatelic press (advertisements as well as news columns), for a well-informed collector rarely buys wrongly; and the other suggestion is that dealers operate a form of guarantee service. Without asking for a free ad, I would say that my firm started a money-back guarantee over three years ago, including the keeping of check details on all covers, which acts admirably. It will pay American dealers to do the same, after assuring themselves of reliable sources of supply for information as well as goods. Our expenditure, about $5,000 a year, in this direction is not merely bread cast on the waters!

It is a well-known fact that because of the high percentage of philatelists to population in European countries, European stamps of the right sort are gilt-edged investments. This applies also to flown covers of the right sort, and collectors who take an intelligent interest in foreign covers, can at present buy at prices altogether out of proportion to eventual values.

Yours truly,
FRANCIS J. FIELD.

WESTCHESTER CO. CHAPTER A. P. S.

The Westchester County chapter of the A. P. S. met Jan. 21, at the home of Beverly S. King, White Plains, N. Y. Seventeen members and four visitors were present. The present membership is thirty-three. There was some discussion as to future places of meetings, but it was finally decided to continue to meet at members homes for the balance of the season and arrange for permanent quarters with the September meeting.

Mr. Welty of Yonkers, will entertain in April, Mr. Cristi of Ardsley in May, and Mr. Squier of Yonkers in June. Vice-Pres. and Editor Squier gave an interesting report on recent postal activities and new issues. Air mail was given special consideration.

The swapping of stamps was indulged in, and a wonderful collection of supposed rarities gotten together by Paul Wise, and exhibited by E. B. Power, one of the guests of the evening, provoked much merriment. A buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. King, and the meeting closed at near midnight.

WANT LISTS SOLICITED

We have the largest and finest general stock in the country. Although particular emphasis has been placed on 19th century stamps, the later issues have not been neglected. This stock is now almost completely arranged, with every item numbered according to catalog. It has taken us more than two years to get our vast accumulation in shape.

We are now in a position to send you stamps promptly, at attractive prices, and in fine condition; thus we solicit your want list.

MACHINE-DIE CANCELLATIONS IN COLOR

By R. J. SCHWARZ.
President National Air Mail Society.

Has the precedent set by the Government in using green ink in the cancelling machine at the special post office during the International Civil Aeronautics Conference to "doll up" our covers taken so well with the public that in the future we may see all hues of the rainbow being used in the cancellers?

I have before me an envelope picked from the wastebasket of a large firm because it has the regular machine type of cancellation in an attractive shade of blue. It has an ordinary 2c stamp and is from Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 4, 11 P. M., 1929, with the "Air Mail Saves Time" die.

Perhaps we will soon have another branch of philately—collecting machine die cancellations in colors! The I. C. A. C. green cancellation surely made an attractive addition to our collections, and we are for anything that will boost philately.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

L. B. Gatchell, Secty. of the American Air Mail Society, sends a special note regarding stops on FAM No. 5, based on information received from an official source. It is doubtful if any mail will be brought North by Col. Lindbergh, from any Central American countries in which he stops. This will also be true of his flight from Miami to Cristobal.

The Willys-Overland Co. broke all Air Mail records for quantity when they dispatched 700,000 letters at one mailing, recently. * * Messrs. W. J. Prinzing and E. Dickason favored me with covers from the San Angelo, Texas, Airport dedication of Jan. 24th and 25th. * * J. Wall sends word that The "Graf Zepp." will make a round-the-world trip as coming summer. * * John Rausch reports that the Glendale, Calif., Airport will be opened on Feb. 17th, but is unable to say if a cachet is to be used.

Ralph Moffett sends in a letter received from the P. M. G's office in Perth, Australia, giving facts relative to their flights that are to occur in April, 1929. The route is given as Perth, Kalgoorlie, Rawlina, Forrest, Cook, Ceduna and Adelaide. The rate is to be 3d per ½ oz. in addition to the regular letter charge of 1d per oz. for Australian delivery. For the U. S. the rate is the Air Mail fee of 5d plus 3d for regular postage. In another letter received by C. A. Forster on the same matter, the P. M. G. states that "it is regretted that this department can undertake to mail covers on your behalf, as requested." So you can take your chances if so inclined. It is reported that a 3d Air Mail stamp may be available for the flights, but no special cachet is anticipated.

Mr. J. H. Jost has shown me a Government Air Mail envelope issued for the Air Mail Service in Mexico. The envelope bears the regular 10c embossed stamp in blue and white and has diagonal green, white and red stripes at the N.W. and S.E. corners.

Anniston, Ala., dedication date has been postponed to a later date. * * Cresco, Pa. (Skytop), dedication will occur in "Probably a year or two." * * Aeor Phil. Soc. of Chicago held their First Anniversary and Banquet celebration on Jan. 26th. A neat "I Will" cachet was applied to covers mailed from the Hotel Bismark, where the "eats" occurred.

If you own any of the recent U. S.-Mexico First Trip covers, hang on to them, for, according to the latest dope, the route will become obsolete in a short time. Final bids for the route from Brownsville, Texas, to Vera Cruz, Mexico, have been received by the P. O. D. and when this new route is in operation, it is probable that the Laredo-Mexico City route will go out of business. Under the proposal the Postmaster General may extend the new route via Vera Cruz, Puerto Mexico and Tuitla Cutierrez to one or more of the countries of Central America, stops to be made at such points in those countries as may be acceptable to their Governments.

The New Orleans-Beaumont-Houston flights came off on time and the cachet applied to covers is a little beauty! Just the right size, clear and distinct. And I want to go on record right here in calling attention to the fact that all my covers were the cleanest ever received back from a contract flight! Nice work and gratefully received.

The first cover received in from the Canadian flight of January 28th, came to hand on January 29th. Mr. Judson Knappen, the sender, placed the cover at Ottawa, where it received the special cachet and the face cancel of January 28th. Backstamped at St. John, N. B., Jan. 28th at 5 P. M. and arrived in Needham at 1 P. M., Jan. 29th. This is a fast record and, as usual, the cachet is well designed and carefully placed. The Canadian P. O. D. treat covers better than some of our offices, due probably to the fact that a fast drying ink pad is used for applying cachets.

The Postal Bulletin of January 28th gives a re-arranged schedule over CAM No. 30 and in so doing has dropped Champaign, Ill., from the route, effective on February 1st.

Mr. D. E. Dickason has sent a cover from the First Express flight over CAM No. 16 that occurred on January 15th. In his letter accompanying the cover, Mr. Dickason states that the American Express personelle were all "het up" over his request that envelopes, which could be sent by Air Mail for 5c, be sent by express at $1.34 each! However, Mr. Dickason got them through at the latter rate and in consequence has a most novel and attractive cover. The postage stamp is cancelled with an American Express date stamp, office of the General Manager, bears a great big "AIR EXPRESS" cachet and is autographed by the Superintendent.

P. M. G. Harry S. New addressed a big group of Aviation enthusiasts, manufacturers and others at a banquet held at the Commodore Hotel on Jan. 29th. His speech probably appeared in your local paper and it makes very interesting reading to Air Mail cover collectors. If you failed to see it, better chase down cellar and dig out the Jan. 30th edition.

Francis J. Field advises that Mr. J. E. Carberry carried a small amount of mail from Amsterdam to East Africa on his flight, the most interesting of which are those flown from Cairo to Nairobi, for they are the forerunners of the service from Egypt that will operate over practically the same route under the direction of Sir Alan Cobham's Company. The mail to Nairobi consisted of about 40 letters which were postmarked at Cairo on Dec. 6th. Halts were made by the aviator at Wadi Haifa, Khartoum, Mongalla and Nairobi, reached on the fifth day, the covers being postmarked at that place on Dec. 11th, thus proving that transport of mails by air can be effected in less than half the time occupied by the land and water route.

J. P. Penning advises that Pittsburgh will hold an aero show March 11-16, a balloon race May 4th and that any collectors wishing mail despatched for these events will be assisted by himself. Mr. Penning states that no official information relative to cachets has been forthcoming as yet and that the contractor of CAM No. 11 may step in and give collectors a cachet. If you want to take a chance, Mr. Penning will be glad to help. His address is 124 East Eugene Ave., Homestead, Pa. Send your covers, with your instructions, ready to go! Mr. Penning hasn't the time to buy stamps, address covers or look up your relatives. So do your part and send your covers READY TO MAIL.

WANTED TO BUY

I have long since reached the point where it is more difficult to buy fine properties than it is to sell. As a result, in spite of my unusually large stock, I am always in the market to purchase for immediate cash, worthwhile pieces, collections of properties. In order to satisfy my large clientele, it is necessary to purchase the finest things that become available in the way of U. S. postal and revenue issues, as well as fine foreign covers, previous to 1860.

In the way of our own issues, I especially want early mint blocks, mint singles and rare covers. I am not particularly anxious for minor plate varieties, stitch watermarks and the like. In the later issues, I am looking for the rarer mint blocks, as well as the errors, such as inverted centers, part-perforates, imperforates, and the other minor varieties of the twentieth century issues.

In addition to the above, I particularly desire inverted centers of all countries. Of course, anything in the way of U. S. inverts, such as our own postage and revenue stamps, are wanted at substantial figures.

If you have anything of real importance, correspondence is solicited.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

New Amber Envelopes

The new 2-cent red on amber envelopes issued under the new contract, were placed on sale for the first time, as far as can be learned, in Philadelphia on Saturday, January 26, 1929. The new variety noted is the Die-H on amber, size 13, with the new 1929 watermark, the date being horizontally across the top of the monogram "U.S."

To the cut-square collector, the new amber varieties will be identical with those on sale four or five years back. As a matter of interest, the 4-cent black on amber, which now lists at $2.00 and the 5-cent at 75 cents will become common varieties, so that quite possibly the catalogue price will be changed.

We will await with interest sight of further new envelopes with the new watermark and would thank our readers to favor us with any that might be placed on sale from time to time at their post office.

5-Cent Aeronautic Conference

Mr. Vance Holden has been studying the 5-cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference variety and finds several oddities in the southwest pane of No. 19658, which he states are constant.

Some of the guide dots used in laying out the plates are still noticeable and he finds such a dot on the fifteenth stamp in the lower portion of "E" of "Cents." On stamp No. 37 there is a little line extending the right leg of the letter "V" of "Civil." On the 46th stamp there is a dot over the "S" of "Postage." If one wants to take the trouble and has the eyesight, numerous oddities of this type may be found in practically all of our issues.

Air Mail Activities

Collectors of air mail covers will note with great regret the order of Mr. John H. Bartlett, First Assistant Postmaster General, dated January 26, 1929, wherein effective immediately the practice of backstamping air mail will be discontinued. The only exception is air mail carried on first flight on newly established air mail routes, under such instructions as may be issued at the time.

One of the main interests in the air mail cover is to note the mailing and receiving postmarks, indicating the time it has taken for the letter to fly and definitely showing that the letter in question is a flown cover, rather than one simply stamped at the place of origin.

The Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, has received bids covering the carrying of air mail one way from Brownville, Texas, to Vera Cruz, Mexico City, or such other points as may be acceptable to the Mexican Government.

It is understood that the air mail route now being operated by the Mexican Government, from Mexico City to the Texan border, is going to be discontinued, so that quite likely the time is not far distant when "Uncle Sam" will help to act as postman for Mexico, and possibly one or two other Central or South American countries.

Canal Zone

Mr. George Brett advises that he has received the 14-cent Indian type, overprinted "Canal Zone" with the sharp "A" of the second printing. This he states was placed on sale either in December or the early part of January of this year.

Mr. R. S. Carter sends a clipping from the Panama American of January 11, 1929, wherein mention is made of the new 25-cent Provisional Canal Zone stamp placed on sale that date. It is stated that this will be good for air mail postage only and will not be acceptable for regular postage. The same clipping calls attention to the fact that the first flight from the Canal Zone to the United States, has been postponed to about February 12, 1929.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for note the 1sh4p, with multiple small A and Crown watermark with new perforation 13½x12½.

Brazil.—Mr. R. Roberts reports that the 100rs has been issued in light blue green, watermarked Casa Da Moeda vertically.

Egypt.—Thanks to Mr. P. J. Drossos, of Athens, we are now able to give the quantities of the Medical Congress stamps printed, viz.:—5mills brown 300,000; 10mills red, 204,000. There were tumultuous scenes at the guichets recalling the "rough house" conditions of the "Port Fuad" issue. There must be some stout hearts in Egypt. We received copies from four dealers.—Stamp Collecting France.—Copies of the 40c blue Sower type, has been received from the Economist Stamp Co., Whitfield King & Co., and Mr. R. Roberts.

Germany.—The 20pf grey, Official stamp, has been received from Whitfield King & Co.

Guatemala.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a set of new stamps recently issued by this country. They bear the imprint of T. De LaRue & Co. of London, and are of the following values, shades and designs: ½c green (Observatorio Nacional), 1c brown (Palacio Nacional de Antigua), 2c blue (Justo Rufino Barrios), 3c brown-violet (Lorenzo Montufar), 5c red (General Orellana), and 15c ultramarine (Colon).

Jamaica.—A 1½p brown of new design has been received from the Economist Stamp Co. A profile view of King George is the central design with the figures of value in each upper corner, the name of the Colony being at the base and "Postage" in very small letters in the left panel with "Revenue" in the same size type on the right side.

Kelantan.—A $1 blue, line engraved, script watermark, perf. 12, stamp of new design has been sent for chronicle by Mr. R. Roberts. It bears a portrait of the Rajah, large format, recess printed, and is of a very attractive design.

North West Pacific Islands.—Our publishers have shown us a new discovery in the stamps of this interesting group. This consists of a sheet of the 2½d value, with the first watermark overprinted, in black, with the second state of the fourth setting of the overprint, i.e., with large stops. Hitherto this variety has only been known with the purple overprint. Curiously enough it was only two months ago that we had occasion to refer in these columns to our publishers' acquisition of a sheet of the same value with the rare black overprint in the second setting, so that the new discovery is quite a coincidence.—Australian Stamp Journal.

Poland.—Whitfield King & Co. report the appearance of the 25gr brown Eagle type.

Portugal.—The following provisionals have been received from Mr. R. Roberts and Whitfield King & Co.: 40c on 64c blue, 40c on 64c pale ultra, 40c on 75c pink, and 40c on 80c violet, all Ceres type. Also the 15c on 25c grey, and 40c on 50c orange have also been received from the same correspondents.

Russia.—Information regarding the new Child Welfare stamps are furnished by Mr. Nicholas Amanieff and Whitfield King & Co. The stamps are of two values 10+2 kopecs red-brown and olive-—P. O. Officials in Germany Setting a Good Example to Others.

(Evansville "Press"—R. C. Hackett.)

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—Eager to mail his letter late the other evening and finding himself without any stamps, a client of the German postal service hurriedly pasted a 10-pfennig coin to the envelope and tossed the letter in the mail-box. To his surprise, it reached its destination.

According to the rules, the recipient of the letter would normally have had to pay postage due. In this instance, the letter was forwarded promptly and no fine was imposed. It is said that the postal authorities in Germany are putting themselves out to be obliging in such cases. They no longer feel it necessary to educate the public by fines, prohibitions and reprimands, but are inclined to help their "clients" and provide the best possible service.

NEW YORK PRECANCEL CLUB

By N. R. HOOVER.

The second anniversary feed of the New York Precancel Club will take place Friday, February 15, at 35 W. 33d St., N. Y. City. Fifty members and guests are expected.

At the meeting of the Club held Friday evening, January 18, with President S. F. Johnson in the chair, about twenty members were present, as well as two prominent visitors, Messrs. Walter Gates of Teaticket, Mass., and V. W. Rotnem of Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Gates commented upon the fact that he has just gotten back from checking the collection he gave to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C. It appears that the authorities noticed the denunciatory editorial printed some time ago by the New York Sun, and that they consider it a reflection more upon the Institute than upon precancels.

Mr. Rotnem commended the New York Club for taking the initiative in the campaign to identify favors in precancels, and predicted that in after years, the decision the Club has made will be viewed with grateful favor as marking the first real move to stabilize precancels.

NEW ISSUE OF STAMPS OF CANADA

By A. I. LAWRENCE.

The writer has just received a complete set of the latest general issue of these stamps, as follows: 1-cent, orange; 2-cent, green; 3-cent, carmine; 5-cent, violet, and 8-cent, blue—all of the same design, the head of King George in three-fourths full face. The design is dignified and impressive and well executed; the size of all the aforementioned stamps is about 18 by 22 millimetres on a medium heavy, soft paper.

The higher values vary in design, and are particularly interesting; they are as follows:

10-cent, green; landscape view in the Canadian Rockies; the composition is particularly good and speaks well for the artist who designed it.

The 12-cent, gray-black in color, shows a view of the new Quebec bridge across the St. Lawrence River. This stamp is of interest to the engineer as it shows the construction of the bridge members very clearly.

The 20-cent, carmine, has for its subject a landscape view in the western Canadian wheat fields, showing a transcontinental railroad train in the middle distance with background of mountains.

The 50-cent, in a blue color, is the gem of the lot; a marine view of two Canadian fishing vessels under full sail; evidently racing, as a marking buoy is shown, to the windward, in the middle distance. This stamp is the handsomest one, from any country, that has been issued for years, and should be very popular with everyone who loves the sea; it is correct too as regards positions of the vessels in the wind, positions of sails, rigging, etc., which is too often not the case in the marine artist's work.

The $1.00 stamp is in an olive-green color and is quite architectural in its design, showing a front elevation of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa—this is the only stamp of the lot with a more or less duplicate design—it is very similar to that of the 3-cent stamp of the Diamond Jubilee set of June 29, 1927.

The 10-cent and higher values are oblong in shape, 34 by 23 millimetres in size.

This set of stamps is particularly noticeable throughout for the fine designs, accuracy and truthfulness of details, modesty and good taste in colors, and splendid execution. In a scroll across the top is the word CANADA, and across the bottom of each design the word CENTS, or DOLLAR in the highest value. All, excepting only the 20-cent and one dollar values, have the values in figures in each bottom corner of the stamp; the 20-cent and one dollar stamps have values in figures at sides of these stamps, midway between the top and bottom of the design.

All the designs show the word (small capitals) POST, in both English and French. Canada may well be proud of this postal issue.

BILL BLOSS CONVERTED

(Bill gave the precancelites a cold shower bath recently, in fact, it was frigid. He had no use for this sideline. But Bill has been converted—in part! From this article it will be noted that he specializes now in 12, 13 and 14c precancels. There is such a thing as conversion, after all.—W. O. W.)

While we were recuperating from the "flu" and ridding ourselves of the ten thousand devils that had moved in on us, the postman was overworked bringing us correspondence from the precancelists.

Anyway, we found out that the precancelists take their philately seriously. If we were so inclined, we might feel all puffed up like a toy balloon to think that we could start such a commotion with our puerile drivel and drool.

Our paragraph was written for the pure purpose of starting an argument and jazzing up an otherwise dying column—for a little excitement is sometimes necessary to keep editorial efforts alive.

The reaction of the offended precancel fans was interesting. One man informs me that I am all humid, on the financial side, because he spends money for them. I have no doubt that plenty of other fans do likewise, and also do not doubt but what more and more will as time goes on. I was not born in Kansas City for nothing, however, and having lived on the Missouri side for some years, I still have to be shown where precancels do or will sit in on the big money as compared with regular stampic issues.

Another man, a dealer, justly took exception to my article as being detrimental to his interests as an advertiser in our journal and as a member of the society. I cannot share his views that any precancel collectors would cease their interest because of any of the opinions I might express in this mess of corruption I turn out.

Any precancel man, or collector of any line, who would quit his hobby because I or any other writer expressed a negative opinion of said branch of collecting would be such a poor fish that the precancel fraternity would never miss him.

I do not give myself credit for being so important that I can seriously influence any man to do as I think best. The policy of this department is to encourage general collecting, or at least, specialism along general lines. We appreciate the fact that few of us can amass a huge general collection, but we also know that to every man comes enough general material over a period of years to make a nice general collection, and so we believe that every man should have such a collection. Whether he buys and builds, or only takes such grist as comes to his mill without cost, matters not.

Personally, I am not a philatelist in the strict sense of the word. I get my big thrill from a one of a kind general collection with just as many crazy, odd and goofy countries and sets as possible. I can't get even a minor thrill over a precancel collection, simply because of the constant repetition of design and type.

Neither can I get a big kick out of highly specialized lots of 3c 1851-7 or any other similar stamp, showing dots behind Washington's ear. Some fellows like it, however, and that's fine. And the fact that I can't see this intense specialistic study and plating will not cause even the slightest fall in the market for the specialistic material.

Now, just to show the precancel fans that my heart is in the right place, I have started to collect 12c, 13c and 14c precancels, and if I ever get a thrill from them, I will tell you all about it. I do not know whether these values are better than others, but the stamps themselves are better than some. Like most of the precancel collectors I know personally, I shall confine my efforts to those that come my way through ordinary channels and mayhap by exchange.

Incidentally, if I were going to collect precancels seriously, I should be inclined to follow the footsteps of Burt Wear, who collects one specimen only of each type from each town. That sounds like a slick way to do it, and gets away from the long sets so identical in appearance. It also makes a valuable addition to Burt's collection of ordinary cancellation types.—American Philatelist.

STAMPS "ON COVER"

Remarkable Exhibit of British Stamps on Original Letters

Among the many attractions of the show of Great Britain stamps, one that appeals to a wide public, as well as to the philatelic student, is a remarkable collection of stamps on original letters illustrating a great variety of the uses to which they were put.

The collection is the property of Dr. Alfred E. Whitelaw, who gives the following brief description of its most notable items:—

Penny postage came into operation in Great Britain on January 19th, 1840. On that day the House of Commons envelope was introduced for the benefit of the M.P.'s, who had vigorously objected to the discontinuance of franking, a reform brought about by the new measure. This exhibit properly commences with a specimen of this rarely-seen envelope, used during the first month.

Some unusual Mulreadys follow. One, postmarked May 7th, 1840 (second day of issue)—and probably written on May 6th—bears the words, "Hurrah for Rowland Hill!" inscribed by the original user. Other Mulreadys bear rare postmarks, four of them numbered London Crosses, another the Manchester Cross, and another is additionally franked by a superb pair of penny blacks. Among the printed Mulreadys is a fine copy of the very rare circular of the "Society for the Extinction of the Slave Trade," used in 1840.

Penny blacks from all plates are shown on cover, including Plate 11. Perhaps the most outstanding of these are three covers from one correspondence, used on the first, second, and third days of issue, respectively May 6th, 7th and 8th, 1840. Another exceptionally interesting item is a cover (face only) bearing two penny blacks and a strip of six 1d 1841 Plate 11, addressed to New South Wales. This is included, although not in superb condition, as the world's first postage stamp is almost unknown addressed to points outside Great Britain and Ireland. The remaining penny black covers are all immaculate, and are all distinguished by features of special philatelic interest.

Later issues are shown with rare postmarks, many of these coloured. Attention is especially drawn to the 1d 1841 Plate 8, with red Cross cancellation, and the 2d 1854 with green Dublin obliteration; both are truly perfect specimens of rare items.

Two superb Archers, dated 1850, are included.

The group of covers bearing embossed adhesives are noteworthy for their unusually brilliant condition.

Unique pieces are the 1d 1857 perf. 16, four copies on a Channel Island cover, postmarked at St. Malo, France; a 1d 1864, superb strip of six, with the Edinburgh Brunswick Star cancellation; the 1/- 1862 "K in circle" variety, in superb pair with the normal, and with a magenta railway postmark; an hitherto unchronicled Scots Local, "Thornlie Bank"; a group of combination covers showing stamps of U. S. A., Greece, Roumania, States, North German Confederation, and Egypt, used in conjunction with stamps of Great Britain. An oddity, certainly unique, is a block of four of the fourpence 1855 with triple perforation.

A number of the covers show earliest known use, in several cases new record dates. Among the latter are the 1d perf. 14 (1855), 1/- 1850, 1/- 1862, Plate 4, 1865, 6d Plate 6, 1869, and several of the 1d 1864 plates.

Used Abroad. — Some notable covers showing British stamps used abroad are included. Among these are rarities from Limassol, Jamaica, Pernambuco, Rio, Callao, Arica, and Mayaguez. A number show the rare Naval Stations (so-called) postmarks, some of them with hitherto unchronicled varieties. Later covers were used by the Royal Niger Company, and by British forces in South Africa. Some covers carry combinations of British stamps with other countries, one showing three rates, inland (Nicaragua 5c and 25c), ocean (Great Britain 1/), and the Captain's gratuity (Great Britain 1½d).

One of the Crimean covers is dated 29.6.54, the earliest date chronicled, so far as the exhibitor can discover, of British stamps used abroad.—Postage Stamp.

MONACO

A COMING RARITY

By HERMANN FOCKE.

Until the great war this little Principality had been a modest contributor to philatelic treasures, the catalogue citing in 1920 only 25 major varieties during a period of 35 years since the appearance of the first issue, but since then she has worked hard to make up for lost time, because by the end of 1928 the number had passed the first hundred in general postage stamps, aside from another forty odd varieties in semi-postals, postage dues and what have you?

However, her contributions have been both beautiful, and more or less justified by circumstances, such as the gradual depreciation of her money, the franc, and the necessity of raising funds for charitable and similar purposes, and a fairly complete collection is practically within the reach of all of us collectors.

Barring the 1920 issue to celebrate the marriage of the daughter of the then reigning Prince Albert, which I believe we may be excused from incorporating into our general collection, there are only two hard-to-get stamps, or rarities, the 5fr of 1885, Scott's No. 10, and more recently, the same value in violet, issued in 1920, Scott's No. 28, this latter being the object which I have in mind when speaking of a coming rarity.

It may not be generally known that whereas of No. 10 there were issued 30,000 copies, very few of which will have gone astray, of No. 28, the issue comprised only 9,000 copies, of which some 3,000 were later surcharged to celebrate the birth of the Prince's grandson, which latter stamp is consequently no object to be scoffed at, and it actually is selling in Europe at very much higher prices than catalogued at here, but it was an unnecessary and thoroughly speculative issue, and may be ignored by all who do not believe in such superfluous creations.

It is a fact that No. 28 has seldom been offered anywhere; I remember that an apparently legitimately used copy on cover was offered at a N. Y. dealer's auction sale in 1927, when the catalogue value was $9.00, but the lucky buyer had to pay more than this to get it, and shortly after the appearance of the 1928 catalogue, which priced it at $12.00, it was again advanced, and today it is priced at $20.00, a very modest figure considering its great rarity and elusiveness.

There is rarely a sale in Europe where not one copy of No. 10 is offered; I remember having seen a catalogue of a well-known Swiss Auctioneer only last year, in which there were seven copies of this stamp, mostly used copies, and for sure all poorly centred, a very common occurrence with nearly all Monaco stamps, but never have I seen offered again a single copy of No. 28.

Seeing that No. 10 is catalogued today at $150.00, and will fetch easily $125.00, while European dealers are asking for a perfect copy 3,500 Frcs., or $140.00, we may judge what this much scarcer No. 28 will bring in years to come, especially a really perfect copy, of which it may almost be said "there ain't none."

A friend of mine had the good fortune and kindness to secure for me in Europe a perfect beauty at a ridiculous price,—I better not name it here, because I might be accused of fibbing—but he added that "this stamp is not only extremely hard to find, but is "surtout" (above all) as a rule very poorly perforated (centred), and really fine copies are "excessivement rares," this from a man who should know more about Monaco stamps than anybody of us on this side of the Pond.

We have heard of late of many a stock having increased in value four—and even tenfold, but this little postage stamp, of a face value of less than 25c in our money only 8 years ago (the franc being at that time quoted at around 5c), is truly worth today hundred times as much.

I hope that some lucky soul has had the forethought to tuck away a full sheet of this stamp under his mattress, and if he does not happen to smoke cigarettes before going to sleep, he may leave it there undisturbed for a few more years, and I believe that for the proceeds of its eventual sale he will be able to purchase a handsome residence.

There are, to be sure, several other little sleepers amongst Monaco's stamps, No. 27 being one of them, since a good portion of this was also surcharged in December of 1920, the year of its issue, but on the other hand it has been my experience that all of the engraved stamps of 1922-24 are overpriced, as they are still quite plentiful, if one knows where to get them; however, their striking beauty makes them attractive objects for our collections, and they seem to be good sellers at around half-cat.

The recent four provisionals will be good, because they had a short life and are already bringing in Europe a good premium over face-value which, obviously, is very low in our money.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

There is a lively stamp club at the Emil G. Hirsch High School, Chicago, one of whose patrons is Dr. C. W. Hennan of that city.

The Forest Park Philatelic Society of Baltimore, recently elected the following members as officers for the current year: President, Charles Stern; 1st Vice-President, T. Rosenburg; 2nd Vice-President, R. London; Secretary, G. Hillman; and Treasurer, M. Sollod. Meetings are held every Wednesday.

The Bowling Green Stamp Club was organized early in the year by about thirty interested members, who met at the Bowling Green Neighborhood Building, 107 Washington Street, New York. Open house prevails on Saturday afternoons between 1 and 4 P. M., and collectors are welcome. The following officers were elected: W. O. Staeb, Rutherford, N. J., President; J. C. Zanini, Ozone Park, L. I., N. Y., Vice-President; G. F. Rothmann, Woodside, L. I., N. Y., Secretary; C. W. Gramm, Cranford, N. J., Treasurer; and S. Newman, Brooklyn, N. Y., director.

There is a stamp society that holds meetings in the Hyde Park Congregational Church, 1364 East 56th St., Chicago, of which Julius Goldsmith is secretary. Mr. A. P. Francis is the dean of the organization, and any collectors in the neighborhood are made to feel at home.

The annual air mail night of the Philatelic Club, Los Angeles, was held on February 4th, when all the "fellows with the Hawkers, DePinedos, and flying what-nots" were out in force.

A new club was organized in Chicago, on January 30, 1929, and called The Postage Stamp Club, which has leased a room on the second floor of 118 N. LaSalle Street, Chicago. The room will be open each day from 8 A. M. to 11 P. M., and furnished with tables and chairs. The dues are six dollars a year, and members must be at least 21 years of age. Officers: A. Hippchen, president; J. C. Hribal, vice-president; C. H. Krippaehne, secretary; and W. H. Giller, treasurer. Meetings will be held on the third Wednesday of each month.

PRECANCELS TO THE FORE

By C. A. CARROLL.

Precancel collecting is on the upgrade. There are certain very unmistakable signs which point to this. A large number of new collectors have recently entered the field, a higher average of intelligence is being manifested in the hobby, the one strictly precancel publication has been increased from a quarterly to a monthly, and another very active monthly devoted exclusively to precancels has entered the field and has achieved excellent support, important developments inside the hobby have created special interest among old collectors, and in general, the whole precancel field has taken on added zest.

This wide nook in the halls of philately is by no means new. It has had its devotees for a score or more years. During this period, it has had its ups and downs. Periods of depression have been induced by unhealthy practices which grew up inside the hobby—for instance, the commemorative craze, particularly the Harding boon, which led to hundreds of varieties being created by favor and a fictitious market being built up, with its resultant collapse.

But today witnesses a generally healthful tone both in the market and in accepted practice. The auction market during the past two years has shown marked activity, with new high peak prices being established only to be knocked down in a month or so by some other rarity. When single stamps are run up to twenty and twenty-five dollars, double and even quadruple catalog prices, there is every indication that the hobby has both red blood and superabundant vigor. One very significant feature of the important auctions is that dealers have been the most insistent bidders.

For the benefit of those who know precancel collecting only in name, it may be well to indicate the fundamentals of the game. There are three main divisions of precancels: first, Bureau Prints, or those stamps which are overprinted at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at the same time that the stamps are engraved; second, city types which are overprinted in each city from electroplates furnished by the department at Washington; and third, city type handstamps, usually employed by small offices where the use of precancels is restricted to one or two firms, or to general parcel post mailing around Christmas.

Of the three, the Bureau Prints, of course, have an authenticity which can never be brought in question, and consequently have a larger following than other types. Specialists in Bureau Prints are very numerous and are growing in numbers rapidly because of an undercurrent of feeling among some important United States specialists that these emissions are in reality minor varieties of our postal issues, which sooner or later must be recognized in the broader field of general U. S. collecting. There are at present

LINDBERGH DAY, JUNE 11, 1927

June 11, 1927, was the real "Lindbergh Day." On that day Colonel Lindbergh returned to America, after his epochal flight to Paris, and landed at Washington. The Government authorized a special air mail flight from Washington to New York, connecting at New York with the transcontinental air mail plane, in an attempt to reach the Pacific Coast on the following day.

The attempt was successful, and mail which left Bolling Field about five o'clock on the afternoon of June 11th reached California on the next day, quite some achievement.

The special flight from Washington to New York is unique in air mail history. The planes and pilots were supplied by the Post Office Department, and a special cachet was officially applied to the air mail. Everything was strictly official.

Of all the official air mail covers of the U. S., we believe this to bear the greatest interest, and to be one of the most valuable.

We offer a cover mailed in Washington on June 11th, and backstamped Los Angeles or San Francisco June 12th, for $10.00. A terrible price, yes, but the number in existence won't supply one per cent. of the air mail collectors in the country, and there'll never be another like it.

ut thirteen hundred varieties, and the is being rapidly extended, due to the roduction recently of a new precancel- type. As these varieties are collect- singly and in blocks (singly and in rs for the coils), it gives a collector ut all that he can do to fill his spaces.)ne of the chiefest arguments against precancel in the past is that its varie- run into six figures, that no hope of ollection approximately complete can entertained, and that the number of ure emissions is limitless. This is dily granted. But the precancel fan l counter with the suggestion that the same condition exists in world-wide stamp collecting as a whole. There are many, however, who are trying to see how nearly they can come to achieving the perfect collection. The majority, however, content themselves with collections of definite U. S. issues—the 1917, for instance—or with particular values, such as the nine cents, the thirteen cents, or the two and five dollars, or with their own states or sections.

The leading arguments in favor of such collecting are: that the collector can discover a very large number of his specimens through his own efforts; that exchanging is very extensively practiced and is warmly welcomed by the leading collectors; that only a relatively small portion of the average collection is bought, but that an ample dealer market is provided in which to secure elusive specimens; and that while the cost of collecting is small, the value is permanent and a distinct investment is created.

Probably the most important attraction in the hobby is the national organization of collectors, known as the Precancel Stamp Society. This organization now has more than five hundred members and is in a very healthy state of being. It provides an annual meeting and exhibition for its membership; it publishes a monthly magazine; it maintains sales and exchange departments; it supervises the practices current in the hobby; it undertakes to help dispose of the collections of deceased members; and in many other ways performs a great need for the hobby as a whole.

Dr. W. I. Mitchell is its president, a precancellist of many years' standing, and an executive of great ability. Under his leadership, the whole tone of the hobby has been raised to new levels. The secretary is John Spaulding, of New Berlin, N. Y., to whom inquiries concerning membership should be addressed. Those interested in learning more about the hobby can secure from Mr. Spaulding a booklet, "The A. B. C. of Precancel Collecting," without charge. The able Professor A. F. Gamber is editor of the official monthly, The Precancel Gazette, of which Dr. H. Preston Hoskins, 716 Book Building, Detroit, is the business manager.

U. S. ON COVERS
SPECIAL OFFER

The covers in the collection here offered were selected by a philatelist who certainly knew good stamps and good covers. They were picked for condition, interest and rarity. The collection is stronger in the issues from 1857 to 1887 but there are fine '47s and other earlier issues, too.

A beautiful 90c 1861 on cover going abroad is here and a nice lot of the scarce 1869 issue —1c, 6c, 10c, 12c and 15c—including a wonderfully fine 6c tied to a fine cover with "LAKE SHORE R. R." in blue.

Most of the value is in covers bearing stamps worth $2 each or more when not on covers. The total estimated value of the individual items is about $3,750.—(I'd hate to try to duplicate the lot for that!)—and any item not perfectly satisfactory to the purchaser is exchangeable on a proper basis.

Subject to previous sale, the first check for $2,500 received takes the collection. If I know anything about stamps, it's a good buy.

1920, $2 lake & black

Used blocks of this are easier to look for than to find. I'll sell what few fine blocks I have at $5 per block, cash with order. Requests for thos item on app. go smacko! in the dust bin.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Markee and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Official notice from the P. O. D. that bids will close on Feb. 28th, for the longest Air Mail route in the world, will cause a rush among Air Mail cover collectors to secure correspondents along the route. The contract will be let for a period of ten years from April 1, 1929, and the route to be covered is as follows:—from Cristobal, C. Z., via Buenaventura and Tumaco, Colombia; Esmeraldas and Guyaquil, Ecuador; Talara, Truxillo, Lima, Lomas and Mollendo, Peru; Arica, Iquique, Antofagasta, Caldera and Coquimbo to Santiago, Chile; and return, three times a week. Service south of Mollendo, Peru, may be omitted for a reasonable length of time at the discretion of the Postmaster General. The service may be extended at the option of the P. O. D. to include Buenos Aires and Montevideo.

Official notice is also given that the Newark Airport will be placed in service by the Air Mail contractors on February 17th. Routes terminating at Newark will be CAM No. 1, 19, 17, and FAM No. 1.

Under date of January 26th, effective immediately, all backstamping of Air Mail will be discontinued. The only exception will be that all First Flights, for the benefit of collectors, will be backstamped under such instructions as may be issued at the time by the P. O. D. The matter of backstamping Air Mail has been the battle-ground for collectors for the past two years and more, and while collectors may have had some cause for complaint, the biggest roar will come from big users of Air Mail. As one prominent collector has stated, the backstamp is often used as court evidence in suits, and without this evidence at hand it is probable that the use of Air Mail by the large companies will be more or less discontinued. Anyone in close contact with the Air Mail service knows that the backstamp has been the only means of locating delays in transmission, and without this source of information available, banks, commercial houses and others will not be able to get definite facts pertaining to delays. It looks as if the Department had taken the line of least resistance and "ducked" responsibility.

250 packages, each weighing nine pounds, were despatched from Cincinnati, O., by Air Mail on January 30th. Postage alone was $3,800. * * Geo. T. Street used an attractive envelope for his covers from San Juan, P. R. The covers were sent to St. Louis, over the trail blazed by Lindbergh, and this fact is printed in the corner of the envelope, together with a small cut of the Colonel and a reproduction of his signature. * * North Attleboro, Mass., is organizing an Airport.

I have been advised by Mr. E. B. Wadsworth, Supt. of Air Mail Service, that "round trip covers" are against the postal regulations, even when prepaid for the return trip. He asks that, in the interests of the service, we discontinue the practice, as it slows up operations and is confusing to clerks!

I have received word from Mexico City that the 10c Air Mail envelope reported last week has been discontinued and a new 35c envelope has been put on sale. The latter carries a printed stamp of the eagle type, dark green in color, with the usual Air Mail (Correo Aereo) bands in the corner of the envelope. It is a most attractive cover and makes our recent issue look pretty cheap.

The formation of a Boston Unit of the American Air Mail Soc. is going on rapidly and it is suggested to non-members of the Soc. residing in other parts of the country, that they communicate with the Secretary with a view toward enrolling in any local unit that may be forming. The American Philatelic Society is also forming an Air Mail unit, but for the present, at least, their activities and interests will center about stamps and not covers.

Covers from the recent Canadian flights continue to come back in bunches. The cachets are handsome, well designed and of unusual clearness.

Mr. Jack Mount has forwarded a letter received from the Auburn, Me., C. of C., in which the Secretary states that the dedication date has not been set, but the exercises will probably take place around June 1st. It is further intimated that a cachet will be used.

The First Night Flight over CAM No. 11 will occur on April 1st, according to word received from Mr. J. P. Jenning. A special cachet is assured by the contractor, and covers may be sent to Mr. Penning for despatch on that date. Mr. Penning's address is 124 East Eugene Ave., Homestead, Penna.

Newspaper item in the Boston Herald of Feb. 5th, states that Worcester, Mass., will be included on CAM No. 1, beginning Feb. 17th, coincident with the opening of the Newark Airport.

W. H. Gilley sends a bunch of tiplings on Air Mail matters, among which are several items that will be of interest to readers. Louisville, Ky., plans an Air Mail Day in the near future. Albany-Cleveland Night Line is to be established about April 1st.

Coöperators for the past week were—Frederick Krueger*, Raymond Fishwater*, H. C. Carpenter, Glenn M. Idder, Major Pascual Lopez, Major CM. Lopez*, Donald E. Dickason*, W. H. Gilley, J. P. Penning, Jack Mount, Alfred T. Foster, Harry Leonard, Geo. T. Street*, Geo. H. Kieley*, C. J. Ch*, and Maurice Saleh.

Costa Rica

Along with the general increase of interest in the South & Central American stamps, ne attention of many collectors has been turned to Costa Rica by the issue of a stamp ommemorating Lindbergh's visit there (Scott's #147). While this is not an air stamp, early all collectors include it with their air mail collection.

Chile

Hoover's "Good Will" trip to South America and the starting of Air Mail lines connecting the various Republics has done much to increase the popularity of the long despised Latin American stamp issues. While Chile, not being one of the Seebeck countries, has always been favored by collectors, the publicity has increased the demand for the better items.

This is not supposed to be an advertisement, but it may work out that way! The February number of the Air Mail Collector, the newest publication devoted exclusively to Air Mail news, is some number, and anyone doubting the popularity of Airport covers should get a copy and read it over carefully. Mr. Dickason, who has always been one of the staunchest supporters of this column, gives some welcome data on coming dedications. It is evident that Mr. Dickason has been running up quite an electric light bill for the past month!

The overprinted stamps for use in the Canal Zone on Air Mail letters have been received here, and are clean and attractive affairs. The overprint was applied locally to the current 2c Goethals, and reads "AIR MAIL" at top of stamp, "25 cents 25" at bottom. We certainly hope the Postmaster at Cristobal will see his duty and do it, when affixing stamps to our return covers!

Mr. George T. Street advises that forgeries of the Sept. 15, 1928, Miami, Fla., cancellation and backstamp of Havana of same date—First Flight Miami-Havana—are on the market, as well as the First Flight West Indian Aero Express cachets dated Feb. 24, 1928, at Santiago de Cuba, the backstamps on these covers also being faked. Collectors will be wise in purchasing covers from reliable sources only.

AIR MAIL WRECK COVERS

By AARRESS.

In the December 31, 1928, issue there appeared an article describing a cover having the inscription, "Damaged Air Mail Wreck Near Toledo, O., 9-14-20," and asking that anyone knowing anything about that particular wreck get in touch with the N. A. M. S. Several excellent responses were received, and practically full particulars of that wreck are now on hand.

Directly as a result of that article another cover has been brought to light. Coincidentally, it is dated only a few days later, having been sent from New York on Sept. 26, 1920, and bearing the inscription, "Found Wrecked Aero-Plane Susquehanna River 9-27-20," in pencil. Evidently Sept., 1920, was a "hoodoo" month for the air mail carriers! The cover shows unmistakable signs of having been immersed in water, and the stamp was soaked off. We have the assurance of the present owner, to whom the letter was addressed, that this is the exact condition in which it was received.

Everyone who may know something about the air mail wreck in the Susquehanna River on Sept. 27, 1920, either from personal knowledge, newspaper clippings, or by having one of these covers—or anyone who has information or covers of any other air mail wreck prior to 1926, is asked to please get in touch with the National Air Mail Society of Chicago, Room 1623, 159 North State Street, Chicago, Ill.

CHICAGO AERO PHILATELIC SOCIETY

Nearly one hundred members and guests gathered at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago, on January 26, 1929, to attend the first annual dinner of this progressive organization. The president, J. Max Golding, presided, and in the assemblage of ladies and gentlemen were visitors from several other cities. The postmaster of Madison, Wisconsin, W. A. Devine, was one of the speakers, and among others from a distance were Mr. Kunderd, Goshen, Indiana, and Mr. Turnbull of Mishawaka, Indiana. The festivities began in the afternoon, and an exhibit that occupied the wall-space of the large reception room was the attraction from then until midnight. The dinner was begun at 7 P. M., and after it had been relished, the speakers had their inning.

President Golding told of aerial progress generally, and showed the model of a new super-airship that he described as embodying the latest developments in velocity. C. E. Severn declared that it was a good augury that so many persons had been impelled to collect air mail, since it followed that a percentage of those who had become interested in the stamps and markings would be lead to investigate further into the field of philately to its advantage. Also, he took the opportunity to pay a tribute to Captain Benjamin B. Lipsner of Chicago, America's first air mail superintendent. Mr. Julius Loeffler, although a confirmed philatelist, admitted that the claims of air mail collecting must be solid with the evidence presented before him, and told incidentally of having helped in the cancellation of covers addressed to this country that were brought here by the Zepp. from Germany, on his recent trip to Europe. Mr. Devine, postmaster at Madison, Wis., for nineteen years, expressed his regard for stamp collectors, and admitted that their assistance on occasions was helpful; and he invited their coöperation and felt a confidence in their good faith. His friend, Mr. Miller of Madison told of his city's pride in i postmaster, and struck a responsi chord in the breasts of his auditors. M Charles Elsner, the treasurer, in speaki of his interest in air mail, digressed tell of a story illustrated by a series nine early stampless covers that involv a romantic period of three years in t lives of several pioneers, and Miss I. Reiser, the secretary, gave an interesti human narrative, illustrated by specime of an early St. Louis flight. The supe intendent of the Logan Square Stati A. F. Constable, gave an insight into l dealings with the requests of air m collectors, and said that he had begun understand their view-points.

Captain Lipsner, America's first mail superintendent, was given an ov tion, and his impromptu remarks we highly interesting. He told of the ori of the post and dwelled upon the su port that he had received from the flyers who worked with him so loyal He mentioned some of the obstacles th had to be surmounted, and certain of experiences with reactionary influenc While having had no particular inter in the early covers at the time, he sa he acknowledged the debt that pion flights owed to philatelists whose patr age came at a time when it was need and when it was desirable that a show be made in the volume of mail. As a member of the Wright Brothers' co mittee, he mentioned his experiences Killdeer, and later at the memorials their honor. His revelations of incide in his official career had a touch of timacy that was appreciated.

The exhibition was a pretentious although prepared on relatively short tice. Mr. M. A. Vogel was represend by his celebrated frame of "The Au graphs of President Coolidge, and 1927 Cabinet," which held twelve en opes, each sent by air mail from Wa ington in 1927, in November, to Mr. Vogel in Chicago, and each one of wh was autographed on its face by Presid Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes, or a member of the Cabinet. OVERPRINTED FOR STATES

Rotaries 1c to 10c Inclusive for Use by Kansas and Nebraska

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.

The Post Office Department has just ken a step of far-reaching importance authorizing the Bureau of Engraving nd Printing to overprint rotary press amps for use in the states of Kansas nd Nebraska. The Department has een long considering such a move, in rder to forestall the sale of stolen amps taken from one post office in one ate and disposing of them at a point r distant from where the crime was mmitted. If the proposition proves ccessful, it is thought that stamps will overprinted for every state in the nion.

At the present time, they are consider- g the surcharging of the rotary stamps om 1-cent to 10-cent, inclusive only. hese are the sheet stamps and not the ils. The 1½c stamp of Kansas is now ing overprinted and will doubtless be llowed in short order by the others. hese overprinted stamps are to be avail- le for use in any state, but where it found that a large number of stamps a certain state are used elsewhere, it ill naturally be a clue, which will great- assist in locating the distributing points, nd ultimately result in reducing the mber of stolen stamps.

It is through the courtesy of Mr. H. . Southgate that we have received this ry early information, and he calls at- ntion to the fact that this is the very st positive step taken by the Postmas- r General in this direction and its suc- ss will be watched with interest, as it ill affect very largely collectors in not ly the United States, but throughout e world. The question will soon come out as to whether such varieties be- ng to the specialist alone or whether ey are distinct and separate issues be- nging to the general collector. Addi- nal details will be furnished next week.

NATIONAL STAMP EXHIBIT

Will be Held in Connection With A. P. S. Convention at Minneapolis

Our statement last week that a well organized stamp exhibition is being considered was based on rumor. We shall be able to publish particulars in our A. P. S. Special number next week, and definitely state that the convention of the American Philatelic Society at Minneapolis will have a national stamp exhibit of noteworthy proportions.

30 DAY WORLD TOUR PLANNED

N. Y. CITY, Feb. 11.

In about six weeks Raffale Maiullari, a Bronx Fascist, will start on a race around the world against time, using steamship and air lines. His route will be steamer to Cherbourg, plane to Rome, Berlin, Yokohama, steamer to Victoria, B. C., and plane to N. Y. C.

Maiullari, who is active in Fascisti, will make the long tour entirely at his own expense as a tribute to Premier Mussolini. He will attempt to prove the feasibility of present day aviation as a means of world transportation for tourists.

The cost of the trip is figured at $2,000. It is probable that stamp collectors will be invited to help out on the expense—mail may be carried.

A FLIGHT THAT FAILED

Last week we reported a Halifax-St. John first flight dated "Jan. 28." We find that the cover was backstamped "Feb. 2," and was evidently a "flight" that failed. Particulars later.

VATICAN STATE STAMPS

BEVERLY, Feb. 12.

The Vatican State concordat first signed by Cardinal Gasperri and Mussolini and subsequently by Pope Pius XI and King Victor has in it possibilities for a new Papal set of stamps. Sec. 7 of the treaty gives the new state:—

"The right to coin money, print postage stamps and exercise other official prerogatives."

This is interesting news.

PROF. GAMBER—PRECANCELS

Due to business requirements, Frederick W. Allen, who has served so acceptably as Precancel Editor, has resigned from the WEEKLY staff. We wish him all success.

Prof. A. F. Gamber of Valley City, N. D., whose name is a familiar one with Precancelites, will take over the department.

an historical value that is apparent, eed not be said. Dr. H. C. Snyder ved his carefully specialized covers Canada and the Airpost Stamp Co., ago, one frame with the Paris Bal- Post of 1870, and the other with the d's dirigibles. Mr. Golding's frames thoroughly representative of all es of air mail, and traced develop- s both here and abroad, through s, specials, Lindberghs, and others to 25th anniversaries and cancella- . Captain Lipsner's frame, which awarded the first prize, was a beau- creation, composed of artistic cov- ers commemorating the "Wright's First Successful Flights, Silver Anniversary, Dec. 17, 1903." Both for its historical interest and beauty, it was in a class by itself.

Mr. W. H. Gilley's registration cancellations caught the eye, and Mr. Davidson showed unique covers in their designs and combinations; and incidentally, Mr. Turnbull exhibited privately, the spoils of a valuable find that he made recently of old U. S. on covers.

The Chicago Aero Philatelic Society has got off on this year's race with a flying start.

—The Secretary of the Local Club Sends Out a Live Letter.

A. H. Wilhelm, President of the American Philatelic Society, and a corresponding member of our club, was our guest at our last meeting. Mr. Wilhelm is a two-fisted man, who goes right to the point. He has done much for the A. P. S. and philately in general, and we were glad to have him with us.

When A. H. goes after something, he gets it. In this case, he came after an application to make our club an A. P. S. chapter. He went home with it in his pocket—and a life one, at that. This is as it should be.

Our club is coming along nicely. You may look for some big news in the very near future. As the monkey said when he poked his tail in the lawn-mower, "it won't be long now."

W. R. Ree, of Saticoy, is now a corresponding member, bringing our corresponding list to 40.

Oscar Braecklein showed his big U. S. collection—twelve volumes and a trick case to carry them in—and such a lot—you should see it! Blocks and shades, and errors and arrows, used and unused, cancellized and cancellated, proofs and specimens like a post office!

Harry Hoyt, our globe-trotting brother of the pictures, has finally emerged from his shell, after an illness, and promised us that he will soon attend a meeting and tell us of his European experiences. We look forward to it.

Some of our other absent members should follow his example. Mr. Hubbell, Mr. Dartt, Mr. Young, all should drop in on us sometime so we can get better acquainted. There are several others who are missed, as well.

EDITORIAL

MUCH interest is being shown in the coming issue of the George Rogers Clark stamp, and we believe that the postmaster at old Vincennes will be surprised at the demonstration of philatelic strength. His mail is laden with requests for stamps, and we trust that he will enjoy the work in attending to the requests of the free and independent collectors, knowing that the occasion is one that attracts the attention of philatelists the world over. Here, we must give room to the following letter from Mr. Alfred Lewis Stevens, University, Va.: "I have been reading in recent issues of the wide publicity given to Vincennes, Indiana, due to the issue of the George Rogers Clark commemorative stamp. So much, indeed, has been said of Indiana that one would think that Clark was an Indianian, instead of a Virginian. Why should conquered territory receive so much publicity and the land of the conquerer be neglected? Both Clark (and Lewis) were born in Albemarle County, Virginia. This is a 'demand' that Charlottesville, Virginia, be given rightful recognition in your editorials as the birthplace of Clark. The enclosed kodak picture was taken on the banks of the Rivanna River, just outside the city limits of Charlottesville, by yours truly. I have neither the time nor the ability to compete with Mr. Herschell in glorifying Vincennes to the exclusion of the birthplace of George Rogers Clark. However, I hope that the enclosed photo will receive some attention." The picture submitted by Mr. Stevens shows the sign: "Clark's Birthplace. A mile north was born George Rogers Clark, defender of Kentucky, and conqueror of the Northwest, November 19, 1752." Here is our chance to say that we, too, were born in Virginia.

WE remember how an old collector once told of having seen the Centennial envelopes being printed on specially-installed presses at Philadelphia in 1876, and of his conviction that the Die

B variety was printed there in both green and red. At that time only one color of the Philadelphia die was catalogued. This is introductory of the following letter from Mr. H. A. Larned of Oxford, Mass.: "Someone wrote about a sesquicentennial envelope mailed three years before they were issued, according to the postmark, and I was reminded of something that I saw in the post office department of the recent exhibition in Philadelphia in October, 1926. I was watching the printing of the 'sesqui' envelopes when one of them got caught in the press. When it was finally produced, it showed two perfect stamps, one in the regular place and the other right under it. I wanted to ask for it, or offer to buy it, or anything, but did not have the cheek, knowing how strict the government is about such things. The operator looked at the envelope a few seconds, and then scrambling it together in his hands, threw it into the waste paper."

IN discussing the provisional possibilities of some of the hand-stamped Confederate envelopes, Professor E. F. Stuart, Chicago, calls attention to what he terms quasi-provisional envelopes, in the following words: "I do not suppose that I am the first one to speculate on the existence of that class of envelopes that may have been taken by the merchant of the southern town in 1861, in quantity, and stamped by the postmaster upon the proper payment of the total sum, represented by the envelopes. Usually, the provisional test is whether the postmaster sold the envelopes already stamped to the public. It is not reasonable to suppose that a business man, for instance, would take his own envelopes to the postmaster and take them back to his office for use at his option, after the postmaster had done his job and been paid at the rate of five cents each for an envelope. Local adhesives do not enter into this question, of course." We may tell our correspondent that he is not the first investigator to bring forth his theory. In fact, it was advanced forty years ago by A. C. Roberts, the "Strebor" of those days, who made a strong case in favor of this usage in order to obviate the bother of paying postage separately on each letter that was mailed. In the forthcoming book on Confederates that is announced by the House of Dietz, Richmond, Virginia, it is likely that conclusive data will be at the disposal of the one who presses the subject. This work will be one of transcendent merit, we are sure, and its appearance may be expected at any time. Speaking of books, the announcement may be made that Dr. Carroll Chase's great volume, "The 3c Stamp of the United States 1851-57 Issue," published by subscription is about ready for distribution, and the subscribers have been notified to that effect.

MR. P. J. DROSSOS, Athens, Greece, says that a new set is impending for Egypt, to commemorate the birthday of Prince Farouks. The prince himself is to be depicted in civil clothes on the four values of the set. The 5m will be gray; the 10m in red; the 15 in blue; and the 20 in green. The sale of the stamps began on February 9th, and will continue for one week, and it is understood that the number of sets will not be greater than 200,000.

MR. WILLIAM H. KNOSTMAN, Wamego, Kansas, writes: "In your description of the new Canadian issue in your paper of Jan. 28th, you call the scene descriptive of threshing. Were you raised in a wheat country, you would know that a wheat harvesting scene is shown with a binder at work." Well, at any rate, we own part of a wheat farm near Wakeeney, Kansas.

THE legislators at Washington must be made aware of the demand of collectors that used stamps when imported from abroad be placed on a par with unused stamps, and be put on the free list. Slips have been received from Mr. H. A. Diamant and are being distributed widely; and they may be had on application to the editor of this paper. Everyone interested in the welfare of our pursuit should bestir himself to write to his congressman in behalf of the movement. We have written as follows to the Honorable Carl R. Chindblom of our district: "I am writing you on behalf of stamp collectors generally of whose numerical importance you by no means are unaware. Your activities culminating in the issue of the Erickson stamp are a matter of record in our philatelic publications, and at our last meeting, you told me of your interest in philatelic affairs as a consequence of your experience with the Erickson stamp from its inception to its execution. Your district is philatelically populous, and I feel that your support of a relief measure that certainly is not incompatible with the welfare of the public in any way would be applauded by us of the world of philately. You will see from the slip enclosed that we petition that used stamps be placed on a parity with unused stamps when imported into this country and placed on the free list. Our friend and your friend, Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman, not to mention other philatelic members of the House, could give you cogent reasons for supporting the proposal, or should you wish me to go into the subject further than the enclosed clipping from our paper, I should be pleased to do so."

Over ninety members and their ladies were present, among whom were noted, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lindquist (President), Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curie, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Steinway, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lichtenstein, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morgenthau, Lt. Col. J. P. Benkard, Admiral Fred Harris, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Clark, and many other leading collectors and dealers. A capital band was in attendance, and dancing took place during dinner, and was kept up afterwards to nearly 1 A. M.

After dinner our President said there were to be no formal speeches, but he had to call upon a few members to make certain announcements. He first called on Mr. Charles J. Phillips as Chairman of the Memorial Fund to the late J. B. Chittenden.

Mr. Phillips stated that he himself had lost one of his best friends, and a man he loved and admired for his sterling qualities, and the Club had to deplore the loss of a man who gave ungrudgingly of his time to build up our great Library, and who had done a stupendous work in cataloguing the contents of many hundreds of volumes. In memory of our lost friend, Mr. Phillips said that the Governors of the Club had founded "The J. Brace Chittenden Memorial Fund," and that up to date he had received about $6,080.00, which was invested in Trustee securities, and only the income could be used to purchase new books and bind old ones. So far only about 48 out of the 670 members of the Club had contributed to this fund, so there was good hopes that it would be materially increased. An income from invested funds of fully $500.00 a year is necessary to fulfill all the purposes for which this fund was started.

Mr. Theodore E. Steinway was then called upon to present to Mr. J. C. Morgenthau an engrossed testimonial in the celebrating of his 70th birthday. Mr. Steinway certainly made the speech of the evening, eulogistic, graceful and learned, and was very much applauded.

Mr. Morgenthau spoke briefly in reply and said he highly valued this testimonial and that it would be handed down to his children's children. He said it had been signed by the Governors, but asked all other members present to add their signature to the appreciation of the gift.

Mr. H. Toaspern was then called on for a few remarks, and told a couple of rollicking stories in his usual inimitable manner.

Mr. Charles Phillips, as Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, was then called on to announce the arrangements for the Collectors Club visit to Providence, R. I., on February 19th. Ten members of the Club expressed their intention of making this trip.

The President then announced the arrangements made to entertain the members of The Waterbury Stamp Club, and called upon Mr. Pierson of Waterbury, who stated that his Club was looking forward to this visit with much interest, and that twelve men were coming from Waterbury.

Admiral F. R. Harris was then called upon for a few remarks on the Social side of philately, and related his experiences in getting in touch with a very rich man, whom he had known for years and who would probably join the Club. The Admiral stated that he called his friend, and before he could have speech with him, he had to talk to the girl at the switchboard, three secretaries, then the private secretary, and after a lot of trouble got the boss.

Mr. Frank Crane was called upon to say a few words for the press, and in a very witty speech said how glad he was, at all times, to be able to give publicity to our activities.

Mr. J. J. Klemann, Jr., told us about a bill now before the Committee of Ways and Means at Washington, and of the necessity of us all urging our Senator and Representatives to make certain alterations in the law as regards the importation of stamps into this country.

Mr. John Klemann then spoke, and in the course of his remarks made an announcement of certain interest, but as I am informed, on the best authority that this was not authorized, I think it best for all concerned not to repeat it.

This annual meeting was generally voted a great success, and the ladies seemed to enjoy it quite as much as the men, which is rather unusual.

One Unrisen Necessity

W. D. NESBITT in The Onlooker.

Potatoes rise till the price gives pain;
White sugar costs like the dickens, now;
We yearn for steak, and we yearn in vain;
And milk?—Ah, plutocrat with a cow!
But let us cheer for the one bright spot
That gleams the while like a signal lamp.
There's one thing yet that the trusts have not—
Hurrah for the good old two-cent stamp!

Hurrah for the good old, fine old two
That will stick to its job for me and you;
And in spite of drouth or of rain or snow
Costs what it did just a year ago—
The two-cent stamp—Give it glad acclaim
For its price is always just the same.

They raise our rent and they raise each tax,
They make us pay a lot more for shoes;
The shirts and things that go on our backs
Now cost so much they give us the blues—
But this old friend is the one best bet;
We buy it and have no sender's cramp—
The rest increase; it's the same price yet—
Hurrah for the good old two-cent stamp!

Hurrah for the fine old, good old two
That we buy today as we used to do!
It's the only thing in our native land
That has not gone up fit to beat the band.
So cheer, boys, cheer; let us roar and ramp—
Hurrah for the good old two-cent stamp!

Jeanne D'Arc

It was only a few weeks ago that I had occasion to point out that Eugene Grasset's lady on the stamps of Indo-China was never meant to represent Jeanne d'Arc. France has not yet honoured the memory of la Pucelle on stamps, but the omission is to be rectified during the fifth centenary celebrations in February next year. It was on February 13, 1429, that Jeanne left Vaucouleurs in obedience to the mysterious voices she heard at her home village of Domrémy. In April, the siege of Orleans was raised, and in July the same year, Charles VII was crowned at Rheims.

The present proposal is to have a single stamp, of the denomination 50 centimes, to supersede temporarily the current 50 centimes, but there is a popular demand for a series of six or eight stamps illustrating incidents in Jeanne's career.—Postage Stamp.

Some Don'ts for the Beginner

By A. C. LEDUC.

Don't expect nice selections of stamps on approval unless you tell the dealer about yourself. Tell him your boy scout number, your father's name and his business, your minister's name or someone who knows you well, and can vouch for your honesty. If you are employed tell the dealer who you are working for.

Don't write to a dozen different dealers for approvals if you only have a few cents to spend on stamps. If you spend 25c every week with one dealer you will have more stamps for your money at the end of the year than by trying to stretch the same amount over several dealers. Besides, dealers cannot send out selections unless you buy at least 25c worth at a time.

Don't send for free packets unless you intend to buy from approvals. People who do that sort of thing are "cheap skates."

Don't forget to return approvals within the customary 10 day limit.

Don't send coins in ordinary letters. Send money orders or 2c stamps for your purchases.

Don't send valuable letters by ordinary mail. Send them registered.

Don't forget that the stamp dealer is human and that he expects to be treated with the same consideration as is accorded to any other person in business.

Don't forget to cut out the above "don'ts." Then paste them into your stamp album.

How to Make a Collection?

Some of our Juniors should know that it takes something besides dollars to make a stamp collection. It takes sense, and the qualities of the following acrostic:

P—ersistence
E—nergy
P—atience

Some Definitions

Local. — Probably few philatelic terms are less capable of a simple and explicit definition than that heading this paragraph. In one sense of the word all stamps are locals inasmuch as they are only available for use in the country issuing them; again stamps only available for domestic postage, such as the "Escuelas" stamps of Venezuela are, strictly speaking, locals; or, again, stamps issued by countries which do not belong to the Universal Postal Union might well be called locals. And yet none of these broad classes are considered as locals by the majority of philatelists. The following will, perhaps, best serve as a definition:—A local is a stamp issued under official or private auspices but having its franking power limited to a prescribed district. As instances of government locals we may cite the "Rural" issues of Russia, while numerous examples of private locals are found among the stamps of our own country.

Local Taxe.—The inscription shown at the base of the 4 rappen stamps issued in the Swiss Canton of Zurich in 1843. The word "taxe" means "tax," but in this case the two words are probably meant to refer to the local rate of postage to be paid.

Lock Seals.—These were used at distilleries, warehouses and breweries by the Internal Revenue storekeeper or gauger who is in charge of the plant. The places where distilled spirits are made, drawn or stored are under his supervision, and as a safeguard and precaution they are locked with a peculiarly constructed padlock so made that a paper seal or label can be inserted to cover the keyhole, so that it is impossible for anyone to open the lock without first breaking the seal. These special seals are printed at the Government Bureau in Washington and have to be carefully accounted for by the Internal Revenue officials to whom they are issued.

THE QUEST OF THE WATERMARK

A device or pattern in the substance of paper, produced during the process of manufacture. In connection with stamps the watermark is usually a small device, so repeated in the sheets of paper that one copy of it may appear in each stamp when printed. In some cases the watermarked device is large and covers several stamps or it may only show on certain stamps in a sheet. In other cases the watermarks are arranged close together in the paper, so that it may be equally suitable for stamps of various sizes, this being usually described as multiple watermark. Where these various designs appear the paper is slightly thinner and, therefore, more transparent, so that if the stamps are held to the light the watermarked devices may be seen with more or less clearness.

Poland

—Some of the Noted Persona Found in its Stamp Gallery.

Poland is dividing the honours of p trayal on her stamps among Poles c brated in widely different spheres. astronomer Copernicus was pictured two stamps in 1923, and Konarski, p bishop, and political reformer, follo on another stamp in the same year. L year the Chopin stamp brought mu into the field, although indirectly the was already represented by M. Pader ski, who figured on the stamps of 1919 his quality of Premier rather than pianist. A doctor, Karl Kacxkow and the poet, Jules Slowacki, appea on new stamps last year, and Gene Joseph Bem, the patriot of the 1831 surrection, figures on the 25 groszy sta issued this year. Now we have anot Polish portrait on the literary side Henryk Sienkiewicz, the novelist, wh best remembered in this country by "Quo Vadis." Born in 1846 at Sied he died an exile during the war, Lausanne.

While Poland has added the late H ryk Sienkiewicz to the literary port gallery on stamps, Russia has abando the project of issuing the stamps signed to commemorate the centen of the birth of Tolstoy.—Postage Sta

Lottery Stamps

Special revenue stamps issued in state of Louisiana in 1866 and 1867 payment of a tax on lottery tickets.

00,000 CLEANUP SEEN IN SALE OF SOUTH SEA STAMPS

(Special Correspondence of "The Eagle")

LONDON, Jan. 27—Looks as if somely who knew about stamp collecting l saw a golden opportunity were about clean up close to $100,000 of very easy ney through the sale of South Georgia -pence stamps for about $100 apiece. ust what happened to bring about this te of affairs is left to the reader's agination, but one good guess is that island in the far South Atlantic has nebody who has the faculty of creat- or having created and supplying a hly profitable demand. Or it may e all been due to a mistake.

You will have to look very hard at the p of the South Atlantic Ocean to dis- er South Georgia. It is a British session, a small whaling settlement in Falkland Islands, and the latest offi- report places its entire population at 05.

The postmaster of South Georgia re- ted to the head office at Port Stanley, capital of the Falkland Islands, that was short of 2½-pence stamps. He re- ed permission on Feb. 7 to overprint ½d" on his stock of 2d ones, until a h supply could be sent.

His supply reached him 15 days later. e overprinted issue then ceased, the l number of stamps so treated being 9. These stamps are now being of- d in London and bought by collectors £20, or $100 apiece.

A London stamp dealer writes to the ndon Daily Mail:

We are told that their chief use was letters to Norway by whalers. It does seem probable that a small commun- of fisher folk could use more than a dozen in 15 days; 179 would be a rous estimate for this purpose, in h case 1,000 are probably in the ls of speculators.

Although there is no 2½d rate within island, they have been offered to me or unused in equal quantities from h Georgia.

Briefly, it means that for 2½d stamps ng altogether £12 5s collectors are ired to pay £23,580 in addition to 10 percent at least for dealers' profits." ooklyn Daily Eagle.

NEWSPAPER NOTICES

e have received a copy of the St. rsburg Times of January 31, 1929, Alfred E. Newman, Vice-President he St. Petersburg Stamp Society, da, wherein Aloysius Coll, under ead, "We Have With Us Today," of the visit of Mr. H. E. Harris of n, to the city whose fair face beams. Coll makes much of his visitor and es an interesting tale of philately and present, and he says that Mr. is is "the one man who can come st to a guess on how many postage ps make a ton," which may or may e Mr. Harris' idea of the acme of telic fame.

. E. E. Ledbetter of Cleveland, has sent a copy of the American an Falcon, published in the Russian age with the exception of some of ext, which is in English. One of the sh articles is: "History of America ted in Series of Postage Stamps," tells in particular of the U. S. emorative issues. We may men- that in Chicago, an effort is being to have the foreign language news- s to use specially prepared phila- material.

GAMBIA

We have recently bought the magnificent collection of this popular country, formed by Mr. S. A. Brown, of the Royal Philatelic Society, London.

This collection took GOLD MEDALS at NEW YORK and MONACO.

It includes no less than 248 stamps of the imperf. issues, in splendid condition, and with a number of pairs, strips and large blocks.

The perforated, embossed issues are proportionately strong and the later stamps are fully shown.

At the moment we are offering this collection as a whole, but shall be glad to hear from collectors who would be interested to receive selections on approval in the event of the collection being broken up.

TO SMALL BUYERS. Though we do a large business in rarities and fine collections, we have also a world-wide trade in medium and common stamps, and give the same prompt and courteous attention to small buyers as to those who spend large sums with us.

Approval selections of any country or issue on request.

Lists of Albums, Accessories, Sets and Packets, FREE, together with specimen number of our big magazine.

"THE FORT ORANGE PHILATELIST"

Edited by CHAS. G. RIESS, Albany, N. Y.

The editor is so much impressed with the monthly letter sent out by Mr. Riess that it is reprinted herewith as a bright and shining example of what can be done in reaching club memberships. We consider this a very fine production. It is somewhat abbreviated:—

The Fort Orange Stamp Club will hold its "Third Annual Exhibition of Postage Stamps and Covers" in the rotunda of the State Education Building, Albany, N. Y., during the week of March 4 to 10, inclusive. It is the aim of the committee in charge of the exhibition as well as the members of the club to have this year's exhibit surpass those of the two previous years. This can be accomplished by the mutual coöperation of all members of the club. Remember—it is coöperation of the various parties concerned that determines the success of any undertaking, be it small or great. It is not necessary to exhibit only rare stamps or covers as this is not a competitive exhibition, but merely one by which the public at large may be given a chance to learn something about Philately and its various interesting phases. Members who intend to exhibit should have their stamps or covers in Dr. Wyer's office not later than noon on Saturday, March 3. Any further data may be obtained from members of the committee: Chas. A. Brind, Jr., chairman; E. A. Bauer, Dr. James I. Wyer, Chas. G. Riess, and two other members to be announced.

The Program for the Coming Month

Feb. 5—Talk, exhibit, or both, by Louis O. Dutcher.

Feb. 12—Detail description of some U. S. varieties by Richard Walton.

Feb. 19—Talk, exhibit, or both, by our president, Elliott R. Ryder.

The Past Month in Review

Jan. 1—New Years—no meeting.

Jan. 8—W. W. MacLaren, the stamp hunter, of Cleveland, Ohio, entertained the members of the club on this evening with a delightful talk on some of his philatelic experiences. In addition he exhibited two volumes of stampless covers.

Jan. 15—Chester J. Moore entertained the club with a collector's interpretation of the Three Stages of Human Life—Youth, Manhood, and Old Age, as exemplified in stamp collecting.

Jan. 22—W. L. Peltz entertained the club with a display of some Civil War revenue stamps in place of Mr. Shea, who was unable to give a scheduled talk.

Our vice-president believes in stampic education. The club is to secure a blackboard whereon the varieties on stamps may be easily described by means of sketches. Mr. Walton will give the club its first real lesson in "recuts," "cracked plates," etc., on the evening of Feb. 12th.

Our sales manager, according to best reports available, was married on Jan. 16, to Miss L. Bauer. Miss Bauer also collects stamps—better look out, Bob.

Brother Bates was a recent visitor to the Buffalo Stamp Club.

Leslie Davenport, honorary member, sends the club his best wishes for the coming year. Many thanks, Mr. Davenport. The club wishes you the same for 1929.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WORCESTER (MASS.) STAMP CLUB

The Worcester Stamp Club held its Twentieth Anniversary Banquet on Thursday, Jan. 31st. About forty members attended. T. F. Keith of Fitchburg exhibited his collection of United States cancellations, which numbered about 50,000 items, and were housed in twelve volumes. Mr. Keith gave a short talk on the history of many of the early local cancellations, using his collection to illustrate his remarks. A nearly complete collection of United States Revenues were displayed by Frank L. Coes, Secretary of the Worcester Stamp Club. Many members brought individual treasures from their collections for show. A specialized collection of Sarawak was shown by Paul W. Savage.

Invited guests were Postmaster James J. Healy and Assistant Postmaster Robert A. Houston of the Worcester Post Office. Both of these gentlemen gave short talks on the running of their office, and explained how our Government had a postal deficit last year by giving figures as to the cost of running the different branches of postal service. The air mail was also discussed relative to the coming of service to the Worcester Airport in the near future.

By ALICE A. GRAY.

All day the great guns barked and roared
All day the big balls screeched and soared
All day, mid the sweating gunners grim,
Who toiled in their smoke-shroud dense ... dim.
Sweet Molly labored with courage high,
With steady hand and watchful eye,
Till the day was ours, and the sinking su...
Looked down on the field of Monmouth ...
And Molly standing beside her gun.
Now, Molly, rest your weary arm!
Safe, Molly, all is safe from harm.
Now, woman, bow your aching head,
And weep in sorrow o'er your dead.
Next day on that field so hardly won,
Stately and calm stands Washington,
And looks where our gallant Greene doth ...
A figure clad in motley weed—
A soldier's cap and a soldier's coat
Masking a woman's petticoat.
He greets our Molly in kindly wise;
He bids her raise her tearful eyes;
And then he hails her before them all
As comrade and soldier, whate'er befall,
"And since she has played a man's full ...
A man's reward for her loyal heart!
And Sergeant Molly Pitcher's name
Be writ henceforth on the shield of fame
Oh, Molly, with eyes steadfast and true!
Oh, Molly, Molly, here's to you!
Our honor roll is ever the richer
In bearing the name of Molly Pitcher.

STILL HUNTING

There has recently come to hand, four magnificent pairs of the 10-cent 1847, two beautiful singles of the 5-cent 1851, nicely tied on separate covers, showing foreign postmarks, eight or ten pairs of the 12-cent 1851, including several covers, a magnificent cover used from Japan addressed to France, showing a 10-cent 1869 in combination with a pair of the 2-cent National, several 1-cent 1851 off cover, including a magnificent Type I, a Type III (₽99R2), and a mint 1857 1-cent Type I-a with full gum, and an 1894 and 1895 set complete in blocks of four from 1-cent to $2 inclusive.

I only mention these as the type of item that is constantly coming to hand and the type that I am anxious to purchase. If you have anything along these lines either in the form of an individual piece or a collection, I am in the market to purchase immediately for cash.

I particularly desire early mint blocks and singles, as well as unusual covers, and rare used pieces. In the late issues, I want the scarcer mint blocks, as well as errors. Can use anything fine in the way of Carriers, Confederates and Revenues. The inverted centers of the latter issue are particularly wanted, in addition to scarce blocks.

If you are looking for either the unusual or the general run of U. S. Issues, I offer the collector one of the finest stocks in the hands of any professional to select from.

Prices are reasonable and are based on condition and rarity.

Am also a buyer of early Foreign covers, previous to 1860.

AIR MAILS

The number of collectors who collect AIR MAILS either exclusively or as a side line is increasing so rapidly that we felt that we would only be keeping pace with the times if we made these stamps available under our popular INTENSIVE APPROVAL SERVICE. This system, under which stamps are sent out on approval in envelopes marked at ½c, 1c, 2c, etc., is particularly adapted to include AIR MAILS, and "SERIES A" of this group is now at your disposal. Although the selection includes both mint and used stamps it would be advisable to mention—when applying for a selection—which kind you prefer.

We can also take care of Want Lists or quote lowest prices on practically any Air Mail stamp.

Clark Memorial Stamp

The Postal Bulletin of February 5, 1929, gives the first official announcement of the issuing of the George Rogers Clark commemorative stamp, which is going to appear in Vincennes, Indiana, for the first time, on February 25, 1929.

The official notice describing the stamp reads as follows:

"Office of the Postmaster General,
WASHINGTON, February 2, 1929.

Postmasters and others connected with the Postal Service are notified that the department is about to issue a new 2-cent George Rogers Clark postage stamp to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the surrender of Fort Sackville.

The new stamp is the same shape and size as the 5-cent air mail stamp, 1 3/32 by 1 15/32 inches, and is printed in two colors; the border in red and the vignette in black. The central design shows the surrender of Fort Sackville at Vincennes, Ind., to George Rogers Clark, reproduced from a photograph of the painting by Frederick C. Yohn. The word "Vincennes" appears beneath the central design, and at the top of the stamp are the words "U. S. Postage" in white Roman letters. Above the vignette is a ribbon bearing the words "George Rogers Clark," with the word "Commemorative" in a curved panel directly beneath. In panels on either side of the stamp are acanthus scrolls, and in both upper corners are the years "1779" at the left, and "1929" at the right. In both lower corners within circles with dark backgrounds is the white numeral "2," with the word "Cents" at the bottom of the stamp.

The new George Rogers Clark stamp will first be placed on sale February 25, 1929, at the post office at Vincennes, Ind., and for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers it will be placed on sale the following day, February 26, at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department. These stamps will also be placed on sale at other post offices as promptly after February 25 as production will permit.

Central and direct accounting postmasters desiring a supply of the new stamp may draw requisitions for limited quantities on Form 3201, the words "Clark Commemorative Stamps" to be written plainly on the blank. District postmasters may obtain small quantities of this stamp to meet the local demand by requisition on their central-accounting postmasters.

HARRY S. NEW,
Postmaster General."

The first order to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing called for an issue of thirty-five million, but due to the extra time and cost taken in producing the bi-colored stamp, the postmaster general later decided to change the instructions, and the new order calls for twenty million.

The proof of this new stamp was approved on January 30, 1929, and the plates went to press around February 6, 1929. It is expected that a supply will be on sale not only at Washington at the Philatelic Agency, on the second day, but that these will also be on sale at the same time in the larger cities, such as New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and nearby places. In fact, every effort is being made to place a supply throughout the country during the first week of its appearance, so that the average collector and dealer may purchase his requirements locally, rather than writing to Washington.

New Envelopes

The new 5-cent Air Mail envelope first appeared on January 12, 1929, and this first issue consisted entirely of size 13. The two other sizes, namely, 5 and 8, have since been issued. There seems to be some little criticism as to the weight of the paper, but as the average air mail letter does not weigh a half ounce, this criticism could hardly apply, except in the case of the large size.

In a recent Chronicle, an error was made in stating that the 4-cent and 5-cent of the current design on amber would shortly become common. I now learn from Washington that the 4-cent and 5-cent under the new contract, will only be printed on extra quality white paper. The amber paper will only be issued in connection with the lower denominations.

It is not expected that the Philatelic Agency will carry these envelopes.

Mr. H. Clay Reed reports several new varieties of envelopes with the old watermark.

5-Cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference Varieties

Considerable study seems to have been given to the 5-cent International Civil Aeronautics Conference variety, for letters arrive weekly, calling attention to minor plate varieties.

Mr. Frederick R. McAlpin calls attention to the fact that on the fiftieth stamp of the southwest pane of plate 196[illegible] there is a small animal that he describes as a "prairie dog," sitting on the top of the plane. This is very distinct and may be seen without the use of a glass. [illegible] the 2-cent of the same issue plate 196[illegible] southwest pane, nineteenth stamp, there is a break in the lower frame line.

Mr. George M. Bramann calls attention to a vertical line found through the "S" of "Postage" on several stamps from the northeast pane of the 5-cent, plate 19659. The stamp immediately under the plate number, as well as the two stamps to the right and left, show the variety. Mr. Bramann writes that the straight edge stamps running vertically on the same pane show the variety.

Canal Zone

Messrs. Gerald D. Bliss and R. S. Carter kindly send covers mailed from Cristobal on December 28, 1928, which were carried on the first commercial air mail flight from the Canal Zone to Costa Rica. These bear special rectangular postmarks with rounded corners, printed in greenish-blue, reading in six lines, "First Commercial Flight, Air Mail Panama, Canal Zone to Costa Rica, Pan-American Airways, Inc., December 28, 1928."

Belgium.—The 5c on 1fr25c, issued on Houyoux type in precancelled condition, has been shown us by the Economy Stamp Co. We learn that the reason for the precancel is that the post office clerks shall avoid mistakes, and the surcharge is because the postal tariff of Jan. 4th makes the use of the 1fr25c unnecessary.

British Honduras.—Mr. R. Robes has shown us the 1c green stamp issued for this colony in the Nyasaland type.

Dominican Republic. — Whitfield King & Co. have shown us a new series of stamps of oblong format with a view of Alcazar de Colon in the centre. The 1c has appeared a 1c green, 2c red, and 5c blue thus far.

Dutch Indies.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle the following values of Luchtpost stamps: 10c mauve, 20c brown, 40c rose, 75c green, and 1G50c orange.

FROM THE FOUR QUARTERS—

ONE of our subscribers, Joe E. Haller, of Wausaw, Wisconsin, believes that the time has arrived for the U. S. to issue a new and artistic set of postage stamps.

JOHN BENBOW, JR., has sent us his renewal to this office. It reaches us without the name of town or city. Who can favor us with Mr. John Benbow's address?

CAN any reader give M. T. Mauck, Lyndhurst, N. J., the present addresses of E. W. Wilcken, formerly of 362 W. 121st St., N. Y. City, also R. P. Dockeray, 1109 White St., Ann Arbor, Mich.?

H. A. LARNAD sends us a page from the Worcester Sunday Telegram of Dec. 30, which features the city's post office from "Infancy to Manhood." It is illustrated with a Milbury on the cover and other post office stamps. The feature is a very attractive one.

F. G. NEILSON, 448 Compton Ave., Perth Amboy, N. J., is the editor and proprietor of a new stamp paper called the Jersey Philatelist. It makes a good beginning and sample copy will be sent upon request.

WE are informed by J. M. Bartels that all correspondence addressed to Mr. Berg has been sent to a bank in Middletown, N. Y., where his stamps are stored. All such correspondence may remain unopened until some action is taken by the court. This will probably not be long, and interested parties will find matters adjusted shortly.

ON Saturday evening, Jan. 26, there was a social gathering of ten members of the Michigan Stamp Club. The scene was laid at Webster Hall, Cass Ave., Detroit. A "Little Big Club" sponsored by the older members and organized purely for sociability, holds once a month a social meeting where good fellowship reigns and a little stamp buying and exchanging is indulged in. A banquet was served and Mr. Z. Dworkowski exhibited ten specialized collections of U. S. and foreign stamps. It was a most enjoyable evening and adjourned near midnight with thanks to the host of the evening, Mr. Dworkowski, for his splendid hospitality. Those present were: Z. Dworkowski, Dr. H. Preston Hoskins, Robert Meyers, A. C. Hutchinson, Charles Brisley, John Jungwirth, Fred Bott, L. A. White, Seth A. Andrews, J. E. Scott.—HERMAN BOERS.

"IN near future the Graf Zeppelin will make a flight to the Pyramids in Egypt, where there will be a stay of about one day. The Zeppelin will leave Germany for this purpose for about four days. During the summer of this year there will be another flight to the U. S., like the last one. The Zeppelin will again carry mail. At the second half of this year there will be planned one big flight over the world, Germany-Japan-America-Germany, and surely the Zeppelin will dispatch letters and cards, but at this time I do not know anything about the rates."—ANTON HUBER.

"I RECENTLY saw some of the present issue of the 13- and 20-cent stamps that had a wider space between stamps than the regular issue. In the total length of a sheet of the 20-cent stamp there was a difference of about one-half inch. The 13-cent stamps did not have quite this much in the total. I am wondering if you have had any notice of this variety. One of the local firms recently refused some of the 'Molly Pitcher' unused stamps, because 'it was against the U. S. Postal Regulations to use stamps with the person's name printed on the stamp.' The letter was addressed both on the envelope and the beginning of the letter to Miss Molly Pitcher, Waterville, Ohio. Just another reason for no more overprints."—DON C. MINICK.

THE Yorkville Stamp Society is now located on the floor above the Cafe Abbazia, Northwest corner of 79 St. and Second Av., N. Y. City. At the meeting held Feb. 15, a collection of Great Britain numbers 22, 33 and 57, which have been re-plated by Mr. Zahn, a member and officer of the society, was shown.

NEW GIBBONS PRICE LIST

The firm of Stanley Gibbons, Inc., 38 Park Row, New York City, has just issued a descriptive and illustrated price list of U. S. and British North American stamps with full particulars of the "Oriel" and other albums, philatelic accessories, etc. The book is a marvel of completeness. It consists of no fewer than 68 pages, and will prove of real service, not only to the average, but the advanced collector also.

The firm of Stanley Gibbons, Inc., has substantial faith in United States stamps, and this has been demonstrated several times by the firm's large advertisements in our publication.

The regular adhesives are priced in unused conditions, and also in both fine and good conditions used. The various types are so illustrated as to make the book valuable to the novice, and we heartily commend it to all our readers. Price, 50c.

RUSSIA, SERBIA, JUGO-SLAVIA

Some Errors in the Latest Gibbons' Catalogue are Pointed Out

By LOUIS CAHEN.

Although some of the errors of the last Gibbons' catalogue have been remedied, many still remain. For example, they still make the mistake of calling the "Decembrists" by their Russian name "Dékabrists." The revolutionary rising, for which the five men represented on the stamp lost their lives, took place in December, 1825: the Russian for December is "Dekabr," hence the name "Dékabrists." The system of transcribing Russian names and words is most inconsistent, but usually Gibbons appears to follow the German system, e.g., "—vitch" instead of "—vich," etc., etc. The Russian final "v" they sometimes put as "v" which is correct, and sometimes as "ff" which is clumsy. If you turn to 1919, N.W. Army, they put "PLESKAU," which is the German rendering of the town "PSKOV." Evidently they prefer the German name; they think it is more pronounceable probably!

With regard to Jugoslavia and Serbia, there are many mistakes all through and the whole thing needs re-writing. Here are a few mistakes in Serbia.

1866. They spell the Prince's name "OBRENOVIC": it should be with an acute accent on the C. This accented C is pronounced like "ch"; so the best way of transcribing all these Serbian names is to ignore the accents and give the spelling that comes nearest to the way it should be pronounced. The same mistake occurs all through their catalogue of Serbia and Jugoslavia, e.g., Jovanovic, Karageorgevic, etc., etc.

In 1915 mention is made of the Serbian town "NISH," but S.G. again choose the German spelling and call it "NISCH."

Now for Jugoslavia. To begin with, the word is usually written in one and, although it is quite correct to spell it with a J in Serbian, it is nowadays accepted as correct to spell it with a Y in English. The word is a coined word and means "Southern Slavia"; "jug" in Serbian means "South" and is pronounced "youg." The word was coined in London during the War, as a suitable name for the country that was to be formed by uniting the pre-war Serbia with the "liberated" districts of Austria and Hungary, such as Bosnia, the Herzegovina, Dalmatia, Croatia, the country of the Slovenes and the other Serbian districts of Hungary (Banat, etc., etc.). The Serbs of Old Serbia never cared for the name, as they complained that they lost their identity in such a composite name; after many months of wrangling am themselves they eventually decided the cumbersome title of The Tr Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slove This name is much too long for people, so the country is generally ca Yugoslavia; personally I think this better way of spelling it in Englis prevents people from calling it JU slavia, pronouncing JUG as if it with a basin!

As a rule, S.G. are very good at te us what the different pictures repre when we are dealing with pictorial is The three stamps of Yugoslavia of have, however, been left severely a so perhaps it would not be out of to mention them here.

The 10+10 para represents the "K vo Maiden"; this girl was the Ser Florence Nightingale of the Battle Kosovo in 1389, when the Serbian pire was broken up by the Turks in decisive defeat.

The 15+15 para is a copy of a st (possibly by Meshtrovich?) of a Ser soldier, broken in the retreat through bania in 1915-1916.

The 25+25 para represents the Southern Slavs—Serb, Croat and vene, supporting the Crown.

1923. Kraljevina and Kraljev Both words mean "Kingdom," but first is Serbian and so preferred by grade to the second, which is Croat hence the change—very petty and, to who loves the country, pitiful.

1923. U.R.I. S.G. gives no expl tion of these cryptic letters. They s for Udruzhenje Ratnih Invalida, English, The Society of War Inva i.e., Disabled Soldiers' Society. It sh also be remembered that the Serb Old Serbia and some of the "libera Serbs, use the Cyrillic alphabet; Croats, Slovenes, Bosniaks and Da tians all use the Latin alphabet with tain accents. That is the reason both alphabets are always used on stamps of Yugoslavia.

1919. Postage Due Stamps. should give some explanation of the "HRVATSKA"; in English it is s "Croatia." Again, all through the Y slavia catalogue S.G. uses the "LAIBACH"; this is the old Ger name for the town which is now c "LJUBLJANA," the capital of the c try of the Slovenes, which, I believ now called Slovenia in English. Serbian name for this country is Slo achka.

1921. Postage Dues. "BECKER is wrong; in Serbian it is written an accent on the C and in Englis should be Bechkerek.—Philatelic Magazine.

THE JUNIOR SPECIALIST

To meet the demand for a loose-leaf album cheaper in price than the Oriel and at the same time of a small, handy size, and neat in appearance, we have had the "Junior Specialist" made especially to our order. This is a handsomely bound album in dark blue morocco grained cloth, tastefully embossed and lettered in gold The album comes complete with 50 quadrille ruled pages, size 10¼ by 8¾ inches. The album can be expanded, however, to hold more pages if required. The leaves can be had either linen hinged or fluted; as the latter have no extra linen hingeing, about 25 extra leaves can be comfortably inserted in this album. We have recently had the binder strengthened and do not think there is a finer album of this class on the market to-day. We can strongly recommend it to all people desiring such a blank loose-leaf album.

Match and Medicine stamps—those United States revenues, which our government printed in private designs to suit the diversified fancies of hundreds of manufacturers of matches and of patent medicines—are fast gaining in popularity. Their many colors, shapes and sizes present variety of design that no group of stamps can equal.

I am one of the few dealers who pretend to keep a stock of them, and I do not hesitate to say that they are much underpriced by Scott. Catalogue prices have not been changed in years, while all other United States issues have soared in price. Yet they are government issued revenues.

New general selections are now ready to send to regular customers or those who send reference (a bank and two stamp dealers preferred).

Message From Pres. Wilhelm

Coöperation Urged to Remedy the Unjust Discrimination Against U. S. Stamps

Greetings to Our A. P. S. Members from Its President

There is a matter coming up shortly which we believe to be of considerable importance to stamp dealers and collectors in this country and should be presented to the membership of the American Philatelic Society so that proper action can be taken.

On December 4th by agreement among the leaders of the House of Representatives at Washington, wheels were set in motion for a general revision of the tariff, which Republicans believe will be undertaken at a special session of Congress in the Spring or Fall of 1929. A resolution was adopted by the Ways and Means Committee directing that hearings on the fifteen schedules of the tariff law shall begin January 7th.

The hearings relating to stamps, Paragraph 1671 of the Tariff Act of 1922, comes under Schedule 15, Free List, and will be held on February 20, 21 and 22. This paragraph reads as follows:—

> "Stamps: Foreign postage or revenue stamps canceled or uncanceled, and foreign government stamped post cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon."

This paragraph permits the free importation of foreign postage and revenue stamps and foreign post cards but discriminates against United States stamps.

By a ruling of the Honorable McKenzie Moss, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, dated April 18, 1923, uncanceled postage stamps were declared not subject to duty, as they were not considered goods, wares or merchandise, as ordinarily understood, and United States stamped envelopes and post cards were also declared free of duty, as the value of the envelope was insignificant as compared with that of the stamp. On the other hand, the value of canceled postage stamps resulted from the desire of stamp collectors to secure them for their collections and this created a commercial value and therefore canceled United States stamps were declared dutiable as printed matter on their foreign market value at the rate of 25% ad valorem under Paragraph 1310 of the Tariff Act. These rulings created considerable confusion, and it is our belief that Paragraph 1671 should be amended so as to remove the discrimination against used United States stamps.

I would therefore suggest that the members of the American Philatelic Society take up this matter with their Congressmen and prepare a proper brief to be submitted at the hearing before the Committee on Ways and Means, making a change in the paragraph by eliminating the word "foreign" where it appears, and adding the words "envelopes or", after the word "stamped", making the paragraph read as follows:—

> Paragraph, 1671. Stamps: Postage or revenue stamps canceled or uncanceled, and government stamped envelopes or postal cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint thereon.

I, as president of the American Philatelic Society, earnestly request of one and all to use their best efforts and write to your Congressman to amend this objectionable paragraph in the Tariff Act.

FIRST IN THE WORLD

The United States has issued the first stamped envelope for air mail. It is very striking in appearance, with its red, white, and blue border and its uniquely designed embossing.

It was issued on January 12, 1929, at Washington, D. C., and, because of the little advance information as to the definite date of issue and the fact that it is the first of its kind, offers one of the scarcest and most interesting first day covers.

We were fortunate in being able to prepare several hundred first day covers of the air mail envelope, in addition to our regular requirements. This was done for the express purpose of making you one of the best offers you ever received.

We KNOW you'd like to have a first day cover of this envelope, so we're making it very easy for you to get one.

Send $1.00, in any convenient form, for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS. We will send you ENTIRELY FREE a first day cover of the air mail envelope. Each cover was actually flown in an airplane, and has the backstamp to prove it.

"EDUCATORS"

In nine out of ten of the collections we buy at least half of the United States stamps are mounted in wrong spaces. If you regard your stamps as in any sense an investment, you must know what you are buying. If you cannot tell a clipped copy of a Type V, 10c, 1857, from the Type I of 1851, you are all out of luck. If you cannot distinguish between the 10c National print of 1870 and the 10c re-engraved of 1882, you may think you are buying a stamp at ¼ of catalog while really paying double the catalog price of the stamp you get. "Know your stuff" is just as important in stamps as in real estate or mining stocks.

This business was started for the purpose of selling only superfine stamps. Really choice items form the backbone of our stock. But after a few years we found that the vast majority of collectors were too uncertain of their classifications to feel safe in buying fine things, so we inaugurated the "Educator" series of approvals. They are made up of stamps of presentable appearance, accumulated by us from purchases of collections and accumulations. Many have technical minor defects; centering is not perfect; perhaps a small closed tear; an invisible crease; a clipped margin. But they are classified and numbered correctly. The cost is but a fraction of list prices. Sometimes a 90c '69 for $5 or $6; or a 90c grille of 1867 for the same figure. But the stamps will be authentic; a fair degree of attention to the varieties will soon enable the collector to distinguish the true from the false.

To give an idea of "Educator" prices we quote

Issue.	No.	Denomination.	Cat.	Our Net
1851	31	1c, Type II	$ 5.00	$1 35

BOARD OF A. P. S. VICE PRESIDENTS

DR. LEON TEDESCHE
WM. C. KENNETT, JR. (Chairman) GUSTAV M. MOSLER (Recorder)

One hears nothing but words of praise for the manner in which the present Board of Vice Presidents has handled the business of the Society. Three capable Cincinnati philatelists pictured above are serving as members of the board. All are life members of the Society.

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES OF THE VICE PRESIDENTS

(Supposed to be authentic and up-to-date.)

Wm. C. Kennett, Jr.—A sturdy philatelist of some 310 lbs. Plays with stamps and occasionally runs off to Canada where he owns a ranch (this looks suspicious). Mr. Kennett is a Mason and a bachelor. He is called, Rotary style, just "Bill."

Gustav M. Mosler—President of the Brighton Bank and Trust Co., and hobnobs with stamps and dogs (but not at one and the same time.) Married. General collector, Special delights—First issue Austria, Lombardy-Venetia and Spain. Recorder of the Board of Vice Presidents.

Dr. L. G. Tedesche—The little member of the Board, and with his vest pockets filled (mark you vest pockets), he turns the scales at 198. The Dr. says he "has the largest collection of junk in Cincinnati"—it keeps him busy. Like Mr. Kennett, he is a Mason and a bachelor. He is in the hall of fame—see "Who's Who in America" for other activities.

They Call Me Jumbo Jr.

because I am big value for little money. I contain about 50 all different U. S. postage stamps — adhesives only — and my catalog value is $4.50 to $5 when it isn't even more. I'm full of good, clean stamps my boss charges $2 to $3 for when bought separately. Send one dollar and ask for me by name.

This Elephant Tale

is written to convince the wide, wide world that the famous Peach Orchard contains many good stamps that don't cost $100 each and to sell some dandy packets that I'd have named "Unbeatable" if I could get Sig Rothschild's philatelic Zoo off my mind. If Sig doesn't get one of those pelican stamps pretty soon I may have to take Toasty's advice, leave the stamp business flat on its back and go back to work.

But while I'm still on the job you'd better send me a dollar, or two dollars, or whatever paper currency you don't need to pay the rent and get some 10c bank notes (1873-'79 U. S. #188, etc.), that will make you wonder why you never could seem to understand these funny brown stamps. Don't worry;—nine out of every eight collectors are in the same leaky boat and that also goes for too many of my fellow dealers.

Whatever your remittance you'll get good value and maybe I won't get so many long letters full of questions the 47th street encyclopedia doesn't trouble itself to answer. It's all right. The Czar of 47th street never reads my ads for less than $5—cash in advance—so if you keep still we're both safe.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

President American Philatelic Society 1925-1926-1927-1928

"President Wilhelm during his administration will ignore all geographical considerations. His rallying cry will be service, and an indefatigable worker himself, he expects every member to do his duty. Mr. Wilhelm is vital, aggressive and tireless and does not spare himself in assuming arduous work in which he becomes interested. He has no patience for procrastination and in order that members may meet his expectation they will have to point to accomplishment. He will be a working director, indeed, and in order to match his efforts, the officers and members will have to be alert."—CHAS. E. SEVERN, in WEEKLY, Sept. 28, 1925.

WHY ORGANIZATION?

By ADOLPH D. FENNEL.

mp collecting, notwithstanding its o scientific and investment aspects, imarily a hobby or pastime and, e as it may appear at first glance, is lies the prime importance of organization. Playing a game for fun and amusement leaves the cold to such serious thoughts as progress or even the evil conduct her players or hangers on. The g instinct controlling business en- e, self interest, is lacking in the obbyist, and we therefore find in hobbies that the conduct of the its rules and ethics, comes under ntrol of the professionals. When appens the hobby generally loses d, it loses its popular appeal and mong the discards. It is therefor re than ordinary importance that bbyist support such organizations he far seeing and interested few . Stamp collecting has been for- as from its earliest beginnings have always been some amateurs to do the work involved in main- collectors' organizations, and all minded students of philately attribute much of its constant growth to this fact.

In the United States, since 1886, The American Philatelic Society, predominately made up of non-professionals, has directly and indirectly had a powerful influence on the establishment of the customs and rules that now govern the hobby. The National Conventions of this Society have brought together the leaders in collecting, and in the trade and out of the resulting interchange of thought the ethics of the game have been born.

If the hobby is to grow, if there are to be more collectors, if stamps are to retain an investment character, and if the sheep are to be protected from the wolves, this form of coöperation must continue and, in my humble opinion, the future of the hobby will be in direct ratio to the growth and power of philatelic organization.

Not alone does organization effect the future and give stability, but the immediate pleasures of the present day collector are greatly enhanced thereby. The greatest charm of the hobby lies in the social contacts and friendships formed through associations of minds of similar mental trends. The mutual love of stamps brings together all classes of people, and holds them in a bond as strong as the marriage tie. To this charm the fruits of coöperation add a wide and varied literature, a free market for stamp exchange, stamp exhibitions, and group gatherings, and then, quietly and unobtrusively there comes through this group action, stability, permanence, and a high ethical standard. No collector can afford not to support the philatelic organizations, they give immediate returns in pleasure that repay a hundredfold the slight expense, and insure for posterity the happiness and cultural growth that lies in the King of Hobbies —Stamp Collecting!

APPROVAL BOOKS OF POSTAGE STAMPS
For Medium and Advanced Collectors

I conduct my business by means of Approval Books of stamps which I send to my clients on approval for seven days.

All stamps are priced strictly net. I do not believe in the practice of sticking on high prices in order to allow a discount. It is a bother to calculate and generally works against the collector.

Three or four of these books can be sent in one of my special registered envelopes and must be returned in my printed envelope, which should be sealed at each end. If sent back by registered post sealed, no claim for any loss will ever be made by me on my client.

I add a brief description of some of the hundreds of books I have on hand as I write these notes, but if you do not find mentioned here just what you want, then write me and I will let you know if I have what is required.

I shall be much obliged, when a new client writes for my approval books, if he will inform me if he requires:—

Cheap, medium or rare stamps.
Unused or used stamps.
Stamps on covers, or blocks, etc., etc.

The more details you give of your collection and your wants the better I will be in a position to serve you.

THE MOUNTING OF COVERS

By NELSON F. GERKEN, 4859 Labadie Av., St. Louis, Mo.

In a recent issue an article appeared inviting suggestions from readers for best methods of mounting covers, and this for the benefit of Mr. Charles H. Fletcher, Newburgh, New York, and others who may be interested. Here is how I solved the difficulty, and having mounted in this manner my collection of approximately two thousand covers, have yet to see a method that for attractiveness, neatness, adaptability and economy can equal it. The idea is original and is passed on for what it may be worth.

My albums are of the loose-leaf type, black, flexible, imitation leather, morocco grained, opening the long way, size over all 7½" x 11½", with telescope binding posts, very similar to the ordinary photograph album used by the amateur photographer for mounting his prints (indeed, such albums may be used for the purpose if one does not object to the words "Photograph Album" printed thereon). Any loose-leaf bindery and most stationery houses will be glad to make or have made such covers for a very nominal charge, or if the collector wants something more elaborate he can have them made of genuine leather or alligator skin, but these run into money. Fillers are the standard black photo album sheets, which carry standard perforations, or you can buy black construction paper, 9" x 12" and cut them to size on the trimmer, or with a jack knife, and perforate them to fit the holes in the outer covers.

The black sheets form an exceptionally attractive contrasting background for the mounting of covers, and I prefer to mount one cover to the sheet, leaving the reverse side blank, and when mounted with covers 50 to 75 sheets will make a fair sized volume, yet not too bulky.

Covers are mounted with standard "corners" and readily removable for inspection. No fixed position on the sheet is followed in mounting; in fact, it breaks the monotony to mount covers at various angles and in various locations. Furthermore, on each sheet on side where cover is mounted is written in white ink a brief history of the cover and its more interesting features; in addition, there is inserted alongside each cover a white sheet 8½" x 5¾" perforated to take the binding posts, on which is writt complete a history of the cover as possible for me to compile, includi origin, and how and through wh came into my collection. Onion sheets of the same size and perfo as the fillers are used as fly leave where it is desired for convenien separate sections in an album, Den marginal tabs, properly labeled, a fixed; thus, one reads "Route 17, York-Chicago," the next "Route 18 cago-San Francisco," etc. Then, an album is completed a heavy gra tough, dark green paper having th pearance of grained leather (fur by a friendly printer by the way) and perforated so as to fit acro bound end of the volume, is labele volume number, routes contained th etc., and is then mounted on the b posts just beneath the outer cover the album is ready for its place cabinet, for when the binding pos tightened down it virtually beco substantially bound book.

The features I have found maki method of mounting particularly able to cover collecting are:

The size, 7½" x 11½", will acc date almost any ordinary type of ope, and it is a size readily handle will fit into most cabinets and book cases.

The loose-leaf design, especially only one cover is mounted to a shee mits addition of extra pages at the place any time a new city is adde route, or if for any other reaso desired to add to or take from th lection, and this without disturbi remaining portion.

The black sheets by contrast bri the attractiveness of the covers m thereon. Covers so mounted are kept in the best of condition a readily accessible, as by proper l the owner can locate any cover w same ease he can find any subject encyclopedia.

The cost of such an album is ver or to those so inclined, outer cover be made of the finest tooled leathe bossed in gold and individuality as far as the collector cares to go.

Last, but not least, a shelf, or s of albums of uniform size, numbe consecutive order, each filled wit flight and other interesting covers a sight to gratify the most fastid one of which the lucky owner justly proud.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor, 1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and ita on errors, shifts, defects and all plate arkings; also color varieties and new num- rs for chronicle. The editor will gladly swer all questions on these subjects.

Our subject this week is the 400 size tary plate from which the great mass our current lower values are printed. r. Theodore H. Ames, prominent Jer- y specialist, has kindly sent a fine sur- y of the marginal markings which ap- ar on these plates, and writes: "No ubt it is a well-known fact that the ates from which the current 1c to 10c mps are printed are used in pairs, each ate bearing 400 subjects and being rved so that when the two are fitted gether a complete cylinder is formed. is cylinder fits the 'rotary' press, and e stamps issue from the press in long ips the width of the plate. The two nts marking the points of contact of e two plates pick up ink and print a ntinuous line across the paper between plates. These are later cut apart in form seen at the Post Office."

Unlike the flat press sheets, these mps do not have continuous lines run- g through the center of the sheet, but tead have a short line about 3/16" g on the four middle points of the et running from the margin in, and mall cross in the center, each line be- about ¼" long. The space between quarter sections along which the cut- will divide the full sheet into panes about 5/16" wide and runs across the et in both directions. The plate num- appears in four positions, and always the right and left side margins near four corners of the sheet.

mperforate sheets of some of the er values can be had at the Philatelic ency, but usually are cut apart into customary sheets of 100 stamps. The rkings referred to above will show r the sheet has been cut and perfo- d, and to facilitate the reconstruc- n of miniature plates from single per- ate stamps I list below the sixteen ntifying stamps which should appear complete reconstructed plate:

re is an excellent opportunity for not familiar with plate markings arn the intricacies of plate recon- ion at practically no expense. As Ames writes, "I hope that many rs will essay this by no means easy elic task. To make it harder try it with used stamps." There is a n fascination in an effort of this and anyone successfully completing f these miniature plates will find If well versed in knowledge of our on stamps. I will be pleased to from anyone getting the sixteen varieties together. Try it with the 2c value first.

Plate Number Combinations. The present 5c air mail stamp is a bonanza for plate number enthusiasts and will keep them busy for some time. Mr. H. M. Southgate informs me that there are over seventy borders and forty-four centers to date. This gives us over three thousand possible combinations. Our correspondent further states that it will be difficult to obtain even singles of many, as some plates had very restricted printings. Plenty of persistence and patience are essential if you are trying for a complete set. However, we can find out how many combinations do exist. Even if you have but one or two combinations, write in and send a list of what you have, and we will learn just how many there are and which are the scarce ones. Due to the constant changing of borders and centers, as well as the haste in which they were printed, this issue should be rich in individual plate characteristics. Observe these stamps carefully and you may be rewarded with a unique discovery.

A correspondent asks, "Have you or do you know of anyone having Lex.-Concord 1c 16818 and 2c 16921," and adds, "it is doubtful if these plates went to press." I have never seen copies from either plate. Perhaps some reader may have more definite information.

Vacant spaces are the bane of plate number collectors. Many of these are caused from plates that have been numbered, but which did not go to press, while others are the natural result of small printings. The chief difficulty in attempting to trace missing numbers is the fact that often plates are not cancelled until a considerable period of time has elapsed. Recent numbers move slowly in many cases due to the tremendous amount of impressions from the plates, which are often re-chromed four or five times. In some instances over 2,000,000 sheets are printed before the plate is discarded. I have in preparation a list of cancelled plates that never went to press, and hope to make it as complete as possible so that many of these vacant spaces can be checked off.

A bulletin from the Philatelic Agency in the Canal Zone, recently received, lists nineteen varieties that are on sale. Just how large the remaining supply of flat press varieties is I do not know, but anyone desiring the lower values in this issue are advised to purchase at once, especially if you desire plate number blocks. The following are listed: 1c, 1½c, 3c, 5c, 12c, 14c, 15c, 17c, 20c, 30c, 50c and $1. Rotaries available are: 1c, 2c, 3c, 5c and 10c. These are all of the current issue surcharged Canal Zone. The 1c Gorgas and 2c Goethals are also listed. Five different booklets may be obtained and eight envelopes. When possible, plate numbers may be had in blocks of twenty-four or more. Address communications to Postmaster, Balboa Heights, Canal Zone.

Watch for the possible appearance of ½c Hale rotaries. Four plates were listed recently and their use may be decided upon anytime.

The total number of plates in use for this stamp is quite small, and no doubt printings from all are still available, I having purchased No. 17017 and 17041 this week.

Auction catalogs listing U. S. plate lots will be reviewed in this column from time to time as space permits. Such catalogs should reach me at least three weeks prior to the sale date to be of value to readers.

2c Vincennes. Who will be the first to report number-combinations of this issue, out today? Plate collectors anticipate with pleasure the appearance of this stamp, and due to the great interest generally, all will want plate number blocks. Although the total number to be issued seems ample, taking into consideration the enormous loss through non-philatelic use coupled with our experience with past issues, printings from some of the plates will be scarce. Get your plate number blocks now.

Our next article will be about plate numbers, what they are and where to find them. No question is too difficult or too simple to answer. Remember, the greatest plate specialists in the country and the reports of the Philatelic Plate Number Association are at your service. Use them.

STAMP LOSS

In November, 1928, Mr. George C. Rheinfrank, Pasadena, California, celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of his start in the stamp business, when he commemorated the launching of the Missionary Stamp Exchange thirty years ago. At the same time he observed the second birthday of his shop in Pasadena, and he received an interesting notice in the Pasadena Star-News on the occasion. Now, we have word that about January 25, 1929, he sustained a serious loss by theft or otherwise. He says that somebody either purposely or by mistake took an approval book containing mint sets of U. S. departments, Agriculture, Navy, State, 1c to 90c, Treasury, etc., and he wishes to give wide currency to his loss, in the hope that he may receive information that may lead to the recovery of the stamps.

It is generally conceded that a more highly specialized stock of 20th U. S. is to be found at the "Sterling" than anywhere else in Boston. The items which we have advertised under the heading "For the Specialist" are but a few of the interesting ones in stock. The recent purchase of Dr. Carroll Chase's collection of 20th has added a number of varieties seldom seen anywhere. When in Boston, come in. Or send a list of the items in which you might be interested.

Do not expect to find all varieties in stock. We can't keep them. We do, however, get our share of them from time to time. Furthermore, we stock the best condition obtainable. That is worth considering.

TWENTIETH CENTURY UNITED STATES

Below will be found a very complete list of these issues. The condition throughout we would describe as "fine". We wish to state, however, that we cannot guarantee supply at these prices, perfectly centered, original gum copies that have never been hinged, particularly on the issues before 1917. Owing to the demand for such copies, and difficulty we find in keeping a stock on hand of these, we have to charge somewhat above our regular prices for such copies, generally from 10% to 20%, depending on the iss wanted. We are sure, however, that the copies supplied at our regular advertised prices will prove satisfactory to 95% of the collectors.

We will allow a special discount of 2½% on orders of $10.00 or over, and 5% on orders of $25.00 or over.

Money will be refunded without question on anything not entirely saitsfactory.

Air Mail News

BY FREDERICK D. MARKEE,
40 Wilshire Park, Needham, Mass.

Our subscribers are urged to send air il news direct to Mr. Markee and espe- lly advance news concerning first flights, h names of cities served. The scope of s department will not allow the treat- nt of flights from other than the purely latelic standpoint.)

After many delays, the 1929 edition of American Air Mail Catalogue has n placed on sale and its appearance l be welcomed by collectors of covers. e catalogue has been enlarged,—now rying 105 pages of data—and several v Departments have been added. Mr. rk, the publisher, deserves the whole- rted support of every collector of Air il Covers, for the catalogue is not a ney-making proposition, but his con- ution to the Hobby. In fact, if you at all interested in A. M. covers, it impossible for you to collect intelli- tly without a copy of the catalogue your desk. You will never spend 0 to better advantage!

Mistakes will happen and sometimes can pass the buck, but the item giving stopping points on the forthcoming anese route, that appeared in the Jan. issue, is one of our own making, the "stopping points" are the name the operating company! Mr. Eugene s calls attention to the error and we urn pass this apology along to you. Japanese always was punk.

According to Roessler's Stamp News, 434 pounds of mail made the trip to Cristobal in Col. Lindbergh's plane. Figuring 90 covers to the pound, approximately 39,000 letters were carried. Postage realized would figure about $10,000. On the return trip the press notices state that 600 lbs. were loaded in the two planes, or about 54,000 letters. And they will be in demand, for every collector will want to add a pair of covers to his collection.

Lieut. Frank Robertson, of Universal Air Lines, is the envied possessor of an unique Christmas card—a bit of linen from one of the wings of the "Spirit of St. Louis" that bears the message, "To Frank H. Robertson. Sincerely, Charles A. Lindbergh, December, 1928."

A neat envelope, bearing the printed inscription "Boyertown Welcomes Major Spatz and His Fellow Companions," backed with a large red question mark and postmarked Boyertown, Pa., Feb. 4th, was received the past week from Mr. H. D. Egolf.

A clipping from the Martin's Ferry, Ohio, paper of Feb. 5th, states that Yorkville, Ohio, is making preparations to care for the proposed Air Mail service that may be started April 1st. Yorkville is about ten miles from Wheeling, W. Va., and would probably be the landing field for the latter point when service between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh is inaugurated. Courtesy of Mr. E. Klass.

Mr. Victor M. Suarez notifies us that service between Mexico City and Baja, California (Mexicali), was inaugurated on January 29th, but no mail was carried on the first trip. On January 31st a second trip was completed on which mail was carried. This service is experimental, the contractor working under a provisional contract, but if results warrant, permanent service will be instituted. At present the service is tri-weekly, with stops at Guadalajara, Tepic, Mazatlan, Culiacan, Cajeme, Guaymas to Mexicali.

Mr. A. J. Steinhardt, 17 Briggs St., Overbrook, Pittsburgh, Pa., advises that he will be glad to assist collectors by mailing their covers during the week of the Aero Exposition at Pittsburgh, March 9th to 16th. Be sure and send your covers "ready to go." Mr. J. P. Penning, 124 East Eugene Ave., Homstead, Pa., has also volunteered to help out, as previously written in this column. With these two gentlemen on the job, you have no excuse for not getting a set of covers for your collection.

In connection with the foregoing, please note that the dates are MARCH 9th to 16th, and not 11th to 16th as previously listed.

Here is a real round trip cover! Mr. H. Engelhart is the proud owner of a "Graf Zepp." cover that made the round trip, has all the proper face cancels and backstamps, and is franked with both a 2 mark and a 4 mark German Trans-Atlantic stamp in addition to the U. S. postage. Was anybody else "in" on this round trip?

Coöperators report that "news is scarce"! However, we continue to make out quite well each week when the reports are all collected. This week's workers—G. H. Curtis, Willard Olsen, Arthur Gilbart, Jr., Miss Anna M. Schafer, Eugene Sims, J. P. Penning, Victor M. Suarez, Wm. Esselen, Jr., A. J. Steinhardt, H. D. Egolf*, Everett Klass, H. Engelhart, Harry Leonard, A. C. Henderson, C. A. Forster and Clark Cooper.

Durant, Okla., will dedicate "Eaker Airport" in the early summer. The port is named after Capt. Ira Eaker, chief pilot of the "Question Mark." * * * Indianapolis, Ind., is to erect an Airport in the near future. * * * Bids are to be asked for a route from Louisville to Dallas, via Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock, according to Memphis papers. Courtesy of Clark Cooper.

Elkhart, Ind., will hold an Airmeet, June 14-16th. * * A 240 acre Airport is in prospect for Burbank, Calif. * * Muskegon, Mich., is to begin work on a 245 acre field as soon as the frost is out of the ground. * * Hornell, N. Y., is planning an Airport. * * Grass Pass, Ore., is reported to have started work on an Airport. * * And here are a few other possibilities—Lubbock, Tex.; Ada, Okla.; Mystic, Conn.; Eveleth, Minn.; Bonham, Tex.; and Marshall, Tex.

COLUMN CHAFF

Here is a sample from R. H. L.'s column in the Chicago Tribune, involving the innocent postage stamp. This stuff is fair to poor, and is a piece of flat ware in the column cabinet. Richard Henry Little heads the paragraph: "We'll Play Safe! Kindly Keep Our Face Off the Stamps."

"Old Fred Pasley seethed with indignation yesterday. 'Lookit,' says Paz, 'and if you've got an ounce of patriotism in your system join me in a frenzy of indignation.' We joined him on general principles and he explained that he had gone into the morgue to buy a two-cent stamp of August. The morgue was just out of two-cent stamps, but gave him four half-cent stamps instead. And the half-cent stamps bore the picture of Capt. Nathan Hale, who was hung during the revolutionary war as a spy and whose last words were: 'I regret that I have but one life to give for my country.' And Paz and us agreed that, considering they put him on a half-cent stamp, one life was enough."

Then Gene Morgan in his "Hit and Miss" column in the Chicago Daily News had a loose connection and headed a letter from a contributor who objected to a proposed "petting Mararthon" with: "Perhaps You'd Like to Collect Stamps." We saw Gene a few days later and went right up to him and said: "Fie."

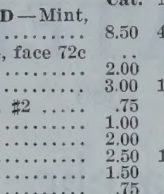
BRITISH ARTISTS AND THE FUCHS' ENGRAVING OF KING EDWARD VII



By DOUGLAS ARMSTRONG.

The tragic death in New York of the eminent sculptor, Emile Fuchs, calls to mind the furore that arose twenty-seven years ago, when it was announced that he had been commissioned to design the stamps and coins of King Edward VII. British artists were up in arms; questions were asked in Parliament, and the stamps as finally issued subjected to a merciless and, for the most part, undeserved criticism.

How it came about that an Austrian artist was entrusted with the work of preparing a portrait of the late King Edward for reproduction upon the postage stamps of his reign is related by the artist in his Memoirs, which were published recently. He wrote:—

"Shortly after the ascent of King Edward to the Throne, the firm of Thos. De La Rue and Co., Ltd., who for generations had made the postage stamps of the realm, submitted a design which they had already prepared. It was taken from a photograph of the King in uniform. It did not meet with His Majesty's approval. He had quite definite ideas as to how he wished the stamp to be treated. Evidently the way the first designs were altered by De La Rue did not please him either, and he asked them to communicate with me and to make the head I had modelled of him with the free bare neck, the base of the design. They therefore sent a member of the firm to discuss the subject with me.

So far I had made only a medallion, which was in sculpture. It could have been adapted for the stamps, but I suggested an entirely new drawing. My suggestion was accepted, and the King intimated his willingness to give me the necessary sittings."

The medallion referred to, upon which the whole of the British and Colonial postage stamps of the Edwardian era were modelled, was exhibited by Herr Fuchs at the New Gallery in 1900, and was subsequently acquired by the late Queen Alexandra.

Storm of Criticism

No sooner did it become known that this artist was engaged upon the new stamps than the Postmaster-General and the Secretary to the Treasury became the target for a fire of questions in the House, the main purport of which was that the work should have been given to a British artist. The reply was that the portrait in question had been expressly selected by His Majesty for the purpose, and that this was obviously a matter in which the King's own wishes should carry most weight. There for a time, the matter rested, until the actual appearance of the stamps called forth another outburst from carping critics and jealous rivals.

Meanwhile, with the assistance of a skilled engraver, working in his studio and under the guidance of Herr Fuchs the work of engraving the die was steadily progressing. So delicate was the task of transferring the likeness to steel that sometimes it took the engraver an entire day to cut only part of a line. Proof impressions were taken every few days to show the progress made, several of which are now in the Royal stamp collection. "One day," he recounts, "word came from Windsor that the King wished to see the stamp. It was then just in the preliminary stages. Not even the final colors were available. So we took an impression from the head, and another from the frame, and pasted them together. The one-penny being the most generally used, was the farthest advanced, and to convey the idea, as it would appear in color, we made one impression in green and another in mauve. The King saw them and approved."

King Edward's Approval

Actually two different frame designs were submitted, but His late Majesty preferred the one showing the value in one line, instead of displayed at the sides, and initialed this proof "Appd. E. R.," with a proviso that the head was "leaning too far forward," the poise being corrected accordingly.

Herr Fuchs lived to see his work j- tified by comparison with the first p- age stamps of King George V, which - though designed by British artists, we subjected to a more devastating criticis than had ever been experienced by the of the former reign.—BAZAAR.

THE MOUNTING OF STAMPS

By HAMILTON HARRIS.

In the last few years it has becc more and more true that collectors h confined their enthusiasm to one coun or specialized in one of the many w possible. The question arises as to h they shall be housed. For it is impo- ble to buy a printed album to fit each - dividual want. The answer is the bl loose-leaf album, which may be had various prices from very cheap to most beautiful bindings, with hand-m leaves worthy of the greatest rarities

One of the most interesting pleasu in collecting is the mounting of stamps collected.

My own collection is confined to 19th century, and I have found, as will, that it is often wise to have b used as well as unused copies. A v centered, lightly cancelled, good sp- men is often of more value, beside be of more interest. A cancelled stamp in many cases more desirable. For - ample, a stamp that has been through mail has served the purpose for wh it was created. In the early Unid States stamps the different colored c- cellations, the year dates and the to markings from which the letters w posted, all add to their value and m

SALES DEPARTMENT OF THE A. P. S.

J. E. GUEST, DALLAS, TEXAS, MGR.

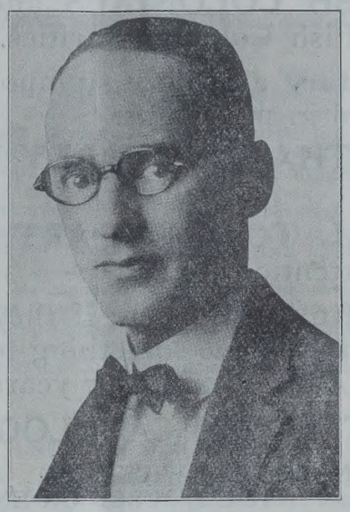
By VERITAS.

One of the outstanding developments n American philately in the past several ears is the remarkable development of ne sales department of the American hilatelic Society, under the management nd direction of that well-liked and pop-lar member of the fraternity, Mr. J. E. uest of Dallas, Texas. The operation f a sales department was not new to Ir. Guest at the time he was chosen by ie Board of the American Philatelic ociety in 1920, for prior to that date, he ad operated a similar department in a naller society.

The records of sales made by the de-rtment prior to his management are not fore us, but basing our statements on the record of sales, made by him ring the eight years that he has held is office, we have evidence enough that s administration of this department the society has been successful. The les made the first year of his encum-ncy, 1920-21, amounted to $19,262.97. ch year this amount has been in-eased, and for the fiscal year ending gust 30, 1928, amounted to $80,266.78, ich makes a total sales for the entire riod he has managed this office of, ap-ximately, $380,000.

Based upon his satisfactory handling this department, the society at the w York convention, a couple of years o, changed his term of office to a five-ar period, so they might be sure of his vices for a longer time, and also, so t he could feel safer in expanding the partment, because theretofore, it had n a yearly appointed position. That s was a wise thing to do, is evidenced the fact that the sales for the last al year were practically $20,000 more n for the next last preceding period.

Mr. Guest has always maintained that, a sales department was operated on a ictly business basis, that it could be veloped in an unlimited way. He intains a down town office, fully fur-hed with the necessary equipment and ficient help to handle the detail work mptly. At the present time, in addi-n to Mrs. Guest's services, there are r other clerks employed, which is dence of the fact that Mr. Guest en-vors to give the best possible service the members of the American Phila-c Society, regardless of the cost. It uld probably be more profitable for to cut the overhead expenses, even gh the sales fell off, but he evidently feels that regardless of expense the members must be given the best service possible.



J. E. GUEST, Sales Mgr.

We understand that for the current year, the department is being patronized more than ever before, and that the sales this year are ahead of those affected last year for the same period. Mr. Guest's ambition is to build the department up to a place where its annual sales total at least $100,000, and while this may not be reached this year, it will doubtless be passed by the time he completes his present term of office in 1931.

It has been said that you can judge a society by its sales department, and if this is so, then the American Philatelic Society is being more successful year after year as a Philatelic organization. It must be remembered that all expenses for postage, printing, office rent, clerical hire, etc., come out of the commissions earned on sales, and therefore, while the total gross commissions may seem large, the net to Mr. Guest, and Mrs. Guest, who assists him, is only nominal.

We congratulate Mr. Guest upon his wonderful record, and wish him continued success in his efforts to keep the sales department of the American Philatelic Society in the lead.

e of the most attractive pages in one's a um.

mistake too often found in mounting st ps on unprinted pages is to over cr d the page. On a page say 10⅜ x 8 one issue of from 8 to 16 stamps is en gh. You may have an issue with se ral copies of each value in different sh les, cancellations, papers, perforation, et You may have a single copy which sh ld stand out by itself, perhaps for its ra y or some special interest. These sh ld be honored with a page by them-se es, with a complete write-up as to wi they are different from the others, wh h may look to an outsider to be the sa e.

the pages you have are quadrilled it wi add to their beauty to draw a plain bla c border around the two sides, top an bottom of the page at the edge of th quadrilling. Place your stamps on ho page in the order in which you wish to nount them, loose without hinges. M k with a pencil dot at each corner ab t one square from the edge of the sta p. Do not crowd the stamps with the frame. Remove the stamps and ir in with black ink the frames by co ecting the dot marks. Then mo it your stamps with a first qu ty hinge. These frames, of course, ma be made to fit any stamp, piece of co or cover. You may place the un-use and the used side by side, or use a pa for the unused and a page for the use stamps. Neatness is most important. If mistake is made and there will be, do not try to correct it, but take a fresh page and start over. You may in this way make up several hundred pages without having two alike as to the number and position of the stamp on the page. Black India ink is the best. It is waterproof and dries very quickly. A four or five inch draftsman's pen is most successful, for it will hold enough ink to complete a full line, which is necessary to have the lines and frames universal.

National Stamp Exhibit Will Be Put On At The Minneapolis Convention

THE American Philatelic Society will be entertained this summer, probably the first week in August, in Minneapolis, under the auspices of the Twin City Philatelic Society. In conjunction with the convention, plans are under way for a National Stamp Show, which is to be held during the week of the Convention. The stimulus of the International Exhibit in New York in 1926, prompted the Garfield-Perry Club of Cleveland, Ohio, to conduct their great National Stamp Show, which was held in May, 1928. The enormous success of these two enterprises has encouraged the American Philatelic Society, working in close harmony with the Association for Stamp Exhibits and the American Stamp Dealers' Association, to look forward to National Stamp Shows in conjunction with the Convention each year.

Plans for the exhibit, as far as they have materialized, call for a stamp exhibit which will duplicate the performance of the Cleveland show. A special corporation will be created for this purpose and collectors and dealers throughout the United States will be asked to underwrite the undertaking. Dealers' booths will be provided for and modelled after the old-time English fairs.

The prospectus as to the exhibits is in and the plans are to have competitive exhibits with gold, silver and bronze awards. Looking into the future, it is hoped that a plan will be available whereby the orderly system now used by the yearly Dog Shows and Horse Shows will be inaugurated in the philatelic field. More details will be forthcoming in the next week's issue. In the meantime, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY heralds this advance notice of coming National Stamp Show in the Twin Cities with heartiest enthusiasm.

THE VINCENNES DAY PROGRAM

Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, M. C., Says That Stamps Are Given First Place

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
February 16, 1929.

"I am sending you herewith invitation nd program of events received by me oday from the Geo. Rogers Clark Me- orial Commission.

I am sure you will find the Program f Events most interesting. It is an vident fact that stamps are coming into heir own, being given first place in the vents of the day."

ERNEST R. ACKERMAN.

C. A. Ploch of Indianapolis, who fur- ished the picture from which our cut is ade, also favors us with a copy of the rogram, and we are indebted to him r a splendid piece of coöperation. Here the record:—

A. M. Commemorative stamps placed on sale at the Post Office.

It is suggested that first flight covers properly marked as to routing and rwarded to the postmasters, under sepa- e cover, with instructions that they be ld for the first flight from the Post fice designated.

IE FLIGHT THAT DID NOT FAIL

Our Halifax-St. John First Flight er bears the date "Jan. 28" on its e, and the St. John marking is "Feb.

We quote from a letter from Don- A. King:—

"The Halifax plane was due to leave Jan. 28, but fog and snow held it up il Jan. 31, when it took off. Half y to St. John the plane was forced vn by a snow storm at Folleigh Lake, l could not take the air until Feb. 2, en it reached St. John. Hence the psed time. Winter flying on the st is difficult. At Folleigh Lake the w had to make a runway—the planes with skis, not wheels."

DONALD A. KING.

PT. FRIED--- STAMP COLLECTOR

lave you been advised that Capt. rge Fried was recently made an Hon- ry Life Member of the Worcester ass.) Stamp Club? When given the s to N. Y. City, a pass key to Nassau should have been included. He could it all right. He is a stamp collector.

STATE STAMPS FOR "CONN."

Denominations to be Overprinted Are the Values 1 to 5c

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.

All postage stamps ranging from 1c to 5c sold in Connecticut in the future will bear the name of the state stamped across the face of the stamp. Postmaster Gen. Harry New is taking this step in order to cope with post office thieves. The stamping of the name of the state in which the stamp is sold across the face of the stamp will render it more difficult to dispose of stolen stamps.

He has announced that for this reason the federal government in the future will stamp Connecticut on all 1c to 5c stamps sold in the Nutmeg State. Connecticut is in the class with Kansas and Nebraska.

L. G. SHEPARD.

NEW AIR MAIL ENVELOPES

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.

The envelope manufacturers have found that in the printing of the new air mail envelopes that for some reason it is difficult to register the red and blue bars shown on the present type of envelope. These bars on the present envelope, which are diamond shape and measure 14/32 inches on the long side and 13/32 inches on the short side, will be made smaller so that the red diamond on the new envelopes will now be 13/32 inches on the long side, which will be horizontal or vertical, and 6/32 inches on the short or diagonal side. The blue stamp, which has heretofore appeared in the upper right corner somewhat near the red and blue border, will be spaced about one-eighth inch further in, so that it will be possible in the future for the cut-square collector to mount his cut-square types as they will both be distinguishable, because of their spacing from the border. The colors are the same as heretofore, and it is expected that the new envelope will be available by the time these notes appear in print.

THE LINDBERGH C. Z. FLIGHT

We are indebted to Emile Mizrahi for a Colon (Panama), Lindbergh cover. The Colon postmark is dated Feb. 9, Miami Feb. 13, and Beverly Feb. 16, all in purple ink. The special Colon cachet is a double lined circle also in purple, and in the centre is "Primer Correo Aero Internacional." A horizontal inscription in two lines separate from the cachet reads: "Pan American Airways, Inc. Primer Vuelo." It is in purple. The air mail fee is represented in the 10c Panama special delivery: "Correo Aereo" at top, "25" on either side of an airplane just below, and bottom line: Veinticinco Centesimos".

PRESENT DAY PATRIOTICS

By C. A. PLOCH.

As the George Rogers Clark stamp is the first one ever issued commemorating an event which happened in Indiana it is only to be expected that Indiana collectors should show great enthusiasm. This has no doubt been the case in all localities where commemoratives have been issued recently, and the collecting fraternity at large has been content to get a first day cover and such stamps as were wanted, and let it go at that. At any rate I have not heard of anything elaborate in the way of covers themselves being prepared for any of the recent issues.

Now this is what is happening here in the Northwest Territory. A number of collectors have seen the historical importance of this celebration and are having covers made showing some of the stirring scenes enacted during the Clark campaign. To date I have seen the following, and I know of others in preparation, not only in Indiana, but in Wisconsin and Illinois as well:

Bust of George Rogers Clark in General's uniform from painting in Seelbach Hotel, Louisville, black on buff envelope.

Picture of the surrender, same as shown on the stamp.

Old Fort Sackville.

Statue of Clark.

Clark's army crossing the Wabash.

There are others that I have not seen. Is it possible the Civil War Patriotics are to have a rival? The cover collector will do well to tighten up all loose bolts on his typewriter, oil all bearing parts, and prepare for a strenuous campaign in order that none may escape him.

--- For Sale ---
To some man now prosperous, who during medical, or law student years, was obliged, because of financial reasons, to sell his first collection—my album collection of 19th and 20th century, U. S. and Foreign stamps, representing nearly seventy years of philatelic work, and listing by Scott's, several thousand dollars.
This advertisement will appear but once. For price, etc., address—
Edward E. Briry, M. D., Bath, Me.

OFF-SIDE—

THE Chicago Precancel Stamp Club will meet hereafter on the second and fourth Friday of each month, on the 23rd floor of the Bankers' Building. The club has four frames on exhibition at the Illinois State Bank of Evanston, and will have them on display later at the bank at Lincoln and Lawrence Avenues, Chicago. This idea of a circulating stamp exhibit commends itself.

MR. J. W. WILSON, Des Moines, Iowa, writes: "I have five sheets of No. 4411, U. S. revenue stamp, and notice that one stamp in each sheet does not have any period after 'Cigtte.' The stamp in each sheet without period is the twelfth stamp. I am not familiar enough to know if this is a common occurrence, or if it is something rare." All of our specimens have the period, and the one without it is one in a hundred.

MR. FRED JARRETT, Toronto, informs us that his British North American book will have about twice as many pages as estimated at first, and that up to the present, 450 pages have been printed with "200 more in sight." The book will be ready by March 1st, it is predicted.

ACCORDING to the Memphis Press Scimiter, Mr. W. N. Emerson, president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, was the "guest of honor at a meeting of local stamp enthusiasts at Chisca Hotel, Friday night."

PROFFESSOR JOHN ROSS FRAMPTON of Lawrence College, Appleton, Wisconsin, wants to know the sheet number and location in the sheet of the double transfer of the 2c Harding, flat plate printing. Too, he asks, what is the double marking?

STAMPLESS COVERS CANCELLATIONS

H. P. ATHERTON, 1562 Main St., Springfield Mass.

(Anything unusual may be sent Mr. Atherton who conducts a Forum on U. S. stamps for the benefit of our readers. Return postage and registration is of course expected as your contribution to the promoting of stamp collecting interest.)

When you get to fussing with these stampless covers, they begin to make an impression on you, especially if an unusual lot arrives. Several mentioned the cancels in my last article, and Mr. Olin H. Clark sent in a big collection of them, so here are some more for you to look over. The old styles of lettering are often fascinating, and the curious forms that the postmarks are twisted into, are again something to create wonderment.

For example, look at that first bit of bric-a-brac! It is faintly hit in a dull red, and used in 1835. At first I thought I'd wait for a clear copy to come in, but when I got it traced I realized that any other drawing of it would look just like the little lumps of frosting on a celebration cake, so I let it come in with the rest of the odd cancellations. The pmk. had barely readable letters, so if you find one quite similar, this is it. "18¾" to New Haven.

The letter is fro one Collins to another, rate 6c to Har ford, and has to do with some 11,7 chopping axes, and 227 broad axes. A this is one month's sales, no wonder w now have societies for the protection forests! Excuse the ragged edge on th

The second one is hit in red in 1829. I thought what a big postmark it was, and on opening the morning mail, an even bigger one from this same town used in 1821 appeared in a letter from Dr. R. F. Chambers. The one shown is approximately 1⅝ inches across, while the 1821 edition is an even 2 inches. Also in the lot is same Newport hit in Green, with an old Script PAID in green, and this appears directly under the Newport. It was used in 1824. 6c to Fall River.

The Collinsville Axe, third one shown, is a marvel of neatness. The postmaster was an opportunist in that he availed

This Greenwich, Ct., is unusual in h ing the outer frame composed of sm dots. So far as I have seen, this is only one of its type, though there probably many others. It gives anot type to your list of these old pmks. is hit in red in 1844, and the rate 12½c to Hartford, Ct.

The Haddam, Ct., is another odd t of frame used before stamps, and p haps well over into the stamp period.

The Stamford, Ct., is not an unu type, though it is somewhat more o than many of these early ellipses. so they apparently had no numbers to s into their cancellers, and made the in mss. as did many of the old-time to

EDITORIAL

THE beginning of an individual who attains success or of an institution that achieves leadership are accepted as fitting material for a story based on a survey of the origin and development of the man or band of men who started the structure. There have been scores of philatelic societies organized in this country, but few have taken root deeply enough not to be toppled over by the winds of adversity when they blew strongly, but one of these organizations survived after combatting adverse circumstances of a temporary nature, becoming sturdier after each crisis was passed until now it is regarded as a monument that will endure. If one were to account for this example of vitality, one would explain briefly that this condition is due to the need of the society and to the good judgment of its founders, and those who became identified with it in the earlier days. However, this opinion is not wholly acceptable if it dismisses without recognition, the loyal adherents who year after year worked unselfishly in the main to keep the society on the right track. From first to last, this organization has been fortunate in being able to attract to its standard followers of no ordinary capacity and ability, and under their guidance, it has become what is today, the most impressive national philatelic body in the world. We refer to the American Philatelic Society.

FOR some time before the American Philatelic Association (as it was first called) came into being in September, 1886, there was a movement that had for its goal, the founding of a national philatelic organization that would be truly representative of the best traditions of collecting. At that time, philately in a public sense was embraced in the centers of population, although there were many isolated collectors throughout the country who were known as a consequence of their activities of various kinds as recorded in the stamp press. The transactions of the local societies indicated that the members felt that a national union was desirable and the editors of the philatelic journals were favorable to the project. Cities, such as Denver, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Springfield, Mass., New York and Brooklyn, not to mention others brought forth suggestions for launching a national association, and soon there was an embarrassment of ideas and plans from many earnest supporters that ranged from feasible to the contrary. This preliminary period was one characteristic of the state of the collecting mind nearly forty-five years ago, and some of the planners did not stop with indulging their own opinions, but belittled the ideas of others if they did not run counter to their own. Even this controversial spirit could be said to prove the general interest in the proposal of the step of progression.

THE pioneer workers for a national society while opinionated to a degree that sometimes seemed inimical to accomplishment were sturdy folks in whom perseverance was a dominant trait. Traces of sectional jealousy seeped to the surface, and the question of geographical balance was much in mind. The division between dealer and collector was enlarged upon and all sorts of arguments were brought forth as the personal element was injected. As a consequence, action was delayed, but the delay worked no ill but rather impressed upon all the necessity for a nation-wide federation of philatelists. Still, the audience was becoming restless and there was a cry for the raising of the curtain, and so all the advocates heard with relief that steps had been taken to organize, and a meeting for that purpose was called to be held in New York in September, 1886. The first convention was held on September 13, 1886, when an election for officers was held and organization completed. Four of the five members of the Committee of Organization of the "National Philatelic Society of America" were present in person, as follows: T. F. Cuno of the New York society; S. B. Bradt of the Chicago society; George Henderson of the Philadelphia society; and C. H. Mekeel of the St. Louis society. The absentee was W. G. Whilden, Atlanta, Ga. The meeting was in the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms, 64 East Fourth Street, New York. It was estimated that there were four hundred members, prospectively, although few of them had paid their dues at the time. All those who voted for officers were taxed 25c each to defray the expenses of the committee; and 219 votes were cast. The following major officers were elected: President, J. K. Tiffany; Vice-President, R. R. Bogert; Secretary, S. B. Bradt; Treasurer, L. W. Durbin; and International Secretary, Joseph Rechert. The constitution afterwards adopted provided that the following officers were to be appointed by the official board, and so the votes for Superintendent of Exchange, W. H. Mitchell; Editor of Official Organ, J. M. Chute; Librarian, J. K. Tiffany; and Counterfeit Detector, J. M. Chute were not counted. Proxies to the number of ninety-eight were held by C. H. Mekeel, 38; S. B. Bradt, 11; R. R. Bogert, 10; and Geo. Henderson, 11; with 22 under the head of "Scattering." Mr. Theo. F. Cuno was elected permanent president of the convention, and C. H. Mekeel, secretary, and then the constitution was submitted for approval. The name as offered was Philatelical Society of America, but was adopted as American Philatelic Association; and all in all, the Constitution covered about five magazine pages. The work of the Organization Committee having been done, the first convention of the American Philatelic Association was held on the following day, or September 14, 1886, when 108 members were present or represented by proxy. The chair was taken by the President, R. R. Bogert, in Mr. Tiffany's absence, while S. B. Bradt acted as secretary. The proceedings were enlivened by the interchange of repartee that was stinging at times, if not exactly subtle, and we remember that one of those present at the historic gathering said that some of the verbal tilts were exciting, when pointed personal allusions were directed at each other by the debaters. Chicago was selected as the seat of the 1887 convention after an argument that was marked by plain talk. The vote was 76 to 61 in favor of Chicago which, as a city, was described by its opponents as being too far removed from the center of philately. Philadelphia was offered as a compromise or in lieu of that city, the old standby, Niagara Falls, but Mr. Bradt of Chicago saved the day, and his choice was confirmed. A stenographer had been hired to report the proceedings, and among the incidental remarks, we find such as these: "Mr. E. B. Sterling in response for calls for a speech made a few good remarks," and when Niagara Falls was proposed for the next convention, a member said: "No! we are not going through the rapids," whereupon another released the sparking rejoinder, "We seem to be anything but rapid here." At any rate, the convention adjourned to meet at the call of the president, in great good humor, thereby setting a precedent that has been observed by the A. P. S. for many decades. We believe that none of those who attended the 1886 convention are now alive, with one or two exceptions, but we have heard Mr. S. B. Bradt tell of his convention experiences on several occasions and his remarks made a deep impression on us. There are not a few active members who were present at the Chicago convention next year, and from that time on, there are several members who have vivid recollections of all the subsequent conventions, in the aggregate.

IN a society that has attained the longevity of the American Philatelic Society, it perforce must have passed through different periods. For some years, the A. P. S. was in a formative stage and even when it was firmly established, attention was concentrated on perfecting the internal workings of the organization. When it was incorporated, further protective measures were adopted until its financial basis was so sound that the eyes of members might be lifted to the horizon. The stern old ideas of the past have persisted in the minds of some of the members until other members think that the organization is more conservative than it really is. The policy that "it is better to be safe than sorry" has been the key-note for many years. The feeling holds that it is wiser to attempt to stabilize philately by providing a safe means for the disposal of stamps through a reliable sales department, and by issuing a journal of admitted merit than to engage in spectacular experiments. Of course, the best path to choose is one that runs between the two extremes, and it is likely that the changing times will instil a general desire on the part of the membership to take a more aggressive part in the making of stamp history of the day. With the great traditions of the past as a background and the seasoned judgment of long-time members on call, there is little likelihood that any grievous mistakes will be made in more actively promoting the claims of philately. The times are propitious for adventuring forth in the name of philately, and it is the duty of the society to take a prominent part in pressing measures for the good of our pursuit.

THE announcement that the American Philatelic Society will be entertained not only by its yearly convention in Twin Cities this summer, but also with a National Stamp Show, modeled after the Mid-Western Philatelic Exhibition of last May, which was held in Cleveland, comes to us as delightful news. As we look into the future, it is probably the inauguration of an era of yearly National Stamp Shows. We understand that the proposed exhibit, which will be national in scope, is being undertaken by members of the Twin City Philatelic Society, under the guidance of the combined committee, composed of representatives of the American Philatelic Society, the Association for Stamp Exhibits, and the American Stamp Dealers' Association. Having as it does the coöperation of the important units of organized philately, we are optimistic as to the coming Stamp Show.

STAMPLESS COVERS CANCELLATIONS

It is very pretty in a bright red used in 1825, and carrying the missive to New Haven for the 10c rate.

The type used in the next pmk., University of Virginia, is a very clean cut style, and seems to be of a more substantial metal than are the others of this group. The day and month are in mss., and the cover went to New Haven in 1829 for 25c.

Tolland, Conn., is a very odd shape, too. Hit in red, mailed in 1843. The day and month are in manuscript. This was a 10c rate to Monson, Mass. The design gives a very effective appearance as it is neatly hit on a clean cover.

Utica, N. Y., is one of the three or four towns which used this ellipse with inner ring. They are hit also in blue, though this one is in red. Have seen this stepping over onto the 3c 1851s, and they look pretty with the pmk. falling across the stamp, though they were at that time hit in black mostly. This particular copy is in 1830, and the cover had an additional red PAID in a little scroll which appears in another group of cancellations. The rate was 18¾ to New Haven.

Numerals On Old Covers

Many of the old covers have the figures of value, or their rate, in manuscript. It is unusual to see any of the fractionals in printed figures, yet in the group above is 12½. It is the only one that I have ever found, and is used on a Milton, Mass., cover to Norwich, Mass., in 1844. The color of the number is orange-red.

The WAY 11 in double ring circle is not uncommon on the old Mississippi River mail. It is in red, from Mobile, Ala., on Feb. 4, 1846, and carried the cover to Augusta, Ga. The "5" next to the Way 11 is in brownish-black, used from Guilford, Ct., to Hartford, on Aug. 12, 1848. The next figure, "5," is an odd shaped numeral, hit in red on a Tolland, Ct., cover, the Tolland being in a regulation red circle, used in 1850, and carrying the letter to Mansfield Center, Ct.

That little H(?)RR underneath the two 5s, is presumably the Housatonic Rail Road cancel, and is scarce. The letter is dated inside from Falls Village to Collinsville, Ct., hit in red, and mailed Mar. 25, 1847, 5c rate.

The Steamboat 5 is in bright blue, and handsome on the cover. Used from Norwich, Ct., to Mansfield Center, Ct., in 1850. The letters are very chunky, and unusual.

Notice this PAID 3 in the odd frame. It looks as though the 3 might have once been a 5, and the top shaped into the top of a 3 by hand. It is hit in red, on cover from Stafford Springs, Ct., Sept. 17, 1851, to Mansfield Center, Ct., where the old Chaffee Silk Mill was located.

That antiquated appearing "X" for 10c in a wavy frame is an odd old thing. Hit in black from Lima, Ind., Apr. 27, 1847, and this was the rate to Manchester, Ct.

The next "10" in the small saw-toothed ellipse is of course from Chicago, the 5 also is used in similar frame. This copy is hit in blue (other colors were used at different times), Nov. 3, 1850, to Hartford. A similar cover hit in red was used Aug. 22, 1847. Seems odd that the little town of Chicago was all out of 1847s a good part of the period when 47s were being worn! That next PAID in frame with scroll, is used on the Utica cover where the pmk. is shown in the group above. The "V" in double circle is hit in bright blue at Troy, N. Y., and shows the rate to Hartford, when this was in use, though the year date is missing.

Fincastle, Va., used this shaded "10" (also a "5"). It is hit in red, and makes a novel and effective numeral cancel. This particular letter left on Mar. 7, 1848, and went to Hartford. This last item, the 12½c has been mentioned at start of the article on Numerals.

All in all, the subject is interesting, and if you have anything that you think pretty enough to show, let it come along, and will try to show them in the near future. Dr. Chambers has sent me a wonderful wood-cut cancellation of a full rigged ship hit in red, and some day when time affords, I'm going to make a tracing of the thing for some future copy for the Forum. It is such items that make the hobby of "Stampless Covers" fascinating. Now we have a ship, and the locks of Windsor, Ct. Has anyone anything further that is eccentric enough to add to the group of oddities?

THROUGH the courtesy of Malcolm Johnson, Managing Editor of the "Youth's Companion," a Perry Mason Co. publication, we are permitted to illustrate the picture on the 2c Vincennes stamp. It is a striking design and the stamp will no doubt be a very popular one. The drawing originally appeared on a "Companion" cover in October, 1923, and was painted by Frederick C. Yohn. It was afterward presented to the Indiana Historical Society. Mr. Johnson, graciously assenting to the use of this picture, adds, "Years ago, when I was younger and an active collector, 'Mekeel's' was some what of a Bible to me. I am glad to see that it is still flourishing."

Junior Dictionary

Loja.—A province in the republic of Ecuador, famous for its cinchone bark. During 1902-3 all the stamps used in this province were overprinted "LOJA FRANCA" before being sold to the public. This was done in consequence of the loss of a large quantity of stamps from the government stores at Guayaquil during the course of a disastrous fire, which nearly destroyed that city in July, 1902. It was thought possible that the stamps had been stolen, and orders were issued to the Governors of all the provinces to apply control marks to all supplies of stamps on hand.

Loja Franca.—A control mark applied to all the stamps of Ecuador used in the province of Loja, Ecuador, in 1902-3.

Los Rios.—A province in the republic of Ecuador in which all the stamps used in 1902-3 were handstamped with the word "RIOS" and "19" before being placed on sale to the public for the reason explained under "Loja."

Lombardy Venetia.—The general title given to those Italian states which, at one time, formed part of the Austrian Empire. When stamps were first issued for Austria, a similar set, but with values in "centesimi" instead of "kreuzer" was issued for these states.

Cartilla Postal De Espana.—The inscription appearing upon a private postage stamp issued in Spain in 1870 for the special use of Senor Diego Castell for franking a work entitled "Cartilla postal de Espana"—literally "Postal primer for Spain." This was a small pamphlet of eighteen pages, containing instructions for addressing letters in the manner desired by the post office, and it was considered so useful that, in 1868, it was sent to 25,000 primary schools in Spain. In consideration of its general utility, its author was given the privilege of sending it free by post for a period of six months from January 1st to June 30th, 1870; Senor Castell prepared a special stamp, inscribed as stated with the name of the pamphlet, which franked all the copies of the work posted within the prescribed period.

Swedish "Losen"

This inscription, meaning "redemption money," or in other words a sum to be paid before the article is released, is shown upon the postage due stamps of Sweden.

To a Postage Stamp Designer

O stamp designer! Let your stamps
Be lovely little works of art,
For I once knew a boy whose stamps
Were stamped upon his heart;

And sickness and relentless pain
Laid waste his lovely little life,
Till clouding fever with his brain
Waged intermittent strife.

But when the clouds would roll aside
And bare the calmly radiant face,
His wasted hand would slowly glide
And take his treasures from their place,

And trembling hold before his gaze
The tiny pictures that you make,
Then life again its head would raise,
And death its quest forsake.

But once, before the storm's return,
"Keep these till I am well," he said.—
Still in my breast his treasures burn,
Stamped on my heart instead.

So, stamp designer, for his sake
Who loved so well your works of art,
Speak beauty through the things you make—
Yes, speak it from the heart.

Just make your letters short and to the point, but clear so that I will understand exactly what is wanted. For the best letter from each state and from each of the provinces of Canada I will give one of the large map stamps of Paraguay. So everyone get busy now and write that letter before you forget it. Send your letters direct to me and address them as follows: A. C. LEDUC, 151 W. Gay St., Red Lion, Penna. And on the lower left corner of the envelope write "Junior Contest."

GEORGIAN CORONATION STAMPS

By GEORGE H. GIDMAN.

(Paper from "Stamp Lover" featured by the WEEKLY)

Leete's Cartoon.

Under the title "The New Stamp", a contributor to the Evening News wrote as follows on June 28, 1911:—

Who is this whose face I see
On this garish penny stamp?
Is it someone known to me?
Much I wonder as I damp
The adhesive that I better
May affix it to my letter.

Is it Mr. Samuel,
P. M. G., who saves the cash?
As I do not know him well,
I declare it would be rash
To proclaim this blurry gent meant
For his counterfeit presentment.

Is it Asquith, Haldane, Grey,
Or, more probably, John Burns?
Really, now, I couldn't say,
I decide on all by turns,
But as each one is selected
He is just as soon rejected.

What! You say it is the King?
Do not talk such stuff, I beg.
No, I tell you, no such thing.
Don't you try to pull my leg,
For I saw King George quite lately,
And he can't have changed so greatly!

Die A

Both the ½d and 1d values were first ued on Coronation Day, 22nd June, 1, on the old paper with the crown termark. Two dies of each value were d, Die A being the original and Die the deepened die, which is a decided provement on the original one. In 3, Chas. B. Nissen discovered an inible way of distinguishing the two s, as per note in most catalogues with ich you are familiar.

n August, 1912, Die B of both values eared on paper wmkd. G v R, that is en months after the redrawn type lled Die II) had been issued. The mps on this paper appear to have been d for booklets only, hence their comative scarcity. Of the original type, refore, we have three distinct varie of each value, namely, Die A and B on crown paper and Die B on R paper.

he smiles and sarcasm which greeted stamp's appearance are well exssed in the cartoon by Alfred Leete ded "Lunchtime at the Zoo," in which S.P.C.A. inspector is represented ling the lion with a chop, while the vy wreath round the King's head has changed from laurel leaves to baas. One prominent newspaper said: rring those at the foot of the Nelson dlestick in Trafalgar Square there er was such a lion as that on the mp. The artist must have gone to a spaniel for its body and a spring ken for its soul."

nother newspaper contained a poem hich the author expressed his amazeit at the alteration in the King since aw him a short time before and then gests that perhaps it is not the King r all but Mr. Samuel (the P.M.G.) Mr. John Burns, both of whom were ded men and very like the stamp ograph.

emarks were also made about the face and drunken appearance of King. The direct result of this storm riticism was the withdrawal of the p in its original form and the subtion of the re-engraved type.

Die B

Probably all that was done was to deepen and extend the ditches of the original die so as to give finer lines, but what a difference it makes. Someone wittily summed it up by saying King George has had his hair cut and a wash and brush up and the lion has been fed. Now it is really not a photographic head but a poorly engraved one and, though an improvement, was by no means a success.

Plates made from this die were printed on the old crown paper and also on the G v R paper (type 1). In October, 1912, they also appeared on the G v R alternate or multiple paper, which is said to have been intended for National Health Insurance stamps. The border, however, is watermarked "Postage." Hence we have again three distinct varieties of both the halfpenny and penny stamps, distinguished by the watermarks with numerous shades of each.

In October, 1912, the penny stamp of the new series appeared and hence there were seven different penny stamps in use at the same time. A preliminary printing of both types of the penny was made at Somerset House, but they can only be distinguished by the control which has a full stop after the letter. The halfpenny was not printed at Somerset House.

There is a rarity running through nearly all the printings of these two issues known as the "no cross on crown" variety, due to a damaged plate. After looking through a couple of thousand stamps and failing to find a single copy I noticed one on the outside of the big envelope I was using as a storehouse. Since then I have been fortunate to find several different ones of both the halfpenny and penny varieties with good margins. These "no cross on crown" varieties should be fairly common. I have secured a block of twelve stamps with control B12 and three out of the twelve have no cross on the crown, and I know there were others on the same sheet, hence the catalogue price of 20/- each seems to be excessive.

UNPICKED COVERS, 3c 1851

By HENRY BATES.

o those collecting the 3c of 1851 the owing notes may be of interest, as ying to an unpicked lot of 300 dated es secured from an old pump foundry iddletown, Conn. The correspondence red only the years 1851 and 1852, was only saved with stamps attached, rently because the stamps are on the s of the letters themselves, which folded to form the mailing packets e era, no envelopes being used. The is of particular interest, therefore, it constitutes an authentic represen n of the stamps used during those years, the earlier plates and plate itions only being represented, esilly the interesting plate 3. The corredence came from many private users of pumps as well as from other business houses, so that over half the cancellations are of small towns, from Alabama to Iowa to Vermont.

The rarity of early year date cancellations is strikingly borne out, since none was found in this lot of 300. Only one fine copy of a red town cancel turned up, from West Harwich, Mass., but the red town overstrike sometimes occurred, the strike hitting the already cancelled stamp instead of being apart from it. Blue cancels, both town and cork, were fairly common, but no other colors appeared, save one or two suspicious ultramarines. Boston Paids were plentiful, and several other interesting combined town and paid cans, but no copy of the single word PAID across the stamp. Nor were there any examples of the other listed cancels, numerals, carriers, railroads, etc. So this typical lot of those two early years substantiates the high esteem in which many of the rare cancellations are held.

The richest prizes were found, as was to be expected, in the plate cuttings and varieties, there being present 19 of the 34 numbered varieties listed by Mr. Chase in the American Philatelist for March, 1928, and 13 of the combination recuts given in the same table. Several copies of each were found in many instances. The lot yielded 13 double transfers, including one "Gents for Cents" and two with double rosettes (upper and lower right). Five other shifts were strong and fine, the balance being weak. Among the rarer varieties as listed in Mr. Chase's table were 4 copies of No. 3, 1 copy of No. 7, 2 copies of No. 1, 1 copy of No. 15, 1 copy of No. 20 (?), 4 copies of No. 23, 2 copies of No. 25, 1 copy of No. 26, 6 copies of No. 27, 2 copies of No. 28, 1 copy No. 29, 3 copies No. 30, 1 copy 8 plus 11, 3 copies 11 plus 16, 2 copies 11 plus 16 plus 17, 1 copy 11 plus 17, 1 copy 11 plus 24, 1 copy 11 plus 25, 1 copy 11 plus 26, 2 copies 11 plus 27, 2 copies 12 plus 17, 1 copy 12 plus 28, 2 copies 16 plus 17, 1 copy 23 plus 24, and 1 copy 28 plus 30. It will be noted in the above there are only two with (strong) double frame lines, two with frame lines close right or left, nine with upper right label and diamond block joined, and two joined upper left. In addition two more copies were joined, both upper right and left. In regard to several (4) doubtful lower right joinings it is noted that a guide dot or similar may often be mistaken for such joining. In the triangles the lot yielded no five-line recuts, but four of the three-line upper left recut and many interesting combinations of the various four corners. Only one copy of Gash on Shoulder occurred, and one copy with frame line close to diamond block upper left.

The total yield of 300 stamps may be summarized as: 85 interesting plate varieties, 25 orange-browns, 122 ordinary copies superb to fair, and the balance poor. Many of the latter resulted from an unfortunate method used in folding the correspondence for filing, whereby many of the stamps were creased through. The circumstance detracts but little from the lot, however, from the standpoint of studying the early plates represented.—American Philatelist.

A. P. S. REVENUE UNIT

A. P. S. Revenue Unit No. 1 was organized two years ago, and at present has over forty members. Interest was evidenced from the start, and hardly a day passes but that we receive some interesting note or letter regarding Revenue stamps.

BEVERLY S. KING, Secretary.

The Unit membership embraces collectors of Revenues of all countries, though for the past year the greatest interest seems to be centered in the stamps of the United States. We have uncovered and listed some sixty varieties of Stitch Watermarks, and about thirty different Double Transfers. We have also been instrumental in having the 2nd, 3rd and 4th issues included in this year's Specialized Catalogue, and still keep unearthing new or little known varieties of various values, many of which will be seen in the next year's Specialized.

Both Mr. Hugh Clark and Mr. John Nicklin have been most courteous in giving the Unit the benefit of their personal assistance, as well as their Revenue stocks and records for study.

Several cracked plates and many major plate "imperfections" have been brought to light. Much of this information, while perhaps not new to all of us, has been locked up in various collections or filed away and almost forgotten.

It is gratifying to receive word from an A. P. S. member, who writes, "Though not now interested in Revenues, I ran across the enclosed the other day and am sending it to you for note in the Revenue Column of the American Philatelist." That sort of thing helps a lot, and we cannot get too much of it.

Only this past week we received a check list of Stitch Watermarks on the Byam, Carlton & Co., match wrappers, and from a collector who is not even a member of the A. P. S. We also have just received several items together with the stamps of double transfers on both Match & Medicine.

We might report among these few notes that we have just discovered an interesting shift in the lower part of the $3.00 Charter Party, 1st issue, heretofore unlisted.

We are hoping to plate some of the early Revenues and thereby locate the major shifts, as has been done with some of our early Postage stamps. This, however, is a job that takes time, so we cannot promise it at once. Both Dr. Robert F. Chambers, the Unit Chairman, and Mr. Philip Little, Jr., are at work on this.

Considerable interest has been aroused by our bringing to light, or at least Philatelic publicity, the 25-cent Entry of Goods with a strong, double outer line at the top. We have so far located seven of these stamps, and there is a controversy now on among the members as to whether this may not represent the sole double or triple inverted transfer of a Revenue stamp, or perhaps as one member says,—"It may have been caused by the impression being rolled in too high and a new one made after erasure." Who knows? Very likely nobody! But we always seem to be tackling some interesting question, and that makes Philatelic life worth while.

OMAHA AIR WRECK SOUVENIRS

By R. J. SCHWARZ.

On January 6, 1929, the Eastbound transcontinental air mail plane crashed at the Omaha air field, and ship and cargo were practically consumed by the resulting fire.

It may betoken a smirch of rapaciousness on the part of the average human that we prize most highly those articles which have cost the dearest in production, in an economic way or even in toll of life; and consequently those very few collectors who have any pieces of mail that were saved in the Omaha wreck prize them highly. Very little mail was saved; according to reports, only about the equivalent of one bag—and the San Francisco-Chicago planes are always heavily loaded since they pick up mail from four other routes.

The covers of which the following is a description are owned by members of the N. A. M. S. Both the covers are from C.A.M., route 4, and the one which was a regular 6¾ envelope is postmarked "Los Angeles, Jan. 4, 11 P. M., 1929," and the upper and bottom edges were badly burned, the stamp being more than two-thirds charred. The other is legal size official envelope without star but with an air mail label, and was s from Bakersfield on the 4th, and ba stamped at Los Angeles on the same da Both these pieces were received by addressees under separate official co from the Omaha post office, and ha stamped across the face in an une shade of magenta in two lines, "Damag By Fire, Jan. 6, Fort Crook, Neb." addition the Bakersfield cover had mimeographed slip about 2x8 inches companying it on which was writt "The inclosed piece of mail addressed or sent by you was damaged in airpla wreck at Fort Crook Air Field, Oma Neb., January 6, 1929. W. M. Col Vernon C. Batie, Post Office Inspecto Omaha, Neb."

SEVENTY YEARS OF PHILATELY

It is over seventy years since Edward Stanley Gibbons, then a boy of sixteen, started stamp-dealing as a spare-time business, at a desk in his father's drug-store in Plymouth, Eng.

Now the firm occupies extensive offices in the heart of London and employs over sixty persons in its world-wide business of catering for all the needs of stamp collectors.

We cannot now buy Cape Triangulars by the sack-full, as Mr. Gibbons did on one historic occasion, but our buyers are just as alert to seize the favourable opportunity, and as a result we have the finest stock of postage stamps in the world, any part of which can be sent on approval to collectors, through the post.

For over seventy years, service has been the key-note of our business. We give close attention to the individual stamp-needs of collectors. Our albums and other goods are continually being improved in quality and value. Our stamp catalogue is admittedly the finest in the world. Our magazine is read and enjoyed wherever stamps are collected.

This service is for you and your friends as well as for the tens of thousands of collectors who already make use of it.

Why not write us and let us tell you more about it?

WANT LISTS

We can send you new issues regularly if you will let us know your wants and limit of face value.

The normal price for a current shilling stamp of a British Colony is 32 cents. Foreign, pro rata.

DIRECT TO YOU

Each time that a new city is added to our wonderful air mail system, the Government provides the postmaster of the new-comer with a special first flight cancellation, which is applied to all letters mailed the first day. The collecting of these first flight, or first day, covers, with their official cachets, has developed into one of the most popular branches of present-day philately. The Government has done a great deal for the hobby by varying style, size and color of the cancels, so as to make them especially attractive.

These Government cachets are not to be associated with the many rubber stamps which are being used by contractors, chambers of commerce, clubs, individuals, etc., for application to covers in connection with some more or less important local event. In the years to come, the covers bearing the private rubber stamps are very likely to fall by the wayside, but the thousands of collectors of officially recognized covers (those which bear the official cancellations) assure the continued popularity and increasing value of the latter.

If you are not collecting first flight air mail covers, now is the time to start, while all of the varieties are still available. If you have been attempting to make your own first flight covers, now is the time to stop, — and let us prepare the covers for you. We can do a better job. We guarantee that each cover will reach you and replace any that go astray en route to you.

At a charge of ONLY 20c PER COVER, including all postage, we will address and mail direct to you a first flight cover from each city of the U. S. as it is added to the air mail system. These covers consist of air mail envelopes with either red or blue borders or red and blue stripes, as you prefer. The envelopes are six inches long, the popular, neat, small size which takes up a minimum of space in your album. They are franked with picked copies of air mail stamps. We use no stamps that are damaged or have straight edges.

A deposit of $2.00 is all that is necessary to bring you this service. You pay for the covers after you receive them. When you stop the service, the deposit is sent back to you.

Just send two dollars and say that you want service "D". With the next air mail route started after receipt of your deposit, you will begin to enjoy the thrills provided by first flight covers, — Government-recognized mementos of the history and romance of the commercial conquest of the air.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

LEEWARD COLOR CHANGES, 1928

By HARRY E. HUBER.

By an Order in Council of January 9, 1922, the rate on post cards to all destinations beyond the Leeward Islands Federal Colony, was raised from 1d to 1½d, as from February 1, 1922, and this remained effective until by Statutory Rules and Orders No. 21 of October 8, 1926, the former rate of 1d was restored to cards addressed to the British Empire, and to the U. S. A. To "other foreign destinations" the reduction was not made to apply until August 1, 1928 (by S. R. & O. No. 10 of April 13, 1928).

Rates of Postage

The Rates of Postage Rules, 1926, Amendenmt Rule, 1928 (No. 2) dated April 13, 1928, made by the Governor-in-Council under section 6 of the Post Office Act (No. 9) 1909.

1. Short Title.

These Rules may be cited as the Rates of Postage Rules, 1926, Amendment Rule, 1928 (No. 2).

3. Commencement.

These rules shall come into operation on the first day of August, 1928.

Signed, E. D'A. TIBBITS,
Clerk of the Council.

When the Order of January 9, 1922, was passed, increasing the post card rate to 1½d (from February 1, 1922), a color change was necessary to permit of red, the color then held by the 1d stamp, being transferred to the 1½d, since by regulations of the Universal Postal Union, the postage stamp denoting the foreign post card rate must be in red, just as that for foreign letters must be in blue.

The 1d red of the Federal series, as well as of the Presidential series, was gradually replaced by the 1d printed in violet.

Definite stamps of 1½d denomination were then lacking from the Federal series, and from the Antigua, Montserrat and Br. Virgins Presidential series, but this was remedied in Antigua and Montserrat, by orders of January 9, 1922, and March 24, 1922, and the stamps issued on February 1, 1922, and July 13, 1922, respectively. Not until the letter rate to the British Empire and the U. S. A. was reduced from 2d to 1½d (by Statutory Rules and Orders No. 5 of March 1, 1926, effective April 1, 1926), was a 1½d denomination stamp added to the Federal series (by Orders No. 10 of May 17, 1926), and to the British Virgins Presidential series (by Orders No. 23 of Oct. 8, 1926). The Federal 1½d red was issued Sept. 10, 1926, and the British Virgins 1½d red on January 24, 1927.

A tabulation of the color changes in these two denominations, subsequent to February 1, 1922, is given below:—

Antigua, King's Head and Presidential Seal.

	Date of Issue
1d red, script	July 1, 1921
1½d orange, script	Feb. 1, 1922
1d violet, script	Sept. 27, 1923
1½d red, script	Aug. 26, 1926

Dominica, King's Head and Presidential Seal.

1d violet and black, script	Mar. 1, 1923
1½d red and black, script	Mar. 1, 1923

These stamps replaced the 1d red, and 1½d orange, script CA, in the View of Roseau type, issued in 1921.

Montserrat, King's Head and Presidential Seal.

1d red, script.	Does not exist.
1½d orange, script	July 13, 1922
1d violet, script	Apr. 5, 1923
1½d red, script	Apr. 5, 1923
1d red, script	Jan. 2, 1929
1½d light brown, script	Jan. 2, 1929

St. Kitts-Nevis, Kings' Head and Presidential Seal.

1d red, script	July, 1921
1½d orange, script.	Does not exist.
1d violet, script	Aug. 21, 1922
1½d red, script	Aug. 15, 1925
1½d light brown, script	Jan. 2, 1929

Br. Virgin Islands, King's Head and Presidential Seal.

1d red, script	June 15, 1922
1½d orange, script.	Does not exist.
1d violet, script	Jan. 24, 1927
1½d red, script	Jan. 24, 1927
1d red, script, re-issue.	Oct. 22, 1928
1½d light brown, script	Oct. 9, 1928

Leeward Islands Federal series, Dies 1888, P. & R. type.

1d red, script	Oct., 1921
1½d orange, script.	Does not exist.
1d violet, script	Aug. 21, 1922
1½d red, script	Sept. 10, 1926
1d red, script, re-issue	Jan. 2, 1929
1½d light brown, script	Jan. 2, 1929

With the 1d universal post card restored as from 1st August, 1928, no other change in colors was necessary, the 1d red and 1½d light brown, Postage and Revenue stamps were announced by the Crown Agents in their Bulletin of July-September, 1928, as on order for the Leeward Islands and Montserrat, and in their Bulletin for the fourth quarter as having been dispatched along with 1d and 1½d light brown stamps for the British Virgins, and 1½d light brown for St. Kitts-Nevis.

Upon receipt of the stamps in the new colors, the stocks on hand of the 1d violet and 1½d red Federal stamps were returned to Antigua, for destruction. The Montserrat 1d violet and 1½d red were withdrawn and destroyed at Plymouth.

The 1d violet and 1½d red of the British Virgins Presidential series were not to be had at Tortola after the first week of October, 1928. The 1d red and 1½d light brown (from plate 1, in the King's Head and Presidential Seal type), were received at Roadtown on October 2nd, 1928; the former was issued immediately, not being considered a new variety, but the 1½d light brown was withheld from sale until October 29, 1928.

The 1d red and 1½d light brown, from plate 1, Montserrat, were issued at Plymouth, on Jan. 2, 1929; the Federal 1d red and 1½d light brown, from plate 16, were issued on the same date in the several Presidencies of the Federal Colony. The 1½d light brown, plate 1, St. Kitts-Nevis, was also issued on Jan. 2, 1929.

WATERBURY NIGHT AT COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Wednesday, February 6th, was quite a gala night at the Collectors Club when a strong delegation from the Waterbury Stamp Club visited us. This delegation consisted of the Rev. A. T. Gesner and Messrs. A. A. Baldwin, I. W. Day, John P. Elton, L. A. Hall, G. C. Ham, O. C. Hill, L. C. Leonard, J. V. Reid, M. Taschenberger and W. D. Pierson.

Our visitors were entertained at dinner at the New York Athletic Club, about fifteen members of the Collectors Club joining the party. After dinner we all drove back to the Collectors Club, when the following interesting displays were shown by some of the visitors:

The Rev. A. T. Gesner

showed United States and Canada, early issues on covers, among them a number of scarce interesting items such as New York 3c blue City Dispatch—New York 5c black, 1845—a few interesting Locals, well tied on, and a number of general issues. 5c and 10c of 1847, and in the later issues interesting cancellations such as one cover showing the Potomac Steamboat cancellation. A fine specimen of the 1c 1857, Type II, broken plate was also shown on cover. The Canada stamps included a number of 3d and 6d from an original find, and a fine specimen of the 10c black-brown.

Mr. W. D. Pierson

showed a highly specialized and well worked out collection of early issues of Great Britain, the chief item of interest being a marvelous series of charts of the early issues arranged to show the alphabets, papers, perforations and watermarks, and other important varieties at a glance. The layout of these charts was very interesting, especially in the Perkins, Bacon stamps. Mr. Pierson also showed some interesting varieties he had discovered in the penny of the King Edward VII issues.

Mr. I. W. Day

showed a special collection of United States Revenues and Department stamps. Amongst the Revenues we noted a 6c Proprietary with full gum. First issue $200.00, both imperf. and perf. Second issue $500.00. A very fine copy in the Proprietary set of the $5.00 on violet paper, and also on green paper, and a strong lot of the later issues. In the United States Department stamps there was a magnificent set of the four high values State, complete—a fine 2c Navy Error, and all the regular issues complete in very fine condition.

Mr. O. C. Hill

showed an extraordinary collection of United States 3c of the issues 1851 to 1857, all on entire covers, and showing dated cancellations of every day of the year for a whole year. He was luckily able to make this interesting collection from a great find he made some time ago. In his exhibit there was also a few interesting Locals and early United States, such as New York, 1845, 5c on cover, 10c, 1847, and a remarkable series of rare New York cancellations, one of the finest lots I have ever seen at the Club.

Mr. L. A. Hall

showed a collection of the first stamp issued in every country in the world as far as he had been able to secure them, all on entire original covers. It is surprising how difficult it is to find covers of some of the small countries in which such difficulty would hardly be looked for. Among others that we noted were a fine specimen of the Brazil 60c—Cape of Good Hope four 1d of the first issue used on one cover—Hungary lithograph on cover, and so on.

Mr. G. C. Ham

showed a remarkably interesting collection of scarce and well selected Patriotic Covers of the United States arranged in groups such as, Flags—Eagles and Flags—Eagles, Globes and Flags—Presidents—Soldiers—Soldiers with Flags—Soldiers on Horseback—Sailors—Farewells between Soldiers and Sweethearts—Series of Envelopes of the 6th Division and of the 19th Connecticut Regiment. Long envelopes with interesting view of camp on the back, and a magnificent series of stickers with Patriotic designs. Among other very interesting Patriotics was one inscribed "Corn not Cotton," also views of "Tremont & Cochrane," "Lincoln & Hamlin." Mr. Ham also showed a few interesting covers of Confederate Locals such as one cover with a pair of the two types of the 5c Athens, Baton Rouge, Petersburg, Knoxville, Memphis, and others, all on original covers.

Mr. J. P. Elton

showed a most remarkable and most complete collection of the rare Waterbury cancellations, and gave us a very interesting account of Mr. Hill, the Postmaster of Waterbury, who made these designs. As Mr. Elton has been good enough to write an article for our Journal with photographs of some of the more interesting pieces, we are not describing this exhibit here as details will appear in his article.

The meeting was voted a great success and a wish expressed that these Interclub visits might be continued.

PRECANCEL SPECIALIZATION

A. F. GAMBER, Valley City, No. Dakota.

This form of precancel collecting received its greatest impetus between 1918 and 1923, when the Aeroplane, Victory, Pilgrim and Harding issues appeared. The multiplication of varieties resultant from the regular issues of 1917 and 1922 probably had something to do with this as well. In addition the idea of specialization was ballyhooed in the precancel press at that time. The result of all these factors was the beginning of several kinds of specialization, one sort of which has declined very perceptibly, another is barely holding its own at present, and still another has grown faster than any of the others ever grew, until today it leads all precancel collecting.

The one which has declined so noticeably is that of Commemorative specialization. The basic reason for this was the altogether too high prices given these items in the Precancel Catalog. This in turn led many collectors and about as many non-collectors to seek favors from postal clerks, thus overloading the market with too many varieties of questionable pedigree. The Commemorative precancel simply became so top-heavy that it collapsed under its own weight, and today that whole species of precancels, almost without exception, is a drug on the market, regardless of catalog prices. Nor is there any indication that it will come back for some considerable time to come, if indeed it ever does. For these reasons I can't very well name any outstanding Commemorative collections. Were I to do so, I fear that those named would call me down for exposing their earlier fatuousness. No one likes to be reminded that he once fell for a skin game. Nuf sed.

The form of specialization which is barely holding its own against general collecting is that of specialization in single states or groups of states. Those engaged in this make up a goodly proportion of active precancel collectors, though at present there is quite a noticeable trend toward general collecting. I have space to do no more than skim over the list of state and group specialists.

The most closely specialized states at present are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Washington and Oregon. The groups of states most popular are Southeastern, Southwestern, Northwest Plains, and Pacific Northwest. Two states that everybody is off are New Hampshire and Vermont. The reason for this is the dirty work done by one or two men in these states, in having a lot of favor work done by various offices there.

Among the state specialists let me name J. R. Boker, a junior, who quite emphatically leads the large group interested in New York, though he has been collecting only about two years; Mrs. N. R. Foerster, whose five years or so of intensive collecting have put her at the head of the colony of New Jersey collectors. H. T. Updegrove's application of the go-getter tactics to precancels that he applies in his highly successful insurance business, makes him the peer of all collectors of Pennsylvanias. I hardly know whether to award the palm of honor in Floridas to Richard Gardner or to M. L. Johnson. They are both on their toes for them all the time, and I'd say they're just about neck and neck. Richard is decidedly a junior, so far as I know he has the best specialized state collection in existence, formed by so young a collector. Al Burns once had the best Indiana collection known, but today it rests partly in the general collections of W. H. Field and the writer, and partly in the recently started Indiana collection of Al Jones. In spite of his recent start, I believe Jones leads the Indiana crowd. In Illinois there is very keen competition between G. E. Ulrich and Adolf Gunesch. The latter must have put on considerable steam during the past year if he has now what I know Ulrich had a year ago. The best Iowa collection reposes in the National Museum in Washington, put there by Walter L. Gates, whose precancel donations to that institution were the occasion of a moronic editorial (idiotorial) by some office boy in the employ of the New York Sun a while ago. I understand Gates has started another Iowa collection, but it will have to be good to approach the one owned by R. J. Tarpy. Two words sum up the very best in Wisconsin—Alvin Krause. Dr. Rolf Hoyde has the edge on his confreres interested in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, mainly because he was first on the ground. Robert Baughman outclasses all other Kansas collectors by several leagues. Missouri has many devotees, probably Walter C. Black leads them. In Washington and Oregon it is a close race between E. J. Newcomer and A. A. Johnson, with the latter probably a short nose ahead.

There has been quite a flurry over city type coils during the past two or three years, due mainly to the publicity given them by Al Jones and Gunesch. Since these eminent publicists have both deserted that field for others, the palm of coil honor reposes in the general collections of W. H. Field and the writer, with very little to distinguish them in point of excellence.

During the last two years there has been a decided reawakening of interest in the earlier issues ('79 and '87 down to 1908), especially in the dated and bar varieties. Allan R. Brown of New Rochelle leads us all in these.

Specialization in denominations is not quite as popular as it was a few years ago. The reason is partly lack of material to keep the collecting spirit up to the proper pitch, partly lack of variety, and in less degree the dirty work of a few well-known favor seekers. The f denomination really to be specialized the old 13c apple green. In this f Francis Engel leads all. The writ collection of 14c is superior to any ot known to him. I am not aware of really outstanding collections of 13c, 25c. I know of some that are touted remarkable, but since they do not eq the numbers of these denominati found in some of the larger general c lections, they are not taken seriou Hence my contention that this form specialization is on the wane.

But the form of specialization t wins the fur lined bath tub, that le them all by many a mile, is that of reau Prints. I doubt very much if phase of stamp collecting has grown fast as has this, both in number of lowers and in market value of the sta collected. Everyone collects Bur Prints, not to do so is a mark of odd But not everyone has even a majority the desirable ones.

Dr. Walton I. Mitchell leads the w known world in Bureau Prints. Sta ing as soon as the first ones appeared, has consistently kept ahead of every To name the fine Bureau collecti would be to take up half a column this paper, but two in particular sho be named—that of W. H. Stouffer, cause of the physical handicaps un which it has been formed, and that C. A. Carroll, because of the rare bea of the mounting and writing up. C lectors of Bureaus go in for blocks four of the ordinaries, and for four five varieties of the coils, and tho there are only a bit over 1,100 varie in existence at present, these highly s cialized collections already fill seve volumes.

But don't misunderstand the impli tion of that statement, "only a bit o 1,100 varieties." Start out today round them all up, and thereby com yourself to the dizziest philatelic ch you've ever undertaken.

Taking the precancel field as a wh then, outside of Bureaus there is a p ceptible trend away from the vari forms of specialization, toward gene collecting. The reasons for this mainly the amount of favorable publi given general collecting during the two years or so, and the inevitable fl ging of collecting interest after the s cialized collection has reached a cert point. More and more, specialists branching out into larger fields, or bui ing a general collection alongside th specialized one. During the next years I look for general collecting to come more and more the rule, speciali tion the exception.

OME UNCHRONICLED CANADIANS

/ MAJOR HARRY MORELL, Shellsburg, Ia.

The following items of some unchroni-d Canadians which I have selected om my collection, may prove interesting those who specialize in this country:—

(1) No. 105 Scott. 2c carmine. Im-rforate. A used specimen shown. Al-ough a single, it has wide margins on borders. This specimen is without ubt an unperforated stamp. Generally eaking, however, such a stamp has ver been authorized in this form, but ully no trustworthy information can be and that such a stamp has not been ued, either by accident or design.

(2) Coil Stamp. 2c dark green. Perf. vertically. A single unused specimen own. This stamp is not catalogued listed anywhere.

(3) No. 307 Scott. War-tax 2c + 1c own Type II. Imperforate. A mint r shown. One sheet only of this stamp s issued imperforate. Very rare.

(4) No. 117 Scott. Coil stamp. 1c k green perf. 12 horizontally. Large e perforations. A vertical strip of ht mint shown. These were issued from the Toronto P. O. for a few days, at the most, during 1917.

(5) 1c yellow type A43 Scott; 2c green, type A43 Scott; 3c carmine, type A43 Scott. Imperforate x perf. 8 horizontally. A vertical pair of each, mint, shown. Only 22 sheets were issued of the first printing of the above. This printing on thick paper, and the 1c and 2c are in rather different shades from the later printing. The 3c comes in this printing only, and is rare. (S.G. description of these.)

(6) Duplex coil stamps, 1912-24. Each consisting of two separate parts. 7 different pairs, mint, shown. For instance, in a vertical pair the upper stamp has a lower straight edge border, which is attached to the lower stamp and perforation. In a horizontal pair, the right hand stamp with straight edge is attached to the left hand one, which provides the perforation with it. I have never come across a description of these stamps, which I believe are quite common, though interesting to special collectors. I know of no other stamp manufactured in this manner and have named them "Duplex," as consisting of two parts.

I am fortunate in having in my collection a complete set of mint pairs of the "Quebec" issue. These sets are rare. Two sheets only were issued: a third set was either stolen or destroyed. A set was sold in New York during 1927 for $147, and recently a set brought over $200.

With the exception of item No. 5, which were obtained in London, and the Quebec set, none of the specimens described above are catalogued or listed anywhere as far as I can find.—Canadian Philatelist.

GLEANINGS—

SOMETIME ago we received from Mr. J. L. Riedel, Nurnberg, Germany, a copy of the London Times of Dec. 29, 1929, in which the issues of the year of 1928 were reviewed in a column article, ending with the special Spanish issue showing the effigies of Pope Pius XI, and the king of Spain for "Restoring the Catacombs of St. Praetextatus and St. Damascus, and by express authority of the Pope engraved and printed in England."

"IN Collier's Weekly, Feb. 16th number, there is a story entitled, "The Chief of the Loch McCree," which has a stamp collector for the hero of it, by Albert Richard Wetjen. It is interesting reading and shows that the public is taking notice of the hobby."—A. I. LAWRENCE.

BLOCKS BLOCKS BLOCKS

FOR THE FIRST TIME OFFERED

King George—Type #43 Scott, Type #44 Gibbons—1c green, 2c red, 3c brown, 1c yellow, 2c green, 3c carmine. The 1c and 2c are in a complete sheet of 6 stamps each. The 3c are in a complete sheet of 4 stamps each.

These complete blocks present a peculiarity of perforations quite distinct from any others issued, and occur in this series only. They are uncatalogued and obsolete, and are difficult to obtain in this form.

The large number of collectors interested in Canadians in block form has created a great demand, and we venture the opinion that few, if any, collections contain this complete series, which is offered for the first time by any dealer.

A PHILATELIST---And How He Gets That Way

By H. M. BREHM, Appleton, Wisconsin.

Say, fellers, did ya ever meet up with one of these here philatelist-guys—you know, stamp-collectors? Well, I did, last night, and it's a wow! As we was sitting down to supper, my missus says to me, We're going over to the new neighbors for a little bridge tonight. Fine, says I, because I loves the game, and because the new neighbors sure looks like nice folks to me, what little I'd seen of them, just passing the time of day, as you say, since they first moves in. He's a salesman of some kind, I understand, and looks like he knows his business, and minds it, too—you know, a regular guy, what I mean. He seems forever busy, too, when he's home; many the night, me coming home late, after midnight, I sees him still busy over some big books at his desk in their sun-parlor. Seems now like my missus has gotten kinda friendly with his missus via the back door, so we're headed over to cement the neighborly affection.

She says to come early, says my frau, so we ambles over about 7.45. Gee, their house is nice and neat and comfy-like, and they're sure a friendly team. It ain't long before the women-folks is comparing baby-food and permanent waves and things, so the neighbor says to me, would I like to look at his stamps for a few minutes, till the girls get up to date with the day's news? I didn't get him, but I'm always agreeable in company, so I says, Sure, and he herds me over to his desk in the sun-parlor and says, Pull up a chair and make yourself at home.

Then he opens a small steel cabinet, like we have 'em down at the office, and it's full of thick books, and he brings out three of 'em, brown ones, labelled "Postage Stamps." Then I gets the idea—he's a stamp-collector—and I says to him, Say, my oldest boy is some collector, too; he's got over 350 stamps from all over the world, so he tells me. Is that so? That's fine, says the neighbor.

Then he starts paging through those books, kinda carelesslike, just here and there and everywhere, because the time is short, I guess, and do you know, fellers, he has thousands of stamps in those books—some of the queerest ones you ever laid lamps on—printed in all kinds of foreign languages, with funny pictures and all kinds of shapes and sizes; great big ones, little tiny ones, square ones, oblong ones, triangle ones, and gosh knows what else. Finally I says to him, Goodness, neighbor, has you corralled all the stamps in the world? and he says, quietlike, Oh, my, no. There's hardly 20,000 stamps in these albums; they represent my maiden-effort and are just a general collection which I expect to give to my boy as soon as he is a little older—it will give him a nice little start in the game. Can you feature that, I ask you?—only 20,000 stamps for a modest start for the little feller?

But the neighbor is broadcasting again, in that gentle voice of his—I'm specializing now, mostly in United States mints and a few countries overseas, says he, and with that he hauls out another big album, which he lays on the desk with loving care, as my missus would say, and opens it to the first page. It says UNITED STATES on top, and he has only one stamp on the whole page, though it's marked off for many more. That's the oldest U. S. stamp I own, says he. It's a 5-center, with a picture of Ben Franklin, if I remember right, which he says was in use about 1850-something-or-other.

Gosh, that's an old-timer, sure, I says, and just reaches over to touch it, but the neighbor heads me off, pronto. Please, don't never touch a valuable stamp with your fingers, he says, you might injure it somehow—and he brings out a little pair of tweezers from his vest-pocket and very carefully turns over that stamp for my benefit. There, that's the only way a stamp should ever be handled, says he. Why, is it so valuable? I comes back, and he reaches for a little fat book marked "Catalogue" and opens it right in front. Let's see now, says he, here you are—number 28, $35.00—$8.00 Tha means that this stamp, which is U. S stamp number 28, is worth $35.00 in mint or unused condition, or $8.00 cancelled, o used, like this one here.

Goshalmighty, says I, $8.00 for that lit tle square inch of old paper? Think o that! Well, that's not much money, say the neighbor, as money goes for old an valuable stamps. One of the oldest U. S was sold at auction lately for $12,000.0 and probably the most valuable stamp i the world (from some British colony i South America, I think he said it was brought $32,500.00 recently. Featur that!

Gosh, do they know the price of a the U. S. stamps in that there catalogue I asks. Yes, says he, not only all th U. S., but every known stamp in th world is listed, numbered, illustrated an priced in that little book; probably ove 150,000 of them. Ohmeohmy!

On the second page in that album h has three stamps, on the third page h has about a dozen, and thereafter eac page is pretty nearly full—all queer look ing stamps, nothing like I can remembe at all. Now, from 1893 on, my collectio is all in mint, says the neighbor, meanin they are not used, just like you buy the from the post office. He explains tha stamps is usually more valuable in min only those real old ones are very hard t get that way, and cost "beaucoup" cas Well, these here mint stamps begin t look a little more familiar to your Unc Dudley, although I hadn't no idea th there was so many of them, all differen right here in our own country.

He shows me one pair of 2-center which he says both stamps are differen although in a pair, not torn apart. H brings out a magnifying glass and says look at the triangles in the upper corne there's where the difference is; but guess I'm dumb that way, because th sure look alike to me. On another pa I asks him, What's the diff betwe those two stamps, and he says, It's the color; one is carmine and the oth is carmine-rose, whatever that may b Well, neighbor, your eyesight is su better than mine, says I.

I sees quite a few stamps with ext little tags on 'em, all with little color numbers, and I asks him what they mea He says those are plate-numbers, whi is printed on the margins of full shee of stamps and indicates which plat Uncle Sam used when he printed t stamps. What does he care? says Some collectors, says the neighbor, nuts about plate-numbers and wants the on all their stamps. Nuts is righ thinks I.

Next he shows me a bevy of pur 3-centers that all looks alike to me. S that stamp, he says, and that one? S any difference? No. I sure couldn But he tells me one is worth $6.00 a the other one 6 cents. Says the diffe ence is only in the perforation; the o stamp is perforated with 10 little hol every inch, or centimeter, or somethin while the other one owns 11 holes in t same mileage. Can you beat that, I a you—$5.94 more just because of one l tle hole more or less? That's wor than golf, I'll tell the world.

On the next page he has a flock of centers, all in a bunch, not yet torn apa Do you see anything peculiar about a of these stamps? pipes the neighbor, a I'm a sonofagun if one of those 2-cente wasn't a 5-center, right in the middle the bunch! That's one of your Un Samuel's famous 5-cent errors, explai he, with a laugh, and says that the figu "5", read upside-down, like on the d looks an awful lot like the figure " upside-down, and that likely that's ho the government printer made the mista in his set-up. Maybe he had a lit drink the night before, I suggests. T neighbor says that little block is wor about $15.00, and that he's angling f another block with another error li that, that the printer made, but has had a nibble yet.

By and by he turns another page a says, Now we come to all the comme atives, meaning special stamps issued e for the Chicago Worlds Fair and ch, and my, what a bunch he had.

ever knew they issued $1, $2, $3, $4 and -stamps for that fair, did you? He d a double flock from the Panama-cific expo, too. Difference in perfotion again, says he; one set is perfoed so-and-so, and the other set is rforated thus-and-thus. Let's see what e difference in values is. Here we e—$2.57 for this set and $7.95 for that . Boys, ain't nature grand?

Then he points to another stamp—a -center this time, which he says our n post office sold about 10 years ago ht over the counter; now it's worth 0.00, he says, and explains that it's just mb scarce now, and that some 50,000 mp-collectors in this country wants a y.

He shows me pages of coil-stamps, you w the ones we buy at the hotels, 2 a nickel, and try and get the other t; a full-page of special-delivery mps, one of them worth $8.00, I think says; postage-due stamps, stamps we d in Cuba and Porto Rico during the anish-American war, stamps we are ng now in the Philippines and down the Panama Canal, those red parcelt stamps we used for a couple of rs, air-mail stamps and gosh knows at else!

Then he brings out yet another book, ich is full of what he calls blocks-of-ur—you know, four unused stamps, l together in a block, 2 by twice. Says s is probably the latest way of collect-stamps and that each block is quite it more expensive than 4 times the e of a single stamp. I wonder howe—stamps is stamps, married or diced, ain't they? He apologizes for ing only about $250.00 worth so far—s he has been so busy collecting his gle stamps and hasn't given much seis thought to these here blocks-ofr as yet. Ye Gods and little fish-ks!

My head begins to go round like a pin-eel, and I asks the neighbor how can keep so calm and collected and all h all them there stamps in his noodle, he just smiles and says it's his hobby.
's, however, that he makes a regular e business of it too, and darned if he
't pull out a little ledger and show where he keeps books on the pesky e stamps! Yessirree, shows me right the book where he's invested about 00.00 in stamps in the last 5 years or which a year ago catalogues at about 00.00, and this year at over $3,700.00.
s he feels sure he can sell his stamps
t any time on 30 days notice or so, ugh regular brokers and auctions, that one concern down in Chicago
s in stamp-collections as collateral loans out real money on the same.
you feature that, I asks you?

e finally says he is specializing in nt 7 or 11 foreign countries, too, but be we'd better get to our bridge-e now, as the girls is getting kinda atient. Sure, he and my missus s us pretty,—guess I was A. W. O. L. t of the evening, seeing blocks-of-and triangles instead of spades and ps, and my missus bawls me out ething fierce after we gets home, for g such a numbskull.

ell, I told my oldest kid this A. M., re I left, to dig out his stamps after er tonight—nix on his date with that —boys of his age should spend some ings at home yet, and I, his father, oing to be there and see what he's y got in stamps; not that I'm inter-l personally at all, you understand—goodness gracious no!

n, yes, the neighbor tells me that recently organized a little stamp-here in town, and I'm a sonofagun of the biggest local business-men belong, and two of them my brothiwanians—feature that!

A RESOLUTION has been introduced in Congress authorizing the issue of a "Special Series of Postage Stamps," the denomination of which shall be 2c, to commemorate the founding of the First Building and Loan Association in the United States. Thanks to Bertram F. Linz for copy of the resolution.

THE STERLING STAMP CO., which advertised blocks U. S. No. 483 (3c 1916 imperf.) with orders for Scott's Standard or Specialized catalogs, were obliged to withdraw their offer on the first of February. The advertisement first appeared with the advent of the Standard catalog.

W. T. WILSON, Birmingham, England has been entrusted with the sale by auction of the famous "Odfjell" collection of Norway, which won a Gold Medal at the London Exhibition, 1923, Great Gold at Oslo, 1924; and Gold at New York, 1926. The collection will be offered at auction by H. R. Harmer in May.

"ENCLOSED please find my check for $5.00 for a five-year renewal. This will make my second five-year subscription. I find the paper very interesting and well up-to-date. I think my old friend Charlie Mekeel would feel proud if he could see the paper as it is now."—HERBERT E. KENDALL.

THE meeting of the New York Precancel Club Friday, February 1, was notable in that two stamp men of prominence were present and gave short talks. E. B. Power gave a lecture on Paul Wise's burlesque analysis of the 4c green. It was a laughable take-off. V. W. Rotnem, publisher of the Standard Precancel Catalog, suggested a plan of getting members that may be adopted by the Club. One of Hoover's Precancel Auctions followed. This Club meets on the 1st and 3d Friday of each month at the Hoovers' office, 35 W. 33d St., N. Y. City.

"YOU seem to have made good use of the article on stamps and religion which I sent you recently, and here are two more, one from our issue of January 26, and the other February 9. These articles have been running fairly regularly on our church page, and have attracted quite a bit of attention from both ministers and stamp collectors in the city. W. W. T. Squire, director of the Junior Achievement Foundation here, has a small nucleus for a promising class of beginners, while a larger and more advanced group is being promoted among the pupils of the Nathan Hale Junior High School—by a Mr. Searle, I believe. There are one or two other similar groups, while the city seems to be filled with adult collectors who have not organized, and find it difficult to do so. There are scores who are enjoying philately quietly, and it has one good feature—every so often I discover another collector, and it gives me a warm feeling that the world is a pretty fair place after all."—K. E. PARKER.

STILL THEY COME

More magnificent items have just been received to add to my wonderful stock and this includes an important sending from abroad. There is a magnificent France, one franc vermilion, issue of 1849 on the entire cover, with blue town postmark. Several of the other values on entire cover are available showing rare cancellations. There is one particularly choice little lot of early French covers used from abroad, including some from Shanghai, Beyrouth, Constantinople, Salonique, etc. Another sending consists of upward of twenty to twenty-five covers not expensive, but exceedingly desirable of the Seebeck issues of Nicaragua, Honduras, Salvador, Ecuador used on the entire cover at the time they were current.

In the way of United States issues, a small property recently acquired includes four superb mint copies of the 1847 5c with full gum, a complete mint set of 1857 in perfect condition, including shades, mint blocks of the 10c and 12c, a large block of the 1861 1c, September printing on the thin August paper with dark gum, two unusually fine 5c buff with full gum, a used pair of the 1869 90c, an item that I have never owned before, etc.

As previously stated, these are mentioned as the type of stamp that is constantly coming to hand and the kind that I am anxious to purchase. Individual pieces or collections are desired for immediate cash.

Condition is of paramount importance and only the finest things the market affords are desired. I particularly require mint singles and blocks of the early issues, including scarce and unusual covers.

In the later issues, the scarcer mint blocks and errors are required. At the present time, I am particularly anxious to complete several collections of the revenue stamps with inverted centers. If you have any of these to offer, please submit.

If you are looking for either the unusual or the general run of U. S. issues, your want list is solicited.

United States

State Surcharges

The information relative to overprinting our current stamps for use in special states was received so late that it was necessary to wire the information to the WEEKLY, hence, it appeared in the "Stop Press Department," of the last week's issue. I am now informed that these new overprinted stamps are not likely to make their appearance until April, and at that time all denominations from 1-cent to 10-cent inclusive, will be available for the two states of Kansas and Nebraska. All first-, second-, third- and fourth-class post offices in these two states, with the exception of a few selected first-class offices, will receive these new overprinted varieties. They cannot be considered "precancels" in any sense of the word, as a precancel stamp by its very name indicates that it has been cancelled in advance of its use. Each and every one of these stamps will have to be cancelled, hence, they are distinct issues and are officially designated by the Department as "surcharged" varieties.

The overprint consists of abbreviation of the state name in type somewhat different from that used for the authorized form of Bureau precancels, but without the bars characteristic of these Bureau prints. The overprint on the Kansas variety will consist of "Kan" and not the official "Kans" which is given in the Postal Guide as the abbreviation of this state. Those for Nebraska will be surcharged "Nebr." The surcharge will appear in black.

These stamps will be issued in these states under the personal supervision of the Department, and their use will be watched carefully. It is believed that the establishment will prove successful, and in this case there will be forty-eight different sets of overprints for the forty-eight different states giving us eleven different denominations or five hundred and twenty varieties in all. As far as I can learn at the present time, it will not be the intention of the Department to have these available at the Philatelic Agency.

Clark Memorial Stamp

The Postmaster General has advised the postmaster at Vincennes, Indiana, that he has arranged to have Mr. Michael L. Eidsness, Jr., Supt. of the Division of Stamps, present on the day of the issue of the George Rogers Clark stamp at Vincennes, on February 25. The demand for first day covers and stamps has been so great that the Postmaster General felt it advisable to have one experienced in the sending out of first day covers present at the time. Mr. E. W. Determann writes from Vincennes that letters are coming in daily asking for covers and that every effort will be made to take care of the requirements of the dealer and collector. It, however, is to be understood that not over twenty-five covers will be stamped by the postmaster. Those requiring more will have to make arrangements with outside agents. Unused stamps to any amount may be had, and those sticking on their own stamps or having an agent take care of the work, may send through as many covers on the first day as they will require. The postmaster has announced that he will see that clear and distinct cancellations will be applied in each case.

As previously mentioned in this column, it is expected that supplies will be available in most large cities the day following their appearance in Vincennes.

The Bureau is completing its first printings, and the initial quantity will go forward to Indiana possibly on the fifteenth of February.

Playing Card Stamps

The Linn Weekly Stamp News in a recent issue quotes from remarks in this Chronicle wherein a letter from Mr. R. M. Estes, Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, advised under what conditions playing card stamps could be collected. Mr. Linn, as well as others, interpreted the letter to mean that only used copies could be collected, and that these must be torn in half at the time of opening the package of cards. Under date of January 22, 1929, I wrote the Deputy Commissioner further upon the subject, and under date of January 26, 1929, he replied as follows:

"In reply to your letter of January 22, 1929, you are advised that the collection for philatelic purposes of used and cancelled playing card stamps, whether torn or not, is not prohibited by the law so long as the stamps are not reused to denote payment of tax."

Under the circumstances, it will be readily seen that such stamps, if cancelled, may be legally collected, whether torn in half or not.

STAMP NOTES AND NEWS

Alaouites.—We have received a complete sheet of fifty 1 piastre Postage Due stamps overprinted in French and Arabic showing both overprints double, one being in black and the other in blue.

Falkland Islands.—We are officially informed that it is proposed to issue some pictorial stamps for this Colony, but only up to the 6d denomination. These stamps will be issued concurrently with the present issue. So far as is yet known no special stamps are to be issued for South Georgia.

Fiji.—The Colonial Postmaster informs us that the 4d denomination has been withdrawn from use.

Gibraltar.—It is always the unexpected that happens in this British Colony so far as issuing postage stamps is concerned. The 1/- and 2/- stamps printed on coloured papers have been suddenly withdrawn from use and replaced by two new stamps printed on white paper, the 1/- is printed in olive and the 2/- in red-brown, the duty in the tablet at the base of the stamp being in black in both cases. These stamps were issued on January 8th, and we understand that very few people in Gibraltar knew that the change was to take place and consequently there will probably be a shortage of the old stamps on the coloured papers and likewise a rapid increase in price.

Italy.—Another new commemorative stamp is to hand from this country, this time in memory of King Victor Emmanuel II, who died fifty years ago. The stamp is of small size and printed in green, it shows a portrait of King Victor Emmanuel and is dated "1878-1928." The stamp is sold for 60 centesimi, 50 centesimi being for postage and the excess charge of 10 centesimi goes to benefit the veterans of the War for Independence and Unity of Italy.

Kelantan.—We have received the $1 stamp of a new design showing a portrait of His Highness the Sultan of Kelantan surrounded by an ornamental border with the words "Kelantan Postage and Revenue" in English and local vernacular. The stamp is printed in blue and will certainly make a handsome addition to a set of these stamps, all previous issues being of the arms design.

Liechtenstein.—The Jubilee stamps were withdrawn from sale on January 31st, and are now obsolete.

Luxembourg.—The Charity stamps were withdrawn from sale on January 31st.

Madeira.—This Portuguese Colony is again to have special stamps of its own, a complete new issue having been printed in London. Madeira postage stamps have not been used since 1880, except for the special commemorative Vasco da Gama issue in 1898, and the Marquis de Pombal issue in 1925. The denominations of the new set are as follows:—3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 15, 16, 25, 32, 40, 50, 64, 80, 96 centavos, 1 escudo, Esc.1.20, Esc.1.60, Esc.2.40, Esc.3.36, Esc.4.50 and 7 escudos.

Poland.—A special stamp of 25 groszy, brown, has been issued in connection with the Posen Exhibition and is of large oblong shape, showing a representation of Swiatowid, the God of Slaves, who had four faces and was thus able to see the four ways of the world.

Russia.—With further reference to the Child Welfare stamps, these have now come to hand, but we find that the actual stamps are not printed in the same colours as the advance illustrations we received, the 10+2 kopecs is brown and red-brown, and the 20+2 kopecs brown and blue.

Saar.—The annual set of charity stamps has arrived and there are seven denominations, 40, 50 centimes, 1, 1½, 2, 3 and 10 francs. The three lower denominations illustrate the Blind Beggar and is taken from a picture by the Belgian painter, J. L. Dyckman, the original of which is in the Antwerp Museum. The 1½, 2 and 3 francs represent almsgiving and show a good Samaritan giving a part of his loaf to a starving man, this subject is taken from a picture painted by Schiest, another Belgian painter. The 10 francs stamp is printed in brown and shows a representation of Raphael's Charity. All these stamps have been sold at double face value, the extra charge going towards the fund for Child Welfare. The 10 francs stamp was sold out on the day of issue and we are informed that all the other denominations are exhausted.

Trans-Jordan.—A series of Postage Due stamps of a new design has been printed in London and will shortly be issued, meantime a provisional set has appeared, consisting of the ordinary postage stamps overprinted locally with the equivalent of "Postage Due" in Arabic. The numbers of these provisionals overprinted are as follows:—1 mil on 3 mils, 15,000; 2 mils, 15,000; 4 mils on 15 mils, 15,000; 10 mils, 20,000; 20 mils on 90 mils, 5,000; 50 mils, 5,000. In the case of the 1, 4 and 20 mils, there are also additional overprints of the new values in numerals, Arabic in upper corners and Roman in lower corners.

Virgin Islands.—We are officially informed that the 1d violet and 1½d stamps are entirely exhausted at the Post Office, and no more are obtainable, these stamps are likely to prove quite scarce. We have received a small supply of the 1d red, reversion of color, but in the new issue there is a little difference in the shade, which is a darker red than the previous issue.—*Whitfield King & Co. A LETTER THAT PLEASES

A letter has just been received f Oliver Andrews of Upper Montclair N J. He writes in part as follows:

"At the expiration of my present t months trial subscription to your pa please renew it for one year. The closed check for $4.00 covers that likewise three one-year subscription to the addresses enclosed."

This is a very tangible manifesta of good will, and if there be those consider it unwise to secure three mo trial subscriptions, this certainly show one instance in which it prov very worth-while proposition.

Mr. Andrews, hearty thanks.

Colonial Office and Philately

BITTER CRITICISM OF BRITISH P. O. REGULATIONS JUST PROMULGATED

By HERMANN FOCKE.

I have had the opportunity of perusing the issue of February 2 of Stamp Collecting, an English stamp paper, and my attention has been fastened upon an article therein entitled, "Important Notice—Colonial Office and Philately," bringing to its readers' knowledge a circular letter addressed by the Hon. Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies to the Governors of the Colonies, Protectorates, etc., on questions of Administrative procedure concerning Colonial Governments and Colonial Postal Administrations, in which particular mention is made of the sale of postage stamps to collectors.

The 2nd and 3d paragraphs of this communication emphasize the necessity of maintaining at all times sufficiently large enough a stock of all denominations, in order to obviate the, more or less questionable, necessity of provisionals, and to abstain from bringing into use any new postage stamp of a particular denomination until all the remaining specimens of the previous issue have been either sold, or, if unduly large stocks exist, destroyed.

Certainly a very wise procedure for which we collectors must be thankful.

Paragraph 5 deals with and approves of the fact that an extra supply of stamps should be printed for the sale to dealers (mind you, dealers, but not collectors, the latter being required to obtain their wants from the former who must pay a commission of ¼% with a minimum charge of 10/- for services rendered).

This means that the British Empire is not satisfied with selling a 1/-, 2/- and up to £5, nay even £20 stamp, the manufacture of which costs, perhaps, not more than a penny, at its face-value, but requires in addition a commission on such a lucrative business. "Oh Ye Gods" one is tempted to cry out, when reading of such an imposition, or should we call it parsimony or plain highway robbery? For, in order to take advantage of the lowest rate of ¼%, one would have to purchase stamps to the amount of £200, or about $1,000.00 in our money.

Paragraph 6 gives directions as to how dealers and (in contradiction of the foregoing paragraph) collectors shall obtain their stamps from a local officer in the Colony, but in order not to lead into temptation this honorable servant of the Crown, the money shall not be remitted in cash, i.e., bank notes, because—verbally: "It is not fair to the officer concerned that he should be submitted to the temptation of receiving remittance in such a form, that its receipt cannot easily and quickly be traced".

Can anybody imagine a more humiliating insinuation of dishonesty hurled at these officers? For more than 25 years have I purchased my stamps from the postmasters of nearly every British Colony, and with perhaps three or four exceptions, where there has been absolutely no proof of dishonesty. I have never lost a single penny, and a good many times, where my orders were insignificant, I had not even taken the precaution of sending the remittance by registered mail. I can only exclaim, what a shame for a high official to express such poor an opinion about an officer of lower rank.

The instructions sent out require that all remittances be made by Bank draft or postal Money Order; well, what about Colonies like Ascension Island, St. Helena, Cayman, Maldives Islds., etc., with which there exists no money order arrangement, or where there is no bank to cash a draft?

Paragraph 7 is another exhibition of, let me say mildly, shortsightedness, for it forbids an officer to comply with requests to "affix stamps to letters," or to "cancel stamps which are not affixed to letters," the former being rather unintelligible, because some stamp has to be affixed to a letter, unless the Hon. Secretary has in mind to top it off by demanding that after taking the stamp collectors, pardon, the dealers' money the stamps be mailed without postage being paid for the missive, so that the addressee has to pay a double fee, if he wants his letter, and this in spite of the fact that the sale of postage stamps constitutes nowadays a large percentage of a Colony's revenues.

If these two paragraphs are carried out to the letter, it will serve to curtail the sale of stamps considerably, and they might as well discontinue the printing of all higher values, because there are still a good many thousands of collectors who will have their stamps "used" or cancelled, if this sounds better, because to them it means two things, first, that they were not merely Revenue stamps with only the word Postage added for ulterior purposes, and second, because the cancellation in a good many cases is proof of their genuineness, vide Barbuda, etc.

The conclusion of the letter is vague, but unimportant, so we will pass it by, but I take leave to recommend to the Hon. Secretary of State for the Colonies, that after he changes the brand of tea, which he may indulge in, together with the ingredients which he partaketh of therewith, he reconsider these instructions and not throw a wrench into this part of the administrative machinery, and thereby reduce the productivity the proceeds of which amount to many a thousand of sovereigns every year at a negligible cost.

Air Mail News

BY DONALD E. DICKASON,
Wooster, Ohio

(Our subscribers are urged to send air mail news direct to Mr. Dickason and especially advance news concerning first flights, with names of cities served. The scope of this department will not allow the treatment of flights from other than the purely philatelic standpoint.)

Department copy this week is by Mr. Markee as usual.

In connection with the recent Lindbergh flight, Miami to the Canal Zone, Panama officials got busy and arranged for the acceptance of Colon air mail for the return trip. The 10c special delivery was surcharged 25c as already recorded in the WEEKLY, and a special cachet applied. To accommodate stamp collectors, who had no previous notice of this flight, a companion plane to Lindbergh's brought along a big supply of air mail covers, which the company is holding for disposition, singly or otherwise to collectors. For particulars, write Pan-American Airways, 122 E. 42nd St., New York City.

On the First Flight of FAM No. 5, Mr. Victor M. Suarez got off to a good start for the year by sending through a round tripper. Commander Micojah Boland of the U. S. S. Florida and Mr. Harry Leonard were both thoughtful and kind in sending covers to me from the flight. Mr. Geo. H. Kieley has shown me a nice round trip cover that bears the autographs of Postmasters Bliss of Cristobal, and Hodge of Coco Solo, C. Z. Mr. Kieley's cover bears a choice assortment of various issues of Air Mail stamps, and is one of the unofficial Lindbergh covers that went out from Boston when the Colonel made his first visit here July 22, 1927.

It is a safe bet that many more novel covers were carried on FAM No. 5, and I hope to have an opportunity of examining many in the near future.

As forecast in this column some time ago, CAM No. 25 will have additional service in effect March 1st to cover Macon, Daytona Beach, Orlando and Tampa. Special cachets will be used at these points. Southbound, daily except Mondays, and days after holidays. Northbound, daily except Sundays and holidays. Leave Atlanta 6.45 A. M., arrive Miami 1.45 P. M., Tampa 12.50 P. M. Returns from Miami at 12.30 P. M., Tampa, 1.25 P. M., arriving at Atlanta 7.30 P. M.

Springfield, Ill., through the Chamber of Commerce, applied a very handsome cachet to covers on Lincoln's Birthday, Feb. 12th. Postmaster Wm. H. Conkling can always be depended upon for something novel and attractive, and he has earned the thanks of hundreds of collectors for his unfailing courtesy and ready willingness to handle covers.

Henry O. Meisel writes that a special cachet will be used in Washington, D. C., on March 4th. Collectors can send their covers to Mr. Meisel for handling @ 5c each in addition to postage. His address is Waukesha, Wis.

Service from Brownsville, Tex., to Mexico City will begin operations on March 9th, and not February 23rd or 28th, as has been given by newspapers. The Mexican Aviation Company, a subsidiary of the Pan-American Airways, holds the contract for this route, the bid price being $2.00 per mile. Contract runs for ten years, and provides for a one-way service seven times a week. Maximum daily load not to exceed 800 pounds per trip. It is probable that the Mexican Government will enter into a like contract with the Aviation Company, and that full daily service will be rendered.

FIRST IN THE WORLD

The United States has issued the first stamped envelope for air mail. It is very striking in appearance, with its red, white, and blue border and its uniquely designed embossing.

It was issued on January 12, 1929, at Washington, D. C., and, because of the little advance information as to the definite date of issue and the fact that it is the first of its kind, offers one of the scarcest and most interesting first day covers.

We were fortunate in being able to prepare several hundred first day covers of the air mail envelope, in addition to our regular requirements. This was done for the express purpose of making you one of the best offers you ever received.

We KNOW you'd like to have a first day cover of this envelope, so we're making it very easy for you to get one.

Send $1.00, in any convenient form, for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS. We will send you ENTIRELY FREE a first day cover of the air mail envelope. Each cover was actually flown in an airplane, and has the backstamp to prove it.

FOREIGN RATES

Collecting the combinations of foreign rates on early United States covers is one of the most fascinating branches of specialization. The rates varied according to whether carried in American, English or French bottoms. Only from the postal markings on many of the covers can the reasons for the different charges be understood.

We have a reasonably comprehensive stock of these covers, a quote at random from the various issues.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

NEW JAMAICANS, 1929

By HARRY E. HUBER.

During 1927 there were persistent rumors that a complete new series of Postage and Revenue stamps was in preparation for Jamaica (smaller in size than those of the 1919-21 pictorial series), picturing present-day beauties of the island rather than memorials of bygone days. It is understood that designs had been selected for a complete scenic series, but the Colonial Office disapproved, and endeavors to have their decision reversed were fruitless. The proposed scenic series has therefore been temporarily abandoned.

However, as no objection was raised to a new series incorporating His Majesty's features, arrangements were made in 1927, to replace the ½d "Jamaica Exhibition, 1891," first issued on Roman CA watermarked paper on Nov. 12, 1920, and on script CA, February 5, 1922. The replacing stamp, typographically printed from Nyasaland keyplate No. 1, was issued Nov. 3, 1927. This same Nyasaland keyplate design was used for the first Georgian series of Jamaica, 1d to 5s (introduced with the 3d on March 6, 1912), the ½d continuing in the Arms type of Nov. 8, 1906.

Early in 1928 it was decided to have 1d and 1½d stamps prepared after the Cayman Islands design of 1921. 1d is the inland letter rate, and 1½d that to the United Kingdom and the British Empire generally. A third denomination, 9d was later added. The charge for telegrams throughout Jamaica (and this charge must be paid in postage stamps attached to the message), is 9d for any number of words up to twelve (the address and signature are both counted), and ½d for every additional word. Lacking a 9d stamp it has been necessary to use two or more stamps on even the minimum rate messages.

Although known in June, 1928, that these stamps were on order, the Crown Agents gave no advance notice of their preparation, but in their Bulletin for the fourth quarter (October-December, 1928) notified that supplies of the new stamps, 1d red, 1½d brown, and 9d purple, had been dispatched.

Cayman Islands Design of 1921

In July, 1915, New Zealand placed in circulation a King George V series of stamps, designed by H. Linley Richardson, R.B.A., after the penny black of Great Britain, issued May 6, 1840. The New Zealand design was followed closely in that made up for the Cayman Islands line engraved series introduced on April 4, 1921, with the 1½d, 3d, 1s and 5s. Other values followed at intervals until it was completed on June 28, 1923, with the 4½d.

As used in the Cayman Islands design (19½ x 23½mm), the head of King George V, facing the left, in a vertical rectangle (curved at the top), is placed on a faintly diamonded ground, instead of the usual plain or horizontally lined one. The Imperial Crown occupies a

U. S. BLOCKS
Here is a sweet little lot. A collection of U. S. blocks — used and unused — that is rather weak in the varieties many collectors have and is mighty strong in the varieties rarely seen. I'm fairly certain there isn't a dealer in the world who can duplicate this lot at double catalog or at five times the price asked.
Mostly old issues — postage and departments only — and the average condition is very high indeed. In fact you can judge the quality by the price. It goes to the lucky collector whose check for $10,000 reaches me first. The offer is subject to previous sale.
U. S. Revenues
And here is as pretty a little collection of picked single copies, shades, etc., as I've ever offered. A brand new loose leaf album — not the cheap kind — and the pages are beautifully hand-lettered. The most valuable stamp is the $200 first issue perforated. The lot will catalog about $400. and is well worth buying. Price $250.

THE KING'S HOBBY in CONVALESCENCE

His Majesty's Stamp Collection as a Great Empire Record : : Experts Who "Swap" with King George

By DOUGLAS ARMSTRONG

¶ Doctors are agreed as to the high recuperative value of a hobby. Happily the King has been an ardent collector of postage stamps all his life, so that it is safe to say that many hours of his convalescence at "Craigweil" will be pleasantly passed in the company of his valued collection.

During the long weeks of His Majesty's illness any number of new specimens have accumulated, and await transfer to the royal albums. A certain firm of London stamp dealers has a standing commission to supply every new stamp of the British Empire as it appears, so that the King's collection may always be kept right up-to-date.

A Royal Authority on Stamps

Whilst it is unlikely that the scores of volumes which house the King's stamps will be transferred from the special room that is given over to them at Buckingham Palace to His Majesty's temporary residence by the sea, those in which he is especially interested at the present time will doubtless accompany him. King George is no mere accumulator of stamps, but a keen and knowledgeable student of things philatelic upon which he is no mean authority.

In days gone by he has, in his capacity of President of the Royal Philatelic Society contributed important papers and displays before its meetings. Since his accession, however, affairs of State have precluded him from devoting much time to his stamp collection, so that for the most part the arrangement and classification of the specimens has to be delegated to the philatelic secretary.

Nevertheless His Majesty contrives occasionally to snatch a quiet evening with his stamps. Convalescence will accordingly provide a welcome opportunity to pore over his albums and renew acquaintance with their extensive and valuable philatelic treasures.

The King's Vast Empire Collection

Contrary to the common belief, the Royal Stamp collection is neither the largest nor the most valuable in the world, nor even in Great Britain itself. But it is the finest and most comprehensive of its kind, for the King confines his collecting activities to the stamps issued within his own Dominions, thus upholding his well-known Imperialist tendencies.

His Majesty has, of course, enjoyed exceptional opportunities for acquiring through official channels many stamps that are quite unique in their way. For instance, in the course of his Empire tours he has frequently been the recipient of specially compiled collections from Colonial governments. Needless to say, he makes it a rule not to accept valuable gifts from private individuals, although well meaning but misguided persons, learning of his philatelic predilections, are constantly endeavouring to thrust presents of stamps upon him.

Like any school-boy collector the King delights in a "swap," and more than one Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, can proudly boast of having exchanged stamps with the Society's Royal and Honorary Patron.

A certain wealthy American philatelist, on ascertaining that he had unwittingly outbid the King's agent for the rarest stamp in the world, a year or two ago, begged to be allowed to present the unique specimen to the royal collection, an offer that was graciously, but nonetheless firmly, declined.

Quite recently someone in the United States addressed to King George six commemorative postage stamps dedicated to a heroine of the War of Independence, nicknamed "Molly Pitcher." These were promptly returned, however, by the Private Secretary with an intimation that "His Majesty only collects stamps of the British Empire."—Bazaar.

central position at the top, and in the upper corners are shield shaped tablets with large numerals of value in color. At the foot is "Postage & Revenue—Cayman Islands," in two lines of colorless caps, and in the lower corners, three concentric circles, on colorless squares. A border of conventional scroll work, at the sides, with a diamond beading at the outer edge, completes the design.

This same Cayman Islands design was used for the Crown series of the Turks and Caicos Islands (½d to 3s), issued Nov. 20, 1922, and for the Postage and Revenue series (½d to 10s) of March 1, 1928. Unfortunately in these two instances, so much detail was included as to completely destroy the effectiveness of the original design.

Jamaican Pictorial Series, Roman CA, 1919-21

When the 1½d "Contingent Embarking" of Jamaica was issued on July 4, 1919, it was not intended as the forerunner of a pictorial series, but when plans were later made for such a series, it was included and made a part of it. In the tabulation below, the denominations and subjects are given, in the order as issued, along with the quantities printed.

	Date issued.	Quantity
1½d Contingent Embarking	July 4, 1919	7,975,160
10s George V. of Jamaica Supreme Lord	May 6, 1920	10,080
½d Jamaica Exhibitions, 1891	Nov. 12, 1920	3,616,320
1s Statue of Queen Victoria	Dec. 10, 1920	104,100
2s Rodney Memorial	Dec. 10, 1920	21,540
3s Statue of Sir Chas. Metcalfe	Dec. 10, 1920	6,390
4d Spanish Town Cathedral	Jan. 21, 1921	116,320
2d King's House, Spanish Town	Feb. 18, 1921	85,840
2½d Return of a Contingent, 1919	Feb. 18, 1921	965,340
3d Jamaica discovered by Columbus, 1494	Apr. 8, 1921	979,120
5s Isle of Wood and Water	Apr. 15, 1921	12,240
6d Abolition of Slavery, Aug. 1, 1838	Not issued	362,400
1d Arawak making Cassava	Oct. 3, 1921	3,582,080

The ½d and 1d were typographically printed at two operations; the 1½d and 10s recess printed from single working plates, and the other denominations, recess printed from border and vignette plates.

Copies of the 1½d "Contingent Embarking" are known with the Myers Wharf (Kingston) postmark of July 3, 1919, and the 10s, King George, with dates as early as May 3rd and 5th, 1920.

Although practically all of these stamps were printed in 1920, their issue in Jamaica was withheld until the large stocks of the Nyasaland Georgian series were reduced.

Of the 5s and 10s, 2,899 and 2,595, respectively, were burned towards the end of May, 1924.

The 6d Abolition of Slavery was never issued (although "Specimen" overprinted were distributed by Berne), and the 362,400 Roman CA watermarked were destroyed in the furnaces of the General Penitentiary, Kingston, on July 2, 1921.

The color combinations selected are

PROF. CLARK REPLIES

Prof. Hubert Lyman Clark refused to be silenced by Mr. Ronald A. King, who recently criticized the former's views on Irish varieties. Says Mr. Clark:—

"The differences between Irish varieties cannot be made out without a magnifying glass, millimeter scale and material for comparison, and not until one has become so familiar with all the varieties that the differences are recognized because of familiarity. I consider the point I have raised an important one because it is the base of very many disputes over stamps and catalogs."

Prof. Clark is leaving March 15 for a stay of nearly a year in Japan, Java and Australia. He will spend five months on the northwest coast of Australia, where he will collect and study his pet marine animals, sea stars, sea urchins, etc. He will return in Feb, 1930.

The well wishes of a host of friends will go with Prof. Clark, as for the nonce he parts company with his blocks of four and other treasures.

THE ALVIN GOOD SALE

Last week, and again this week, the advertisement of Alvin Good has heralded the breaking up of a very fine lot of U. S. It is his own private collection which he started in 1894, and had many opportunities to pick up nice items while with Mr. Worthington. He was really the first collector to specialize in the 1c 1851-57, also the 10c of same issue.

Mr. Good has the 1c plated and all the scarce varieties, but this part of his collection he is not breaking up, and will be sold intact, if at all. From the items mentioned in his ads one can see that his collection was not an ordinary one. Mr. Good finds it very inconvenient to deal in stamps, and at the same time keep up a collection. He has a well equipped stamp shop in Cleveland.

The rare FALKLAND ISLAND Provisional, 2½d on 2d

Scott's No. 52

I do not expect you received this rarity through your New Issue Service as I was fortunate in securing practically all the few MINT copies that exist.

Owing to the very great demand that I had for this stamp when advertised at £30, I have been compelled to advance the price to for the few remaining copies that are left and I advise an immediate purchase before a further rise.

Please note that this price is for a MINT copy which is exceedingly rare.

All copies are numbered and signed.

PROPOSED SULLIVAN STAMP

Reported that Picture of Famous Revolutionary Soldier Will be Used

PIKE, N. H., Feb. 20.

The Manchester Union today prints a ngthy story about Gen. John Sullivan. states that on the Sullivan memorial amp, to be issued this year by the ost Office Department, will appear a cture of Gen. John Sullivan, New ampshire patriot, soldier and statesman, ho was born at Berwick, Me., Feb. 17, 40, lived much of his life at Durham d died there, Jan. 23, 1795.

The picture that will appear upon the amp will be reproduced from the por-ait of Sullivan in the New Hampshire tate House, painted by Ulysses D. Ten-y, native of Lyme and for a time a sident of Portsmouth. A very large mber of the paintings in the State ouse galleries were the work of Ulysses enney and his brother, Alvin.

Selection of the Tenney portrait for e commemorative stamp was due to search undertaken by the University of e State of New York, which is largely ncerned with proper observance of the 0th anniversary of the American Rev-ution. The Concord picture is said to the best likeness of Sullivan that has en found.

DANVILLE (ILL.) ORGANIZES

The Midwest Stamp Club Launched Under Favorable Auspices

On Monday evening, Feb. 18, the Midwest Stamp Club was organized at the Hotel Grier-Lincoln. Lionel Martelle is president and Clair Van Sant, Cayuga, Ind., Sec. Committees on constitution, membership and exhibition were appointed.

There are no restrictions regarding residence for membership. Applicants must be at least 16 years old. The club was no sooner organized than an exhibition was proposed, the project was warmly supported and plans are being perfected.

The members voted to extend the benefits of the organization to boys and girls under 16 years through the formation of junior clubs, which will be affiliated with the Midwest Stamp Club. This extension work will be in charge of Ernest R. Jones.

The organization of the Midwest Stamp Club is directly due to the "The Stamp Collector" column, which has appeared Sundays for the past year in the local Commercial News.

CHARLOTTESVILLE DATE, FEB. 26

The Local Post Office Literally Swamped with Orders

UNIVERSITY, VA., Feb. 23.

Orders for the George Rogers Clark memorial stamp which goes on sale in Charlottesville, Tuesday, one day before the issue will be sold generally at post-offices throughout the country, have swamped Postmaster James L. Humbert.

The letters, from all parts of the country, are from stamp collectors who say they saw the advertisement of the issue in a stamp publication. Mr. Humbert said that many of the orders would be unfilled as he now has many more than he will be able to supply.

Residents of Charlottesville who want the stamps must file their orders by noon on Monday. Five hundred stamps will be held for residents who order by that time.

On the morning of the twenty-sixth at 1 o'clock, two of the stamps will be cancelled with a special stamp, and sent to Postmaster-General Harry S. New and to Third Assistant Postmaster General Robert S. Regan, whose department is responsible for the stamp. At 2 o'clock twenty-four stamps will be cancelled, at 3 o'clock one hundred, at 4 o'clock 500, and the balance at 5 A. M.

CLARK STAMPS ON SALE

CHICAGO, Feb. 25.

The Clark commemorative has been received, postmarked, Vincennes, Feb. 25, at 8 A. M. The stamp is a striking one, and will make an impression on collectors and the public, alike. A huge number of orders for the stamp was received by the Vincennes office.—C. E. S.

FLYING-BOAT COVER

Mr. Paul C. Butcher, Box MM, Chico, has shown us a cover that was carried by Captain Courtney on the Dornier-Wahl Flying-Boat last June, 1928. The route of the flying-boat was from England to New York, via Lisbon and the Azores. It will be remembered that Captain Courtney re-fueled at the Azores on the way to this country, and was forced to drop in mid-ocean in the Atlantic by trouble of some kind and that he was rescued from his perilous situation by the "Minnewaska."

We do not find any data at hand on the postal aspects of the venture although, we believe something has been recorded of the postal arrangements in connection with it. Mr. Butcher's cover is addressed to a point in Canada and bears the 1.60 e., dark blue of 1926, cancelled at Lisbon, June 20, 1928. At the left of the stamp is the air mail cancellation in six lines, "Primeiro—Correio Aereo—Transatlantico — Lisboa — American — Junho 1928." Mr. Butcher is desirous of learning the particulars of the stamp usage and the cancellations employed on his cover, which, at least, has the distinction of being one of a small family.

EDITORIAL

THE flags are out in Vincennes, Indiana. At 7 A. M., on February 25, 1929, the special George Rogers Clark will be placed on sale in the historic city, and for the day, Vincennes was the philatelic capital of the country. That Vincennes was made aware of this distinction was certain; and evidences of the ardor of the rampant philatelists were seen variously. A number of philatelists were drawn by the stamp attraction and the general festivities to the city, and the WEEKLY sent a special correspondent in the person of Mr. W. F. Gilley. Postmaster General New, whose interest in the special stamp is keen, as befitting an Indianian, says that the stamp is the most beautiful one that has ever signalized an event or anniversary in this country. The department is sending a special crew of clerks to assist the local post office in filling orders for the stamp, and certain restrictions are to be enforced in the mailing of first day covers, we understand, for any one person, in order that the widest distribution possible be made of the stamps on the first day of sale. The postmaster at Vincennes will agree, no doubt, that collectors are as thick as leaves in Villambrosa, if he is poetically inclined; otherwise, he will speak more to the point.

THE stamp issued in commemoration of the sesquicentennial of the capture of Fort Sackville, Indiana, by George Rogers Clark is a reproduction of Mr. Yohn's picture for the cover of the Youth's Companion of October 11, 1922, which is now hung in the state capitol, Indianapolis. Mr. Arthur B. Ayres of Newcastle, Indiana, owns a large replica of the picture painted by Yohn, which he loaned to the Hoosier salon, which was recently closed. The picture is described as a striking one that is appreciated for its historical significance.

THE Associated Press despatches telling of the purpose of the department to mark the names of Kansas and Nebraska on the stamps sold within the confines of the states have received wide currency. The experiment will be made on April 1, 1929, and is the culmination of efforts to discourage the traffic in stolen stamps, which since 1902 have been a thorn in the flesh of the authorities. The plan that has been adopted is to be tried experimentally, and if it is found practical, the innovation will be extended to cover all the other states. According to the present information, the issues that will be marked, range from one to five cents. The philatelic vista is broadening.

WORK is being done to accomplish an end that will be helpful to philately, i.e., the removal of the duty on used postage stamps when imported into this country. As it is, dealers and others are harassed by the enforcement of the unnecessary and unjustifiable imposition. Moreover, its discouraging influence is brought home to all collectors, and it looms forth as a danger signal in the minds of philatelists of every degree. We have had efficient aid in distributing the slips to be signed by protesting philatelists, and the names of the following workers are placed on record: A. I. Clare, F. K. Fontaine, N. J. Garland, Oscar E. Hibbing, Phillip F. Haas, M. C. Mooney, J. L. McCarthy, Leonard Sterling and Herbert E. Sandstrom. Mr. Sandstrom, for instance, collected all the slips signed by the members at a recent meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society in order to send them with a special letter to his friend, Congressman Chindblom. The work of Henry A. Diamant deserves recognition as he was the first in the field with his printing, and he has been instrumental in securing for our movement publicity of much benefit. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat of Feb. 8th, contained an editorial, "The Duty on Used Stamps," the writer of which deserves the thanks of philatelists for his intelligent and clever representation of the issue. Elsewhere, we must make room for the Globe-Democrat's editorial, which, incidentally, is as good an example of effective presentation as one would ask for.

A SHORT time ago, a meeting of the members of the Twin City Philatelic Society was held at Central Y. M. C. A., in Minneapolis, at which the following officers were named: President, Gerald H. Burgess; Vice-President, Olaf J. Olson; Secretary-Treasurer, Percy A. Brown; and Sales Manager, W. B. Kessel. It is this society composed, as it is, of philatelists in Minneapolis and St. Paul that will have charge for the entertainment of delegates to the convention of the American Philatelic Society to be held at Minneapolis next August; and already there is authorization for the announcement that "a national stamp show" will run concurrently with the convention. The sponsors will use the Cleveland exhibition of May, 1928, as its model, and no doubt, incorporate the features that made the Cleveland occasion so successful. The understanding is that the proposed exhibit which will be national in scope is being undertaken by the members of the Twin City Philatelic Society under the guidance of the combined committee of representatives of the American Philatelic Society, the Association for Stamp Exhibits and the American Stamp Dealers' Association. Under the auspices of the committees of these experienced organizations, there is every reason to believe that the enthusiasm and enterprise of the local men will be directed along channels that will lead to great results.

THE Daily Review of Towanda, Pa., tells of the death of F. E. Bush, postmaster of Standing Stone, Pa., since 1875. Last year, the veteran received a congratulatory letter from Postmaster-General New, who informed him that he was the oldest postmaster in the United States. Mr. Bush was in his ninety-seventh year, and in a former issue of the WEEKLY mention was made of his long tenure of office. The following tribute from Mr. Herbert Campbell is a fitting one: "I have a personal feeling of regret at Mr. Bush's death, having a keen interest in the postal history and cancellations of my own county, and a separate collection of these covers. Standing Stone is in this county, and through a mutual friend, I was planning to meet Mr. Bush and was hoping to hear many old postal reminiscences. Wonderful, indeed, is the privilege given to a man to live so long and so well as this man seems to have done. How old he seems to us when we consider that he probably was doing a man's work when he first saw the new '47 stamps!"

REMARKS made in the WEEKLY some weeks ago on the operation of the Philatelic Agency at Washington impelled several correspondents to write us to give their viewpoints. We are glad to make room for the following communication from Major Harry Morell: "Apropos of your remarks in a recent editorial concerning complaints of the delay in filling orders for the Wright stamps by the Philatelic Agency, will you allow me to point out that many philatelists, including myself, are quite satisfied that the Agency invariably gives prompt and efficient service to its patrons. It is not to be wondered at, that during an unusually heavy rush for stamps, as occurred during the Wright issue, many became impatient, but considering the volume of business done by the Agency, it will be agreed that orders were filled within the shortest time possible. It might be well to note at this time, the information given on Form P. A.-1. 'At times the orders of patrons are unusually heavy and a delay in filling orders cannot be avoided. However patrons may be assured of impartial treatment as the orders are numbered on receipt and filled in regular turn.' Many of the patrons of the Agency feel that Mr. Chamberlin, the Philatelic Agent deserves commendation for the manner in which his work is carried out."

BARGAINS

Some bidders say they can never secure any "Bargains" at an Auction Sale when sending in bids at one-tenth catalog value or less on the finest and most popular stamps in a sale. There are genuine bargains in every sale. Many "perfection conditioned" stamps are bargains at full catalog price, such as a perfect 10c of 1847 or a perfect 90c of 1869, etc., etc.

OAKLAND (CAL.) EXHIBITION

To Be Held October 25, 26, 27, and Will Surpass the Previous One

By HARRY E. GRAY, Sec., 711 Webster St., Oakland, Cal.

Our first exhibition, held in November 1928, drew nearly 3,000 visitors and received many columns of favorable newspaper publicity for philately. It created many new collectors, revived the interest of many dormant collectors and created a wonderful feeling of friendship among the collectors of the different stamp clubs.

The aim of the 1929 Exhibition is to be an even larger and better showing, and to reach a larger number of collectors and non-collectors. To do this, our plans must be laid a long way in advance. One of the first things to be determined is the amount of exhibition space needed. This year several exhibitors were disappointed because we could not care for them. Practically every exhibitor of last year has spoken for at least the same number of frames, and a number of new exhibitors have already asked for frames. Our second object is to secure material for publicity. From time to time, from now until the Exhibition, we wish to write articles in both the Philatelic press and the newspapers, telling of various exhibits to be shown.

Tentative Rules

The frames to be used are glass-covered with an inside measurement of 21 by 7 inches. (Large enough to take four Scott's International leaves.)

A charge for the use of each frame will be $2.00, or $5.50 for three frames. Exhibitors at the previous Exhibition will be allowed the use of the same number of frames they used last year at a reduction from the above price.

Anything connected with stamp collecting may be exhibited. Three awards in each class. The awards will be on parchment, inscribed with the class and name of winner.

The club will assume no responsibility for exhibits, but will have a uniformed watchman or watchmen on duty continuously from the time the exhibits are installed to their removal.

Insurance may be secured at the cost of exhibitor. Last year's rates were $3.20 per $1,000. We are endeavoring to secure a lower rate for this year. Insurance is optional with exhibitor.

Admission to exhibition will be entirely free. Street car posters, window posters, press publicity (in both the Philatelic publications and the lay press) will insure a large attendance. We anticipate an attendance of five thousand for this show. The Oakland Chamber of Commerce, the Post Office, and other civic bodies have assured us of their support.

Special Service

A special Committee will handle the free distribution of any stamp magazines that desire this service. Subscriptions will be taken for these magazines. No charge for this service.

If a sufficient number to warrant the added expense desire display booths or the opportunity to sell their wares, arrangements will be made. For those dealers who do not wish to go to the expense of sending a man to take charge of their booths, we can supply a limited number of men or girls who are familiar with stamps to take charge of their booths, at a reasonable charge.

Decide to exhibit and write the Secretary.

CHICAGO PRECANCEL SHOW

By A. HIPPCHEN.

There are many precancel collectors throughout the United States, many of whom are members of the Precancel Stamp Society, who have really not heard about the wonderful Exhibition put on by the Chicago Precancel Stamp Club.

Most of you have received a copy of the 40-page program also credited to the Chicago Precancel Stamp Club, but you really did not hear about the Exhibition and its success.

The program was issued naturally to defray expenses of the exhibition as well as the convention, which was accomplished and great credit for this is due to the Club, as at their meetings throughout the year they auctioned off lots of stamps donated by members of the club, and this money went toward defraying these expenses.

The members of the Chicago Precancel Stamp Club put the exhibition over in such a good shape, that it gave the jealous fellows a pain in the neck, and to the non-precancel collector something to think about. It was a real exhibition, in this exhibition were precancel stamps from collectors not only of Chicago, but from collectors throughout the United States.

We had a large room about 100x150 feet and along every wall of this room were tables on which the frames of stamps stood. Frames were 3x4 feet and over 50 such frames were on exhibition. All were visible as one entered the room and was a marvelous display.

Within 12 hours after the exhibition closed, all collections were knocked down and on their way back to their owners, which certainly is remarkable, and special credit is due to Mr. C. H. Krippaehne, Chairman of the Exhibition Committee, who so efficiently and speedily handled this personally.

The Exhibition was such a wonderful success that the Chicago Newspapers saw fit to come to our exhibition rooms, photograph the frames and published it with a picture of same in their newspapers. One of these pictures was reproduced by the Collectors Magazine of London, with a page and a half of reading matter, commending our exhibition here in Chicago.

Hundreds upon hundreds of people, many of them non-collectors came into the exhibition rooms to view this remarkable exhibition and no charge was made of any kind for admission, nor was there any charge to those exhibiting their stamps.—Precancel Bee.

Junior—Write a Letter

The editor is getting a bit lonesome, so far as the Juniors are concerned. Why? No letters to speak of are coming along day by day, but here is your chance to make him glad. He wants you to write a letter and tell him what you like best about the WEEKLY. Just forget the Junior Page this once, and tell him what else you enjoy reading and why. Some of your replies will be printed and some prizes for the best letters will be given. Tell us what you would like more of.

O. G.

Sometimes the letters o. g. follow the description of an unused stamp, and the uninitiated may be puzzled as to their meaning. The letters are a contraction of the term original gum, which refers to the fact that a stamp has the full gum with which it was originally supplied when issued.

Stamp Knowledge Contest

Our Juniors can have the time of their lives with the Contest now open to them. Beach Conger, Jr., 1012 E. University Ave., Ann Arbor, Mich., will act as our associate editor in connection with this Contest, and all answers should be addressed direct to him and not to the WEEKLY. The Contest will close April 15, and our Juniors are urged to send in all the answers that they can get, even though they are but few in number.

It will be noted that there are three divisions to this Contest, with a total of 80 questions. This means that each question answered correctly will count 1½ points in the total. In making up your answers, you may number them in accordance with printed list below, and write them as neatly as possible.

There will be 10 prizes given to the ten Juniors whose names are reported back to us by Mr. Conger. This Contest is not a difficult one. It will, however, be a very useful one and any boy or girl should be able to make a good showing.

This test was originally made for the Bosse High School (Evansville, Ind.) Philatelic Club. The winner made a grade of 86. We are indebted to Roger C. Hackett for submitting these questions and we gladly acknowledge his courtesy in sending them on for the use of our Juniors.

Fair Philatelists

Here are two charming and mannerly young ladies whose stamp knowledge is such as to make them real assistants to their father, A. Hippchen, Chicago dealer. The elder is Marie Genevieve, and the other, Helen Julia (seated), and soon they will be graduated from school. Marie is thirteen and Helen, twelve, we believe. They have grown up in an atmosphere of stamps and with their natural inclinations for them, they have assured themselves of a profession, should they wish to follow it.

Sevard's Twinkles

Employee Les Timbres Antitube leux appears on the slogan cancel f Bruxelles, and we are sure that the s stamp is quite appealing. It show well-known bit of architecture, fam to everyone. For the moment, we c recall the name.

Mr. Alfred N. York informs us Buffalo on Jan. 4, 1929, did a green chine cancel, similar in color to the used in Washington for the Aero gress. Perhaps some clerk was g with envy.

Mr. Clattenburg has called our tention to the Ielfield cancel mach which has been in use since 1925. this machine so closely resemble normal Columbia marking, only tailed descriptions can identify e These markings seem to run by ades, from the early Leavitts and perials, to the Americans, the Ba the Cummins, the Columbias, the ternationals, and the Universals. meters are still rampant.

Those handstamp grid cancels sh be noted, as the grid on some consis nine bars, and on a few, of eight We find most to be of the nine bar but some of the eight bars are so p that one just cannot soak them off c Generally speaking, very many of grid cancels are so poorly impressed they are difficult to read, both as t cality as well as dating. These m are for third class postoffices, of w quite a few are known.

The shades of the 3c 1879 as us noted run the gamut of greens, suc light, dark and lager green. If we ourselves to these shades, we find 73% our stamps to be green, and the light dark evenly divided in the remai 27%. Mr. Luff notes a few more sh just to make it more difficult, pale b green, yellow-green, dull green, deep green, gray-green, dark green myrtle green. All of these can found, but one must say that the bright green and the myrtle green scarce indeed. A nice myrtle green ought to fetch 37 times the value o ordinary green, and a pale bright g 26 times. Gangrene may develop at time.

With the 2c 1883, we find a sin condition for the red-brown color, arying from light tan to a deep ch late. The luscious deep brown ch late colors make us reach for a L everytime.

OUR BOOK REVIEW

Ve received from the Berkshire Exnge, Cummington, Mass., a copy of ne American Catalog of Air Mail and st Day Covers." It is a substantial k of 116 pages, bound handsomely rown cloth.

Ir. Holcomb York has had such an ended experience with the products of air mail service, that one might well ect that a catalog put out by his firm ld be first class in every respect.

)ne is not disappointed in attempting review of this authoritative catalog. nada, Paris Balloon Post, Hayti, In- Italy, Holland, Newfoundland, New land, Philippines, and the United tes are all covered. Not only are the ers priced, but frequent illustrations scattered through the catalog.

Ve consider this a most valuable book certainly recommend it very highly ny who are interested in air mail and t day covers. Price, $1.50.

t is with pleasure that we call attenti to the fact that Prof. L. J. Ragatz o George Washington Univ., Washingto D. C., an oldtime philatelist, has just plished "The Fall of the Planter ss," from the press of the Century The book is royal octavo, 520 pages n double page two-toned map and 23 istical charts. The book is an exstive study of the breakdown of the tation system in the Caribbean Sugar onies of Great Britain.

)r. Ragatz's study reveals facts based n official correspondence and records various organized groups in England, findings of parliamentary committees, ervations of travellers, etc. We contulate Dr. Ragatz upon his addition to list of scholarly books, that he has tten.

DETROIT HOLDS EXHIBITION

By BEACH CONGER, JR.

Saturday, Feb. 16, was a gala occasion for the Michigan stamp club. Beginning at 7.30 in the evening visitors began to pour into the club room to view the second annual stamp exhibition, and a far greater crowd than expected attended. Visitors from Flint, Kalamazoo and Ann Arbor attended. The exhibit, which attracted the attention of both collectors and non-philatelists was a collection of 17 U. S. blocks, owned by Mr. John Kay, and whose total value aggregated over $16,000. Among the stamps were a block of Black Jacksons, Imperf. on blue paper, a block of 3-cent 1861, imperf., also on blue paper, a strip of 2 five-cent New York on blue paper, and the three-cent '83 on pink paper.

The airmail enthusiasts crowded around Mr. Hedricks' frame of European airmails, embracing first flight covers from every nation in Europe with an airmail, and also covers signed by the three Bremen fliers. All Zepp covers were shown, and the ZR-3 one was autographed by Dr. Eckener. Dr. Hoskins had several albums of precancels on display, one of them showing old classics with bars and lines, the queer looking Lansing Railroad Precancels, and other rarities. Glastonbury, Whitaker, Mich., Rochester, N. Y., were among those represented. Mr. Brisley showed two large frames, one containing British Empire Mulready envelopes and copies of Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, while the other displayed early Canada, Charley's favorite, among which a Port Hood, 2c, on cover was noticed.

The judges, Mr. John Jungwirth, Mr. George Bradford, and Mr. Emil Janke carefully viewed all collections and then announced that Mr. John Kay was to receive the silver cup trophy, the Presidents Cup, donated last year by Charley Brisley. The other awards followed.

Class A. U. S. and possessions: 1. Mr. Myers, 2. Dr. Hoskins, 3. Mr. Koslowski.

Class B. Great Britain and Colonies: 1. Mr. Andrews, 2. Mr. Kay.

Class C. Other foreign countries and their colonies: 1. Mr. Koslowski, (You guessed it, Latvia and Russia), 2. Mr. Andrews, 3. Mr. Markett, Honorable Mention, Mr. Hartwell.

Class D. Collection of 12-25 rare stamps: 1. Mr. Kay, 2. Mr. Laancswert.

Class E. Collection of 12-50 covers: 1. Mr. Brisley, 2. Mr. Boers, 3. Mr. Jackson, Honorable Mention, Mr. Hedrick.

WANTED TO BUY

My sales during the last several months have been as large as ever and in order to continue to supply my many clients with the finest things that the market affords, necessitates my constantly purchasing unusual pieces, as well as accumulations and collections.

As usual, I am after those items in fine condition and especially want mint blocks and singles. In the way of our early issues, I can use any of the outstanding pieces of the 1847 issue and desire pairs and strips of the 10-cent value. Early covers previous to 1860, with rare early U. S. nicely tied, will find a ready market. Can use any of the 1869 inverted centers in fine condition.

In the early Bureau issues, I am especially looking for mint blocks of the high denominations, and in the late twentieth century varieties, I desire to replenish my stock of inverted centers, part perforates and other errors of importance.

Also offer a ready market for scarce Departments, Carriers, Revenues and Confederates. In fact, everything in the way of scarce U. S. Issues, with the exception of envelopes.

FRANK MARQUIS' Great Auction Sale of U. S.

MARCH 8th, 9th and 11th

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., P. O. Box 2175, Middle City Station, Phila., Pa., who will also be pleased to pass on oddities and varieties of all U. S. stamps. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, cor. Robbins Road and Locust Ave., Lexington, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States

State Overprints

The daily press of Wednesday, February 20, 1929, carried a notice relative to the new surcharged stamps being prepared for the states of Kansas and Nebraska. One of the Philadelphia papers carried an editorial upon the subject, and mentioned the fact that the Department has been seriously considering ways and means to prevent the sale of stolen stamps, and has been giving the subject consideration since 1902. This recent step whereby the rotary stamps will be overprinted for use in certain states is a result of many conferences upon the subject.

The local paper states that the experiment will be tried out for several months, and if successful, will then be put into general practice. No doubt, a greater length of time will be necessary, but in the end it will possibly be found that the extra work in assorting and separating stamps will take more extra clerk hire and trouble than the amount to be saved in the end would warrant. The stamp crook will soon learn that stamps stolen in Ohio will have to be sold in the same state, and will not use New York and the larger mailing centers for dumping his stamps, as has been the practice heretofore.

1922, 2-cent Imperforate

Mr. Milton R. Miller has recently submitted for inspection, blocks of the 2-cent current issue imperforate flat plate variety, wherein distinct differences are shown in the vertical spaces between the stamps. In this case, the discrepancy certainly is not chargeable to a shrinkage in paper, for the stamps in both blocks are identical in size, but the spacing in one case is about one-half millimeter wider between the stamps, than in the case of the first block. There is no doubt that similar varieties are to be found among the perforated stamps.

1917, 5-cent Double Print

I have recently been shown a block of the 1917 5-cent blue, perforated 11, with double impression. The second impression was not caused by the sheet being run through the press a second time, but is no doubt, due to the sheet being partially lifted from the plate and then allowed to drop back into position, giving it a second impression, which is quite distinct, the second impression being about one-fourth of a millimeter away from the first print.

The variety has been noted in the 1c, 2c and 3c heretofore, but the 5-cent value is new.

HARTFORD (CT.) JUNIOR CLUB

Mrs. Louise W. Kellogg of Hartford, Conn., places a new junior stamp club on our Honor Club roll by remitting for a five years' subscription to the WEEKLY. We quote from her letter:—

"The Juvenile Stamp Club was formed in January, Miss Griffin, the Director of the Museum, and I are assisting each week. The Club meets Saturdays at eleven, at the Museum. One meeting a month is for a talk by an older collector; one for study of stamps, and short talks by members; two meetings for exchange of stamps. There are about fifteen enthusiastic members, the officers being Edward Banfield, Pres.; Mary Agnes Curry, Sec.; Phyllis Day, Treas. Meetings will not be held during the summer months. We now hope to have an exhibition at the close of the season, in May."

SOME NEWS ITEMS—

SOME member of the Yorkville Stamp Society has sent us a carbon copy of a report of the Feb. 15 meeting. Many of the names are hard to decipher and this is especially true in regard to initial letters. It is sometimes true that haste takes the place of efficiency, and it is certainly true in this instance. We suggest to both advertisers and club officials that a clear carbon copy is essential in connection with contributions to our publication.

A LETTER from Fred. J. Melville expresses regret that he could not contribute a written message to our special number. He did send us the cable message expressing his congratulations. He has been confined to his room for ten days with influenza, but is on the road to recovery. Mr. Melville sends best regards to his friends here in the States.

W. W. MACLAREN, Cleveland, Ohio, for the past 29 years, connected with the Cleveland Press where he held a responsible position, has resigned on account of health. He will, however, take advantage of the coming months to continue his activities in the stamp hunting line, and on March 1 will open an office at 700 Prospect-Fourth Bldg. Mr. MacLaren's quarters will be distinctly a stamp hunter's office, and he will multiply his former activities along this line many fold. He will be assisted by his daughter, Miss Eleanor MacLaren, who will be remembered by those who attended the Cleveland exhibition. In passing the WEEKLY desires to add that philately is under a great obligation to Mr. MacLaren, and one that will never be repaid for the thought, energy and labor that he expended to make the Cleveland exhibition a success.

THE current number of the Precancel Bee is a superb one, and we recommend our subscribers who collect precancels, to send for a sample copy. Address Precancel Bee, 2758 Clarkson Ave., Omaha, Nebr.

THE Twin City Philatelic Society held its annual meeting and banquet on Saturday, Jan. 14, in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A., at Minneapolis. The regular meeting was preceded by the banquet. After the banquet, officers elected were as follows: Gerald H. Burgess, Minneapolis, Pres.; O. J. Olson, St. Paul, Vice-Pres.; Percy A. Brown, Minneapolis, Secy.-Treas.; and W. B. Kessel, St. Paul, Sales Manager. Arrangements were discussed for the annual A. P. S. Convention, which will be held in Minneapolis this summer. An auction was held and the proceeds are to be placed in the A. P. S. Convention Fund. The Twin City Philatelic Society boasts of a goodly sized membership of live collectors.—PERCY A. BROWN.

"IT will be of interest to collectors to know that the 2c and 5c Hawaiian stamps may still be obtained at the Philatelic Agency in Washington. Your correspondent bought a number of blocks and pairs at varying prices from dealers before discovering this important fact."—E. D. COLCORD.

very peculiar, and unfortunately do not show up to advantage the several designs. Considerable improvement might have been effected had the vignettes been printed in black, and the frames in color.

Although the designs and colors of the stamps of this series have been much criticised, locally and abroad, the collecting world and many others, have through their issue, gained considerable knowledge of Jamaica's early history.

Writing to the Gleaner, on March 4, 1921, a correspondent asks "who is responsible for the subjects selected for the new stamps? I understood they were to advertise some of the beauties of Jamaica, but not one of these has as yet appeared. First, we had the departure of a War Contingent, then the Jamaica Exhibition building (a temporary structure of 30 years ago), followed by a statue of 'Missis Queen,' the Rodney Memorial, Spanish Town Cathedral, and now the return of one of the Contingents (The Union Jack on the dexter side of this last, 2½d, is actually drawn upside down). It really seems a pity that with such a wealth of beauty spots to select from, the Bog Walk Gorge, the coast scenes in St. Thomas, Portland, St. Ann, etc., we should foist off on the world buildings and monuments, which while making very nice appearing stamps, do not rise above the mediocre."

Jamaican Pictorial Series, Script CA, 1921-23

Script CA watermarked paper for British Colonial stamps was introduced in November, 1920, and in the Crown Agents Bulletin for the second quarter of 1921, they notified that the ½d, 2d, 2½d, 4d, 6d, 1s, 2s, 3s and 10s Jamaican pictorials, on script CA, had been dispatched to the island. Between February, 1921, and November, 1923, all denominations of the pictorial series appeared on the script CA paper.

	Date issued.	Quantity
1½d	Feb, 2, 1921
6d Abolition of Slavery	Not issued	46,360
3s	Aug. 23, 1921
6d Nyasaland, King George	Oct. 21, 1921	1,138,320
2d	Nov. 4, 1921
2½d corrected border	Nov. 4, 1921
1s	Nov. 4, 1921
4d	Dec. 5, 1921
½d	Feb. 5, 1922
2s	Feb. 5, 1922
3d	Mar. 6, 1922
10s	Mar. 6, 1922
1d Postage & Revenue	Dec. 5, 1922
6d Town & Harbour of Port Royal	Dec. 5, 1922
5s	Nov. 8, 1923

The 6d Abolition of Slavery, script CA (also distributed by Berne with the "Specimen" overprint), was not issued, and the stock in the island was destroyed in December, 1921. The decision not to issue these stamps, and the exhaustion of the 6d Nyasaland type, Roman CA, made necessary fresh printings (1,138,320 stamps) in the Nyasaland design, on script CA, which variety was issued October 21, 1921. Of this latter stamp 46,360 copies were destroyed at the end of May, 1924. The replacing 6d Port Royal was issued December 5, 1922.

The 1d and 2½d script CA were printed from border plates differing from those used for the Roman CA varieties. The former, as issued Oct. 3, 1921, was without the inscription "Postage and Revenue". A new border plate was made up with the omission rectified, and used for the script CA printing issued December 5, 1922. An error was also made in the frame of the 2½d, the Union Jack at the left being in an inverted position. A corrected border plate was used for the script CA variety issued November 4, 1921.

In 1922 plans were made for an 8d stamp, War Memorial Cross at Kingston (for use on 2 lb. inland parcels), and although mentioned in the Crown Agents Bulletin for the third quarter of 1922, the order was cancelled.

The practice of supplying British Colonial stamps to dealers in England, through the Crown Agents, at face value, was adopted by Jamaica, about 1920. "When shipping consignments of new stamps, those required by dealers in this country, are retained, in order to avoid the delay and inconvenience of sending them to the Colony and then having them returned in response to orders sent out by those dealers to the Colonial postal authorities. These stamps are not issued by us until the supply has reached the Colony concerned, and the arrangement does not affect stamp dealers in countries other than the United Kingdom, who should send their orders as hitherto to the Colonial Postmasters."

Ordinarily this would allow the stamps to be issued in Jamaica before supplies were released in London, but script CA varieties seem not to have been considered, then, by the Crown Agents as new issues, and practically all of the Jamaican pictorials (excepting the 1½d, 1d Postage and Revenue, 6d Nyasaland, 6d Port Royal, and 5s) were in the hands of London dealers long before their issue in the island. This led to representations being made locally, to Sir Leslie Probyn, the Governor, against the sale of script CA varieties, in London, in advance of issue in the Colony.

1½d, Script CA, Destruction, 1928

Between April 1, 1916, and Augus 1923, 1½d represented the Jamaican land letter rate, as well as that to British Empire. Naturally, large qu tities of 1½d stamps were required. the latter date (August 2, 1923), inland letter rate was reduced to 1d, the demand for 1½d stamps was no great as formerly.

Late in 1927, it was found that a la portion of the stock of this denomi tion, in the vaults at Kingston, hav been affected by the dampness was u for use, and in January, 1928, 351,0 were burned in the furnaces of Kingston & St. Andrew Corp. pump station. Those remaining (380,0 were re-issued in February, 1928, stamp having been off sale for the th months preceding.

AUCTION SALE—ORIGINAL FINDS

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

On February 19th and 20th, a collection consisting of original finds, together with selected U. S. and Foreign postage stamps, was sold by Eugene Klein in Philadelphia.

One attending this sale had brought forcibly to his attention several facts. In the first place, collectors are becoming more particular as to condition, and when a stamp is described as superb, the catalogue is likely to have little bearing on its value. If, however, the stamp is described as off-center, torn, or with thin spots, it is likely to go very cheaply, as there seems to be no takers of second-class material. Another point of interest, is the fact that the large Court House covers, which have been coming upon the market in recent years from numerous sources, are not wanted as covers, and they sell at prices sometimes lower than the actual stamps would bring if they were soaked from the cover and sold as fine off-cover pieces. The desire for small choice covers is in the ascendency and prices are increasing, as there is hardly sufficient of this material to take care of the demand.

Pre-stamp covers, in the case of the commoner varieties, averaged around 25 cents each, where special items sold up as high as $5.75 each, depending entirely upon the postmark.

A superb single copy of the 1847 10c on cover with U. S. Express Mail brought $78.50, whereas a damaged pair from the same correspondence on cover, brought but $42.50.

An 1851 3c on face of cover with brilliant green Albany, Georgia, postmark sold at $11.50, and a similar item cancelled Littleton, N. H., changed hands at $6.00. In the case of the 1851 5c there were no choice covers, the highest price—namely $75.00, being paid for an "L" shaped block of three used with 3c 1857. Needless to state, the stamps were not in fine condition.

An 1851 12c used with an Hawaii 1855 5c, forwarded by Gilman and Company, sold at $167.50. A horizontal pair of the 1857 3c tied to cover with blue Louisville postmark and cancelled on the back by Adams Express Company, July 10, 1861, the cover being carried through the lines, brought $39.50. A strip of three of the 1857 5c brick red Type I, showing a few perforations clipped, sold at $81.00.

Patriotic covers, and there was a nice little lot in the sale, went at prices from $2.00 to $59.00, the latter price being paid for a Confederate Patriotic cover, showing portrait of General Beauregard.

The off-cover stamps were very superior to the covers, hence, brought more substantial figures. Copies of the 1847 5c sold without any unusual cancellations as high as $15.50. Pairs brought from $14.00 to $36.50, depending upon condition. The finer 10c copies brought well over catalogue, whereas damaged ones sold as low as $6.50. Copies of the 1851 3c in choice condition went rather high, a mint copy with imprint brought $19.25, and a superb corner pair clearly cancelled in black brought $21.00, while a beautiful strip of three sold at $17.00.

The higher denominations of the 1851 issue, as well as the 1861 emissions, brought full catalogue or more when superb, and went at a fraction of catalogue, when defective. An interesting block of the 2c 1862 black in mint condition sold at $127.50. A used block of the 30c 1869, a little off-center sold at $51.00. The high denominations of the Columbian series when fine brought practically full catalogue, and even inferior copies went at a higher proportion of catalogue than the general run.

Bureau Issues throughout brought substantial prices, and the auctions are certainly reflecting the increasing demand for fine 20th century U. S. Issues, for there were few to be had at bargain prices.

A straight edge copy of the 1901 Pan-American 1c invert, described as unusually pretty, found a new owner at $126.00. A superb mint pair of the rare imperforate 2c rotary coil No. 459 sold at $51.00. A mint block of 1917 $1 black-brown reached $46.00. The shade of this stamp is very distinct and when it is once noted, it is not likely to be forgotten. Most collectors, however, who figure they have this rare variety in their collection, usually have a shade of the commoner stamp.

The block of "Molly Pitcher" stamps showing a surcharge on the upper pair of the word "Pitcher" only, the word "Molly" falling on the upper margin, was sold at $252.50.

The choicest Confederate item of the sale, an irregular block of 24 of the 1861 5c green of which a number was damaged, reached $127.50.

Among the foreign items, a complete set of Canada, 1908, Quebec Issue in imperforate pairs, sold at $105.00. A block of four of Hawaii 1883, $1 in mint condition went into a new collection at $35.50. A pair of New Brunswick 1860, 1c imperforate vertically, sold at $11.00. A Philippine 1919, Special Delivery, 20c imperforate vertically, reached $10.00.

Several general collections at the end of the sale brought fair proportions of catalogue.

U. S. Plates and Plate Markings

R. A. BRYANT, Editor,
1 Essex St., Winter Hill, Mass.

Readers are requested to send in notes and data on errors, shifts, defects and all plate markings; also color varieties and new numbers for chronicle. The editor will gladly answer all questions on these subjects.

Plate number stamps have a special significance to collectors and their value to students as an aid to an understanding of the manifold problems concerning our stamps cannot be too strongly stressed. Prior to 1894 our government sublet the printing of postage stamps to private concerns who had their own methods of marking the plates used. Since that year all of our stamps have been printed from plates prepared at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington. These latter issues offer a very interesting field for students to study, a field so wide that it includes a multitude of allied subjects all closely related, with one subject, plate numbers, as the key.

All plates are allotted a number for purpose of identification, each plate being marked with its individual number from one to eight times, depending upon the use for which it was prepared. The imprints of these numbers appear on the margin of each printed sheet and are located in positions corresponding to their arrangements on the plates used, which vary in the different issues. They serve of course to readily identify plate from which imperfect printings occur, but to collectors have a far greater utility. Starting in 1894 and continuing to the present time the bureau has numbered each plate from one up, consecutively, in the order in which they were engraved. Plate number one was a 2c stamp, number two a 1c stamp, which was followed by a few more 2c stamps, and then a few 1c stamps. Plate number twenty-eight was a 6c stamp, followed by a few more 1c and 2c stamps. Number forty-four was a 3c stamp, number forty-five a 4c stamp, and number forty-nine a 5c stamp, etc., showing that the plates were made as the demand for the various denominations required.

A record has been kept of all these plates, but all have not been put to use, for one reason or another, and the record on some of these unused or rejected plates is not very clear as to possible printings. Plates are also numbered regardless of how the stamps are used, i.e., they may be for regular issue, coils, booklets, dues, special issues, rotary press or bi-colored stamps, as a casual glance at your check-list will show.

The location and arrangement of the numbers is our next consideration. We know that plates vary in size and number of subjects, depending upon the use to which they are to be put. Glancing again at your check-list you will find plates containing 100, 150, 170, 180, 200, 360 and 400 subjects. The present 5c air mail are printed from 100 subject plates; coils from 150 and 170 subject plates; booklets from the 180 and 360 subject plates; various larger size stamps from the 200 subject plate; and the great mass of ordinary stamps from the 400 subject plate. Booklet panes and coils have so many interesting features, each requires an article by itself. They have an exceptional appeal for specialists which begins with the very construction and layout of the plates. Commemoratives vary in plate sizes and will be considered later. The higher denominations of the regular issue are still printed from flat press plates, so we will take the 400 subject flat press plate first.

The plate number appears eight times on the full sheet; right and left top, right and left bottom, and two on each side, and in each instance is located in the sheet margin opposite the center of the fifth stamp from the corner on all four sides. When the sheet is cut along the guide lines into quarter sections or panes of one hundred stamps each, each pane will show two numbers as follows: northeast pane, top and right side; northwest pane, top and left side; southeast pane, bottom and right side; southwest pane, bottom and left side. The right top number always has the letter "F" present, denoting the finished plate, and this gives us a fifth variety. The same arrangement has been followed on the larger size commemoratives issued from 200 subject plates with the numbers appearing opposite the third stamp from each corner. These eight plate number stamps are the only ones in the entire sheet of 400 that have the advantage of positive identification. They are much scarcer than those without the number attached to the margin and only a small percentage actually appear as the postal clerks usually "trim" the sheets when placing them in the drawer at the stamp window.

The top and bottom numbers are the preferred positions and are usually collected in singles and blocks of six, the side numbers being accepted as fillers until the desired position is secured. The 400 subject rotary plate contains but four numbers. These appear on the right and left margins at the corner and are always located above or below the center of the stamp. They are collected in singles and blocks of four, and in all four positions.

Plate number collecting maintains interest in your stamps. You have got to keep at it if you desire your collection to be complete. When you obtain all the numbers, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you have practically every major and minor variety known. It leads you to specialize in your country's stamps, acquaints you with the methods of manufacturing and construction of the plates and familiarizes you with details of printing. It brings your attention to the sheet margin where you will find markings showing the development of the stamps. The best way to identify watermarks is on the marginal paper; registration for printing bi-colored stamps is shown in the margin, and you will find changes in spacing between layouts marked, etc., if you will look them. There is much of interest found, and each mark tells a story the initiated. As one correspondent neatly puts it, "The great percentage varieties so dear to the specialist caused by the effort to improve stamps." This is real specialism genuine philately. Know your country stamps. Here is the real significance plate numbers. They lead you to study the various markings and teach you there is to know about your stamps. Number collecting in itself would mere accumulation without special be if you did not seek the reasons under ing the changes that are constantly taking place. Experiments are going on at times and many changes take place the average person is unaware of, but you know your subject, the plate number will accurately guide you and definitely place all changes that occur. Theoretically, all plates in a given group supposed to be identical with the exception of the number. Discerning students have found variations in numerous instances in the past and no doubt will cate many more.

FIRST IN THE WORLD

The United States has issued the first stamped envelope for air mail. It is very striking in appearance, with its red, white, and blue border and its uniquely designed embossing.

It was issued on January 12, 1929, at Washington, D. C., and, because of the little advance information as to the definite date of issue and the fact that it is the first of its kind, offers one of the scarcest and most interesting first day covers.

We were fortunate in being able to prepare several hundred first day covers of the air mail envelope, in addition to our regular requirements. This was done for the express purpose of making you one of the best offers you ever received.

We KNOW you'd like to have a first day cover of this envelope, so we're making it very easy for you to get one.

Send $1.00, in any convenient form, for a year's subscription to WASHINGTON STAMP NEWS. We will send you ENTIRELY FREE a first day cover of the air mail envelope. Each cover was actually flown in an airplane, and has the backstamp to prove it.

THE LINDBERGH FLIGHT

The Panama newspapers have given ample space to the news of the Lindbergh flight to America, and there is much to appeal to the collector in their reports. The Star and Herald of February 10th said that two planes were necessary to accommodate the accumulated mail, the weight of which was 1,000 pounds. Panama, alone, sent 5,734 letters, and the Canal Zone was a heavy contributor. The statement is made that about 18,000 Panama air mail stamps remain unsold and that the left-overs will be incinerated by order of the post office department. The paper says:

"The original estimate of 500 pounds of mail was found to be only one-half of the cargo of mail which reached a weight of about 1,000 pounds last night. It was estimated that the mail consisted of approximately 50,000 letters and cards."

The Panama American of February 11th, told of the simple ceremonies attending Lindbergh's take-off:

"Colonel Lindbergh shook hands with Colonel and Mrs. Arthur G. Fisher, whom he visited at intervals during his stay on the Isthmus and bade farewell to John D. McGregor, vice-president of the airways company who remained here, and postal officials. Prominent persons who were on the field to view his departure and with whom he shook hands included Jose Maria Goytia, Postmaster General of the Republic of Panama; Carlos E. Ortiz, assistant postmaster; Cristobal Port Captain I. C. Kidd; Lieutenant Commander P. V. H. Weems, of the United States fleet, now in Balboa, the man who taught Colonel Lindbergh navigation; Crede H. Calhoun, Zone Director of Posts; Mr. Bliss; Colon officials and others well known on the Isthmus.

Before hopping off Colonel Lindbergh again spoke of his pleasure at being able to take mail from the Republic of Panama."

The following particulars that are clipped from the same newspaper are worth reading, and the debt to philatelists in making the trip a success must be admitted:

"Of the 21,000 pieces of mail received on the first shipment by air via Miami, fully 95% were for collectors in the United States who sent the necessary amount of postage to have same readdressed to them upon arrival here, all of which work was included in the immense amount of detail not ordinarily met with. There remittances as high as $300 for one single person. Immediately the announcement of the date of the flight was made early in January, those interested from all over the world, and particularly the United States, took the opportunity to forward envelopes and postcards in large and small quantities to take advantage of the historical event, so that the Canal Zone for the time being became the center of an immense spider web of postal communications of both hemispheres.

It should be borne in mind that Canal Zone postage only could be used, in consequence of which, it was impossible for collectors to fully prepare their mail in advance, but had to remit by money order to cover the postage, necessitating the clerical force affixing stamps to many thousands of letters, details which added greatly to the embarrassment of expedition arose from remittances which were short, also hundreds of letter were received bearing U. S. stamps which had no postage value for this flight—these were all segregated and required separate handling. Other lots carried only the air postage of 25 cents, ignoring the regular 2-cent postage requisite. Such letters were dispatched as postage due.

While for several weeks in advance mail was received addressed the postal officials, containing envelopes for return, the first southbound flight alone carried over 2,000 such pieces, all of which were opened and prepared as nearly in accordance with the senders' desires as was humanly possible, but which required a system entirely foreign to any previous postal experience of any employee. Too much credit cannot be given to Harry F. Frey, Asst. Postmaster at Cristobal, who early anticipated the congestion which must occur and provided files, records, etc., to meet the demand, and with the influx of the exceptionally large mail received by the first flight, and which must be opened within the four days interim, this system had under necessity to be greatly expanded."

How To Capitalize Philately

MAKE USE OF THE HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY IN THE NEWS COLUMNS OF THE PRESS

By VERNE P. KAUB, 561 W. Scott St., Fond du Lac, Wis.

Probably more people are interested in philately and its various branches and specialties than are interested in the playing of bridge.

Yet a great many papers run daily or weekly articles about bridge, while very few have a department for stamp collectors or make any pretense of publishing news of philately.

The reason probably lies in the fact that stamp collectors have been too self-sufficient, with their own press, their own organizations. This can all be changed, should be changed. The daily press, even the weekly newspapers, can assist philately to grow more rapidly in public favor, a most desirable end.

It is necessary only to take the proper steps and stamp lore can break into the press, for the time is ripe. To approach an editor with a request that he establish a department of philately in his paper would be unwise. He has too many departments to look after now.

Nor does he want any more free publicity stuff or propaganda about anything, even such a worthwhile thing as philately. He gets bushels of this stuff every day, and 95 per cent at least goes immediately to the waste basket, most of it without being so much as removed from its covers.

The editor does want news. He also wants what is known as feature material, interesting things, perhaps with news value and called news features, but without the red-hot time interest or element that there is in a murder, a fire or a wedding or funeral.

It will take a lot of careful planning and plotting to break into the metropolitan papers. But there is another field which is open to even the amateur publicist.

There are hundreds of daily papers in the country, published in cities of population ranging from a few thousand up to 50,000 or so, whose editors do not attempt to duplicate the New York Times or the Chicago Tribune, or even to compete with them on the basis of general news.

These papers cater to the readers on the basis of local, rather than general interest. They print local happenings and local feature matter in great detail.

Things are happening continually in the world of philately that really are news. Sometimes the happenings are of most particular interest to stamp collectors, but usually there is also some element of general interest. If this interest can be localized, it is something that will interest the editor of the small-city daily if it is brought to his attention.

Many of these small cities are now on air mail routes. There was always a series of "big stories" about the inauguration of this service. The editors could not overlook the activities of the cover collectors in this connection, and these activities brought stories or parts of stories.

This angle of air mail publicity could have been accented in every case had the editors been given information about the activities of local collectors along this line.

If some business or professional men in the community are first-day cover collectors, and the editor learns of it, he will see a "good story." If some person in the community, be he ever so little known, has an exceptionally nice collection of first-day covers or other specialty, that is a "good feature."

The editor-in-chief, the news editor, and the city editor are all busy men. Sometimes on the smallest daily papers, one man fills all three capacities. It is the city editor that philatelists want to reach with news about local activities, or news features. A good way to cultivate him is through one of his reporters.

Find out about the staff. Perhaps one of the reporters is or has been a stamp collector, but is asleep to the possibilities he is overlooking. It will be eas wake him up.

For second choice, cultivate the who calls on the postmaster for who is said to have the post offic his run." This reporter probably k something about the activities of collectors through the post office, chasing stamps, mailing covers, der ing back-stamping and the like. should be easy to interest.

If these plans fail to work ou direct to the city editor, either wi formation that you believe is new with stories written out. If the c or who tries his hand at reportin not had actual newspaper experien must expect some disappointments may not be able to score the first but he should try again.

Issuance of a new stamp, particul commemorative stamp or an a stamp, is an opportunity for a local Just let the editor know about t ceipt of first-day covers.

An example of how this can be can be seen in the files of the Fo Lac Commonwealth Reporter of Fo Lac, Wis., a daily paper with a c tion of more than 16,000 publishe city of approximately 30,000 popu In the issue of Jan. 16, in the be ture position on page 3, one of the pages," appeared a story about th day covers of the airmail stamp velope, with description of the en

(Through pressure of business affairs Mr. Allen recently resigned as Precancel Editor after a very satisfactory relationship with the WEEKLY. We have fortunately secured the services of Prof. A. F. Gamber, and we shall give considerable space to this branch of Philately in coming months. The department is in very competent hands. —THE PUBLISHERS.)

Introductory Note: I take up Mr. Allen's work in the WEEKLY with considerable misgiving. As an old subscriber to this paper, I have followed with keen interest every one of his interesting articles ever since he began them. It was with the deepest regret that I learned of his decision to give up his connection with the WEEKLY, and with more than a little trepidation that I acceded to the request that I take up where he leaves off.

No two people work in the same manner. Manifestly I can't carry on this department just as he did, but at any rate I shall endeavor to make it as interesting as I can. Though I am an ardent collector of Bureau Prints, I shall not attempt to cover that angle of the hobby. But I have in mind two men, both exceptionally well qualified to do so, one of whom, I feel sure, will be doing that work within a few weeks.

While I am getting my wits together and deciding upon the type of articles for future issues, I present the following notes on new and old types, most of which are not in the catalog. Should any readers have items of interest to report, I shall be glad to see them. Should they have values of any of these illustrated types not named by me, I shall be pleased to learn of them.

First comes a group of types not listed, or but recently listed. The Amherst was listed in the 1929 catalog for the first time. In this type I have in my collection the 7c perf. 12; 1-2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10-11-12 perf. 10; 1-2-3-4-5-6-8-10-11-12-15-20-30 perf. 11. I can't understand how a type used on so many values could have escaped the notice of the catalog makers for so long. It is a handstamp.

The Beardsley type is not so old, but it has been out for at least three years. The current 7c perf. 11 is the only value I have in this type, but I have the current 1c perf. 11 in another typeset type, letters similar to the above, but words 10mm apart, no lines or bars. These are of course both typesets, a most intriguing variety of precancels, about which I propose to write more at length at another time. They merit a complete article.

The Dayton type, also typeset, came to my attention about a year ago, and is now in the catalog. I know of no other value, and of but one other copy.

The Defiance typeset type was similarly brought to my attention early last year, and was incorporated in the 1929 catalog. To the four values listed there, I can now add the 10c 1908.

The catalog lists no typeset Gilroy at all. I have only the 3c offset, and know of no one who has any examples of it.

Here are two Milford types, both typeset, both unlisted. Of the plain letter type I have the 5c and 8c (1912) perf. 12. Of the serifed type I have the 2c perf. 11, and 4c perf. 10. These seven illustrations comprise a very scarce and desirable little group of precancels.

Now we come to some more recent items. The Hollywood is too new to have made its debut in the new catalog. Hollywood of course is a substation of the Los Angeles office, but because of the immense volume of its mail, it was granted an electro of its own. I have seen pieces of cover bearing both Hollywood and Los Angeles precancels. A similar case is that of Flushing and Elmhurst, N. Y., for the same reason. In this Hollywood type I have the ½, 1½, 9, 11, 14, 15 perf. 11, and the 3-4-5-6-7-8 compound perfs. By the way, this U-8 type is rapidly replacing some of the worn out U-5 types, Charleston, W. Va., and Long Island City being the latest

NEW YORK NEWS ITEMS

N. Y. CITY, Feb. 28.

To give you an idea of just how the air mail field lines up, here in New York at present, one cover collection was sold last week for about $15,000. Not only that, but I was given an order for another like it. Needless to say the order remains unfilled.

Ran across an interesting item this morning at Tom Binmore's shop. The current twenty centavos, Colombian semi-official stamp, surcharged "Homenaje a Mendez," and date "28 Octobre, 1928," the overprint with circle and bar in black with outlined letters and numerals.

S. C. A. T. D. A., or rather the Colombian air mail company reports a new issue in the offing. Have had no particulars as yet, but will report if anything definite turns up.

If any of your readers report any other values of the Mendez surcharge, will you please mention the fact, as the stamps must be rather good, and the stamps, though semi-officials, are very popular here.

A. K. CLARK.

BOSTON AIR MAIL CHAPTER

BOSTON, March 1.

In face of the worst night this winter, sixteen Air Mail cover collectors gathered at the Hotel Lenox, Boston, last Tuesday, and formed the first local chapter of the American Air Mail Society, Boston Chapter, No. 1. Eliott H. Wilson was elected President protem; J. H. Jost, Sec'y-Treas.; C. E. Jandrue, Jr., Auctioneer. George H. Kieley presided. Regular meetings will be held the first Tuesday of each month, the next meeting to occur April 2. The annual dues are $2 for adults and $1 for juniors. Local collectors, interested in joining should communicate with Mr. Jost, 1395 Commonwealth Ave., Allston, Mass.

FREDERICK D. MARKEE.

"WHAT ABOUT PAPAL STAMPS?"

We have already stated that under the agreement recently consummated at Rome, the Vatican City has the power to issue its own stamps. It appears that action by the I. P. U. is needed to make the agreement effective. In Rome last week the question "What about stamps?" drew this suave, disarming answer from one in authority:

"The labor of preparing designs for a new series of stamps would be so great that a considerable time must pass before collectors could possibly add them to their treasures."

WE PRESENT MR. DICKASON

We have in hand the first instalment of copy from our new air mail editor, Mr. Dickason. It will appear next week, but we lift the first paragraph for the "Stop Press News" in order that you may see that he is full of "pep":—

"Regular followers of 'Air Mail News' in the past know very well that it takes a lot of nerve for anyone to attempt to step into the place which Mr. Markee has filled with so much distinction. I feel that it is an honor to edit this department, and an honor which entails a lot of responsibility. I have a feeling, too, that it's going to involve a good deal of time consuming work—but it's the kind of work I can really enjoy. And so, bespeaking the continued help of all the fine list of coöperators who have been behind Mr. Markee in the past, I'm ready to go at it. I'm pretty thick-skinned, and can stand unfavorable, as well as favorable criticism, and I want to hear at any time from anyone who has any suggestions, either pro or con. I aim to be neither for or against any type of cover or collecting, but rather to give us all something that will be interesting. But enough of this—let's get down to business!"

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW

examples. Albuquerque, N. Mex., is another town to adopt this type.

The Independence, which is apparently typeset, is not so new, but it is not in the 1929 catalog. In this type I have the 4-11-12-15 perf. 11, the 6-7 rotary, and the 1½, 5 inverted and 7 compound. Harrisonburg, Va., is another town using this same type.

The U-12 type from Knoxville is brand new, just out. It is to be hoped that the authorities at that office will not allow it to be prostituted to such base uses as was their old U-1 a few years ago. Someone made a killing on 3c Victories before precancel collectors learned to distinguish the sheep from the goats. It has even been seen on some of the lowest fractional values of the proprietary revenues of 1916! Better luck for this type is very likely, for collectors simply won't fall for junk any more, the speculators are out of luck. Paris, Texas, and Kansas City, Mo., are recent cities to adopt this U-12. Our remarks on Knoxville may well be repeated as to Kansas City, things are not quite so rotten there now as they were a while back.

The Leon type is listed in the catalog, and because of its beauty should be illustrated. It was a temporary affair, used for one holiday rush, and like many typesets, is now a thing of the past. I have this on the ½, 1½ inverted, 50c down, 4 and 7 rotary, and the three Lexington-Concords.

The Philadelphia is an old type, both listed and illustrated in the catalog. So it is doubly surprising that the error illustrated here should have escaped the eagle eyes of collectors for so long. I have it on the 10c and 15c Specials, and someone can probably show it on the 25c Special Handling. By the way, an especially good Special Handling item is this type double normal.

Next time, typeset precancelled stamped envelopes, an engrossing subject.
